Environmentally, look at Deuteronomy which tells us to avoid contaminating your surroundings in order to control the spread of disease. This book in the Bible also speaks to respecting our earth by not depleting forests which houses our wildlife and specifically fruit trees that provide nutrition. In some respects the Bible is the first natural resource guide. Unfortunately, we steadily harm the environment through pesticides and pollutions with a cavalier attitude as if our planet has endless resources. In the book of Leviticus we learned to separate the sick from the healthy to eradicate leprosy and plague. When physicians could no longer help, the clergy stepped up to the plate and said let's follow the Bible. By creating separate housing for the sick and the well, there was increased hope of health to return to the villages and, by ridding themselves of unclean garb and surroundings, some of the sick even become healthier.

According to an article in Christianity Today titled "Take Ten Commandments and Call Me in the Morning," there is evidence showing that people with faith who pray regularly have lower blood pressure, recover from surgery quicker and may experience less depression. The Bible continues to educate and inspire.

We can examine the world through historical fact, astronomy or even relics we uncover. In the end the Bible is an educational tool to helping us live better and enjoy the adventure of life and living it fully in a respectful manner which, in the end, is beneficial to all of us. So, in addition to your good summer reads, why not include a daily devotional book that may bring peace to your mind and health to your heart?

Have fun and help the petunias

Editor:

The second annual Up North Fourth in Downtown Charlevoix's East Park is scheduled for Saturday, July 7, and so is the opportunity to support Keep Charlevoix Beautiful — the petunia people!

Last year, Keep Charlevoix Beautiful was pleased to partner with the organizers of Up North Fourth as the event sought to showcase everything we love about living in Northern Michigan. Up North Fourth features local food, Michigan beers, wine and spirits and great music — everything you'd hope to find at a Northern Michigan summer barbecue.

This year's event will also feature an early session (11:00 a.m. - 3 p.m.) exclusively devoted to youngsters with bounce houses, a silent disco dance tent, games and activities, kids' cuisine and great family music. In addition to the smiles on their children's faces, parents will love the Weber grilling clinics. Entry to the early session is free (with a $5 suggested donation to Keep Charlevoix Beautiful) for participation in the bounce houses and activities. The evening session (5 - 10 p.m.) is for those ages 21 and older and features 16 different Michigan beers, area wines and spirits, locally sourced food, grilling clinics, a silent disco dance tent, and more great music with local favorites Seth Bernard and May Erlewin, popular singer-songwriter Jetty Rae, and the Verve Pipe serving as the headlining band. Advanced tickets can be purchased for $25 (includes commemorative pint or wine glass and four pours) at the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce and Ga Ga for kids.

Each year Operation Petunia becomes more and more difficult to continue funding, which has encouraged us to explore new fundraising opportunities. The partnership formed for the Up North Fourth has been a great addition to our fundraising efforts, and hopefully will continue to be for many years to come. Just remember that while you're having a great time this July 7 sampling fantastic beer, indulging in terrific eats and listening to nationally renowned musical acts, you'll be helping to Keep Charlevoix Beautiful at the same time! What could be any better than that?

Keep Charlevoix Beautiful would like to thank Charlevoix Ace Hardware and Weber Grills for sponsoring this event and helping to Keep Charlevoix Beautiful.

Have a fun, happy and safe summer.

LOOKING BACK...

The Belvedere Club, originally called the Charlevoix Summer Resort, was founded by Baptists from Kalamazoo in 1878 who immediately began to clear their new 25 acre plot, bought for $625, for the first six resort cottages. Within a couple of years, this home on Belvedere Avenue, formerly known as both Longfellow Avenue, after the American poet, and Newman Street, joined them. It was built by O. E. Allen of Kalamazoo, an ardent Mason who laid out the floorplan on the lines of the Maltese Cross, a Masonic emblem. It is a splendid example of what is called "resort stick architecture" after the thin pieces of wood that make up much of the exterior support structure. The plan allowed for many porches and balconies, the front one here draped with the American flag to mark the Fourth of July, year unknown. The house is still there, still in use, a few doors east of the Grey Gables, painted a brilliant blue in keeping with its decades-long name: the Blue Belle cottage.

Charlevoix Commuinity Food Pantry moving

STEVE ZUCKER
Courier Editor

G. RANDALL GOSS/COURIER

Board members of the Charlevoix Community Food Pantry pose with a sign in front of the new home for the food pantry. Pictured are: Terry Sotuyo, Matthew Shindorf, Neil Wilson, Al Shindorf, Rosemary Horton, Roger Postmus, Vance Wood, Linda Boss, Maxine Bergmann and Mary Ramsey (kneeling).

After 29 years operating out of the Charlevoix First Congregational Church basement, the Charlevoix Community Food Pantry will soon be moving its operation to a slightly higher, and bigger location.

The pantry's board recently purchased the former Bradford Cleaners building at 100 West Hurlbut to serve as its headquarters.

Pantry board member Roger Postmus said the organization has been looking to make a move for some time because the location in the church basement is becoming "overtaxed" by the pantry's use.

The Charlevoix Community Food Pantry has come a long way and grown significantly in the number of clients it serves and the types of items it offers to the less fortunate in the community since it was started in 1983 by a group of women in the First Congregational Church.

The food pantry organization is governed by an eight-member board and is managed entirely by volunteer staff of more than 40 who provide food and basic housekeeping supplies to needy families living in the Charlevoix School District.

Postmus said the board was able to purchase the building outright thanks to some recent donations and bequests made to the food pantry specifically for the purchase effort. He said money was not taken away from food purchases to buy the building.

Postmus said the new location offers not only more space that can be set up specifically for the pantry's needs, it also offers first-floor convenience that is helpful not only for staff, but also for clients with limited mobility. He said the new location will also allow the pantry to expand its hours beyond the four (10 a.m.-noon Monday and Thursday) that it is open now.

Renovations at the site have already begun and the board is hoping to have the work completed and to move the food pantry into the new location sometime around Labor Day.

Postmus said the need for the pantry's services continues to grow in the community.

He noted that the organization now typically serves around 130-140 families per month, up from about 110 families per month just a couple years ago.

The organization runs entirely on donations from the community. Those donations come in many forms and from many sources, Postmus said.

"The Charlevoix Community Food Pantry Board hopes that it will continue to receive the financial and volunteer support from the citizens, churches and charitable groups in the community so that it may continue to provide for the needy in the district," the board said in a news release.

Anyone wishing to contribute to the program through money, food or volunteering should contact the pantry manager Linda Boss at (231) 547-4297 or stop at the church basement during the pantry's current hours of operation.

EAST JORDAN

New hobby shop opens

Terry's R/C Hobbies, a new radio control hobby store, recently opened its doors.

The store is located at 305 N. Advance Road, between Boyne City and East Jordan.

"We are a family-owned business where our focus is on you and having fun," said store owner Charlynn McBee, who operates the business with her husband, Terry. "We believe this hobby has no limitations and is very fulfilling. No matter (whether they're) beginner or experienced, we have something to suit everyone."

Radio control vehicle enthusiasts can purchase time to operate them on the store's outdoor track, which measures 90 feet by 100 feet and includes jumps and turns.

Several track usage options are available, as is a smaller track with jumps for kids.

The store carries a variety of product lines, including Team Associated, Traxxas, HPI, XTM and others.

Store hours for Terry's R/C Hobbies are 10 a.m.-6 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 10 a.m.-7 p.m. Friday and Saturday, with the business closed on Sunday.

The store has a website at terrysrc.com, and can be reached by phone at (231) 675-9218.

The McBee's hosted a grand opening for the store on June. 20.

OBITUARIES

Paul Christopher Reising, 51

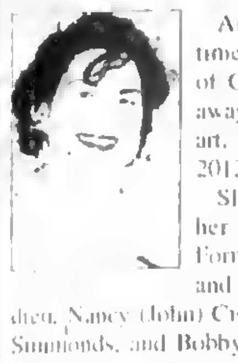
Paul Christopher Reising, 51, of Santa Maria, Calif., passed away on June 14, 2012. Paul was the beloved son of Marilyn J. Reising, of Charlevoix, and the late Paul J. Reising of Frankfort, Mich. He is survived by his mother, his sister Theresa Reising, his brother Mark (Julia), his brother Larry (Karla), his sister Mary Martha (Frank) Kaufman, and his three nephews and nieces, Paul, Lauren and Joey.

Paul was born in Detroit and graduated from Brother Rice High School in 1979. Paul attended Michigan State University where he was an active member of the Psi Upsilon Fraternity. After graduating from MSU in 1983, he attended Aviation Officer's Candidate School, where he graduated in 1986 as a naval flight officer. His first tour was in Fleet Air Reconnaissance Squadron One, where he flew in A-3 Skywarriors. He then transitioned to tactical aviation as an A-6E Intruder bombardier/navigator, Attack Squadron 165, where he served on board the U.S.S. Nimitz in support of Operation Desert Storm. Paul completed his active duty as a lieutenant commander, and then worked in the aerospace industry. As a reserve naval officer, he voluntarily returned to active duty several times, including an assignment in Bagdad in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom, where he was awarded a Joint Services Commendation medal. Paul then joined the Department of Defense where he bravely continued to support our country.

Paul had a great number of hobbies and loved nature, kayaking and fishing. He especially loved spending his vacations in Charlevoix every summer. He will be greatly missed by his family, friends and colleagues.

Please visit Paul's memorial website at http://paul.reising.muchloved.com

Arlene Louise Page, 87



Arlene Page, longtime summer resident of Charlevoix, passed away peacefully in Stuart, Fla., on March 12, 2012.

She leaves behind her devoted husband, Forrest Winston Page; and three loving children, Nancy (John) Cisne, Diane (David) Simmonds, and Bobby (Joe) Vermeulen-Page. Also, she leaves eight grandchildren and four great-grandchildren behind.

She was born in Detroit, May 12, 1924. She graduated early from Girls Catholic Central High School in Detroit, then graduated from Greenbriar College for Girls in Lewisburg, W. Va. Her love of art would draw her to become the art editor of her college yearbook until she graduated.

Arlene raised her three small children at their home in Grosse Pointe. She was an avid artist, often displaying her beautiful oil paintings at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. She continued to paint throughout much of her life. In recent years she took first and second prize for her Degas "Ballerina" and for her "Japanese Gardens" paintings at the Sailfish Point Country Club Art Show in Stuart, Fla., her winter home.

While raising her children, Arlene volunteered every Thursday for the Red Cross, and throughout her 20s she modeled for the Ford Agency. Even in her 80s, her beautiful smile could light up a room!

She and her husband Forrest had a beautiful life during their 53 years of marriage. They traveled together extensively throughout the world. Both were avid golfers and wonderful parents. While Forrest introduced Arlene to the world of golf, she introduced him to the theater and the arts. Together they made a wonderful pair. And in every way, the two of them have set a truly beautiful example for their children! She was our North Star.

Arlene's philanthropic endeavors, carried out through their foundation, included bequeaths to Charlevoix Area Hospital, the Charlevoix Public Library, the Crooked Tree Arts Center's Edith Gilbert Gallery, and the Little Traverse Conservancy.

A private family celebration of her life will take place this summer at the Cisne family farm in Charlevoix.

The Pamina German Girls Choir, pictured above during a performance earlier this year, will perform at 7 p.m. Monday, July 2 at the First Congregational Church in Charlevoix.

German Pamina Girls Choir to perform

Harbor Light Community Chapel's Haiti Mission Outreach Team will host a performance by the German Pamina Girls Choir a 7 p.m. on Monday, July 2 at the First Congregational Church, 101 State St. in Charlevoix.

Donations collected at the door will assist with the expenses of church's mission outreach to needy people in Haiti.

The Pamina Girls Choir is a national vocal ensemble of young singers who come from Pamina District, a German-French region in the heart of Europe. Its repertoire ranges from international secular and sacred choral music in original language from the Middle Ages to Modernity, from Gregorian musicology to Baroque, Classical and Romantic as well as Pop, Rock and Jazz.

Founded in January 2012, the choir made its debut on May 16 at the Cathedral of Our Lady of Strasbourg, France. Pamina performs primarily in Palatinate, Baden and Alsace, but its focus lies in touring to international music festivals in Europe and the U.S. Singers receive individual vocal training and must qualify for admission to the choir.

The choir is a member of the world's two largest choral organizations. Also, maintaining an international exchange program with the Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp in Michigan and Royal Copenhagen Girls' Choir, Denmark. The founder and music director of choir is Klaus Braun, conductor, music educator and organist. The choir manager is Kerstin Kessel, medical computer scientist at the University Hospital, Heidelberg, Germany. Pianist is Peter Imo, music director from the University of Landau, Germany.

Crime story: A mixed view

Statistics show counties see decrease; state police believe otherwise

JONATHAN ALEXANDER
Northern Michigan Review

Mark Schwartz feels safe living in Emmet County.

A seven-year resident of Petoskey, Schwartz doesn't feel crime has changed since he has been here.

On the other hand, 35-year resident Kenneth Michelsen does feel it has changed over time.

"I'm disappointed of course, but not surprised because there are more people," Michelsen said. "I think the more people you have, the more crime, or the more you notice it."

Based on anecdotal evidence, Michigan State Police Sgt. Jeff Gorno also said he has seen an increase in crime in Northern Michigan, one area being Emmet County.

He pointed to the poor economy and lack of police presence as the key reasons crime is bound to happen.

"In the past seven years we are down from 1,100 to 800 police (officers)," Gorno said. "That is having a huge impact north of Flint."

Flint was ranked first for "The Most Dangerous Cities in America," by the 24/7 Wall St. review of 2011 FBI crime data. Flint has also been faced with layoffs in its police force.

With less police force in each area, it may take more time to respond to 9-1-1 calls, Gorno said.

"Instead of the police being three minutes away, police are eight minutes away," he said.

Gorno warns that the five-minute interval is going to make a huge difference.

However, Emmet County Sheriff Pete Wallin strongly disagrees with the notion that crime has increased in the area. Upon looking at his own statistics, he believes the Michigan State police department's numbers are skewed.

According to recent statistics from Wallin, Emmet County saw a 18.3 percent decrease in crime from the previous year.

The number of overall crime incidents from 2010 to 2011, as reported in the incident crime report of Petoskey, had also decreased, but by 7 percent.

Charlevoix County Sheriff Don Schneider agrees with the notion that there is little crime and said from year to year, numbers have remained constant.

Charlevoix Police Department Chief Gerard Doan said the same about his jurisdiction and thinks Charlevoix is a quiet community rarely with serious crimes.

But, drug crimes in his area have increased from previous years. Doan said marijuana and heroin crimes have increased but they have now taken a more active approach to enforcement.

"It's a matter of training your personnel in an area of drugs," Doan said.

There are currently seven full-time officers on Doan's staff.

In an effort to keep a proactive department, Doan assures that they are trying to maintain the same level of service year-round.

Harbor Springs Police Department Chief Dan Branson also echoes the same sentiments. Branson said the types of crimes they normally deal with aren't as serious as what a bigger city would have.

"I think it is because we are a small community and we have a 24-hour presence," Branson said. "We are in a community that is willing to report any suspicious activities."

Fair officials given 'green' grant

The Emmet-Charlevoix County Fair is taking advantage of an opportunity to "go green" for the 2012 fair, through the use of environmentally-friendly soy products.

Fair manager Agnes Shaw recently learned the fair was awarded matching funds for a "Green Fair Project" grant, from the Michigan Soybean Promotion Committee. Soy-based bio-diesel used in grounds maintenance equipment, ink for fair publications and eco-friendly soy-based paint qualified for the grant.

"It provides an opportunity for county fairs and farmers to work together to demonstrate and promote the benefits of soy, biodiesel and soy-based products," Shaw said.

Shaw learned about the grant program at the annual fair convention. The grant award is a 50-percent reimbursement, up to $5,000. This includes the ink used to print Fair Time magazine and the Fair Book, through the Petoskey News-Review; approximately 40 gallons of soy-based paint to be purchased from Complete Paint & Supply, Petoskey; and about 300 gallons of biodiesel fuel to be purchased through Blarney Castle Oil Co., for a total grant request of $9,000. The 50 percent reimbursement of approximately $4,500 will help with fair operations for 2012, but it's not just the dollars that are being saved, Shaw added.

"Emmet County has a strong commitment to recycling and caring for the natural environment, and this grant compliments those efforts," said Shaw. "We wanted to take advantage of this opportunity to 'go green' at the fair as well. The cooperative effort between Michigan Soybean Farmers and County Fairs is another step in helping to sustain our environment."

The Emmet-Charlevoix County Fair is set for Aug. 18-26. The complete fair schedule is available online, at www.emmetcounty.org/fair.

Gnodke, Musser reappointed to Mackinac Bridge board

Michigan Gov. Rick Snyder earlier this week announced the reappointments of William Gnodtke, of Charlevoix, and Dan Musser, of Petoskey and Mackinac Island, to the Mackinac Bridge Authority.

Established in 1950, the seven-member Mackinac Bridge Authority authorizes the employment of legal and financial services necessary to manage and finance bridge maintenance and repair projects.

"Bill and Dan have effectively served the authority during the past six years and I am confident they will continue to do great work in overseeing one of Michigan's most cherished landmarks," Snyder said in a press release.

Prior to his retirement in 1997, Gnodtke formed Gnodtke & Associates, a governmental consulting and fundraising firm, and served many years in the Michigan House of Representatives, including service as aide to the Speaker of the House and Minority Leader, director of constituent relations and executive director of House minority staff. He is chairman of the Mackinac Bridge Authority and the Norwood Township Road Committee. Gnodtke holds a bachelor's degree in political science from Hillsdale College.

Musser represents the third generation of Musser family ownership and operation of the Grand Hotel. As president, he is responsible for the resort's day-to-day operations which include overseeing the front desk and convention, food and beverage, sales and marketing, housekeeping, maintenance and recreation services. Musser is former chairman of the Michigan Hotel, Motel and Resort Association, current chairman of the Mackinac Island Convention and Visitors Bureau, president of the Mackinac Island Community Foundation and board member for the Mackinac Island Tourism Bureau and Michigan Retailers Association. He earned a bachelor's degree in liberal arts from Albion College.

Appointees will serve six-year terms that expire June 30, 2018, and their appointments are not subject to the advice and consent of the Senate.

TRAIL

tions, including having a say-so about the project's engineering firm, signatures from property owners if the trail goes outside the road right-of-way and not having to spend any road commission dollars, said Pat Harmon, agency manager.

Maxwell asked county commissioners if they would consider covering the necessary grant match money, contrary to their prior decision to chip in just the continued maintenance along the trail's full length.

> "It's going to take some momentum away from what they've got going and that's a shame."
> — Chris Christensen
> Charlevoix County commissioner

"We even had to dig for that," said Ron Reinhardt, county commissioner from Wilson Township. He said he opposes opening county coffers for the needed funds.

Commissioner Joel Evans, board chairman from South Arm Township, agreed county residents may balk at the mere notion of $250,000 in county dollars going to the trail's construction when officials previously told them none would.

"We're going to have a hard time asking the taxpayers to put in money for a bike trail," Evans said.

Commissioner Chris Christensen, of Boyne City, questioned whether trail supporters looked "outside the box" at alternative designs, creative funding choices or other options.

"I think we either have to reset and start over with accurate numbers or examine all the alternatives that are or could be available to us to continue on the path we're on," Christensen said.

Maxwell presented several other ways for the trail's second phase to happen — other than county government covering the shortfall — including scaling back the project's scope, increasing funds from townships or reducing the proposed match amount in the grant application from the current 31.8 percent.

Rich Gillespie, commissioner from Beaver Island, said perhaps the parks and recreation millage on the August ballot will be a barometer for the project, as tax revenues from the proposed levy could be used both for program operations and special projects.

"The voters will decide in August. This is how they'll show they are interested," Gillespie said.

In the end, commissioners sent Maxwell back to the county's parks committee to figure out how best to proceed.

"Keep us in touch and if there's something we can do as a county, other than just give cash out, let us know," Evans said.

Maxwell said it's unrealistic to think he or any local nonprofit agency can raise $250,000 for the trail's second phase in the required time frame (by August), but he will give it a shot, he said.

Christensen said he fears this setback may impact the trail supporters' overall efforts.

"It's going to take some momentum away from what they've got going and that's a shame," he said.

Family's life changes when Hollywood calls

ANNE KELLY
Courier Staff Writer

ANNE KELLY/CHARLEVOIX COURIER

Carrie Wampler, who has vacationed with her family in Charlevoix annually for many years holds her script from the recent role in the movie "Blue Lagoon: The Awakening" that aired recently on the Lifetime Network. The movie will air again at 6 p.m. on Saturday, June 30.

Carrie Wampler is a pretty 15-year-old vacationing with her family at a condo in Charlevoix.

She could be any one of the summering teenagers cruising the shops and checking out the action down in the park.

But she's not.

Carrie is a young person who is hoping her talent, personality, goals, and determination have her headed for a notable career in Los Angeles. She has several commercials under her belt, has a big-name manager and has just performed in her first film playing a supporting role in a remake of "The Blue Lagoon." ("Blue Lagoon: the Awakening") which aired recently on Lifetime.

The Wampler family has done a 360 degree turn in their lives over the course of the last five years. When Carrie was a child, according to Carrie's mother and head cheerleader, Holly, she would watch episodes of Disney shows on TV (a favorite was the American teen sit-com, "Lizzy McGuire") then run up to her room and write out a script so that she could reenact the story with all the drama she could muster for her home audience. It was not an unusual thing for a pre-teen to do so no one guessed what might develop as a result of these 11-year-old productions.

The immediate and the extended families on both sides are simple hometown people who call Tipp City, Ohio, (near Dayton) home. Carrie and her younger brother and sister attended school, were involved in school activities including sports (her brother, Phillip) and dance (little sister, Cricket) when a fortuitous opportunity presented itself. Ali Grant, current owner of Be Social Public Relations, who had periodic roles as a character on Disney's "The Suite Life of Zach and Cody," came to Dayton to conduct a talent search.

Carrie was compelled to go, just to meet the celebrity girl she had watched on the show. Her brother and sister came too, just for fun. As a result of auditions, both Phillip and Carrie were offered the chance to train in Dayton for a possible stab at making it to Dallas for a talent search expo. Skeptical at first, Mom Holly, checked out the operation, suspecting a scam.

"Let's face it," she told her children trying to be realistic about the situation, "We live in Tipp City, Ohio, and are the least likely family to go into show business."

When she realized the offer was on the up-and-up, she was persuaded by the kids' enthusiasm and accompanied Phillip and Carrie to Dayton, Ohio, for the eight-week training.

"This is how I got my start," Ali Grant told them. "There will be agents there at the expo in Dallas, Texas; there might be agents from Nickelodeon, Disney and Warner Brothers ... all the big names."

Carrie and Phillip were invited to Dallas along with 15 other kids, and spent a week under their mother's supervision with their sponsoring agency from Dayton. There were about 800 hopefuls at this session, gathered by more than 30 agencies across the country.

The auditions involved doing a monologue, reading for a two-person scene, dancing, singing and runway. Phillip, who had only months before been heavy into sports at his elementary school, was, surprisingly to the family, loving the glamour and glory of performance on a different playing field.

"We never pushed the kids into performance," Holly said. "But when I saw them doing their auditions and loving it, I was convinced they needed to follow their passion. They were never nervous. I never doubted them for a minute."

Seven-year old Cricket, Carrie's younger sister, was too shy to participate at this point. Both Carrie and Phillip received the coveted "call backs" from different agents. A Warner Brothers agent, Robert Russell, called Carrie aside and told her in her mother's presence,"I do this several times a year and I can tell you, you have the 'it' factor. I see you becoming big some day."

The family began to plan the next move when agents told them they would represent them if they were willing to spend an extended period of time in Burbank. That was July, and by September, Carrie's parents had arranged a schedule of studies for their children to be completed while in California.

"The school was very accommodating and supportive," Holly said. Holly had a childhood friend living in Los Angeles who was willing to arrange housing for their "trial stay." Coincidentally, the friend's mother-in-law was an agent named Cinda Snow of Snow Entertainment (mother of young television and film star, Brittany Snow whose recent appearances include roles in "Hairspray" and on the network television show, "Harry's Law"). Holly called Cinda Snow and had a "mom-to-mom" talk about the pros and cons of the direction this whirlwind was taking the family. The family was in agreement to give it a try so Holly and the children moved to Burbank where they found lodging in a hotel near the studios (their own "suite life"). All the children began auditioning for commercials. By this time 7-year-old Cricket thought it would be fun to try. Although the Wampler kids have done more than 20 commercials collectively to date, it was little Cricket who landed the first one.

"Go figure," said Carrie. "It was a Sears commercial around Mother's Day or Easter," Carrie recalled. "There were 10-12 little kids dancing around in party clothes. She even had a set and a little trailer!"

Chris Wampler, as father of the children, definitely had his doubts.

"I don't think he was convinced anything would really come of it," Holly said.

However, Wampler who had a position in corporate finance back in Tipp City, commuted back and forth on weekends bringing their schoolwork and returning completed assignments to their teachers.

The next summer, the family returned home to Dayton to let it all sink in.

In the fall Phillip resumed school sports, the girls joined their classmates and activities in Tipp City: Carrie ran cross-country and Cricket resumed her dance. But the possibility of returning to Los Angeles was paramount in their minds. They had to decide their course of action and decided to "go for it." By Christmas of 2010 they announced they would be heading back again. One year ago in July they made the move permanent.

Carrie is now 15, her brother Phillip 13, and her little sister Cricket 11, the same age as Carrie when she began the whole process. They are all three still doing commercials when the opportunity arises, and spend their mornings doing school work in their cozy 1,200 square foot bungalow, owned by the same hotel in Burbank where they had taken up original residence. The afternoons and evenings are spent doing auditions and waiting for call-backs.

A turning point for the family came last year when Chris learned that his corporate finance company in Tipp City was going to be sold. The family had made the final move to Burbank last summer but Chris commuted back and forth until February. He has now joined his family full time.

"We started thinking about life and got the feeling that all this was meant to be," Holly said. "They realized that their life was taking a new direction. They will miss family and friends in Ohio, but are moving on. They have already made the acquaintance of other families like themselves, actually from Ohio, who are doing the same transition to LA as themselves."

Will Carrie regret leaving her friends back home, and all that she would have experienced in high school such as school activities and proms?

"When I go home, I enjoy being with my friends, but I love what I'm doing with my life in LA. You would think that I would be the wild one, living in LA and all but I'm not. I probably don't have as many opportunities as they do to get crazy. I'm really pretty innocent."

Success aside, Carrie and her family continue to return to Northern Michigan (Charlevoix in particular for the past 20 years) to vacation with grandparents John and Merrily Swisher, as they have done all their lives. They can't see anything changing that.

ROUND TWO

from one end of the town to the other each year.

Carey said last year the festival was designed to be very family friendly throughout the day, with events for all ages to enjoy. This year it will be primarily broken into two sessions, during the day and evening, with the earlier time devoted primarily to children and families and the evening restricted to 21 and over.

"By separating things out this way, we're hoping to do more for each type of attendee, and offer a better selection of activities" Carey said.

The first portion of the day will feature a general admission event with activities exclusively for kids. There will be multiple variations of bounce-houses, popcorn, snow-cones and candy all included in the admission fee.

"We will also offer things for the adults during the day, such as grilling seminars sponsored by Weber Grill, and family friendly music," Carey said.

There will also be a wide variety of food available for purchase during both sessions.

"One of the things we're very excited about is this year's 'Silent Disco DJ Dance tent' which will be fun to participate in and watch," Carey said. The disco activity is a tent where music is played through headphones only, and the wearers take to the dance floor dancing to music only they can hear. According to Carey the onlookers often enjoy it as much as the dancers.

Adults and children dance to music being played at the Odmark Pavilion in East Park during last year's inaugural Up North Fourth Event. Organizers plan to have more family-oriented fun during this year's event.

Charlevoix's Up North Fourth festival is sponsored in large part by Charlevoix Ace Hardware, and a new partner this year, Weber Grill. Both sponsors have brought a lot to the event, according to Carey, and are vital to its success. Attendees will notice several grilling seminars and similar activities put on with Weber grills.

"There also has been a ton of support by volunteers and business people," Carey said. "People like Amanda Wilkin with the visitors bureau, Jodi Bingham who owns Ga Ga for Kids and Sam Porter and his team who help in so many ways to make it possible," he added.

The evening session this year will feature offerings from four different local breweries, and admission will include a commemorative glass and four drink tokens.

"Each token will get you a sample of either wine or beer," Carey said. "The goal is to allow participants the opportunity to try a variety of the featured drinks."

There will also be a variety of music during the evening by bands such as The Verve Pipe and Charlevoix native Jetty Rae.

Daytime admission to the event will be a requested $5 donation per child and will provide access to all of the events and include free snacks. The evening session will have an advance purchase admission price of $25, also available the day of the event for $30. Tickets will be available in advance through the chamber of commerce, as well as some local retailers and online at www.upnorthfourth.com.

Carey said organizers are still in need of volunteers to "help provide a safe, fun event."

He said a wide variety of volunteer tasks are available. In fact, organizers have a website devoted exclusively to volunteer recruitment and information at: http://www.volunteerspot.com/login/entry/2023456320441720109.

The site allows prospective volunteers to choose their jobs and, as an another bonus this year, all volunteers will be entered in a drawing for a Weber Performer Charcoal Grill with gas ignition valued at $330. Carey said for every hour a volunteer works, organizers will enter their name once in the drawing. He said volunteers also get event T-shirts and other merchandise for their efforts and noted that majority of volunteer tasks require a shift of four or more hours.

The event is scheduled to take place from 11 a.m.-10 p.m. Saturday, July 7, in the East Park on Bridge Street in downtown Charlevoix. The early session is expected to wrap up around 3 p.m. For more information, visit the website or call (231) 547-3257.

SELECTION

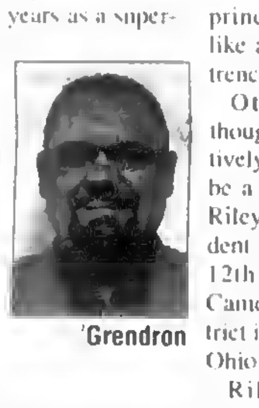
Board member Kevin Pearsall agreed.

"I thought he was decisive," he said. "He answered questions right away. I liked his energy, and think it's actually contagious."

Over Gendron's 22 year career, he spent 11 years as teacher, union president and coach and 11 years as a superintendent experience the board appreciated.



Grendron

"I've held every position in the school, except food service director, at every level, and it's all those experiences that make me such a well-rounded person for this position," said Gendron during his interview.

Riley

"He seems like a guy who just rolls up his sleeves and does whatever is necessary, whether custodial, he'll just do it," said Doug Drenth, elementary school principal for Charlevoix. "I like a guy who will get in the trenches with us."

Other board members thought Scott Riley's comparatively calming presence would be a better fit for the district. Riley is currently superintendent and kindergarten through 12th grade principal of the Camden-Frontier School District in Camden, down near the Ohio border.

Riley also doubled his school's fund balance, though he did not give the particular numbers. Still, given Charlevoix's recent budget troubles, any increase in fund balance would be welcome, noted Snyder.

Riley took an active role in encouraging his staff in grant writing, working out a deal that awarded teachers an extra 5 percent of their grant, should they win the grant.

He also outlined a grassroots marketing campaign to attract students to his Camden district, a rural district in Hillsdale County. Riley noted his district's enrollment numbers — 555 students when he started — compared to its high of 605 and its current number of 590.

"Getting more students is a huge goal," said board member Dick Joseph in response. "I think this is a big problem (for Charlevoix school district)."

In his closing statement, Riley noted his work ethic and excitement for the job.

"I will work harder than any other superintendent you could hire," he said. Every situation I have left has been a heck of a lot better than when I started — and it's not just a short term fix, it's sustainability. The athletic department at Hillsdale High School has benefitted for many, many years from things we had implemented when I was there."

As of press time, the school board had not made a decision.

"I think the two guys (Riley and Gendron) had a lot of the same qualifications, a lot of the same experiences, and both wear all of these hats at a smaller district," said Snyder. "It's just which personality we think will fit."

The board decides on its candidate today, Friday, during a special board meeting at 9 a.m. in the District Central Office at 104 E. St. Mary's Dr. in Charlevoix.

Getting to know Joe

New Rayder football coach Joe Pruchnicki brings decades of coaching experience

STEVE FOLEY
Northern Michigan Review

Joe Pruchnicki isn't one to sit around idly.

The 65-year-old has been working pretty much non-stop for nearly six decades, ever since he landed his first job delivering the now-defunct Detroit Times near his native Flint.

Retired from his teaching and coaching position for less than a week at Flat Rock High School, Pruchnicki was named the Charlevoix High School head varsity football head coach earlier this month.

"I retired June 8 and just a few days later I was hired," Pruchnicki said. "I feel God must have been looking out for me."

In fact, it was Pruchnicki who was looking out for the Rayders and their football program.

Less than a week after its newly hired head coach Jason Katt of Lowell stepped down amid job-security concerns, Pruchnicki was hired on a 5-2 vote by the Charlevoix school board.

"Originally they (the school board) went with coach Katt and I coached against him when I was in the Flint area," Pruchnicki said. "I talked to (Katt) when he left (Lowell) to come up here, to be a member of his staff, but then he called me and told me things didn't work out for him and his family. So I called (athletic director) Brian Certa and A led to B and B led to C."

Pruchnicki, who coached the past six seasons at Flat Rock and compiled an 18-36 record including a 3-6 slate last year, said he feels for Katt, who on June 7 announced to Rayder players during a morning weight training session his concerns over his family's financial security had prompted him to walk away from the head coaching position and the high school English teaching position for which the board had approved him in late April.

"I was shocked at first and I feel for him," Pruchnicki said. "He's a great young man and I know he was extremely disappointed when he called me. I feel bad for him. It's a mixed feeling for me because I know he wanted to have the opportunity to be a head coach and I feel disappointed for him."

Pruchnicki, who owns a cabin on Starvation Lake near Mancelona, inherits a Charlevoix team from coach Don Jess, who resigned in December following a nine-year stint during which he guided the Rayders to a 41-44 record, including a 4-5 mark in 2011.

"I had previously interviewed and accepted an assistant job in Gaylord, so I had to pull away from that," Pruchnicki said. "It's an opportunity at my age that I may not get again."

Pruchnicki has some 40 years on his resume in the coaching business and in the classroom, where he taught science and physical education.

He has hit the ground running.

"The town is just beautiful and I'm really excited to be there," he said. "We started our morning lifting and we've had tremendous attendance. We're getting between 25-30 kids every morning and we're starting at 6 a.m.

"As far as football-wise, I really don't know how we'll be because we haven't practiced yet and haven't been in pads or in a passing league yet, but we'll be in a passing league here with them in Petoskey starting Thursday.

"I will know Thursday night more I guess."

What Pruchnicki does know is that the first step in getting things going is winning over the players.

"The biggest thing is getting the players to believe in me as a coach," he said. "It's understanding I have a vision for them and that I'm here for them, and my No. 1 job is to help them become young men and productive citizens off the field. That's why I'm here, for them, primarily."

Charlevoix last made the playoffs in 2009, and it graduated a dozen players off a team that lost three games in 2011 by a touchdown or less.

"We have good athletic kids and from what I hear they play hard and they've been working hard in the weight room," Pruchnicki said. "They're running hard for me now and they've stepped up in everything I've asked them to do. We'll see what happens when we put the pads on."

Practice begins on Aug. 6, and the Rayders open on Friday, Aug. 24, against St. Ignace, a team coming off a 12-1 season during which it advanced to the Division 8 state semifinals.

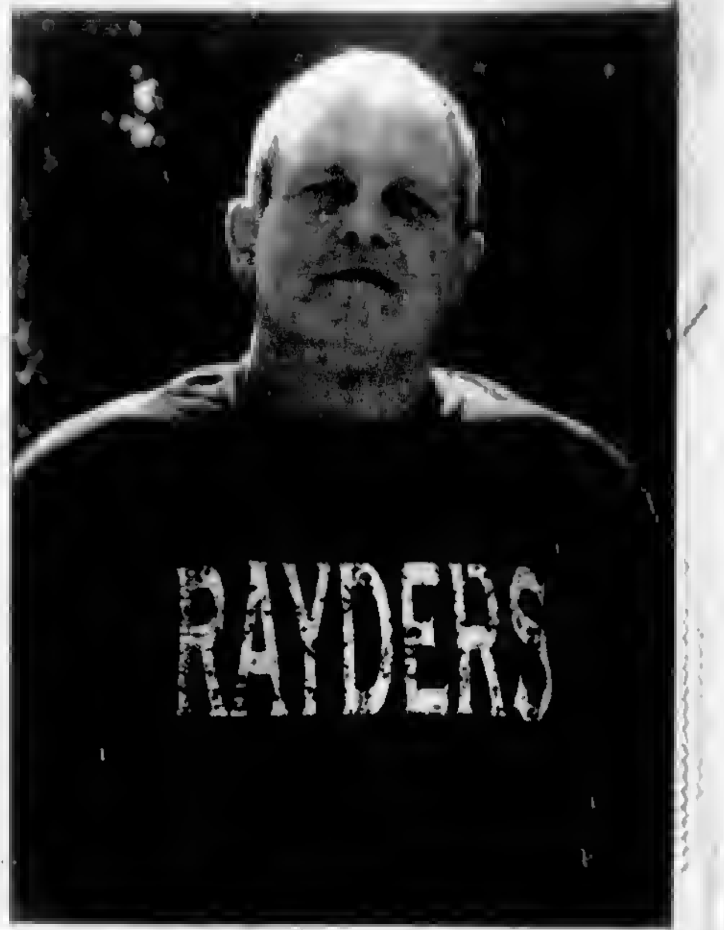
Charlevoix faces Maple City Glen Lake in its second game, then opens the Lake Michigan Conference portion of its schedule against Grayling, which was 9-2 and finished second in the league a year ago.

"My teams are aggressive teams and we run to the ball and we hit," Pruchnicki said. "I hope to see us play with the same personality that I have — aggressive, enthusiastic and disciplined. If I can put those qualities in them, then hopefully it'll come out on the football field."

Pruchnicki also lauded the immediate support from Certa and the Charlevoix Gridiron Club.

"Mr. Certa was so positive about everything and so supportive," Pruchnicki said. "I've met with the Gridiron Club and they also seemed really hopeful and excited about the future of Charlevoix football. The school gets an A rating from the state, so automatically you get the feeling it's a great school district.

"It's just one more chance to be a head coach. It's exciting."



No ordinary Joe

WHO: New Charlevoix High School varsity football coach Joe Pruchnicki

AGE: 65

HOMETOWN: Flint

EXPERIENCE: Head coach at Flat Rock High School since 2006 (18-36 career record, 3-6 in 2011), held assistant jobs in Goodrich, Swartz Creek, Lake Fenton, Flint Southwestern, Flint Powers and Flint Central.

PERSONAL: Retired teacher at Flint Public Schools after 23 years as high school and middle school emotionally impaired, physical education and science teacher. Also taught for a year in Oscoda and five years in Flat Rock. Holds bachelor's degree and a master's degree in educational administration. Resides in Mancelona near Starvation Lake, has three children (son, three daughters).

Joy wins Belvedere's Hickory Open event

Marty Joy, Professional Golf Association Professional at the Belvedere Golf Club in Charlevoix won the seven annual Belvedere Hickory Open which took place June 21-23 at Joy's home course. The event was the second Society of Hickory Golfer's Major Golf Championship of 2012.

Fifty hickory golfers came to Northern Michigan from 19 states and Canada for this year's event.

Joy overcame a two shot deficit entering Saturday's final round to win the Belvedere Championship by three shots. Howard Vogel of Traverse City was the first round leader and birdied two of the first three holes to take a five shot lead on the field.

Ken Holtz, a past Society of Hickory Golfers President and Sun City, Ariz. resident, was one shot back to start the last day but never could duplicate his magical round from the day prior. Roger Andrews of Jenks, Okla. and a past Major Champion also started the day one shot back and was tied with Vogel after the sixth hole. Joy, now down four shots through six to both men, played even par the remaining 12 holes to surpass Vogel and Andrews.

"Every time we thought one of us could make a move on him (Joy), he would hit another incredible shot that put a dagger in our hopes," Andrews said. "Sixteen was really our last chance. But Howard and I hit it in the left rough off the tee and then it was impossible to hit the tight 16th green. We both made bogeys there and then Dennis hits this inconceivable delicate chip to one foot to save par on 16 – we were both done after that" Andrews said.

Belvedere was selected as a "major" hickory venue in late 2011 and is now part of the Hickory Championship Series. The Hickory Championship Series attracts hickory golfers to compete at six "major" venues throughout the year, beginning with the Southern Hickory Four-Ball in Birmingham, AL and ending at the Mid-Pines Hickory Open in Pinehurst, N.C. Points are accumulated at these "major" venues and tallied similarly to the PGA Tour's year ending Fed-Ex Cup point system.

Belvedere hosted the second "Major" of the year and will be followed by stops at Ankeny, Iowa, French Lick, Ind. and Fort Smith, Ark.

Joy is now the leading points-earner in the country with his Society of Hickory Golfers Championship win on Saturday.

"Unfortunately, I won't be able to attend the next two "Majors" as they are both in July during the busiest part of the Belvedere golfing season. So my lead as the leading points getter will be short lived until late September when I plan to attend the Mountain Valley Hickory Open in Fort Smith, Ark. and then in November when I will attend the finale event in Pinehurst, N.C."

Local Charlevoix resident Bob Sippell also excelled during this year's championship leading the senior division on Friday and then extending his lead Saturday to take the Senior Open Division. Sippell overcame a two-shot penalty on the third hole for teeing off from the wrong tee Saturday. Despite this set back, Sippell cruised on from hole number three to take the senior division by four shots.

"Bob was really impressive out there. A solid player who never folded on any hole," playing partner and PGA Professional Richard Bullock of Clearwater, Fla. said. "He never mad that big mistake that newbies to hickory golf make."

The Society of Hickory Golfer's Championship Series, sponsored by Mountain Valley Spring Water, will conclude it's championship at Mid Pines Golf Club in Pinehurst, N.C. Nov. 2-4 of this year. The 2013 Belvedere Hickory Open will take place Thursday, June 20 – Saturday, June 22 next year.

The two day competition is played with authentic pre-1935 hickory shafted golf clubs and competitors dress in period appropriate apparel which includes knickers, ties and jackets. The competition takes place under the auspices of the Society of Hickory Golfers, a national hickory organization which celebrates and promotes the hickory game of the 1910s–1930s.

MHSAA: High school sports participation drop continues

Rate of decline less than drop in general student population

For the first time in eight years, participation in high school sports in which post-season tournaments are sponsored by the Michigan High School Athletic Association dropped below the 300,000 mark during the 2011-12 school year but the decrease was still slower than the drop in the general student population at member schools, the association said in a news release issued this week.

A total of 297,317 participants took part in the 28 tournament sports offered by the Association in the past year - a 1.5 percent decrease from the 2010-11 school year figure of 301,921.

Student enrollments at MHSAA member schools were down by 3.7 percent for the past school year. Girls participation was down 1.2 percent from a year ago with 124,724, and the boys total of 172,593 was down 1.7 percent. Since 2006-07 the student population at MHSAA member schools is down from 531,903 to 487,651 - a drop of 8.2 percent. Participation in that time span has dropped from 313,093, a decrease of 5 percent.

The totals count students once for each sport in which he or she participates, meaning students who are multiple-sport athletes are counted more than once.

Records for participation in 2011-12 were set in four sports — two for boys and two for girls. Once again, cross country and lacrosse numbers hit all-time highs in both genders.

Also of note in this year's survey:

— Only two sports exhibited a drop in participation that was well beyond that of the drop in student enrollment. Boys golf was down 6.6 percent, and boys swimming and diving was down 4.7 percent.

— Boys tennis continues a downward slide, with this year's participation of 6,815 the lowest point since the Association began tracking the numbers in 1991-92. Its losses since 2006-07 are the highest in terms of percentage of any sport at 21.5 percent (1,868 participants). By comparison, girls tennis participation is stable, up 0.6 percent in the same time period.

— Girls cross country set another record at 8,135, and participation in the sport is up 15 percent since 2006-07. In that same time period, boys cross country participation is up 6.1 percent.

— Basketball figures dropped 1.9 percent for boys and girls in 2011-12; also continuing a decline faster than the drop in student enrollments, and participation in both sports are at their lowest points since the Association began tracking the numbers in 1991-92. Since the 2006-07 survey, girls participation is down 10.9 percent and the boys number is down 8.8 percent, the second highest drops in raw numbers of all sports,girls are down 2,100 participants, boys 2,131.

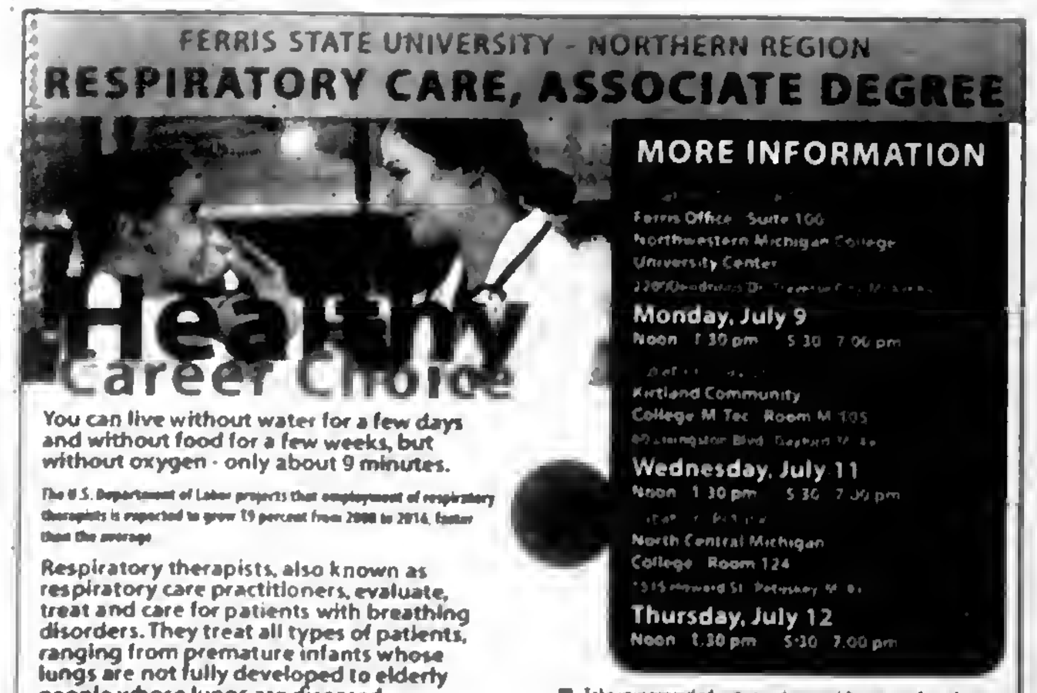
— In terms of raw numbers, football has seen the biggest drop since 2006-07, down 3,203 participants – a drop of 6.9 percent.

— A total of nine sports have participating dropping at a faster rate since 2006-07 than enrollment numbers would suggest — boys tennis, girls swimming and diving, boys and girls basketball, boys and girls skiing, girls gymnastics, softball, and girls track and field.

— Seveo sports have seen significant increases in participation since 2006-07 — boys and girls cross country, boys and girls bowling, boys swimming and diving, and boys and girls lacrosse. In percentages, girls lacrosse is up 30.3 percent and boys lacrosse is up 26.2 percent.

— Ten sports had increases in participation in 2011-12 (7 girls and three boys) and 18 sports had drops (seven girls and 11 boys).

The participation figures are gathered annually from MHSAA member schools to submit to the National Federation of State High School Associations for compiling its national participation survey. Results of Michigan survey from the 2000-01 school year to the present may be viewed on the MHSAA website, www.mhsaa.com and clicking on Schools > Administrators > Sports Participation.



FERRIS STATE UNIVERSITY - NORTHERN REGION
RESPIRATORY CARE, ASSOCIATE DEGREE

Healthy Career Choice

You can live without water for a few days and without food for a few weeks, but without oxygen - only about 9 minutes.

The U.S. Department of Labor projects that employment of respiratory therapists is expected to grow 19 percent from 2008 to 2016, faster than the average.

Respiratory therapists, also known as respiratory care practitioners, evaluate, treat and care for patients with breathing disorders. They treat all types of patients, ranging from premature infants whose lungs are not fully developed to elderly people whose lungs are diseased. Respiratory therapists are expanding into cardiopulmonary procedures like electrocardiograms and stress testing but also perform other tasks like drawing blood samples from patients.

BE A WISE SHOPPER

It's always wise to remember that if an offer sounds too good to be true, it probably is. If you are offered merchandise at an unbelievably low price, check it out thoroughly. A call to the Better Business Bureau (serving Eastern Michigan and the Upper Peninsula) will tell you whether other consumers have had problems with the firm that has offered the merchandises. (248)223-9400. But call the Bureau BEFORE you make a purchase. You'll be glad you did.

2090 BIDS WANTED

CHARLEVOIX HISTORICAL SOCIETY
ACCEPTING BIDS

The Charlevoix Historical Society is seeking sealed bids for Phase 3 Construction at the Charlevoix South Pier Lighthouse. Construction includes complete interior painting and installation of replacement ventilator covers.

Sealed, firm fixed price proposals will be received by the Charlevoix Historical Society, 103 State Street, Charlevoix, Michigan 49720 until 3:00 p.m. on Friday, July 20, 2012 at which time proposals will be opened and read aloud. Faxed or electronic bids will not be accepted.

All bids shall be submitted in duplicate (two), on the bid proposal form provided in the bidding documents. Both copies of the bid, along with a completed Federal Debarment From, shall be submitted together in a sealed envelope, clearly marked with the project name and the bidder's name.

Bid documents are available by contacting the architect, Michelle Smay of Smay Trombley Architecture at 734-904-9790. Bid documents are also posted on several Michigan construction posting services. A mandatory pre-bid meeting to review the scope of work and existing conditions will be held at the lighthouse on Friday, July 13, 2012 at 10am. This meeting is mandatory and only those bidder's proposals that have attended this meeting will be accepted and opened.

The Charlevoix Historical Society reserves the right to reject any of or all proposals, to accept other than the low bid, and to waive any informalities, and/or errors in proposals, which it feels is in its best interest.

A portion of the financing of the Project is provided by a Michigan Lighthouse Assistance Program (MLAP) grant administered through the Michigan State Housing Development Authority (MSHDA). Compliance with all applicable federal, state, and local laws, rules and regulations is required.

Great Lakes Cruise Company adds Charlevoix to list of destinations

STEVE ZUCKER
Courier Editor

Charlevoix's harbor has a long history of attracting some big boats from far and wide, but since the decommissioning of the Advance Power Plant in the late 90s and the departure of the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Acacia in 2006, the Beaver Island ferry Emerald Isle, some work barges and large private yachts are the largest vessels regularly seen in Round Lake these days.

But that has changed this summer as the Great Lakes Cruise Company ship the Yorktown has already made two stops in Charlevoix (the most recent was Monday) and has several more planned.

The sight of the 257-foot ship was the talk of many in downtown Charlevoix Monday as it dwarfed even the biggest luxury yacht at the marina. The ship arrived around noon Monday and two tour buses were waiting on Bridge Street to take passengers on tours see the city's the well-known Earl Young homes and to visit Castle Farms. Docked at the end of the city marina's A dock, the ship loomed in the background as people enjoyed watching the Downtown Development Authority's Monday Movies by the Marina offering, "The Lion King," before it departed late Monday night.

Contract negotiations pending for next superintendent

STEVE ZUCKER
Courier Editor

A school board initially split between two top candidates ultimately came together Friday for a unanimous vote to offer the Charlevoix Public Schools superintendent's job to Robert Gendron, current K-12 principal and superintendent for Pentwater Public School District.

On Wednesday, June 27 the Charlevoix Public Schools Board of Education conducted second interviews with its three finalists for the superintendent's position that was vacated in April by Chet Janik who retired from a 32-year career in education to take a position as the county administrator for Leelenau County. The board interviewed Charles Muncatchy who was most recently superintendent at Jalen Rose Leadership Academy in Detroit, Gendron, and Scott Riley, currently superintendent and K-12 principal of the Camden-Frontier School District in Camden.

Gendron

At the end of Wednesday's meeting the consensus of the board had narrowed the field to Riley and Gendron. A straw poll take at the end of the meeting had the board favoring Riley 4-3 with board members John McLean, Glen Catt and Mike Pearsall favoring Gendron.

The board reconvened at 9 a.m. Friday to further discuss their choices and to take an official vote on to whom the job offer should be extended.

All seven board members agreed that both men were well-qualified and would be good choices, but a change in one board member's vote tipped the scales toward Gendron.

Board member Mike Pearsall said he felt rushed and uncomfortable when asked to make a choice in the straw poll at the previous meeting and upon further reflection, he decided that Gendron is a better fit for the district.

Board members discussed differences in the two candidates' personalities. The board generally agreed that Riley has a pleasant disposition that would be well received among the staff and community. While some board members felt that Gendron had a more intense or assertive personality that could be off-putting to some people, they felt that concern was outweighed by his greater administrative experience. Some also expressed concerns about the fact that Gendron has had nine different positions over the course of his career.

Mike Pearsall explained how he came to change his mind on the candidate he favored for the position.

"I went home and did what mom always told me to do: to sleep on it," Mike Pearsall said. "Every time I thought about something about the candidates, his name came up. I liked his answers (during the interview.)"

Trail funding gets boost

SHERI MCWHIRTER
Northern Michigan Review

The Charlevoix County Community Foundation pledged more than two-thirds of the needed local match money for a federal grant to build the Boyne City-Charlevoix Road trail's second phase, reviving hope that the fundraising goal may be met.

"We're hopeful that the pledge will fulfill the local match required by the grant process," said Chip Hansen, foundation president. "We're pleased to be in a position that allows us to support such an important and worthwhile project."

Ross Maxwell, county parks and recreation director, spoke last week to Charlevoix County commissioners about a change in expected costs for the trail's second phase along Boyne City-Charlevoix Road, about six miles from U.S. 31 to the old Camp Sea-Gull, a couple miles west of Horton Bay. Early estimates pegged costs around $1.5 million, but now anticipated costs are nearly $3 million, he said.

Maxwell said then he wasn't sure he could raise, in time, the required $350,000 match for the federal transportation enhancement grant application. Now he's gaining confidence, he said.

"We're so close now it would be a shame not to hit the mark," Maxwell said.

The federal grant application is due in August. The Charlevoix County Road Commission will serve as the applicant agency under three conditions, including having a say-so about the project's engineering firm, signatures from property owners if the trail goes outside the road right-of-way and not having to spend any road commission dollars, said Pat Harmon, agency manager.

Hansen declined to reveal how many donors contributed to the $250,000 pledge made to the foundation just days after Maxwell's announcement about virtually doubled trail costs, news that ultimately put the project somewhat in jeopardy.

At least one county commissioner said he's pleased with the anonymous philanthropic move.

"I think that's great. It's wonderful the community can get behind the trail, which will be good for our residents and for our visitors," said Chris Christensen, of Boyne City.

The first approved and funded leg of the trail stretches from Boyne City to Young State Park and beyond to Park of the Pines, at the Bay Township line. Plans are to eventually connect that section to the second one on the opposite end of the well-traveled county highway.

Maxwell said the trail's second phase stands a good chance to be scored well by state officials who hold the grant money purse strings, especially because it can be considered in conjunction with

Registration deadline nears

Absentee ballots available for qualified Primary voters

Michigan Secretary of State Ruth Johnson is reminding residents that they have until Monday, July 9 to register to vote in the Aug. 7 state primary election.

"If you are not yet registered and want to participate in the upcoming statewide elections, the time to register is now," said Johnson, Michigan's chief election officer. "Please take a few moments to stop by your local clerk's office or Secretary of State office to fill out the voter registration form. We want to ensure that every citizen who wants to do so has their vote count and their voice heard on Election Day."

The polls will be open on Election Day from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

To register, applicants must be at least 18 years old by Election Day and be U.S. citizens. Applicants must also be residents of Michigan and of the city or township in which they wish to register.

Voters may register by mail, at their county, city or township clerk's office or by visiting any Secretary of State office. The mail-in form is available at www.michigan.gov/elections. First-time voters who register by mail must vote in person in their first election, unless they hand-deliver the application to their local clerk, are 60 years old or older, are disabled or are eligible to vote under the Uniformed and Overseas Citizens Absentee Voting Act.

To check their registration status, residents may visit the Michigan Voter Information Center at www.michigan.gov/vote. Residents can also find information there on absentee voting.

Michigan's voter identification requirement, how to use voting equipment and how to contact their local clerk. In addition, they will find a sample ballot and map to their local polling place.

Voters who qualify may choose to cast an absentee ballot. As a registered voter, you may obtain an absentee ballot if you are:

— age 60 or older.

— physically unable to attend the polls without the assistance of another

— expecting to be absent from the community in which you are registered for the entire time the polls will be open on Election Day.

— in jail awaiting arraignment or trial.

— unable to attend the polls due to religious reasons.

— appointed to work as an election inspector in a precinct outside of your precinct of residence.

Those who wish to receive their absentee ballot by mail must submit their application by 2 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 4. Absentee ballots can be obtained in person anytime through 4 p.m. on Monday, Aug. 6. Voters who request an absentee ballot in person on Monday, Aug. 6 must fill out the ballot in the clerk's office. Emergency absentee ballots are available under certain conditions through 4 p.m. on Election Day.

As a reminder, voters will

Ohio man injured in plane crash

An Ohio man was injured when the Ultra Light airplane he was piloting crashed at the East Jordan Airport Sunday, July 1.

Charlevoix County Sheriff's office officials identified the injured man as William L. Stone, age 59 from Ohio. Stone was treated at Charlevoix Area Hospital for a cut above his left eye and bruising to his leg, deputies said.

Authorities said the crash happened at about 7 p.m. at the East Jordan Airport as Stone was practicing "touch-and-go" flights when an unexpected wind caught the Ultra Light he was piloting and caused him to crash.

Deputies said Stone was not wearing a helmet at the time of the crash.

Deputies contacted the Great Lakes regional operating center with Grand Rapids Flight Service Aviation Safety Institution about the Ultra Light airplane crash.

The East Jordan Police Department assisted in the investigation.

BOYNE FALLS

Sheriff substation confusion remedied

Boyne Falls facility bids to be reviewed further by officials

SHERI MCWHIRTER
NORTHERN MICHIGAN REVIEW

It turns out confusion took over Charlevoix County commissioners' meeting this week when it came to a Boyne Falls substation conversation.

Commissioners believed the bid package didn't include a septic system, driveways or landscaping, according to Wednesday night's discussion at their public meeting in Charlevoix. However, Thursday morning brought more light to the subject.

Frank Shaler, county maintenance director, said the bid packages did include all the extra projects, officials simply did not award all the alternate bids. The alternate bids that remain pending include the septic system, driveways and utility hook-ups, he said.

> "We didn't set out to spend more than we need to — nobody did."
> — Richard Gillespie
> Charlevoix County commissioner

"They didn't need to award these items for 45 days," Shaler said.

Last month, commissioners awarded the $263,000 bid from Birchwood Construction, of Harbor Springs. The lowest bidder on the building project did not file all the required paperwork and therefore lost the contract.

Shaler said the low bids on the pending alternates are about $2,500 for the septic system, $4,200 for grading and driveways, and finally, $8,000 for utility hook-ups. Commissioners already awarded the alternate bid for overhead garage door openers along with the main bid for the building's construction, he said.

Preliminary estimates pegged the anticipated total cost around $200,000.

Richard Gillespie, county commissioner from Beaver Island and chairman of the board's buildings and grounds committee, said he learned officials put together the bid package with alternates in order to get the least expensive contractor on each aspect of the job. He also said the whole thing very quickly came together — perhaps too hastily.

"We started out wanting to do it in-house and it got confused," Gillespie said.

After all, the county called for two rounds of bids since officials launched the outpost efforts.

Problems cropped up with the project specifications in the first set of bids, so county leaders scrapped them and called for new bids. The second time, contractors all received the same bid specifications, unlike the first go-around.

Gillespie said despite all the confusion, the project is much-needed because there are plenty of people who live on the county's eastern side who could benefit from a county office closer than Charlevoix, the most western end of the county along the Lake Michigan shoreline.

"We need a building to service that area and now it's under way," Gillespie said. "We didn't set out to spend more than we need to — nobody did."

Sheriff Don Schneider advocated for the new building on the opposite side of the county from the sheriff's office as a more efficient and ready-to-deploy way to store special rescue equipment, such as boats, all-terrain vehicles and snowmobiles. Additionally, the facility will replace an outdated office connected to a village-owned garage in Boyne Falls.

Officials from the county clerk's and treasurer's offices are expected to keep office hours at the Boyne Falls facility, as well, once the project is completed later this year.

The board's buildings and grounds committee will meet at 1 p.m. on July 11, following the full board meeting at the county building, 203 Antrim St., Charlevoix. The committee is expected to discuss the substation's pending alternate bids, among other business.

Look to science for information, not truth

EAR TO THE GROUND

Roger Knutson

In 1953 Jacob Bronowski gave a series of lectures at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) on the subject of the relationship of science to human values. Two quotes from those lectures are even more relevant today than they were 60 years ago. Bronowski said, "We live in a world which is penetrated through and through by science, and which is both whole and real. We cannot turn it into a game by taking sides." The game he refers to is the usual one of picking an opinion and defending it against a differing opinion.

Another quote from the same lectures: "The world today is made, it is powered by science, and for any man to abdicate an interest in science is to walk with open eyes toward slavery."

How well have we been doing in appreciating and understanding the world that Bronowski recognized more than half a century ago? Some recent book titles by American authors provide a clue. "Unscientific America: How Scientific Illiteracy Threatens Our Future." Or, "The Age of American Unreason." Bronowski would surely be disappointed, if he were still alive.

I do not believe that the rejection of scientific ideas is at fault, although that certainly occurs. Most people accept scientific ideas readily if they help us. Consider what science has provided for our health care. However, in times of turmoil and uncertainty, there is a search for eternal truths, final answers, and those cannot come from science: The worldwide revival of religious faith , in many different religions, is a part of our human search for certainty.

The answers that science provides seem to keep changing. If you go back far enough in scientific history, it seemed that the earth was cooling. Now the vast majority of climate scientists say the earth is warming rapidly. What are nonscientists to believe?

Some people fall back on what is usually referred to as "common sense," which is simply what most people believe at a particular time. It is worth remembering that common sense in the past provided us with a flat earth, and the idea that stars were lights fixed on transparent celestial spheres far above us in the heavens, as well as the notion that people from Africa were subhuman. Common sense told people that disease was caused by bad air (it was called malaria). We can now be pretty certain that malaria is caused by a blood parasite carried by certain types of mosquitoes. "The world is powered by science." Common sense is generally not a good guide to reality.

The search for certainty in a confusing world can lead to a sort of antiintellectualism, which denigrates people like Jacob Bronowski, along with many of today's working scientists, who often seem to be talking about things that only they understand. Even the place of teachers of science has been downgraded. They are often opposed for teaching what science has found to be reliable.

Finding personal certainty can lead to a rejection of what most would call reality. Many in pre-WorldWar II Germany accepted the certainty of German racial superiority, and we all know how that came out. Religious zealots who accept the absolute truth of sacred books are sometimes willing to eliminate people who hold different views. Absolute certainty is sometimes bought at a price too high for most to accept.

What to do? Maybe the best idea is to consider science as a source of information. Not truth. Scientific information can tell us that the earth is warming rapidly. Science is not necessarily a good guide to what we aught to do about the warming. If the information from science can be separated from the speculation or guessing about what to do, we might be able to hold science in the regard it deserves, even while having a rational discussion about what to do next.

It is not too late to listen to Jacob Bronowski, but we do have to listen.

Women Can/Women Do thank you

Editor:

The Women's Resource Center of Northern Michigan staff, board of directors and Women Can/Women Do committee members thank the volunteers and donors who helped make this year's fundraising luncheon in Charlevoix a success.

The talented table designers who created stunning displays included: A Touch of Spring, Boyne Mountain Solace Spa, Boynes' Beyond Borders, Connie Carr-Designer, Castle Farms Wedding Department, Charlevoix Area Garden Club, Charlevoix Area Hospital Guild Gift Shop, Charlevoix Circle of Arts, Charlevoix Country Club, Deer Creek Junk, Elements, Fanciful: Eclectic Tableware Rental, GaGa for kids, Hearts to Holly Quilt Shop, inspired living, Jordan River Arts Council, Kilwin's of Charlevoix, Lake Street Market, Marvin's Gardens, MerryMakers, Panache Hair Studio, Petals Custom Floral Designs, Raven Hill Discovery Center, Sommerset Pointe Yacht Club & Marina, The Backdoor-A Floral Studio, Upsy-Daisy Floral, and Nanette Dion-Artist/Designer. Your generous donation of time and talent helped ensure the success of this annual event.

We also thank our hard-working table captains. Your willingness to be involved and your generosity in giving so much time and energy to make sure the tables were filled with guests, greatly contributed to the success of this fundraiser.

Once again we enjoyed the lovely setting of Castle Farms and thank owners Linda and Richard Mueller. The enjoyable prelude music provided by the Gailliard String Trio and delicious dessert prepared and donated by Diane McMahon were both greatly appreciated. Special recognition goes to Liz Firebaugh, of Signature Kitchens who provided a complimentary copy of her book, Design with Taste, to each luncheon attendee.

The hundreds of attendees at this event provide critical dollars to organization programs and services so that we are able to continue providing help to thousands of women, children and families, every year. Thank you for your commitment to our agency and the communities we serve.

Many thanks for continuing to support the Charlevoix Women Can/Women Do luncheon!

Sincerely,
Janet Mancinelli

Coordinator offers thanks for ride support

On Saturday, June 16, 2012, we celebrated the 10th anniversary of the Charlevoix/Emmet County Bike4BreastCancer Ride along with the 294 riders who came out to show their support of this event and enjoy the gorgeous weather that only Northern Michigan can provide. This was a largest turn-out in the history of this event, and when all the dust has settled we are confident of attaining our goal of raising $40,000 in support of women in Charlevoix and Emmet County.

With this year's totals, this ride will have raised over a quarter of a million dollars in its 10 years, giving well more than $200,000 back to the community to help sustain programs offered through Charlevoix Area Hospital and McLaren-Northern Michigan Hospital.

The support for this event is outstanding. The businesses and industry in this area provide the foundation for us to build on, the volunteers help us make it all happen, and the riders put us over the top year after year. There were so many old friends who have been with us since the beginning and lots of new faces joining us for the first time. I'd like to give special recognition to Kevin Johnston of Harbor Springs, who not only was our highest individual fundraiser, but dedicated each mile of the 55 mile route to a cancer survivor and had their signature or name on a shirt he designed and wore.

There are so many people to thank, the list just keeps growing each year. I would be remiss if I didn't recognize Bo Mayfield, John McClorey, Chet Morris and Christian Janssens from the local bike shops; Obie Wicker from BC Pizza in Boyne City, John and Bre Curtis of John Curtis Photography and Randi Hunter of R. Hunter Photography. My heartfelt appreciation also goes to Kathy Jacobsen, Dee Vincent, Gay Pung, Kim Stevens, Kay Holley, Diane Gorkiewicz, Therese Green, Amy Wicker, Teri Reynolds, Cheryl Hofweber, Jessie Corp, Candy Greene, Donna Moll, Helen Truchan, Sue Huston, Audrey Jacobsen, Rod Stevens, Pat Brown, April Cameron, Marie Sheets and Jan Plackey, who are not just volunteers, but my friends and people I can count on. Lastly, my children Kendra and Bill Morris, my grandchildren, Billy and Emily, and my amazing husband Bill, without whose support I could not accomplish any of this.

The time has come for me to take a less active role in the Bike4BreastCancer Ride, but there are some amazing women waiting to take the reins and lead this event through its next ten years. It has been my privilege to be a part of such a great organization and I thank everyone involved for their support throughout the years.

Boaters praise harbormaster

Editor:

We've lived on a boat and cruised in 26 states over a period of seven years, cruising the Great Loop trip almost twice, so we've had the pleasure of meeting numerous harbormasters during our travels. We got to know boaters from all over the country – many have been to Charlevoix. So, when the subject comes up of where we're from and that our homeport used to be Charlevoix, most say two things right away, "You're lucky to live in Northern Michigan" and, "What we remember most about Charlevoix is, Hal Evans, he is without a doubt the best harbormaster we've ever met … in ALL our boat travels."

What made Hal stand out? Most people, unequivocally, stated that it was his friendly nature, positive attitude, enthusiasm for his job, his willingness to work them into the marina, put them on a wait list or find an alternative location nearby if the marina was full. We heard a common refrain: He made visiting boaters feel special, like they were each his

LOOKING BACK…

Charlevoix's reputation as a highly desirable resort and vacation destination began to circulate nationwide in the late 1870s. More and more people, usually aboard Great Lakes vessels that called here, discovered the beautiful harbor and lake setting. Enthusiastic word of mouth began to spread. The Belvedere resort was founded in 1878, the Chicago Club in 1880. During the early 1880s, hotel and boarding house registrations increased by almost 2,000 guests per year until over the 1885 season the number reached just shy of 10,000 visitors, almost all arriving by boat. There was no turning back now. Charlevoix had become, according to the Belvedere association's annual report of 1889," ... the one spot in America to go for your summer vacation, to have a splendid time and get the full value of your investment." Like these resorters who rowed over to the Lake Michigan beach for a day of relaxation, many felt, in the words of the Charlevoix Sentinel newspaper of June 23, 1887, " ... that at last Elysium has been discovered."

Is it the Griffon?

Researchers expect an answer on shipwreck next year

STEVE ZUCKER
Charlevoix Courier

Within about the next year, researchers expect to know whether a shipwreck that lies in northern Lake Michigan is the remains of a ship belonging to one of the Great Lakes' earliest European explorers.

That was the news delivered to the Charlevoix City Council Monday by Ken Vrana of the Center for Maritime and Underwater Resource Management, which has been working with part-time Charlevoix resident Steve Libert and his Great Lakes Exploration Group which found what could be the shipwreck site of the long-lost French vessel, the Giffon, in 2001.

Shortly after the discovery — which amounted to what appears to be a ship's mast sticking out of the lake bottom — Libert became embroiled in a drawn out legal dispute with the State of Michigan and the Republic of France. But about two years ago, Libert inked a deal with the state and France allowing research at the site to continue.

Libert signed his portion of those documents at Charlevoix City Hall as a gesture to show his continued intentions to use Charlevoix as a base of operations for his explorations at the site.

Built by the legendary French explorer, Rene-Robert Cavalier, Sieur de La Salle, the Griffon was the first European vessel to sail the upper Great Lakes. It was intended to carry out lucrative fur-trading commerce which would support La Salle's expedition in search of the mouth of the Mississippi.

According to Libert's website, on Sept. 18, 1679, on its return maiden voyage, the Griffon, loaded with 6,000 pounds of furs, sailed out from present day Washington Harbor on Washington Island in northern Lake Michigan and was never seen again.

Vrana told the city council Monday that additional research that has been conducted to-date, including radio-carbon dating of a sample from the suspected ship's mast, sonar, magnetic and other readings have not been conclusive, but they have been consistent with other research about the ship's characteristics. He also noted that none of the data collected has ruled the site out as possibly being the Griffon.

Vrana said since the agreement was signed in 2010, even

Barnard Grange to host talent event

The Barnard Grange, located four miles south of Charlevoix on Barnard Road will host a three-day talents show running from July 20-22 and the event is open to local residents and visitors alike.

The event will kick off with a talent show for children ages 5-12 from 1-4 p.m. on Friday, July 20, in an "open mic" format. Admission is $1 per child and $5 per family. Performances of nearly any kind will be accepted for the event — song, dance, comedy, etc. — as long as the content is deemed to be appropriate by grange members. Each child will have five minutes for his or her act.

Young adults will have their turn, from 1-4 p.m. on Saturday, July 21.

Grange officials remind participants that the organization does not permit, alcohol, drugs or smoking on site.

Storytelling time will take place from 1-4 p.m. on Sunday, July 22. During this time all storytellers are invited to bring their best stories to tell.

The grange will also be renting space to crafters and other dealers to sell their wares during the event. Table space rental is $5 per table. In the event of rain, crafters will need to provide their own portable shelters.

To sign up in advance for table space, the talent show or for more information, call (231) 547-2188. Registrations will also be accepted at the gate.

Benefit slated for cancer patient

A benefit picnic to assist area resident Sherri Perron Harthorn with medical expense relating to her ongoing battle with cancer will take place starting at noon on Sunday, July 8, at Ferry Beach pavilion 2. The event will include a 50/50 drawing, games and prizes including gift certificates. An account has also been set up for Harthorn at Charlevoix State Bank for those wishing to make a contribution to her needs.

Space still available in Circle's youth camps

Space is still available for children interested in participating in this years in the Charlevoixx Circle of Arts Youth Camp, which started Monday, July 2.

The week-long day camps are designed to offer children ages 9-12 a wide array of experiences in the arts. The camp has 12 sessions (Monday-Friday) of favorite visual arts projects during the six-week period from July 2-Aug. 11.

The camp offers not only plenty of favorite visual art projects including painting, paper maiche', drawing, and clay modeling, but also, yoga, photography, Tai chi, improv theater, puppetry, and a class that teaches children how to create, write and present an art exhibit of their work.

For more information visit www.charlevoixcircle.org. Other information about exhibit openings and other art classes offered by the organization are listed. The Charlevoix Circle of Arts, located at 109 Clinton St., may also be reached by calling (231) 547-3554.

Leadership program accepting applications

After recently wrapping up its inaugural class, Leadership Charlevoix County is now accepting Applications for its 2013 class.

Individuals living or working in Charlevoix County who are interested in working on their leadership skills are encouraged to apply. The program will take participants through nine months of training (mostly one full day per month, as well as an overnight team building retreat on Beaver Island), in which they will learn the inner workings of the county, become exposed to some of our county's leaders and develop a large network with classmates, all while developing leadership skills both personally and as a team. Applications are due by Aug. 1st

For more information on the program, or to apply, please visit the Leadership Charlevoix County website at www.leadershipcharlevoixcounty.org or call (231) 547-2101.

The bold and beautiful:

Garden club's annual garden walk set for July 11

COURTESY PHOTO

The Charlevoix Area Garden Club will host the 14th annual Garden Walk, "It's A Garden Party" and a Standard Flower Show, from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. on Wednesday, July 11.

Six estate-style gardens are featured on the walk, all on the north shore of Lake Charlevoix. The Standard Flower Show will take place at the Community Reformed Church at the corner of U.S. 31 and Meech Street.

"July 11 is the day to indulge your most romantic dreams as you imagine yourself decked out in flowered hats and white gloves sipping pink lemonade. The six gorgeous private gardens provide the ideal setting for those fantasies," event organizers said of the event.

Here are a few descriptions of what walk participants will see: "bold and beautiful riot of color," "textures, colors, scents and wildlife," "a lakeside garden fit for outdoor games," "a beautiful transition between beach and lawn that's filled with a multitude of blooms," "native species blending together in a loosely formal way," and "a setting that is reminiscent of Claude Monet's Japanese water garden."

Organizers said the Standard Flower Show is based on the same rules as the Chelsea (England) show. Guests will see 36 juried floral arrangements as well as hundreds of horticultural specimens from Charlevoix's private gardens competing for the coveted "blue ribbons."

Tickets are available at various merchants, at the Community Reformed Church on July 11, or by calling (231) 547-2119. The price for a Garden Walk ticket is $10 in advance and $15 the day of the Walk. Admission to the Standard Flower Show is free.

ELLSWORTH

Ellebration kicks off Friday

Ellebration!

One of the highlights of the Ellebration! is the fireworks display at dusk on Saturday night.

Organizers of the second annual Ellsworth Ellebration!, set for Friday- Sunday, July 6-8, said the this year's festival promises to be even bigger and better than last year with the addition of the Cirque Amongus Circus performing and offering 10 hands-on circus stations for all to participate.

Water is a recurrent theme in the festival this year with a Friday night party featuring a 100-foot hillside water slide and area fire departments competing in games on Saturday.

Ellebration! kicks off at 5 p.m. on Friday, July 6, with the 50's "Drive-in" Dinner at the Ellsworth Elementary School. The dinner is followed by family fun night in the Ellsworth Community Park at 7 p.m. This year it's a party that's all wet, featuring a 100-foot water slide safe for all ages, live music and more. The community is invited to "bring your Super Soaker and a beach towel and join the fun."

The festival's main day, Saturday July 7, brings a full slate of events starting off with the Ellebration! Bike Tour which leaves from the Ellsworth High School parking lot at 8 a.m. Get a post-ride and pre-parade fill up at the pancake breakfast from 9-11 a.m. at the Banks Township Hall. At 10 a.m. Dwayne Arnott will give an archery demonstration at the archery range in the Ellsworth Community Park. Also beginning at 10 a.m., are the ever-popular Historical Trolley Tours. Additional tours are offered throughout the day. At 11 a.m. the Grand Parade kicks off featuring floats galore, antique cars, tractors, queens and more.

Following the parade there will be plenty of fun at the Ellsworth Community Park Grounds including Cirque Amongus from noon-3 p.m. including free circus shows and circus arts stations; big top fun for the whole family.

Cirque Amongus will present two shows and will allow children the opportunity to take part in 10 circus stations including: acrobatics, barrels and globes, cycles, equilibristics, hoops, ropes and stilts, magic, manipulation and toss juggling, tight wire and trapeze. Also, from noon-4 p.m., three free kids inflatable obstacle courses and, East Jordan Girl Scout Troop 372 will be on hand to paint kids' faces. The circus, inflatables and face painting are offered free, however donations are appreciated.

One of the festival's premier events, the roast pork lunch, will take place under the Ellsworth Community Park Pavilion from noon-2:30 p.m. or the food runs out. The meal includes the signature, roast pork, bun, cole slaw, baked beans and applesauce, beverage and dessert all for $8. Seniors and children under 12 are $7. The firefighters' games begin at 1 p.m. Participating departments include Banks Township, East Jordan and Central Lake who will compete for bragging rights. A waterball competition is among the events.

At 2 p.m. the Ellsworth Farmers Exchange Horse Pull will take place at the Grandstand on Main Street between the elementary and high schools. Admission is by donation.

At dusk, the boat parade begins on St. Clair Lake. There is limited seating at House on the Hill Bed and Breakfast, A Matter of Taste at Tapawingo and Yettaw Cottages to view the boat parade. Following the parade the fireworks begin, which organizers describe as "one of the most spectacular fireworks shows in Northern Michigan." Donations are appreciated. Seating at Ellsworth Sports Park offers the best viewing and plenty of free parking is available. Both the boat parade and fireworks are sponsored by Ellsworth St. Clair Fireworks Committee.

Ellebration! weekend will conclude at 6:30 p.m. on Sunday, July 8, with an ice cream social and free movie at the Ellsworth Wesleyan Church, featuring the movie "Courageous."

Event organizers will also sell raffle tickets during the festival, to help support Ellebration. Ticket holders could win half of a processed pig or 15 pounds of bacon from the Ellsworth Market or a gourmet gift basket featuring items from local specialty food producers. Ellebration! T-shirts will also be on sale at the festival. For more information, visit www.ellebration.com, follow Ellsworth Pig Roast on Facebook or call Alana at (231) 599-2824.

CRUISE

Linda Weller, administrative assistant to the Charlevoix city manager's office said representatives from the cruise company contacted city officials in October about making Charlevoix a stop on the ship's itinerary. Originally expected to be one stop during Venetian Festival week, the company has since expanded the schedule to include eight stops throughout the summer. The first visit took place on June 28. After Monday's stop, remaining scheduled visits include July 12, 16 and 26 and Aug. 6, 16 and 20.

Because of its size, city officials have told the cruise line that the ship may dock only at the end of dock A during calm seas as the docks are not designed to hold such a large a vessel. During windy conditions, the ship will have to moor in Round Lake or Lake Charlevoix. The city is also charging the company $425 per day to account for the dock space it cannot rent out at the end of dock A during the ship's visits.

Great Lakes' "Voyage to the Great Lakes" itinerary is an eight-day cruise which starts in Detroit, travels as far north as Whitefish Point in Lake Superior, and ends in Chicago. The itinerary reverses course for the trip back to Detroit.

A cruise on the Yorktown for the "Voyage to the Great Lakes" trips costs between $3,995 and $ $6,995.

Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority Executive Director Keith Carey said the additional guests to the downtown area is welcome news, but noted that city staff have made efforts to encourage the cruise company to view Charlevoix as a destination to be explored in itself, and to lengthen its stays.

To learn more about the Great Lakes Cruise Company, cruises aboard the Yorktown and the company's other offerings, visit the company's web site at www.greatlakescruising.com.

TRAILS

Hayes Township's acquisition grant application to buy now vacant Camp Sea-Gull.

"It's very important the trail has a destination," he said. "It's so important when you put the two together — you really have something."

Maxwell said he will continue to strive to raise the still-needed $100,000 for the pending grant application, but also will consider other options, including changing trail plans or looking to other non-profit agencies to help raise money.

Hansen said the proposed trail will provide value to Charlevoix County, both through the opportunities for improved lifestyles and also local business's bottom dollar.

"Recreational trail systems are springing up all over America for a reason. They not only provide a safe place for hikers and bikers to engage in healthy activity, they also provide an economic engine that will be helpful to the local economy," Hansen said.

The East Jordan-based foundation is a charitable organization established by local donors that manages various funds, some earmarked for special causes while others are non-designated to meet the community's changing needs. COUNCIL more information has been uncovered through French archives that will further help identify the site when test excavations are done.

In fact, the data has been supportive enough that the next step is expected to be a small-scale excavation of the site. That isn't expected to take place until about this time next year, Vrana said. In the meantime, crews continue to work at the site preparing for next spring's work.

In May the council granted another request from Libert to use city dock space to dock the research vessel when it is not at the site. The council has granted similar requests in the past.

Libert's quest to find the Griffon has spanned three decades.

To learn more about the Griffon, visit Libert's Website at www.lasalle-griffon.com.

In other business Monday:

— The council approved a donation request from the Charlevoix Venetian Festival organization for $12,000 for this year's festival. In recent years the council has budgeted $12,000 for this donation, but ended up increasing the amount to $15,000 just prior to the festival. No such increase request took place this year.

— The council approved the Venetian Festival's fireworks permits. The plan for the fireworks remains the same as it has been in recent years with Friday night's being shot from a barge in Lake Charlevoix off Depot Beach and Saturday's being shot from a barge in Round Lake following the lighted boat parade.

— The council approved a contract for $21,180 for additional modifications to the jet fuel dispensing equipment at the Charlevoix Municipal Airport. The equipment was damaged by a snow plow this past winter. Airport manager Matt Bailey explained that since the dispensing equipment was being repaired anyway, the decision was made to relocate it, to help with traffic flow in the area. However, recently it was discovered that groundwater has been seeping into the tank. Crews have determined that the problem is related to a design issue that is preventing new parts from making a proper seal with old parts. The additional $21,000 is needed to make the necessary changes to obtain a proper seal, Bailey said. Bailey also stressed that the integrity of the fuel in the tanks has not been compromised. He noted that water that has seeped into the tank settles to the bottom and is pumped out, fuel is pumped from the top of the tank, and that regular filtering and testing, all insure that the fuel meets the necessary quality standards. In fact, he noted that the site was just inspected by the Federal Aviation Administration and the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality and passed both inspections.

— The council also approved a resolution establishing a fee of $100 per season per parking space for rental car companies at the airport and a raffle license application for the Charlevoix Circle of Arts.

DEADLINE

be asked to provide identification when at the polls on Election Day. They will be asked to present valid photo ID, such as a Michigan driver's license or identification card. Anyone who does not have an acceptable form of photo ID or failed to bring it with them to the polls can still vote. They will be required to sign a brief affidavit stating that they're not in possession of photo ID. Their ballots will be included with all others and counted on Election Day.

Voters who don't have a Michigan driver's license or identification card can show the following forms of photo ID, as long as they are current:

- Driver's license or personal identification card issued by another state.
- Federal or state government-issued photo identification.
- U.S. passport.
- Military identification card with photo.
- Student identification with photo from a high school or an accredited institution of higher education, such as a college or university.
- Tribal identification card with photo.

best friend. Most had just met Hal for the first time, but what a lasting impression he made on them, one that also greatly reflects on the good name and character of the City of Charlevoix. In reality, Hal treats everyone like his best friend, whether it's visiting boaters or members of the local community. We look forward to hearing Hal's shout out to us during our next visit, "Welcome home, Kismet."

Hal, although only an unofficial ambassador of your town, is a treasure to be embraced and appreciated. We hope the City of Charlevoix knows and appreciates what a gem the city has in its harbormaster, Hal Evans.

Facing a tough budget situation that will likely require some cuts to be made as the school year moves forward, Pearsall and other board members said they feel that Gendron's assertiveness is just what the district needs in a leader.

"I really liked Scott (Riley). I just think we need some assertiveness in our school district right now," Pearsall said.

Ultimately, the remaining board members, Dick Joseph, Valerie Snyder and Nancy Allison said they still favored Riley, but said they respect Pearsall's opinion and agreed to switch their votes as well in order to present a message of board unity in the decision to the would-be superintendent.

The board's vote was pending successful contract negotiations with Gendron.

Board president John McLean said Monday that the board's personnel committee is slated to meet at 6 p.m. on July 9 to discuss Gendron's contract.

In the meantime, the district's interim superintendent Patrick Bootz said he will stay on until Gendron takes over.

Man injured when motorcycle hits deer

An East Jordan man was injured when the motorcycle he was riding collided with a dear late Saturday, June 30.

Charlevoix County Sheriff's office officials identified the injured man as Jared Johnson, age 29, of East Jordan. Johnson was treated by Allied EMS at the scene prior to being transported to McLaren Northern Hospital, where he was treated for a possible broken arm and cuts to his hand and legs.

Authorities said the crash happened at about 10:14 p.m. at Old 31 and Murray Road in Hayes Township.

Deputies said Johnson was wearing a helmet at the time of the crash.

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's office was assisted by the Michigan State Police with the crash investigation.

Lumber dock topic of historical lecture

The Norwood Area Historical Society will host a lecture by Mark Holley on titled "The Underwater Archeology of the Old Norwood Dock," at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, July 18 at the Old Norwood Schoolhouse in the village of Norwood south of Charlevoix.

Admission is by donation.

Thanks to underwater archaeology, the location and structure of the old Norwood lumber shipping dock has now been rediscovered. Mark Holley, founder of the Grand Traverse Bay Underwater Survey Project, will use underwater photos and drawings to bring the historic dock from this one-time logging village to light during his presentation.

PGA Senior Championship returns

Spectators welcome, no charge

Randy Erskine (center) of the Great Oska Country Club in Rocheater holds up his championship vase after winning the 2011 Michigan Senior PGA Championship July 26 at the Charlevoix Country Club. Presenting Erskine the vase is Loren Musilek (left) of the leading sponsor Prudential Preferred Properties and Southworth and tournament chairman Dave Mocini.

The Charlevoix Country Club is gearing up to welcome the 2012 Michigan PGA Senior Championship.

"The clubhouse and setting of the Charlevoix Country Club for traffic and flow is perfectly setup for this type of event. We are looking forward to showcasing the improvements to the club and the golf course," Charlevoix Country Club owner, Fred Taylor, said.

Loren Musilek, the on-site realtor for Prudential Preferred Properties Network at the Charlevoix Country Club has hosted the event since the tournament first came to the country club in 2010.

"It's an excellent way to promote Charlevoix and the Charlevoix Country Club. This effort will again benefit the scholarship program of Charlevoix Junior Golf promoting the growth of the sport locally and will also benefit the Charlevoix Community Pool and Camp McSauba," Musilek said.

The 2011 event drew 40 players and raised $1,200 for the Junior Golf program.

The three-day, 2012 event will kick-off Sunday, Aug. 5, with a pro-am event pairing Michigan PGA senior professionals with event sponsors and other amateurs for a round of 18 holes at the award-winning Jerry Matthews designed championship course.

The championship tournament will follow the pro-am with 40-50 players anticipated to compete on Monday, Aug. 6, and Tuesday, Aug. 7. Spectators are welcome and there is no charge.

In April 2012, Taylor, owner of the Georgia-based manufacturing tire giant OTR Wheel Engineering and Boyne City's Sommerset Pointe condominium development, yacht club, the Pointe Health Club, Blue Harbor Grille and nearby Advance General Store, purchased the Charlevoix Country Club including the 18-hole golf course and 13,000 square foot clubhouse with associated restaurant now a steakhouse Shanahan's Prime, tennis courts and pool amenities, from the club's founders.

Since purchasing the course, Taylor and his staff have been working on renovations including extensive landscaping to enhance the site's natural beauty. The course is now called Heatherwoods.

"The course is a combination of links and woods type features and it has some skill requirements that will challenge the pros but it's designed so the average golfer can enjoy it. We will set the course up to challenge the senior pros and their talents similar to what took place at the U.S. Open," Taylor said.

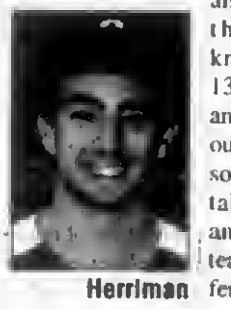
The Charlevoix Country Club is located three miles north of Charlevoix off U.S. 31.

To inquire about 2012 Michigan PGA Senior Championship sponsorship opportunities, call Loren Musilek (231) 547-6768.

Four Rayders named to All-Area teams

Four Charlevoix Rayders were recently named to the Petoskey News-Review's 2012 All-Area Teams for baseball and softball, respectively.

Baseball



Herriman

Potter

— Senior pitcher Coby Herriman went 9-2 this season posting a 1.38 earned run average, allowing 26 hits, 35 walks and striking out 123 in 60 innings. Herriman holds the schools career and single-season strikeout record, racking up 330 during his career. He also posted the school's best career earned run average at 2.68 and is in second place for career wins at 20. He also racked up a .313 average at the plate.

— Senior infielder Andrew Potter also hit .313 this year knocking in 13 runs. He scoring 33 runs and stole 18 bases and struck out just six times for the season. He was a two-time captain, four-year letter-winner and was named to the first team All-Lake Michigan Conference.

Softball

Hoffman

Hybl

— Senior infielder Chelsie Hoffman hit .522 and racked up a team-high 48 hits including 12 doubles and four triples. She knocked in 26 run, posted a .739 slugging percentage and struck out just seven times in 108 at-bats.

— Junior catcher Katie Hybl was noted as an "outstanding defensive backstop" who led the Rayders with a .540 batting average and a .747 slugging percentage. She also posted a team-high 34 runs batted in and struck out just twice in 97 plate appearances.

Sports writing camp offered

The 2012 MSU Spartan High School Journalism Sports Writing Camp will take place from 9 a.m.-3 p.m. Monday-Thursday, Aug. 6 - 9 and 3-10 p.m., Friday, Aug. 10 at North Central Michigan College in Petoskey.

No prior experience is required; students simply need an enthusiasm for writing and photography. Also, we have a date to tour TV 7&4's studios with sports editor, Giacomo Accardo and watch a Beachbums game with Fireworks.

Students, currently in grades 8-11, can develop and improve their writing skills learning from some of the best area local and state sports writer and photographers.

Everyone will head to the high school practice fields daily to observe and write about Petoskey's fall high school sports, from football to golf. Students will then publish their sports writing work in print and online.

Registration is $100 (includes snacks, Spartan Writer's Camp T-Shirt, transportation to Traverse City and a ticket to see the Beachbums.

Horse Liniment Erases Pain

HIALEAH, FL — An ingredient often used to treat inflammation in racehorse's legs, is now back on the market in its original doctor recommended clinical strength formula.

According to a national drug store survey, the formula at one time became so popular that it rose to the top of pharmacy sales for topical pain relievers. But the company marketing the product at the time changed the formula and sales plummeted. One of the inventors of the original formula has brought it back to the market under the trade name ARTH ARREST and says it can relieve pain for millions.

ARTH ARREST works by a dual mechanism where one ingredient relieves pain immediately, while a second ingredient seeks out and destroys the pain messenger signal before it can be sent to the brain. Considered a medical miracle by some, the ARTH ARREST formula is useful in the treatment of painful disorders ranging from minor aches and pains to more serious conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, tendonitis, & more.

ARTH ARREST is available in a convenient roll-on applicator at pharmacies without a prescription or call 1-800-339-3301. Now at:

Charlevoix Fire Department members Bob Roloff and Joe Schwartzfisher put the department's newly-acquired aerial truck through its paces in the Charlevoix Middle School parking lot Tuesday as firefighters on the department had their first chance at training with the truck. Fire officials expect the truck to be in service sometime next week.

Board to vote on contract with new superintendent

MORGAN SHERBURNE
Northern Michigan Review

Gendron

A meeting of the Charlevoix Public Schools Board of Education's personnel committee this week determined the terms of the new superintendent contract to be offered to Robert Gendron, current K-12 principal and superintendent for the Pentwater Public School District.

The school board extended the offer to Gendron last week after initially being split between Gendron and another candidate, Scott Riley, superintendent and K-12 principal of the Camden-Frontier School District in Camden. After discussions at a special board meeting on July 6, the board ultimately voted unanimously to offer the position to Gendron.

At Monday's meeting, the personnel committee and Gendron tentatively agreed to a three-year rolling contract which includes an annual salary of $110,000; a $1,000 annuity to be increased by $1,000 for each successive year of employment; health insurance coverage to be subject to a $15,000 "hard cap;" and dental, vision, life and long-term disability coverage.

Gendron would also get 12 sick days per year, 15 vacation days per year, four personal days per year and five days of bereavement leave per year. There is no car allowance provided, but the district will reimburse Gendron for mileage at the current Internal Revenue Service rate.

The district's previous superintendent, Chet Janik, had been paid $102,144 in annual salary, health, dental, vision, long term disability and life insurance. In April, Janik retired from education to take a position as county administrator for Leelanau County.

"The personnel committee met with Gendron and that was what was agreed upon between the committee and him," said board president John McLean. "It's just a matter of the board formalizing it and signing off on it."

The school board was expected to meet at noon on Thursday (after the Courier's press time) to finalize the contract. If approved, Gendron would begin his position on Wednesday, Aug. 1.

New children's story walk stations ready for readers

STEVE ZUCKER
Courier Editor

A Charlevoix woman's dream of creating a series of reading stations throughout the city to encourage both literacy and exercise has come together this summer.

Sherrel Bergmann, who last fall received the Charlevoix City Council's blessing to place the reading stations in public parks throughout the city, recently completed the first phase of the project overseeing the installation of eight reading stations.

Some of the stations are stand-alone green 16-inch by 20-inch acrylic boxes, while some — for now — are housed in notice boxes at pavilions at each of the three city beaches. Stations are also located at the Charlevoix Public Library and the Charlevoix Historical Society's Harsha House Museum on State Street.

Bergmann said her vision for the project is to provide a unique reading and exercise experience for young visitors to Charlevoix by making short stories, poetry and fun facts about the area.

Fire damages Featherly's auto repair shop

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

A Charlevoix Township auto repair business was heavily damaged by Tuesday.

Firefighters from the Charlevoix Township, and a short time later City of Charlevoix fire departments were called to Featherly's Auto and Truck Service and Repair at 6522 U.S. 31 South at about 5:26 p.m. to a report of the building being on fire.

Firefighters arrived to find heavy smoke coming from the eaves and garage bay doors in the front portion of the building.

Charlevoix Township Fire Chief Curt Thompson said no one was at the building at the time of the incident and no one was injured in fighting the fire.

Thompson was not sure who called the fire in, but said the owner of the business, Ken Featherly, reported that he had closed up for the day as usual and left the building around 5 p.m.

Authorities slowed traffic on U.S. 31, but did not close the road.

Called in for mutual aid, City of Charlevoix fire crews put the department's newly-acquired aerial truck to use for the first time in assisting with fighting the fire.

It took fire crews, using water supplied by a nearby hydrant and tanker trucks, about 45 minutes to get the bulk of the fire under control. He said the steal siding of the building at times made it difficult for firefighters to get at the fire.

Thompson said the fire appears to have started in an unoccupied upstairs apartment in the front portion of the building. He said firefighters were able to limit damage to the front portion of the building where it caused extensive damage to the upstairs apartment, an upstairs storage are and the business office on the main floor. He said the back portion of the building was mostly spared from damage including several vehicles that had been inside the shop.

He said Featherly did have insurance on the building.

Fire crews were on the scene until about 9:30 p.m., Thompson said.

Thompson said he did not know the cause for the fire, but there was nothing immediately suspicious about it. He said crews from his department were expected to return to the scene today, Wednesday, to do some investigation and he expected the insurance company might do some investigation of its own.

Missing Hayes man found safe in garage

Sheriff says Mat Golovich missing voluntarily

Golovich

The search for a missing Hayes Township man ended Wednesday after a Hayes Township resident found him in a garage about 10:30 p.m., Charlevoix County sheriff Don Schneider said.

Schneider said Mat Golovich, 20, who was reported missing by his mother several earlier in the week, was "scratched up from being in the woods" and disoriented when he was found, and he was taken to the hospital.

Schneider said Golovich had been missing voluntarily.

"When someone doesn't want to be found it's sometimes diffiicult to locate them," he said. Adding, "Fortunately he showed up and everything's well.

Sheriff's officials had been seeking the public's help in locating Golovich, had last been seen Sunday, July 8, on Old Horton Bay Road, walking toward Boyne City, according to a missing person flier.

Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office Det./Lt. Mike Wheat said the information and description on the flier — which was posted on the News-Review's Facebook page — was the best the office could provide at that time.

The flier also indicated that Golovich takes medication and that without it he may seem confused or disoriented.

County board OKs federal trail grant application

Boyne City-Charlevoix Recreational Trail funding remains pending

SHERI MCWHIRTER
Northern Michigan Review

SHERI MCWHIRTER/NEWS-REVIEW

Charlevoix County parks and recreation manager Ross Maxwell (front right) speaks Wednesday to county commissioners about a pending application for a federal grant to help build a planned non-motorized recreational trail alongside Boyne City-Charlevoix Road.

Charlevoix County commissioners approved a federal transportation enhancement grant application to be submitted for the eventual construction of a non-motorized recreational trail alongside Boyne City-Charlevoix Road.

Commissioners decided Wednesday morning in a 5-1 vote to allow the Charlevoix County Road Commission to submit the grant application for the county parks and recreation project, a multi-million-dollar effort planned in multiple phases. Commissioner Rich Gillespie, of Beaver Island, cast the sole dissenting vote and said it's because complete details are not available.

"Too much confusion — no," Gillespie said during the vote.

Recent projected costs for the trail's second phase came in double initial estimated figures, but the Charlevoix County Community Foundation quickly pledged $250,000 toward the needed $350,000 match money for the requested federal grant. Early estimates put the costs around $1.5 million, but now anticipated construction expenses are nearly $3 million.

Commissioner Shirlene Tripp, of Hayes Township, who sits on the county parks and recreation committee, explained that the increased costs are largely because the original plan did not call for the trail to go so close to Lake Charlevoix's Oyster Bay. Now that the route does, a more expensive boardwalk must be installed through a marshy area there, she said.

The section of the planned trail in question will run about six miles from U.S. 31 to the old Camp Sea Gull, a couple of miles west of Horton Bay.

In the end, county commissioners agreed to handle the donated match money for the project in terms of accounting, but made clear county coffers will not be obligated to cover any shortfall in fundraising. Other stipulations include that the road commission won't be obligated to spend anything from its budget, but will have a say-so on the project's engineering firm.

Finally, parks and recreation volunteers must collect approval signatures from property owners impacted by the trail, should its placement venture outside the highway right-of-way and onto their private land.

Meanwhile, trail proponents must raise an additional $100,000 toward the trail's second phase. A benefit fish fry is already set for 5-8 p.m. on Friday, July 20, at the Eagles hall, 106 River St. in Boyne City.

FISH FRY FUNDRAISER

A Boyne City-Charlevoix Recreational Trail fish fry fundraiser is set for 5-8 p.m. Friday, July 20, at the Eagles hall, 106 River St. in Boyne City. Call (231) 582-6222 for more Information.

Commissioner Chris Christensen, of Boyne City, asked Maxwell if he in recent weeks explored alternative options that might reduce the trail's construction costs, as suggested by the board at its last meeting. For example, perhaps the trail's route could be retooled to avoid the need for an expensive boardwalk, Christensen said.

"We will look at that and every other alternative," Maxwell answered, but he said the grant application is progressing with the existing phase two plan — at least for now.

Also, Maxwell said he intends to pursue other grant options for the trail, but commissioners agreed by consensus that any additional grant applications should come back before the full board for consideration.

Call the Boyne Area Chamber of Commerce at (231) 582-6222 for more information about the coming trail construction fundraiser.

Coast Guard rescues boaters near Big Rock Point

U.S. Coast Guard crews from Station Charlevoix rescued two people early Wednesday morning after their 22-foot recreational vessel ran aground and started taking on water in Lake Michigan near Big Rock Point.

Coast Guard officials were not releasing the names or hometowns of the people rescued.

According to a Coast Guard news release, search-and-rescue coordinator from U.S. Coast Guard Sector Sault Ste. Marie, received a distress report over VHF-FM channel 16 at 1:40 a.m. Wednesday from a person aboard a recreational vessel, reporting the vessel had run around and was taking on water at Big Rock Point in Little Traverse Bay, about five miles northeast of Charlevoix.

A Coast Guard Station Charlevoix rescue boatcrew launched aboard a 41-foot utility boat.

Sector Sault Ste. Marie watchstanders issued an urgent marine information broadcast over VHF-FM channel 16, the international hailing and distress frequency, to notify other response agencies and nearby mariners and request they assist if possible.

The Station Charlevoix rescue crew was able to continue communications with the people aboard the vessel taking on water over the marine radio.

The rescue boatcrew arrived on scene within 20 minutes. The 22-foot vessel had reportedly suffered a 6-inch crack in the hull when it ran aground, and water began leaking into the bilge.

"The people on the boat activated the bilge pumps, which kept the water levels low enough for us to be able to safely tow the vessel," said Petty Officer 1st Class Klaus Eisbrenner, coxswain, or operator, of the rescue boat.

The vessel was towed to Ferry Beach Boat Ramp in Charlevoix, where it was safely removed from the water.

"The people on the boat did the right thing by broadcasting a distress call over the marine radio," said Eisbrenner. "A broadcast over channel 16 not only alerts the Coast Guard but other response agencies and other boaters who can help."

The Coast Guard recommends all boaters carry a VHF-FM marine radio because it is much more reliable in the marine environment and can work in areas where cell phones sometimes do not.

BEAVER ISLAND

Man injured in Beaver Island moped crash

A downstate man was injured when the moped he was riding collided with a car on Beaver Island recently.

Charlevoix County Sheriff's office officials identified the man as John Shoemaker age 71 of Harrison Township. Police said he was transported to the Beaver Island Rural Health Center with leg and hip pain. He was then transported off Beaver Island by Life Flight with non-life threatening injuries.

Deputies said the crash happened shortly after 2 p.m. on July 5, on Donegal Bay Road near Indian Point Road.

Authorities said Shoemakers was traveling west on Donegal Bay Road on a Honda moped when he rounded a sharp curve and went into oncoming traffic. The moped then struck an eastbound Toyota Avalon driven by a Joshua Broder, age 55, from New York.

Deputies said Shoemaker was not wearing a helmet and alcohol was not a factor in the crash.

EAST JORDAN

East Jordan to host administrator forum

The East Jordan City Commission will host a public presentation at the East Jordan Community Auditorium (East Jordan High School) from 5:30-6:45 p.m. on Wednesday, July 18, 2012.

During the event, the four candidates who are interviewing for the position of city administrator will each make a 10 minute presentation answering: "Under your management of the City of East Jordan, what do you see in East Jordan's future?"

Audience members will be asked to complete an assessment form following each presentation in order for city commissioners to better understand how the community perceives each candidate.

For more information, contact city clerk Cheltzi Wilson at (231) 536-3381.

Transportation officials:

Be aware of campaign sign rules

The Michigan Department of Transportation is reminding political candidates and property owners that political signs must conform to state regulations for placement.

"We want to create an environment that's as safe as possible for motorists and pedestrians. Every year, some political signs are placed too close to the roadway and block the view of motorists," said State Transportation Director Kirk T. Steudle. "Signs with steel or wooden posts that do not meet MDOT safety standards are not allowed in the right of way."

Officials said signs must be placed more than 30 feet from the edge of the roadway (or from the white line along the edge on highways) without barrier-type curbs. On highways that do have barrier curbs, the signs must be more than 3 feet from the back of the curb. Signs are not allowed within clear vision areas at intersections or commercial driveways, or within limited access rights of way. Campaign signs that do not meet these criteria will be removed.

Candidates are responsible for obtaining approval from adjacent property owners before placing signs. Signs must be removed within 10 days after the election.

For more information on campaign sign placement standards, visit the MDOT Web site at www.michigan.gov/mdot/0,1607,7-151-42456-147773--F,00.html.

Don't let unemployment get you down

A LOOK AT LIFE

Gayle Gennett

So you've lost your job and are a few years away from collecting social security or you have voluntarily retired earlier than you had planned. Then this article may be for you.

Lately I have been seeing more individuals who are 60 and older who have either lost a job due to fiscal cutbacks or have voluntarily retired but have no plan on what to do next.

In both scenario's there is a sense of abandonment and grief, leading to anxiety and depression. Now is the time to pull up those boot straps and make plans for your undefined future. I remind myself in situations like this that "life does happen while you are planning something else." But life does go on, and the world doesn't stop because you are no longer a member of the workforce. When we let our jobs define us this can even become more difficult. This is when it's important to reflect on what you do have and not what you don't have. Take stock of what's around you including family, friends, health, home, and prioritize what you need and what you want the remaining years of your life to look or feel like. It might mean downsizing your home or selling your vehicle or sharing your home with family members or even finding roommates.

You might become angered by someone saying something else better will come along but sometimes it does. When we stop worrying, it becomes easier to think clearer. We may come to the realization of what's important to us personally and then begin taking steps to be in a better situation. Never be ashamed to say you lost your job or are unhappy about retiring sooner than you planned. Talking about what you want may fall on a listening ear that can help.

For those of you out of work, rewrite that resume and tell others your desire to work. For those who feel no longer needed because work was your life and kids are grown or maybe you don't have children, then it's time to reflect on the things you enjoyed in youth and try to recreate some of that joy. Maybe it's a desire to help others or plant a garden or work part-time. One thing that helps is contact with others, so you feel connected. It feels good to be able to share conversation and be open about your situation.

Sometimes I will hear someone say, "Why is this happening to me?" Realize it's not just you but many others have had similar situations and you aren't aware of who in your own community or circle have had similar experiences. Though it may feel like your world is falling in around your ears, it feels that way because you are choosing to react rather than act. Action that moves in a positive direction will move you where you want to be.

For those who have lost a job, stay in touch with the unemployment office and by talking you may find out about a job that's not posted. Shift your emphasis away from age and focus on your skills and what experience you can offer. Looking for work is difficult and frustrating but during this time stay in touch with family and friends for support and realize you may need to take on a job that is not what you perceived yourself doing. For those of you retired and facing a sense of loss or emptiness, realize that your skills are needed in so many places. Look into volunteering at your church, hospital, library and schools, nursing homes and recreational facilities. No matter what your situation, remember you are a valuable person and have much to offer to many when given the opportunity. We are living in a time that reminds me of what my parents and grandparents went through. It helps to take stock in what you have and what you can do to help others. Remember, if your life is pretty good, take a look at helping and understanding someone else's whose life didn't go as they had planned. If you have more than you need, then share your wealth and if you have little, then share your heart.

Thanks offered for ongoing support for fourth grade trip

Editor

The students and parents of the class of 2020 would like to once again thank the community for their generous support of the Charlevoix Elementary School Fourth-Grade Beaver Island trip. Approximately 80 students and chaperones traveled to historic Beaver Island to learn its amazing history and view the gorgeous sights. Specifically, we would like to thank the following organizations: The Charlevoix Schools Foundation, Charlevoix Elks Lodge, the Rotary Club of Charlevoix, the Charlevoix Lions Club and Telgenhof & Snyder. Thank you for your support in continuing this great Charlevoix tradition!

Halverson for new direction in county government

I wish to express my support for the candidacy of Dennis Halverson for county commissioner for the new county district of Charlevoix city and Charlevoix Township.

Dennis has been an integral and well-respected member of our community for many years and has served in the public eye as police chief, school board president, Lions Club member, Knights of Columbus member.

He has been an active supporter of Charlevoix Schools, St. Mary's Parish School, and Northwest Academy.

He is now operations manager for the Char-Em ISD.

Dennis believes in growing the economic opportunities in the county, is a strong advocate and supporter of the Little Traverse Wheelway and the Charlevoix-Boyne City Bike Route-both presenting untapped tourism dollars.

Most importantly, Dennis will be a hard worker for unifying the county governmental departments into a cohesive and productive body with the longer term goal of developing a manager-centered administration.

Please join me in voting Aug. 7 in the Primary election and cast your vote for new ideas and new direction — Dennis Halverson.

Public to again decide Ventian Vision movie

The community will again have the opportunity to decide which among four choices will be shown for the Venetian Vision featured movie during this year's Venetian Festival. The movie will be shown on a large screen at the Odmark Performance Pavilion at 9:15 p.m.

Voting will take place both on the Charlevoix Courier's website www.charlevoixcourier.com and the Downtown Development Authority's Facebook page at www.facebook/DowntownCharlevoix.

The four choices for this year's Venetian Vision movie presentation are:

- Grease (rated PG)
- Tangled (rated PG)
- Top Gun (rated PG)
- Willy Wonka and the Chocolate Factory (rated G

Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority Director Keith Carey noted that although none of the movies are rated higher than "PG" (Parental guidance suggested), he noted that a few of the choices might have some content that may not be suitable for all ages.

Voting for the movie will close at 8 a.m. on Thursday July 19 and the results will be reported in next week's Charlevoix Courier and on the authority's Facebook page.

Watershed council to host Lake Charlevoix sunset cruise

The Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council invites the public to a sunset cruise on Lake Charlevoix on Wednesday, July 25.

The two-hour cruise will begin boarding at 6:30 p.m and depart promptly at 7 p.m. from the city marina dock, next to the Beaver Island Ferry Dock in Charlevoix. Guests will enjoy an informative sunset cruise aboard the Keweenaw Star, a 110 feet passenger vessel complete with an air conditioned seating area and an upper open-air deck, all offering fantastic views of Lake Charlevoix. Midway through the cruise the vessel will anchor giving guests the opportunity to talk with the Watershed Council's policy staff about issues and invasive species that affect the Lake Charlevoix watershed and experience various water quality monitoring demonstrations. A full cash bar and complimentary snacks will be available.

Tickets for this event are $30 for watershed council members and $35 for non-members. Pre-registration is required. Seating is limited and early registration is encouraged. To register, contact Sandy by phone (231)- 347-1181 or email sandy@watershedcouncil.org.

Proceeds from this event will help fund the watershed council's mission to protect the area's lakes, streams, wetlands, and groundwater through respected advocacy, innovative education, technically sound water quality monitoring and thorough research and restoration actions locally, regionally and throughout the Great Lakes basin.

This event is part of the watershed council's Wednesday on the Water (WOW) Adventure Series. To see other upcoming tours being offered this summer, visit www.watershedcouncil.org/events.

A Lineup of Investment Moves Worth Considering

This week, Major League Baseball's All-Star Game was played in Kansas City. Whether you were rooting for the American or National League, you no doubt admired the ability and athleticism exhibited by these tremendous ballplayers. Of course, any all-star team is made up of players who bring different talents to the game. And this same approach — of combining a collection of skills toward one common effort — can be found in other endeavors, one of which is investing.

Here, then, is one possible lineup of investment moves to consider.

- Diversify. All investments have both benefits and risks. As an investor, your goal is to help maximize the benefits and minimize the risks — and one of the best ways to do this is by diversifying your money across a range of assets. Diversifying can help you reduce the impact of market volatility that might affect your portfolio if all your money was tied up in one particular asset class, and that asset went through a "down" period. Keep in mind, though, that diversification, by itself, cannot guarantee profits or protect against loss.
- Rebalance. Even without your taking significant actions, your portfolio can evolve in ways that may not be to your liking. For example, if some of your more aggressive investments appreciate greatly, they may eventually constitute a larger percentage of your holdings than you had planned — and in doing so, elevate your overall risk level. To prevent this from happening, you should meet with your financial advisor periodically to "rebalance" your portfolio.
- Seek quality. Many people latch onto "hot" investments, only to be disappointed when they "cool off." Instead seek quality vehicles — the ones that generally lose the least ground when the market is down and recover more quickly when the market rallies. When you invest in stocks, for instance, look for those companies that have strong management teams, competitive products and good business models. When you purchase bonds, look for those with high ratings from the independent rating agencies.
- Stay invested. It's tempting to "take a breather" from investing when the financial markets are volatile. But if you stay on the investment sidelines, you may miss out on the beginning of the next market rally. If you've built a diversified portfolio of quality vehicles, it may be easier to stay invested.
- Know your risk tolerance. If you find yourself constantly fretting about the market's ups and downs, to the extent that your worries are affecting the quality of your life, you may have a portfolio that's unsuited to your risk tolerance. Conversely, if you're dissatisfied with the growth of your investments, you may be investing too cautiously, which could be a concern when you're striving to reach long-term goals, such as a comfortable retirement. Ultimately, there's no one "right" way for everyone to invest, but you do need to match your portfolio's composition with your individual risk tolerance and time horizon.

Your financial advisor can help your find the "lineup" of investment moves that is right for you. Put it to work soon.

LOCAL Highlights

Boyne Thunder roars through this weekend

EMILY WHITE
Northern Michigan Review

High-powered boat motors will roar through Lake Charlevoix Friday and Saturday, July 13-14, at the ninth annual Boyne Thunder Poker Run based in Boyne City.

This year's event includes more than 65 high performance boats, which sets a record at 20 more boats than ever before. The race takes boaters on a 90-mile excursion through Lake Charlevoix and Lake Michigan.

Participants will be cruising for a cause as the poker run is a fundraising event for Camp Quality, a nonprofit organization that establishes interactive environments for children with cancer.

Camp Quality has its headquarters in Boyne City, and previously hosted its camps at Camp Daggett.

Beginning 6-8 p.m. on Friday, July 13, a boaters dinner will be at Veterans Park pavilion. Items will be displayed at 6 p.m. for a Camp Quality benefit auction, which is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. That same evening from 6-9 p.m. during Stroll the Streets, boat and car enthusiasts will find a variety of Boyne Thunder boats and classic cars in downtown Boyne City.

The Poker Run begins at 9:30 a.m. on Saturday, July 14, at the Boyne City Marina. Boaters will be divided into two groups and sent off in heats. Rumbling motors will make their way around the harbor in a boat parade style before heading up Lake Charlevoix toward the open waters of Lake Michigan. On average, the power boats will cruise at 55 mph on the inland lake and anywhere from 60-90 mph on Lake Michigan.

Lake Michigan card stops include heading south to Northport and Elk Rapids and then back to Charlevoix for a lunch stop. After lunch, the participants will head back to the open waters of Lake Michigan to Bay Harbor and Harbor Springs before heading back to Lake Charlevoix. The boaters will wrap up the day with a final stop in Horton Bay and are scheduled to finish between 3-3:30 p.m. at Sommerset Pointe Yacht Club and Marina in Boyne City.

"As a boater myself, I think the event combines a love of boating and being on the water with a sense of accomplishment after taking part in a fundraiser for a great cause. We enjoy helping families make it through something that no one should have to struggle through while doing something we love," said Bob Alger, Boyne Thunder committee member.

Beginning at 11:30 a.m. Saturday, families, friends and visitors are invited aboard a champagne cruise on yachts donated for the day by area boat owners. Once aboard, participants will be served beverages and hors d'oeuvres as they cruise Lake Charlevoix, where they can view the action from the water. The yachts will then make their way to the fifth and final poker run stop where they will raft up and watch as the participants receive their final card. Tickets for the champagne cruise are $75 and can be reserved by calling the Boyne Area Chamber of Commerce at (231) 582-6222.

Beginning at 2:30 p.m. Saturday at Sommerset Pointe, there will be a reception. Admission price is $10 at the door. Once they arrive, the participants will turn in their hand of cards, and the best poker hand will win. Concluding the evening and the event, a barbecue will begin at 7 p.m. in Veterans Park in downtown Boyne City. The dinner is open to the public; however, tickets must be purchased for $35 at the Boyne Area Chamber of Commerce located at 28 S. Lake St.

Troop seeking Eagle Scouts for Venetian parade

Charlevoix Boy Scout Troop 11 is inviting all current and former Boy Scouts who have earned the Eagle Scout rank to join them in celebrating 100 years of the Eagle rank by marching in the Charlevoix Venetian Parade on Saturday, July 28.

The troop is inviting all Eagle Scouts to join them at 10:30 a.m. the parade assembly area on May Street, just East of the Charlevoix Middle School. Wearing any Scout uniform would be preferred, but is not required.

For more information should call Scoutmaster, Bryan Lindfors at (231) 547-2121.

Zonta awards scholarship

Kayla Johnson, a 2012 graduate of Boyne City High School, was recently named the winner of this year's Mary Feindt Memorial Scholarship.

The Mary Feindt Memorial Scholarship is awarded to a female high school senior who plans to pursue a math or science-related major in college. The scholarship recipient is chosen based on financial need and her involvement and interest in the math and/or science fields, excluding the medical field.

Charlevoix Area Zonta officials said Kayla was chosen as the winner because she best exemplified the spirit of and requisites for the scholarship.

She will be attending Western Michigan University in the fall to pursue a math-related field. She has taken advanced courses, including AP calculus and physics and took dual enrollment for English. She has also tutored students in math and was involved with cheerleading, band, student council, PRIDE Team, FIRST robotics, color guard, drama and softball.

Zonta is a worldwide service organization of executives in business and the professions working together to advance the status of women. The Mary Feindt Award is one of the many programs for young women sponsored by Charlevoix Area Zonta. Applications for next year's award will be available from Charlevoix Area Zonta in early spring, 2013.

DEATH NOTICE

John Patrick 'Jack' Apol, 71

John Patrick "Jack" Apol, 71, of Charlevoix, died Sunday, July 1, 2012, at McLaren Northern Michigan in Petoskey. A memorial service took place at 4:30 p.m., Wednesday, July 11, at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix. The Rev. Bob Hegdal officiated.

Second Adopt-A-Highway pickup begins July 14

Nearly 3,200 volunteer groups will clean up litter along more than 7,200 miles of Michigan highway as the year's second Adopt-A-Highway pickup gets underway July 14. The pickup will run through July 22, and follows an April cleanup. Adopt-A-Highway, a Michigan Department of Transportation program, began in 1990.

"Volunteers in the Adopt-A-Highway program perform a tremendous public service," said State Transportation Director Kirk T. Steudle. "They take great pride in their communities, and help MDOT concentrate its limited resources on repairing roads and bridges."

State officials said in 2011, Adopt-A-Highway volunteers collected more than 75,000 bags of trash, saving taxpayers $1.5 million in cleanup costs. The volunteers include members of various civic groups, businesses and families. Crew members have to be at least 12 years old, and each group must number at least three people.

Sections of highway are still available for adoption. Interested groups should check the MDOT Web page at www.michigan.gov/adoptahighway for more information and the name of their county's coordinator, who can specify available roadsides. Groups are asked to adopt a highway section for at least two years. There is no fee to participate. Adopt-A-Highway signs bearing a group's name are posted along the portion of adopted highway.

MDOT reminds motorists that littering is a violation of state law. Additionally, a person who tosses litter that hits or falls into the path of another vehicle on a highway is guilty of a misdemeanor, punishable by up to one year in jail or a fine up to $500, or both.

This year's final Adopt-A-Highway pickup will be Sept. 22 to 30.

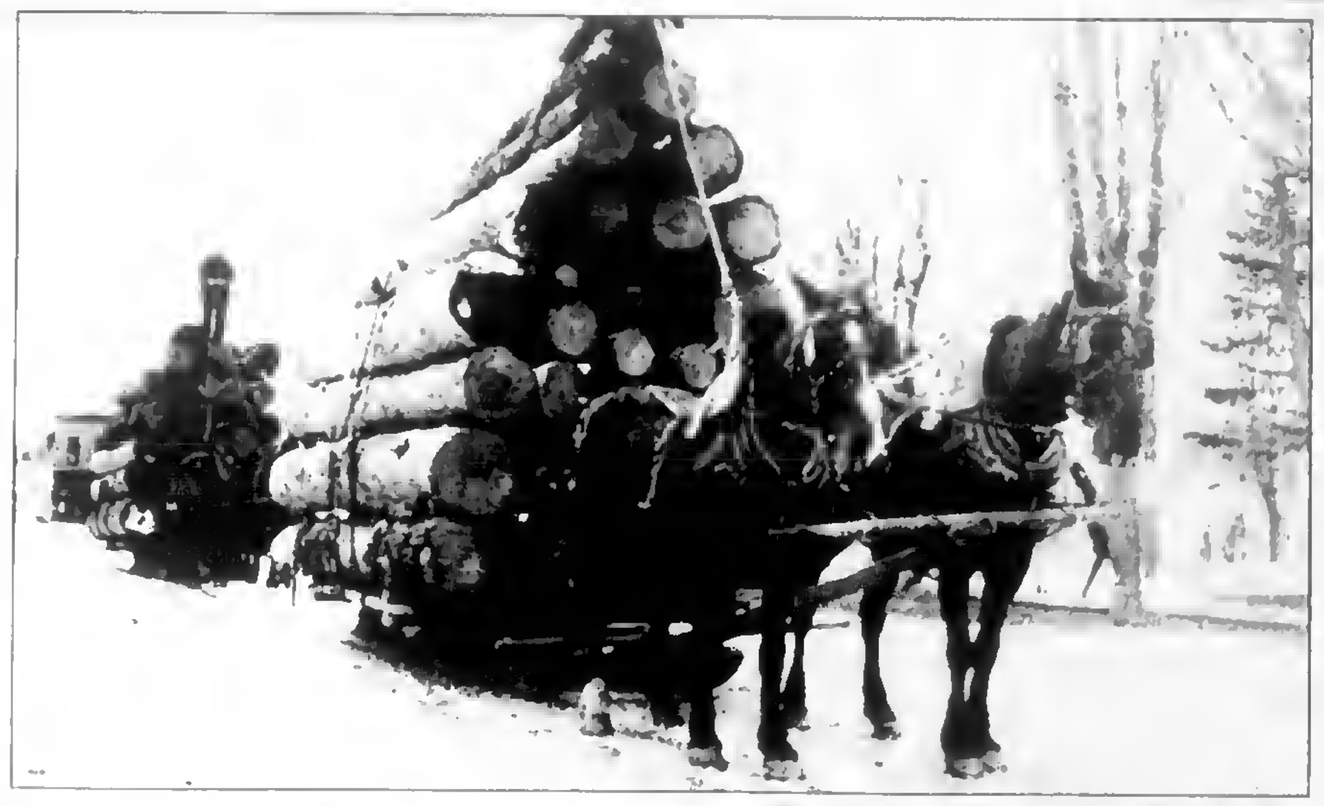
Bridging our past with our future

LOOKING BACK…



COURTESY PHOTO/CHARLEVOIX HISTORICAL SOCIETY

A lumber mill was established on the northeast side of the channel bridge in 1868. At first, logs were floated to it up Lake Charlevoix through Round Lake in the warmer seasons, or by horse-drawn sledges over the rough terrain on the north side of Lake Charlevoix in the winter months when the lakes were frozen. After a more substantial bridge was installed in 1878, the third one over the channel, wintertime logs began to arrive from lumber camps to the south also. They were delivered via State Street, shown here between Mason and Clinton, turned right onto Main Street, now Park Avenue, turned left onto Bridge Street, crossed the channel, went up to East Dixon, turned right, then turned right again onto lumber company property. At the crest of the bluff they dumped their loads onto huge log piles called "rollways" that extended down to the Round Lake shore. This log delivery method lasted until about 1915 when the exhausted lumber industry crashed. (The photo was taken by Earl Young, Charlevoix's famed builder in stone.)

Lake Charlevoix marina to be overhauled

Hemingway Pointe Marina set for renovation, not expansion

SHERI MCWHIRTER
Northern Michigan Review

The 62-slip Hemingway Pointe Marina will be overhauled next year, if approved by state and federal authorities.

This week the Charlevoix County Planning Commission was expected to discuss the planned improvements to the existing marina off of Hemingway Pointe Club Road, northwest from Sanderson Road in Eveline Township. The private property owners association intends to complete the approximately $1 million upgrade by the end of May 2014.

"Our marina is 26 or 27 years old now. It's suffered deterioration from typical weathering," said Bill Mayes, a marina slip owner who represents the collective group.

Some of the wooden boardwalks are warped or distorted, he said.

The work will involve removing the existing 31 floating finger piers, about 650 feet of sheeting piling and the boardwalk the piling supports. New piling will be installed, along with an eight-foot-wide boardwalk with utilities. Other sections of sheet pile will be replaced, as well.

Workers will have to regrade the slope and add 150 cubic yards of rip-rap as part of the sheet piling removal process. No dredging or filling is proposed as part of the project, documents show.

The project will not expand the capacity, nor the footprint of the existing marina.

Workers are expected to use the existing rip-rap area and potentially a barge to complete the job. The work will require a crane or excavator with vibratory hammer, along with a diesel or air hammer.

Hemingway Pointe applied last month to both the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers for permits needed to complete the marina work. No permits have yet been issued, pending site visits, officials said.

The renovation and replacement project will begin in the fall next year, if approved, Mayes said.

Designs were made by Northwest Design Group Inc. in Petoskey.

The planning commission will meet at 7 p.m. Thursday, July 12, at Marion Township Hall, 03735 Marion Center Road, Charlevoix. Call (231) 547-7234 for more information.

20th Street Legends car show set for July 20-21

Bridge Street and East Park in Charlevoix will be packed with vintage cars during the 20th annual Charlevoix Street Legends car show set for Friday and Saturday, July 20-21.

Friday night will feature the downtown cruise-in during which all the cars will be coming in and parking on the street to be on display. From 6-10 p.m. the Dominic Fortuna Rock 'n' Rolla Band will perform in the Odmark Performance Pavilion downtown in East Park.

On Saturday, starting at 9 a.m., classic cars in the show will line the East side of Bridge Street and fill all of East Park. In recent years show organizers have run out of room in East Park and some cars have been on display on Mason Street as well.

Registration for the show takes place from 9 a.m.-noon on Saturday. Goody bags and dash plaques will be given out to the first 150 cars. Music, door prizes, 50/50 drawings and limbo and hula hoop contests will take place from 10 a.m.-noon throughout the downtown area. A silent auction will also take place from 10 a.m.-noon.

Jake Slater, an Elvis tribute artist, will perform from noon-3 p.m. at the performance pavilion in East Park.

The Charlevoix Street Legends awards ceremony will take place at 3 p.m. Awards will be presented for 32 categories. A drawing for cash prizes for $500, $300 and $200 will also take place. These will be given out to the participants of the event who put their name in a drawing and are present for the awards ceremony.

All car show proceeds go to benefit local charities. Since the show's inception, the Street Legends have donated more than $110,000 back to the community. Organizations and funds the Charlevoix Street Legends have supported through the show proceeds include: Camp Quality, high school scholarships, Benevolance Fund, Boulder Park Terrace, Camp Daggett, Camp McSauba, Charlevoix Area Hospital, Charlevoix Fire Department, Charlevoix Historical Society, Charlevoix Public Library, Charlevoix Senior Center, Colorado Challenge, Cub Scouts, food pantries, Hospice of Northwest Michigan, Charlevoix Area Humane Society, Rainbow Shoppe an the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office Auxillary.

The entry fee is $15 in advance and $20 on the day of the show. For more information about the Charlevoix Street Legends, visit www.streetlegends.net.

The next Exhibit at the Circle of Arts:
"A MOMENT IN TIME"
Opening Reception: July 20 • 6-8 pm
An all media exhibit open from July 20 and run through August 26

"A MOMENT IN TIME" is as fleeting as fireworks, a sunset or a rainbow. It can capture the winner of a horse race or a baby's first taste of ice cream. It can depict a dancer in motion or a group of friends enjoying a picnic. It may be bird in flight or leaves blowing in a storm. A photographer captures all the moment he looks at it so that we can all enjoy the beauty of our environment, families, sports, the cultural arts and animals.

United Way to benefit from auction

"Blue Jay and Oak Tree," a sculpture created by noted Charlevoix artist, Norman Brumm, is being sold to benefit Char-Em United Way's new Imagination Library project.

"We are grateful to Huntington Bank which donated the sculpture to help support this new initiative of United Way," Char-Em United Way Vice President Dee Vincent said. "Dolly Parton's Imagination Library provides free books for local children from birth to age 5. We are excited about starting this program in Charlevoix and Emmet Counties."

This wall-mounted sculpture is hand-crafted of copper enamel leaves mounted on reclaimed wood and contains three of Norman Brumm's signature birds. It measures 6'10" wide and 3' tall, and projects about 18" from the wall. Circa 1990, the work is valued at a minimum of $10,000. Brumm's original work is much sought after by collectors throughout the U.S., organization officials said.

"Blue Jay and Oak Tree" will be on display through July at the Charlevoix Public Library. The auction is expected to conclude in August with an event at Sage, in the Odawa Casino.

Bids can be placed by phone at (231) 487-1006 or online: http://www.charemunitedway.org/news/benefit-art-sale

Additional photos are available on the website and the current high bid will be posted. A $4,000 opening bid has been placed.

"We would also like to thank the crew at Harbor Industries which constructed a display for the piece, R. Hunter Photography who provided the images for the flyer and our website, and to Bier Art Gallery for appraisal and assistance with the auction," Vincent added. "The piece would be perfect for a large home or business setting. We are also hoping that a generous donor might purchase it for permanent display in the library."

For more information about the piece, the Imagination Library, or to place a bid, contact United Way at (231) 487-1006.

Organizers note that the purchasers will be responsible for moving and transporting the piece.

Access program helps students excel

RACHEL BROUGHAM
Northern Michigan Review

They are new programs that allow local students an opportunity to advance their skills, while at the same time, helps to build a community legacy.

Through several local partnerships, the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District created a Local College Access Network, commonly known as LCAN.

The LCAN is one of 40 networks across Michigan that works to build a college-bound culture and increases college attendance and completion rates within the community.

"This really sets the hook and makes students want to further their education," said Jim Rummer, director of career and technical education for Charlevoix Emmet Intermediate School District.

"This will increase the number of Michigan residents with a college degree or high level certificate," Rummer added.

Rummer

James Cooper, early college coordinator for the district calls the program, "cradle to career."

"Every child deserves a chance, but every kid also deserves a chance to fail," Cooper said. "Many will fail if we don't give them a chance."

Through partnerships, students within the Char-Em intermediate district can take advantage of the Early College program, which allows students to take part in college courses while still in high school. The program currently has partnerships with three post secondary institutions — Baker College, Ferris State University and North Central Michigan College. These college level courses are taught in the high schools by high school teachers who are credentialed by the colleges as adjunct instructors.

And there's financial help.

Agreements are currently in place to provide a significantly reduced tuition fees for the courses. For example, tuition for a three-credit course costs the district about $75 per class, which is a 68-90 percent savings, depending on the post secondary partner.

In addition to the Early College program, the district has created partnerships with community leaders and businesses for on the job training for students. With aging workforce issues and a lack of eligible employees to backfill jobs, many local manufacturers are facing staffing issues.

By working with local businesses, Char-Em intermediate district now offers a certificate program that is built around the needs local businesses have identified as most critical to retention, training and recruitment of personnel to meet their company's goals.

"We believe that businesses will look at this program and want to come here," Rummer said.

Rummer added that already, local businesses are coming to them with vacancies to fill. And it's all about meeting their needs of the region.

"Our passion is kids and helping them succeed," Rummer said. "We're thinking about the money they can save and keeping them here where the jobs are. Where this could go is incredible and the idea that we're building a community legacy is incredible."

"We're putting kids in a really good position to get these jobs that are already available," Cooper added.

Scout pride

Community service a top priority for scouts

Charlevoix Girl Scout Troop #10253 has made community service a priority during this past scout year.

In the 2011-2012 year, the girls donated food for Thanksgiving dinners to the food pantry, Christmas caroling at Boulder Park and Stonebank, petunia planting and most recently the donation of a basket of goodies for the Charlevoix Area Hospital pediatric ward.

The basket contained toys, games, puzzles, books, crayons, pencils, coloring books and an array of items that can be used and re-used for the children who will spend time in the hospital.

Girls in kindergarten through 12th grade can join girl scouting at any time during the year, organizers said. Girl Scouting is a great way for girls to build courage, confidence, life skills and make lifelong friendships.

Pool fundraising auction set for Aug. 5

'Tour de Charlevoix' to be this year's theme

Plans for the 23rd annual Charlevoix Area Community Pool Auction benefit event are well underway.

The theme for this year's event will be "Tour de Charlevoix" and organizers are hoping members of the community will join in for a evening of dining, dancing and premium auction items in celebration of Charlevoix's French heritage.

Guests will arrive in French café attire to listen to the sounds of Hipps n' Ricco and witness the talent of speed painter, Linda Boss, while enjoying delectable hors d'oeuvres prepared by Grey Gables.

The event will take place on Sunday, Aug. 5, at Castle Farms, offering a quaint atmosphere with French flare. Beginning at 5 p.m. guests will enjoy a social hour with dinner served at 7 p.m. followed by the live auction at 8 p.m. The cost to attend the event is $50 per person and all proceeds will benefit the Charlevoix Area Community Pool.

Organizers said they are "planning for the best event in our 23 year history" including auction items such as a two-night stay at Mackinac Island's Grand Hotel; a one-week stay at La Mer Guest Hotel, Key West, Fla.; a romantic cruise for two on the Keweenaw Star; dinner for six at the Weathervane and much, more – more than 200 items in all.

Auction items are still being accepted for the event. Anyone interested in contributing items to be auctioned off in the event should contact Megan Wuerth at (231) 547-0982. Reservations for the event may also be made by calling the same number.

The Charlevoix Area Community Pool is a 501 (C)3 non-profit organization which provides an environment that promotes fun, fitness and safety in and around the water. From the young swimmers who compete on the Stingray Swim Team to the adults who participate in various water fitness programs, the pool is a offers programs for all ages.

Pool officials said, "The vision of the pool is to remain a vital link in our community's health, safety and recreation by providing programs that meet the changing needs of area children and adults through a safe, professionally managed aquatic facility that is accessible to all."

To learn more about what your community pool has to offer, visit www.charlevoix-pool.org or call (231) 547-0982.

VENETIAN BURGEE CLUB

As the season in Charlevoix draws ever so near, so too does the 82nd Annual Charlevoix Venetian Festival. Our Venetian homecoming celebration and its amazing array of activities has become a fabric of life in Charlevoix, thanks in great measure to the Venetian Burgee Club, whose ranks consist of those individuals, businesses and organizations who faithfully and generously contribute funds, goods and services to Venetian. Please join us in thanking the members of the 2011 Venetian Burgee Club.

If you or any of your friends or family have ever enjoyed any Venetian activities, please consider the fact that all of the major events and entertainment of Venetian are absolutely free. Yet it still costs the Venetian volunteer organization upwards of $250,000.00 to stage the premier festival. Which is why your help is needed to maintain the quality entertainment and activities of Venetian.

This year's Festival, which will take place from July 21, 2012 through July 28, 2012, will again be shaped by your donations. Please don't look away when it is time to contribute, and otherwise take this opportunity to enlist and/or re-enlist in the Burgee Club, by forwarding your 2012 donation with the Enrollment Form located below. Best wishes for a summer season filled with the kind and generous spirit of Venetian.

WALK

project were Charlevoix County Geographic Information Services director Brian Kelly, who determined that readers who read all of the stories in one sequential walk will have walked more than 6.25 miles. Distances between the boxes are given on the storywalk map.

She said the stories will be for all age groups and will be changed several times during the months of May-October. Bergmann suggested that an animal mascot be developed for the project that would help with community and visitor awareness.

Bergmann noted that, for now, there is no sequence to the stories so they can be read in any order. She plans to regularly change the reading material in the boxes and said in the future, a sequential story could be used. She is also planning to seek content for the boxes from students at Charlevoix schools. She said a panel made up of representatives from the public library will ensure that the material in the boxes meets criteria for posting.

Bergmann, who is a school consultant, university professor and has authored six books on teaching and learning, said she got the idea from a similar project she saw while visiting Austria two summers ago.

In addition to Kelly's efforts, Bergmann offered thanks to Steve Kantola who designed and built the story boxes; the City of Charlevoix Street Department who designed the box holders and helped place the boxes in the park; Andrew Bergmann, final map design; Dave Miles for the fun facts about Charlevoix; Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority director Keith Carey for continued support; Charlevoix Public Library for help with story selection; and the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce for map design and distribution.

Questions or suggestions about the Children's Story Walk may be sent to Bergmann at rayderberg@aol.com. Donations in support of the project may be sent to the City of Charlevoix: attn. Children's Story Walk.

ALL-AREA SOCCER

Three conference champs earn All-Area Team seats

Three members of the 2012 Lake Michigan Conference Champion Charlevoix Ryader girls varsity soccer team were recently named to the Petoskey News-Review's All-Area Team for the spring 2012 season, while three more members received honorable mention recognition:

Carolena Elowsky, a junior, was noted as a "speedy outside back, partnered with Savannah Joseph in forming and outstanding defensive line." She was named to the All-Lake Michigan Conference team and received Division IV All-State honorable mention recognition as well.

Savannah Joseph, a senior, was noted as a "defensive anchor for the Lake Michigan Conference Champs," who recorded nine shutouts in 11 league wins. She was a two-year captian, and named First Team Division IV All-State.

Anna Way, a junior, was noted as a "center mid (who) organized a potent Rayder attack and took all corner kicks." She had 10 goals, 10 assists for the conference champion Rayders.

Team members earning honorable mention recognition on the All-Area team were Sydney Carlson, Hannah Herboldsheimer, and Bailee Stevens.

All School Reunion set

The fifth annual Charlevoix High School all school reunion will take place at the Weathervane, lower level, on Saturday, July 28. It will begin immediately following the Venetian street parade and last until 3 p.m.

This event is open to all Charlevoix High School alumni and features great opportunities to meet, greet and reconnect with classmates. Yearbooks and memorabilia from different decades will be available to peruse. Snacks, lemonade and iced tea are furnished by the school's alumni association and the Venetian committee. Cocktails may be purchased.

During the past four years, this event has drawn alumni from the classes of 1940-2011. While the reception is free, those wishing to join the alumni association or make a donation may do so at that time. Organizers said each year, attendance has doubled as those visiting from out of town realize what an opportunity this is to see their classmates. The Charlevoix High School Alumni band also will be in attendance after their performance in the Venetian parade.

For questions about this event, contact Sherrel Bergmann at rayderberg@aol.com.

JUNIOR GOLF

Junior Golfers salute the 'munie'

Participants in this years Charlevoix County Junior Golf Program and their families teamed up recently to salute the City of Charlevoix's Charlevoix Golf Club — one of several courses in the area that supports the youth golf program.

In all the fourth annual event drew participation from 42 families for an evening of golf at the "munie."

("Munie" is a nickname among many golfers for a municipal, or publicly-owned golf course.)

Under the format of the outing, Junior Golf Program participants hit until their golf balls reached the greens and then a parent took the first putt, alternating with the junior golfer until they put the ball in the cup.

Program director Dean Davenport said, "The municipal golf course is such a recreational gem to the entire Charlevoix area. It is a reasonably-priced golf experience on a well-maintained and managed course ... The course has made our program to be one of the best in the country because of the manner in which they (city officials) cooperate with us."

During the event, the following junior golfers posted the best putting scores by breaking par when they combined with a parent: Tyler Ostrum, Marcus White, Annie Joy, Blaise Snabes and Spencer Haan.

The 2012 Charlevoix County Junior Golf Program will wrap up its 2012 summer season with two upcoming tournaments slated for the Charlevoix Golf and Country Club and the city's Charlevoix Golf Club.

Softball Highlights

The Charlevoix Little League 9 and 10 year old All Star team is headed to Hillman on Monday to play in a district final tournament after posting a 2-1 record in round robin play on their home field this past week.

On Monday, the Charlevoix squad defeated Houghton Lake 24-1 as Charlevoix's Baby Hang threw a no-hitter. On Tuesday, Charlevoix fell to East Jordan 26-7, and on Wednesday Charlevoix defeated Boyne City 8-0. Baby Hang threw another no-hitter in that game. East Jordan, which went 3-0 in the preliminary round, will also advance to play in Hillman Monday.

Courier Staff Writer

In Charlevoix, the end of July means it's time for a long-standing tradition in the form of the annual Charlevoix Venetian Festival week.

What began 82 years ago as a simple candle-lit boat parade has grown into a week-long flurry of color and pageantry that highlights the summer season and attracts tens of thousands of visitors and also serves as an annual homecoming event for many Charlevoix natives.

The festival offers a wonderful variety of events geared to delight and entertain every age group, festival board president Dan Barron said.

Many of the events take place within waterfront parks, Round Lake harbor and Lake Charlevoix.

"Although there are some new things and a few changes to things we've done before, we have a tried and true formula that works," said Dan Barron, Festival President.

Throughout Venetian Week, bands in East Park will be jumping with a wide variety of music. Herman's Hermits starring Peter Noonean will be featured Friday July 27, as live entertainment following the Venetian Queen Coronation Ceremony.

"This year we will also have three worship bands playing in the East park band Shell," Barron said. The worship bands are provided through a partnership with the Charlevoix Ministerial Association, and will perform on Sunday.

"We've made a small change to the Aquapalooza stage, by reorienting it to allow for those viewing from land to have a much better range," Barron said.

Placing the stage on the sand near the water should allow for a fairer view from all sides, Barron said.

The festival offers plenty of activities for youth and adults alike, including games such as soccer, basketball, running, boarding, sailing, volleyball, swimming, golf, horseshoes and tennis tournaments.

Kid's Day at Lake Michigan Beach also provides a slew of low- and no-cost children's entertainment. Teens are even provided their own music venue at the "Battle of the Bands."

The festival is always looking for help in the form of volunteers, both from

Meet the new superintendent

MORGAN SHERBURNE
Northern Michigan Review

The ink is now dry on the contract: Robert Gendron is now Charlevoix school district's new superintendent

And the new super brings a host of experience to the job.

"I've held every position in the educational field at every building level throughout my career," said Gendron.

That includes not only the position he leaves at Pentwater as K-12 principal and superintendent, but teacher, coach, positions in elementary and adult education, maintenance director, transportation director and athletic director — "and chief bottlewasher," he said. "It's the nature of the beast, it's a one-man show."

Pentwater is a Class D school district in which Gendron wore many hats, and he sees many similarities between Pentwater and Charlevoix.

"Pentwater is almost identical to Charlevoix in so many ways," he said. "It's a resort town right on Lake Michigan. The two mirror each other. Charlevoix is just bigger."

Gendron

Gendron's start in Charlevoix will be a homecoming in another way, too: His parents and grandparents have long owned a place in East Jordan.

"I've had ties to the area since before I was born," he said. "I've been coming ever since I was a kid. I even got chased by swans down in East Jordan where we were swimming."

Though Gendron has worked with the Pentwater district for three years, he has worked in many school districts over his 22-year career, mainly in southwest Michigan. He grew up there, in Hartford, and attended college at Albion College as a football player. From there, he transferred to Western Michigan University, then earned his masters degree at Central Michigan University. Currently, he is working on his educational specialist degree at Grand Valley State University, which will lead to his doctorate.

Gendron has spent half of his career, 11 years, as a teacher and coach, and half as an administrator. He sees communication as the base of a well-executed superintendent position.

"I view this as two things: The real job of the superintendent is based on relationships. In my estimation, you have a team from within and a team from without. You've got the people who are doing the work where the rubber meets the road — the support staff, the bus staff, the janitorial staff and all the teachers, all of those people play a role in the development of those kids," he said. "At the same time it does take a village to raise a child, and we have our team on the outside."

What Gendron means is a significant portion of his job will entail thoroughly engaging the Charlevoix community with the Charlevoix school district.

"(At Pentwater) I developed a key communicators list. I had 100 people I sent an email to, two to three times a week, that included blurbs about what's happening in the school," he said. "We want to make them a part of the school and aware of what's going on ... we exist because of that community. That's one of the pieces that gets neglected."

The new superintendent hopes open communication will breed extra support for the school.

"Let's face it. We're in tough economic times, and we know that we exist because of the support (the community) gives us," said Gendron. "Over the course of the (superintendent position) interview, I spent four days in town just talking to people. People are very proud of their school."

Charlevoix Public School's current financial situation will be an issue Gendron wants to meet head-on.

"One of the struggles is going to be finances, what we do to try to spin this finance thing so we can continue things going right," he said.

He cites Charlevoix's recent listing in the top 25 schools in Michigan by the U.S. News & World Report.

"That doesn't just happen just because. It happens because people are doing their jobs right," he said. "What I will do is help maintain support and move it up to the next level."

Is Lake Charlevoix the 'Best Lake in America?'

Lake among finalists in USA Today voting

USA Today's travel section wants to know whether Lake Charlevoix is the best lake in America.

A contest is under way with the nationwide newspaper to determine which of 16 nominated lakes across the United States is the best in America, though no specific standards are set as part of the online poll. Voting is done by commenting on the USA Today online article, or by sending a tweet to @USATODAYTravel.

Editors from five regional magazines nominated the various lakes in the poll. In addition to Lake Charlevoix, other nominated lakes include: Blue Mountain, Little Tupper and Lower Saranac lakes, all in New York; Rainy Lake, Minn.; Lake of the Ozarks, Mo.; Lake Lure, N.C.; Lake Rabun, Ga.; Lake Martin, Ala.; Suttle Lake, Ore.; Crescent Lake, Wash.; Lake Tahoe in California and Nevada; Moosehead Lake, Maine; Lake Willoughby, Vt.; and Newfound Lake, N.H.

Visit website usat.ly/Ltlmkf to vote in the USA Today online contest. Voting ends on July 27 and USA today will visit the winning lake for a story slated to be published on Aug. 11.

Consumers Energy warns of utility bill payment scam

Consumers Energy is warning its customers to be aware of a nationwide utility-bill payment scam that's made its way to Michigan.

Under the scam, a customer may be contacted in person, through fliers, social media or text messages. The scammers claim that President Obama will pay a person's utility bills through a new federal program.

Customers are asked to provide their Social Security numbers or other personal identifying information in exchange for a bank routing number that will allegedly pay their utility bills. In reality, there is no money, and customers believe they have paid their bills when in fact they have not.

"For your protection, never disclose personal information, including financial account numbers or Social Security numbers, over the phone or Internet to someone you do not know," said Doug Detterman, customer care manager for Consumers Energy.

Customers with questions or concerns that they may have participated in this scam can call Consumers Energy at (800) 477-5050.

More information on this scam, including tips to avoid becoming a victim, is available here: http://www.bbb.org/us/article/president-obama-is-not-offering-to-pay-your-utility-bills-34928

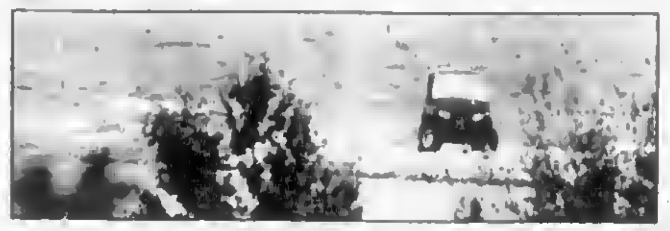
Missing man found



STEVE ZUCKER/CHARLEVOIX COURIER

Search crews drive an all-terrain vehicle along the Lake Michigan shoreline near Mt. McSauba Tuesday moments before other crews found a Charlevoix man who had been missing for more than a day.

Emergency workers found a Charlevoix man who had been missing for more than a day alive, but in need of medical attention in the Mount McSauba Recreation Area Tuesday.

In a news release issued Tuesday afternoon, Charlevoix County Sheriff Don Schneider said authorities had been looking for Daniel Paul Engstrom, 64, since Monday morning when his wife reported him missing after he had earlier called in sick to work.

Crews from the city of Charlevoix and Charlevoix Township fire departments and the sheriff's office focused their search Monday in the area of the North Pointe subdivision and in the Mount McSauba Recreation area after Engstrom's vehicle was found parked at the end of McSauba Avenue near the Lake Michigan shoreline.

After an extensive 6-hour search of the area, including nearby areas of Lake Michigan, crews called off their active search around 5 p.m. Monday. Schneider said at that time Engstrom was considered a voluntary missing person.

Authorities left Engstrom's car parked where it was overnight in the event that he returned to it.

Crews resumed the search Tuesday morning using all-terrain vehicles, horse patrol, foot patrol and a Michigan State Police canine unit. Engstrom was located at about 11 a.m. near the Lake Michigan shoreline by the Michigan State Police canine unit. He was transported to a waiting ambulance by fire, ambulance and sheriff's office crews. He was then transported by ambulance to McLaren Northern Michigan Hospital in Petoskey.

An update on Engstrom's condition was not available at press time.

School board says goodbye to interim superintendent

Bootz

The Charlevoix Public Schools Board of Education bid adieu to its interim superintendent, Patrick Bootz, at its Monday, July 16, regular board meeting.

"It's been an honor and a privilege to work with Pat, and we would be lucky to do so well as to get someone like Pat for the long-term," said Scott Mays, information technology director for the school district, during the public comments section of the meeting.

Bootz responded in kind.

"It has been a pleasure," he said. "You are good people, and have a good thing going on in your school. Now, you just need to keep those good things going."

The board recently hired Robert Gendron, K-12 principal and superintendent of the Pentwater Public School District, as its new superintendent, after Chet Janik retired. Bootz, the interim superintendent, had formerly been with Ellsworth Schools.

To keep those "good things" going, Bootz advised the board to be thinking of its next school non-homestead operational millage of 18 mills. The last time that millage, was approved was in May 2009, and it expires in Dec. of 2013.

Bootz encouraged the board to consider putting the renewal of those millage on the November ballot, more than a year ahead of schedule. That way, if the millage doesn't pass, the board will have a year to try again before the school's millage expires. Too, the school district can then share election costs, which can cost as much as $6,000.

Bootz also recommended adding an extra two mills on the renewal, which would bring the millage to a total of 20 mills.

The two mills would be a safety net for the district. The district can only levy 18 mills on non-homestead properties, but if property values increase at such a rate that the district will collect more money on the 18 mills than the election ballot states, the millage is cut back under the Headlee Roll Back Amendment.

For example, if a millage is approved for five years, but starts generating more money because of rising property values three years out, the millage would roll back to 17.5 mills rather than 18 mills, based on the amount of money it's raising, said Bootz.

If the district had asked for two extra mills, the district could borrow from those mills and restore the millage to its original 18 mills. Then they would have 1.5 mills in the bank, so to speak, and would be able to continue taxing at the original requested rate.

Beyond budget talk, the board appointed Shannon Reynolds as the elementary night custodian and Duane Wilson as the K-12 music teacher for the district. Wilson comes to Charlevoix from Concord Academy of Petoskey.

The board also approved the purchase of a new 71-passenger school bus from Holland Bus Sales for $79,716. The money for the bus purchase came from the district's 2008 transportation and technology bond millage.

The board will meet next — with its new superintendent — at 6 p.m. on Monday, Aug. 20, at the Charlevoix Middle School.

Battle continues between prosecutor, chief assistant

SHERI MCWHIRTER
Northern Michigan Review

Fanara

Jarema

Shaynee Fanara, Charlevoix County's chief assistant prosecutor on Thursday submitted a written demand to county authorities that elected prosecutor John Jarema cease what she claims are ongoing attempts to smear her reputation.

Fanara, who is Jarema's chief assistant prosecutor, also demanded a public retraction for what she described as Jarema's "blatant lies."

"He is maliciously telling various individuals lies about me with knowledge that they are false and with reckless disregard for the truth," she said.

Fanara said she returned from an extended medical leave on Monday, only to vacate the office again Tuesday for a long vacation following a confrontation with Jarema, her boss. Meanwhile, Jarema said Fanara's allegations are untrue.

"I have not spread false rumors about anyone. I had an internal personnel issue which I was dealing with privately and not publicly," he said Thursday in a written statement provided to the Petoskey News-Review.

This is the latest blow-up in a months-long dispute between Fanara and Jarema.

At a public meeting in April, Fanara accused Jarema of lying to county commissioners and a judge, refusing to pay her for work she did and launching a false investigation into her hourly time slips with the county. Additionally, she alleged Jarema bullied her on a daily basis and also spread false rumors about her having sex with a defense attorney in exchange for better plea bargains.

"These are blatant lies designed to impugn my reputation, destroy my career as an attorney and harm my relationships with others, including my husband," Fanara said in a written complaint filed this week with the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners and the county's human resources department. Fanara also provided a copy of her statement to the News-Review.

"I am demanding an immediate retraction of these slanderous statements and request proof of such retraction," Fanara wrote before she cited Michigan's libel and slander law.

Fanara repeatedly said in past months that the sex allegation is wrongful and came as retaliation after she filed a grievance against Jarema with the Michigan Attorney Grievance Commission claiming he lied to commissioners and a judge.

Jarema three months ago said Fanara's accusations are "unfounded allegations" intended as a ploy to file a lawsuit against the county, but no lawsuit has since materialized — at least so far.

Now Fanara said the sex allegation continues, even up until this week when she returned from medical leave. Doctors placed Fanara on medical leave months ago after she experienced stress-related tension headaches she previously said physicians attributed to Jarema's poor treatment toward her.

This week Fanara alleged that on Tuesday Jarema told her — in front of Kevin Shepard, human resources coordinator — that he believed the sex rumors are true and he would continue to investigate the situation, potentially leading to an official grievance against her. Fanara said she did not want to return to that hostility level, so she will now take all of her accrued vacation time.

Jarema said in his emailed written statement to the News-Review that he is unaware of any sex-for-plea-bargains scheme operated out of his public office.

"To my knowledge, neither Mrs. Fanara nor any member of my staff has given special consideration to any attorney for any reason. Let me be clear, if someone in my office jeopardized a case due to outside influences they would be terminated immediately. Mrs. Fanara has not done anything inappropriate, I told her that many times and this, again, is a non-issue," Jarema wrote.

Visit www.petoskeynews.com to read the complete written statements by both Fanara and Jarema.

Fanara said even Jarema's latest written statement contains a falsehood, particularly how he doesn't believe she behaved inappropriately.

"I'm really surprised that John is saying that to the newspaper when he won't say that to my face," she said.

Shepard said he can't discuss details about the ongoing county personnel issue, including the slander, libel and defamation of character allegations. However, he did confirm that Fanara and Jarema attempted to become a prosecution team again this week — a clearly failed effort.

"I'm glad they gave it a try. I'm disappointed it didn't work out and I'm hopeful it can in the future," Shepard said.

Council approves fire truck repair, hears fireplace plan

STEVE ZUCKER
Courier Editor

Fire took a prominent role in the regular Charlevoix City Council meeting Monday as the council considered both a location for it to burn in East Park and resources to put it out.

The council first heard a proposal from city resident John Winn who is spearheading an effort to construct a gas-fueled outdoor fireplace in East Park.

Winn told the council that he was recently approached by an anonymous benefactor that is willing to contribute significantly to the project, but he was seeking the council's tentative blessing before proceeding further with the project.

Winn's proposal calls for the fireplace to be placed in East Park's "Plaza B" — the more northern (closer to Clinton Street) of two half-circle areas located at the top of steps leading into the park from Bridge Street. The proposed fireplace would stand about seven feet tall with a roughly 13-foot spiral chimney created with the same stone, used in the same way as other portions of the park.

Winn told the council Monday that he has already secured donations for some of the materials to be used in the project and said that many people he's talked to in the downtown think it would be an asset to the community.

Some council members expressed concerns about how much it might cost for the gas to operate the fireplace.

Winn said officials with DTE Energy estimated that it would cost about $178 per month to operate the fireplace for 40 hours. Doing some quick math, some council members noted that to be a little more than an

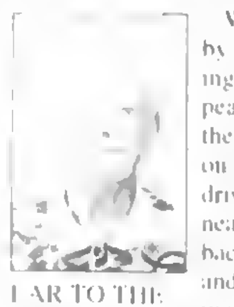
Oh, chipmunk, where art thou?



EAR TO THE GROUND

Roger Knutson

Those of us lucky enough to live in Charlevoix are close to a large number of wild animal friends. Some people may not think of our local deer as friends, especially when they have eaten a few valuable shrubs or chewed down to stubs all the Swiss chard in my garden, but they are mostly attractive and interesting parts of the local scene. Various other wild creatures have turned up in our yard. Skunks, porcupines, foxes, turkeys, rabbits and short-tailed shrews make up only a partial list. But this story is about our own chipmunk.

I am not certain how long individual chipmunks live. Usually the smaller an animal is the shorter its life span is likely to be, which would suggest that a three-year-old chipmunk might be in its old age. We have been interacting with our chipmunk for three years. At least we think it is the same one; they look a lot alike.

We began by leaving a few peanuts in their shells on the driveway near our back door and watching him (I have always thought of our chipmunk as male) stuff them in his cheeks and run off to his home under a small hole in our front yard. It was only a short step from there to trying to hand him a peanut directly. Pretty soon he would run up my leg while I was sitting in a lawn chair, and take a peanut from my fingers. I learned that he thought my finger end looked enough like a peanut in the shell to try to carry it away. He never bit the finger, only examined it closely with his paws and teeth.

He was always nervous while approaching me. I suppose such nervousness is valuable if you are as small as a chipmunk in a world of much larger creatures. Nonetheless, with only minimal coaxing and only a peanut for reward, he would even climb up to my chin to seize it. If I shelled the peanuts, he could stuff ten or a dozen of them in his cheek pouches before running off to his home to store them or eat them.

Eventually he would wait by the back door and even make moves in the direction of coming into the house when the door was opened. He knew where the peanuts were coming from. He must have had several pounds of shelled and unshelled peanuts stashed away underground. He would carry away a maximum load of peanuts and be back for more long before he could have eaten any of them.

Two weeks ago he disappeared and has not returned. We are thinking sadly that a feral cat, a hawk or owl had him for dinner. A more cheerful thought is that the animal we had considered to be a he might have been a she, and that she is raising a litter of young chipmunks next to her warehouse full of stored peanuts. A few weeks ago I did see a very brief chasing scene involving two chipmunks racing across our yard. Chipmunks are solitary creatures and only pay any attention to one another for very brief mating chases.

We continue to hope for reproduction rather than predation. Further reports may follow.

We are all closer to nature than we might realize.

Writer: Telgenhof 'an excellent trial attorney'

Editor:

I understand that the trial abilities of my attorney, Allen Telgenhof, are being attacked by his opponent in his campaign for Charlevoix County Prosecuting Attorney.

I am writing to tell the voters of Charlevoix County about my personal experience. Allen represented me in a very difficult child custody case earlier this year. My daughter was the victim of abuse and no one — not Child Protective Services, not the police and not the prosecutor's office — could or would help us.

Allen took our case and told us that even though it would be difficult he would help us through it. He listened, he explained the process to us, he prepared us to go to court and when the time came, he not only won one trial, but he won two — in front of the referee and the judge.

Because of Allen's work, I now have custody of my daughter. I am so grateful for his help and I know firsthand that he is an excellent trial attorney.

Charlevoix County would be lucky to have Allen Telgenhof as its prosecutor.

Candidate's wife: Telegenhof honest, fair

Editor:

My name is Judy Telgenhof and my husband, Allen (Al) Telgenhof, is running for prosecuting attorney in Charlevoix County. We have been married for almost 26 years and have four unique and wonderful children.

Al has always been involved in the community, being elected to the Clio School Board when he was 27 years old. Less than one year after we moved to Charlevoix in 1995, he was elected to the Charlevoix School Board and served as president for six years. He has volunteered in the community in so many ways, often being moved into leadership positions. He has always found serving the public important.

Al is also a very devoted family man. He has a great relationship with each of our four children. They go to him for advice, and he shows love and provides grace when they make mistakes. He is a very loving and understanding dad.

As a husband, Al has shown so much love and adoration towards me. He showed me that you can disagree with someone, yet still be loved, and he deals with everyone like that. He does not hold a grudge and is in no way vindictive. He is my best friend and a good friend to so many people.

I believe Charlevoix County would be fortunate to have Allen Telgenhof as its prosecutor. He is an honest and fair man with a great character who will work hard for the citizens and make this county proud. He is a man you can trust, and he will remain humble, understanding that he is serving the people of the county.

Please vote on Aug. 7 for Allen Telgenhof for Charlevoix County Prosecutor; a man the citizens of Charlevoix County will be proud to say is their prosecutor.

Employee supports Jarema's re-election

With all the recent media controversy surrounding the (Charlevoix County) prosecutor's office, I felt it was time for a current employee to speak up on behalf of our office, and Mr. Jarema as well.

Working full time in the office I have heard and seen what happens here on a daily basis. I have also been privileged to be in the court room when our prosecutor, Mr. Jarema, is representing the People of the State of Michigan. It is clear that in the courtroom. Mr. Jarema is unflappable. He does not take the responsibility of his position as the Chief Law Enforcement Officer of this county lightly. I would hope the public would take time to consider the weight and pressure attached to the position of prosecutor. With a stroke of a pen, Mr. Jarema has the power to alter someone's life forever. I have seen Mr. Jarema take time to consider certain cases hard and long before going ahead with authorizing charges. I have also witnessed him work many hours, often late into the night, on cases of a more serious nature such as the embezzlement case involving St. Mary's School.

When it comes to looking at the way the office runs from a (human resources) perspective, Mr. Jarema does his best to work with the staff to create a team environment. He is always willing to talk about any concerns and pretty much anything that we may need to talk about. I have personally experienced this time and time again as he has been willing to discuss everything from open cases to personal issues and concerns. I have also witnessed others in the office being able to talk openly with him as needed.

In conclusion, I want to state that I enjoy working for the prosecutor's office and everyone that works in this office, including Mr. Jarema.

LOOKING BACK...

Last week, "Looking Back" showed logs brought into town from the south on horse-drawn sledges on their way to the lumber mill on Round Lake beside the channel bridge. During the temperate seasons, when the lakes were not frozen, hundreds of logs, gathered in great booms, arrived via Lake Charlevoix, were funneled through the upper channel, then taken across Round Lake. Belvedere Club children used to gather along the banks to watch "... the loggers herding their logs like a flock of sheep ... with the fascination with which children watch a circus parade, never realizing the skill and athletic prowess of these hardy men who fought their way through the narrow channel, balancing on a floating tree trunk, all the while keeping the cut logs from straying shoreward with a long hooked pole as though prodding a wandering steer down the land into a corral." (Quote from The Belvedere Club, 1969, memoirs of members Mrs. William C. Connett and Jessie Schafly Connett.)

This image is one of 850 in the Charlevoix Historical Society's most recent DVD titled "Charlevoix, Michigan — A Pictorial Journey through 16 Decades."The disc is available at the Society's Harsha House Museum, 103 State St. next to the Congregational Church, from 1-4 p.m. Monday-Saturday. It is also available at the Central Drug Store, Round Lake Books, Castle Farms, and Ell-Air Gallery. Docents are needed for the society's Harsha House for July and August. BUSINESS

Foley joins Northern Michigan Review advertising sales team

STEVE ZUCKER
Courier Editor

Jennifer Foley recently joined the display advertising sales staff for Charlevoix Courier's parent company Northern Michigan Review.

Foley, 31, of Petoskey, will be helping businesses in the Charlevoix area meet their advertising needs in many of Northern Michigan Review's publications such as the Charlevoix Courier, Petoskey News-Review, Graphic and Saturday. She also will be selling advertising in some of the company's digital products.

Foley is no stranger to advertising in the company's various publications, as she worked as a sales assistant in the advertising department for about a year prior to taking her new sales position. In her previous role, she served as liaison between sales staff, clients and advertising graphic designers to help coordinate and facilitate the advertising process.

Foley is a graduate of Harbor Springs High School and attended both Ferris State University and Saginaw Valley State University, participating basketball and track at both schools. She has a degree in business and served as the head assistant women's basketball coach for Northwood University for three years, and more recently has served as the head varsity girls basketball coach at her alma mater, Harbor Springs High School.

She is married to Petoskey News-Review sports writer Steve Foley and in her free time remains active in playing basketball, softball and many outdoor activities.

Foley said she's looking forward to getting to know the community and working with advertisers on ways to help their businesses grow.

"Being a native of Northern Michigan, I understand some of the unique needs that area businesses have," she said.

"We are very excited about having Jennifer on our sales team," Northern Michigan Review Advertising Director Christy Lyons said. "Her enthusiasm for helping accounts grow their business will really benefit those in the Charlevoix market. She will be able to provide a customized marketing plan for each type of business she works with."

Foley can be reached via email at jfoley@petoskeynews.com or at (231) 881-2406.

Annual splashdown

More than 200 items up for bid at pool fundraiser

If you've been looking for an opportunity to dust of that beret that's been hanging in the back of your closet, the 23 annual Charlevoix Area Community Pool Auction might be just the occasion for you.

This year's event, set for Aug. 5 at Castle Farms will be an homage to Charlevox's heritage with a French café them under the title "Tour de Charlevoix."

The event offers fun, food, entertainment and premium auction items that keep guests returning year after year.

The event begins at 5 p.m. with a silent auction and mixer, followed by dinner at 7 p.m. and a live auction at 8 p.m.

The cost is $50 per person and French Café attire is encouraged, but optional.

A few of the more notable among the expected more than 200 auction items include:

— A two night stay at the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island

— Eight days and seven nights at La Mer Guest Hotel, Key West, Florida

— A romantic cruise for two aboard the Keweenaw Star

— Dinner for six at the Weathervane

— An inflatable kayak

Donations for the auction are still being accepted.

Contact auction coordinator, Megan Wuerth at (231) 547-0982 for more information, to make a donation or to make your reservation to attend the event.

The auction serves as the single biggest annual fundraiser for the non-profit Charlevoix Area Community Pool which provides a wide array of programs for swimmers of all ages. For more information about the pool, visit www.charlevoixpool.org or call (231) 547-0982.

Library gets 'jazzy' grant

The Charlevoix Public Library was recently awarded a grant in support of its Jazz @ the Library program. The program is a series of weekly jazz concerts highlighting professional artists who accompany the JATL Trio. The trio includes: Chris Ames on the drums; Steve Stargardt on the keyboard; and Andy Evans on the bass.

On Wednesday, Aug. 8., the Big Band Swing Party will be featured for the first time in the series' six-year history, with support from the Charlevoix County Community Foundation. The Big Band Swing Party hosts a live 12 piece swing band with vocalist Claudia Schmidt, and includes musicians playing saxophones, trombones, trumpets, piano, bass and drums. The hour and a half concert will feature chart-topping tunes from the big band/swing era. The event is free of charge, open to the public, and will take place outside at the Charlevoix Public Library.

The Charlevoix County Community Foundation is a local charitable organization dedicated to improving and enriching life for all who live, work, or vacation in Charlevoix County. Foundation funds help enhance the quality of life in Charlevoix County, now and for generations to come, by building permanent charitable endowment from a wide range of donors, addressing needs through grant making, and providing leadership on matters of community concern. Information about the foundation may be found at www.c3f.org or by calling (231) 536-2440.

More information about the Jazz @ the Library program may be found at www.charlevoixlibrary.org or by calling (231) 237-7340.

OBITUARY

Stephen Douglas Landon:
April 24, 1961-July 8, 2012

University of Michigan–Flint Associate Professor Stephen Douglas Landon, passed away in Rapid City, South Dakota. Stephen was in South Dakota as part of the Black Hills Playhouse production of the Drowsy Chaperone. Stephen is the second son of Richard Craig Landon and Anna Adams. Stephen's education took him from Charlevoix High School, as a graduate of the Class of 1979, to Ball State University, Lawrence Technology University, ultimately receiving his masters of fine arts in scenic design from Wayne State University.

Stephen wore many hats in his lifetime. Owning a hair salon, creating productions for flag and rifle corps throughout the Midwest and Rocky Mountains as well as living and studying abroad in the United Kingdom and Germany were just a few of his accomplishments. Not only was Stephen a life-long learner, he was a life-long teacher. This began at Charlevoix High School where he was the drum major his junior and senior years. Additionally, Stephen took on similar roles as a young adult with marching bands in Indiana and, Colorado, as well the Denver Blue Knights Drum and Bugle Corp.

To family and friends, as well as students and colleagues, Stephen was gracious, quiet, thoughtful, talented, and simply, brilliant. Whether giving someone a haircut, creating a gift of stained glass, designing the scene for the latest play or creating a piece of art with beach glass and Petoskey stones, Stephen gave his all to the task in front of him. When you were with Stephen, you knew you had his full, undivided attention; this was his most precious gift of all.

As an associate professor with the University of Michigan–Flint, Stephen was instrumental in many changes on campus and in the community including freshman orientation courses, a community bicycle ride and remodeling of the campus auditorium. His roots in the Flint area run deep and Stephen was always excited to share his latest discovery. He loved the potential he saw in Flint, and like many of his more memorable pieces of art, Stephen was determined that everyone see the beauty he did in Flint. Stephen was a full-tenured professor and was slated to be the next department chair.

Stephen was preceded in death by his father Richard Craig, and brother Richard Andrew, grandparents Burney and Ellen Landon, Everett Adams and Florence Levon Koenig. Stephen is survived by his mother, Anna Austin (Adams) and stepfather William Austin, brothers, Jeffery Scott, James Burney and wife Theresa, and Matthew John, niece Brittany Nicole, and nephews Andrew Thomas and Tanner Ian. Additionally many aunts, uncles, and cousins from both sides of his family are mourning this loss.

A celebration honoring Stephen's life will be held from 2-4 p.m. on Sunday, July 22 at the Ellsworth Community Park on Lake Street in Ellsworth.

The family asks that in lieu of flowers, a gift be made to the Black Hills Playhouse, in Stephen's memory: Black Hills Playhouse, PO Box 2513, Rapid City, SD 57709.

Condolences can be addressed to: The Austins, 7755 Pleasant Hill Road, Ellsworth, MI 49729.

Arrangements were made by Hastings Funeral Home in Ellsworth.

Mary Carol Warner, 94

Mary Carol Warner, 94, of Charlevoix, passed away Tuesday, July 17, 2012, at Boulder Park Terrace Nursing Home in Charlevoix. She was born May 6, 1918, in Charlevoix, the daughter of Clyde and Vera M. (Vance) Smith.

On March 13, 1936, she married Jasper S. Warner in Charlevoix, and he preceded her in death on July 14, 1994.

Mary was a member of the Barnard United Methodist Church, the Barnard Grange, and the Barnard Woman's Club.

She is survived by her daughters, Marian (William) Pasche of Mount Pleasant, Judy (Don) Arnold of Traverse City; sons, Larry (Lorraine) Warner of Petoskey, James (Gail) Warner of Holland; 14 grandchildren; 21 great-grandchildren; six great-great-grandchildren; sister, Marge Warner, and brother, Clayton Smith both of Charlevoix; sisters-in-law, Lucille Anderson of Lansing, Irene Nadeau of Taylor.

Funeral will be 11 a.m., Saturday, July 21, at the Barnard United Methodist Church, with visitation beginning at 10 a.m. The Rev. Rap Posnik will officiate, and burial will follow at Barnard Cemetery.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Barnard United Methodist Church.

Services are being arranged by the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

Scholarships support Camp McSauba

Camp McSauba is in full swing again this summer, serving a daily helping of fun and creative activities to all of the young campers. Many of those campers are benefiting from the support of the members of the Chicago Club, who have provided scholarships again this season to help youngsters attend the well-known Northern Michigan camp.

Utilizing a fund they established at the Charlevoix County Community Foundation more than 10 years ago, the members of the Chicago Club have had a long history of helping with projects that benefit Charlevoix's young people. Through the fund, the Chicago Club members have provided more than $100,000 in supplemental resources to help struggling families with urgent medical and dental needs, access to swimming lessons, family swim nights at the Charlevoix Community Pool, and more.

Foundation president Chip Hansen said the Camp McSauba scholarships are another extension of the Chicago Club's desire to continue to support healthy activities for Charlevoix youth, and this year's grant will allow more than 20 campers to enjoy a week at camp that they may otherwise have been unable to afford.

"The children get an opportunity to meet new friends, explore our beautiful surroundings, and attend a sleepover. If they are in the older age group of 10-13 year-olds, they get to experience the thrill of camping outside in tents, one of the many new highlights added this year that the campers love," said camp director Linda Amstutz.

Camp McSauba's daily activities include small and large group games, arts and crafts, BB gunnery, archery, field sports and, of course, fun at the beach. Sessions are planned around a specific theme including: Aloha Week, Treasure Hunters Week, Splish Splash Week, and Fun and Fit Week. Each camp session runs five days, with a sleepover on Thursday night, and an awards ceremony for campers, parents, grandparents and friends each Friday morning. Older campers also have the option of swimming at the Charlevoix Area Community Pool on Thursday night, before the sleepover.

"We expect to serve nearly 800 youngsters this season," Amstutz said. "The camp is a popular activity for year round residents as well as summer families."

The club was established in 1880 and founding families continue to maintain cottages in the association. Although most members are summer residents of Charlevoix, the club has a long history of supporting local causes.

"The Chicago Club's continued support is making a difference in Charlevoix," Hansen said. "A lot of young people are getting the help they need, and the experiences they enjoy, as a result of their good work."

The Chicago Club's Fund is among the 235 funds held by the Charlevoix County Community Foundation, each one designated to support a specific cause or address general needs in education, the environment, arts and culture, health, civic projects, youth, or recreation.

For more information about grant application deadlines or other programs of the Charlevoix County Community Foundation, please call the foundation office at (231) 536-2440, visit the foundation's website at www.c3f.org or e-mail Chip Hansen, president at chansen@c3f.org.

'Treasures of the Museum' exhibit now open

ANNE KELLY
Courier Staff Writer

An eclectic exhibit of early Charlevoix artifacts and photographs, "Treasures of the Museum," is currently on display at Charlevoix Historical Society's Harsha House Museum on 103 State St.

The exhibit, which opened July 2, depicts random slices of Charlevoix life.

"There is no theme to this display, no thread of narrative, no timeline, no single subject matter," the introductory statement explains. "These artifacts and documents are simply interesting in and of themselves, examples of the rich holdings which The Harsha House Museum is fortunate to possess."

Co-directors of the museum, Dave Miles and Steve Goslee, are enthusiastic about the exhibit.

Miles, who has been director since 1997, has completed the monumental task of digitalizing over 9,400 of early Charlevoix photographs, including those taken by his father, Bob Miles. This collection, which encompasses every category of Charlevoix history, is indexed on Past Perfect, a PowerPoint program designed for organizing historical data so that information is easily accessed by users who wish to browse through the files or locate specific images or subjects.

Goslee, who has been part of the museum staff for the past nine years, is in charge of acquisition and cataloguing. He works in tandem with Miles, not only on photographic treasures, but museum pieces as well. The team organizes information, collects artifacts, writes books, creates CDs and sets up rotating exhibits that make for interesting and informative museum browsing for residents, groups and visitors alike. Miles often presents programs based on his research, illustrating his presentations with photographs.

"It was Steve's idea to create this exhibit," Miles said.

People had been asking about things they hadn't seen in a while, according to Goslee.

"We have many items in storage. Not everything is on display. Things are constantly being donated to the museum. We accept artifacts, but do not guarantee they will be on display," he said.

Karen Lewis, curator of exhibits, and Betsy Reynolds, who helps with every aspect of the museum, were also instrumental in making this happen, according to both Goslee and Miles.

Of particular interest is a prize-winning model of the 17th century French battleship LaCouronne, which was fashioned in minute detail by local tinsmith and plumber Frank Novotny. The model received much, acclaim particularly after being entered in a contest for model ships in the "Century of Progress" World's Fair (1933-34) in Chicago. It was donated to the historical society in the late 1970s.

Other items of interest include: a 1934 Singer treadle sewing machine, a unique Monta Mower lawn mower-trimmer made in Traverse City, a Rosa Nettleton doll (the wife of pioneer settler David Nettleton, Rosa Nettleton was renowned for her handiwork and period clothing), chemistry class scales from the old high school, a late 19th century American Mandolin Harp (the kind played by Johnny Cash's wife), early 20th century British military regimental badges, a bell from the fourth Charlevoix bridge, a Stromberg-Carlson radio and many other items including the original marriage license of Ernest Hemingway to Hadley Richardson.

The Harsha House itself is a museum piece with its three restored Victorian parlors and working player piano. The public is invited to visit The Harsha House Museum 1-4 p.m. Monday through Saturday to view the "Treasures of the Museum Exhibit. A $1 donation is suggested.

For more information, contact the historical society at (231) 547-0373 or info@chxhistory.com.

Kevin Barton named 2012 Venetian artist

Artist sought to capture iconic festival scene in this year's painting

ANNE KELLY
Courier Staff Writer

Artist Kevin Barton (left) presents the Venetian Festival 2012 original painting to Charlevoix Venetian Festival board member Anne Golski. The painting will be auctioned Friday evening following the Venetian Queen crowning in East Park. Posters, along with additional items featuring Barton's art will be available at the Venetian booth in East Park during the festival.

Kevin Barton, who grew up in Harbor Springs and now at 35 is a resident of Petoskey, has been chosen as the artist for the 2012 Charlevoix Venetian Festival artwork.

So how was it that he was able to capture one of the quintessential Charlevoix celebrations? According to Barton, the story goes something like this: "Some collectors of mine, who I originally met at the Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair (Barton has shown at the Waterfront Art Fair for a dozen years), referred my name to the Venetian Festival Committee. Interestingly enough, the day the committee called me, I was on my way to Charlevoix to take photographs of the Venetian fireworks for the very first time."

Barton said he had always enjoyed painting fireworks, and this was an aspect of Charlevoix he had not yet captured. He said he hoped to develop a series of Venetian paintings.

"The timing just seemed meant to be," Barton said. "I took over 100 pictures and chose what I felt was the iconic view off the bridge. It has the fireworks, the boathouses, the boat parade and the people all around the docks. To me that captures the essence of that evening."

Barton's painting will be featured widely during the upcoming Venetian Festival, which begins Saturday, July 21, and runs through Saturday, July 28. The image will appear on T-shirts, posters and other items for sale through the Venetian Festival organization and the original artwork will be auctioned off at the Odmark Performance Pavilion in East Park around 9 p.m. on Friday, July 26, just after the coronation of this year's Miss Charlevoix Venetian Queen. The proceeds from the sale of the artwork and other items with the artwork on it will to go to the Venetian Festival organization to help defray costs of the festival.

The distinction of being selected to create the festival's signature artwork for this year follows upon other recent honors and awards.

In 2011, Barton was chosen Gold Medal Winner of the Manoogian Mackinac Art Museum's Contemporary Art Exhibit on Mackinac Island. This year Barton was the winner of the 2012 Mackinac Island Lilac Festival Poster Contest; artist for the 2012 Northern Michigan Dining Guide cover; Best of Show for one of his still life paintings in a May 2012 exhibit at the Charlevoix Circle of the Arts; and artist for the "Howl at the Moon" invitation for the Little Traverse Bay Humane Society's event which will take place in August. Barton, who describes himself as a largely self-trained artist who paints with a post-impressionistic style in oils, is glad to have grown up in this area.

"There is a varied and rich subject matter to explore here as an artist," he said.

Barton will continue to exhibit his work on Saturday, July 21, in Petoskey's Art In The Park; on Aug. 4-5 at the Suttons Bay Art Festival; on Aug. 11 at the Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair; and Sept. 22-23 at the Birmingham Street Art Fair. His gallery, Barton's Art Loft, is located above Symons General Store in Petoskey. Hours are by appointment; call (231)-439-0829.

Nominations sought for eddi Awards

COURTESY PHOTO

Each eddi Award recipient is presented with an original bronze sculpture created by area artist Paul Varga.

The Crooked Tree Arts Center is currently accepting nominations for people to be honored during the 11th eddi Awards ceremony at the center in Petoskey Crooked on Friday, Sept. 21.

The eddi Awards, which take place every other year, take place "in recognition of eddi Offield's personal and positive impact on the quality of life afforded to the people of Emmet and Charlevoix Counties."

The late Offield was an accomplished artist in her own right and an a benefactor and advocate for the arts in Northern Michigan.

"The eddi Awards recognize two major accomplishments: The life-long dedication to the arts by the late eddi Offield and the distinguished endeavors by local artists and patrons," said Kurt Wietzke, president, Crooked Tree Arts Center.

All past eddi recipients will also be recognized during the evening's celebration.

Organizers said the process by which award recipients are nominated and selected has been carefully constructed to include nominees from all over the two-county area.

Nominees are not required to have an affiliation with any particular organization. A panel of judges representing a wide array of arts and cultural constituencies within Emmet and Charlevoix Counties will determine the award recipients.

The eight specific awards descriptions are as follows:

— Visual Artist Award: given to an artist who has consistently made an impact using his or her artistic discipline for the benefit of the citizens of Charlevoix and Emmet Counties.

— Performing Artist Award: given to an artist who has consistently made an impact in the areas of theatre, music or dance for the benefit of the citizens of Charlevoix and Emmet Counties.

— Arts & Cultural Organization Award: given to an organization for outstanding contributions to arts and culture for the benefit of the citizens of Charlevoix and Emmet Counties.

— Arts in Education Award: given to an institution or an individual who has provided extraordinary leadership and creativity in advancing arts and cultural education in Charlevoix and Emmet Counties.

— Arts and Cultural Leadership Award: given to a volunteer member of a board of directors of an arts and/or cultural organization who has demonstrated leadership in advancing and supporting arts and culture in Charlevoix and Emmet Counties.

— Individual Patron Award: given to a patron who is an exemplary advocate for the arts and culture in Charlevoix and Emmet Counties.

— Benefactor Award: given to a business, foundation or organization in Charlevoix and Emmet Counties that has given extraordinary support to artists or cultural organizations in the two-county region.

— Lifetime Achievement Award: given to the individual who has been prominent in the arts and culture of Charlevoix and Emmet Counties throughout his or her lifetime.

Individual ticket prices are $50 each. The evening includes an appetizer reception, awards ceremony and a dessert after glow reception.

Nomination forms and a complete list of past winners are available at www.crookedtree.org. Nominations must be received by Saturday, Aug. 4, at the arts center. For more information or to reserve a ticket, call the Crooked Tree Arts Center at (231) 347-4337

BOYNE CITY

Fish fry fundraiser on tap for planned trail

Proponents of the Boyne City-Charlevoix Recreational Trail will host a fish fry fund-raiser this week.

The perch dinner will be served between 5 and 8 p.m. on Friday, July 20, at the Eagles hall, 106 River St. in Boyne City. The dinner costs $15 in advance and $18 at the door.

Trail volunteers will be at the event to accept additional donations via check or cash. All proceeds will benefit the planned trail between Boyne City and U.S. 31 near Charlevoix.

Advance tickets for the fund-raising fish fry can be purchased at Local Flavor Book Store on Water Street and the Boyne Area Chamber of Commerce office at the corner of Lake and Water streets, both in Boyne City.

Call (231) 582-6222 for more information.

History preservation program offered Monday

Nan Taylor, Greater Michigan field representative for the Michigan Historic Preservation Network and the National Trust for Historic Preservation in Lansing, will be the guest speaker for the Charlevoix County History Preservation Society's July event.

"History Preservation in Charlevoix County-Dispelling Misperceptions" is the title of Taylor's program which will take place at 7 p.m. Monday, July 23, at the Charlevoix Public Library, 220 Clinton St., Charlevoix.

This presentation is cosponsored by the Charlevoix Historical Commission.

Taylor will explain how historic preservation can play an instrumental role in contributing to the economic strength of a community through historic designations, heritage tourism and the rehabilitation of existing buildings using local contractors and suppliers. She will explain what historic designation means and the benefits, similarities and differences of a National Register District vs. a Local Historic District, and as well as provide up to date information on the economic incentives for property owners.

The annual Charlevoix County History Preservation Society membership meeting will follow the program which is free and open to the public. Light refreshments will be served. For more information, call (231) 582-5326.

Michigan Scientific employees donate to local United Way

Michigan Scientific Corporation recently devised a win-win-win way to contribute to United Way. The Milford-based designer and manufacturer of automotive testing products offered to provide each of the employees in its Charlevoix plant a pair of work shoes, if the employees contributed percent of the cost to United Way. This is the third time that Michigan Scientific has made this offer to employees and United Way.

This effort netted $636 for United Way and safe shoes for the employees.

Michigan Scientific Senior Machinist, Seth Arnold said "This is a great way to promote safety and provide funds to a worthy cause."

"We were very pleased to work with Michigan Scientific on this creative way to benefit United Way," United Way Executive Director Martha Lancaster said. "The company and its employees are always generous supporters of our annual fall campaign, but this special fundraising drive was a great way to involve additional employees in investing in United Way's community solutions. We are pleased to provide materials and ideas to help local businesses conduct special events – benefit meals, jean days, coin drives, etc. to support United Way."

Char-Em United Way's annual campaign is underway and includes workforce fundraising campaigns in a variety of local businesses, as well as raising funds from the general public. Funds are invested in community health and human service programs which meet United Way's mission of improving the lives of people in Charlevoix and Emmet Counties. For more information, contact United Way at (231) 487-1006 or info@charemunitedway.org.

EAST JORDAN

Discounted Raven Hill festival tickets still available

Discounted tickets remain available through week's end for Raven Hill Discovery Center's annual fund-raising festival.

The event begins at 6 p.m. on Saturday, July 21, at the facility, 4737 Fuller Road, in rural East Jordan. Discounted tickets can be purchased for $20 through Friday, July 20, by calling (231) 536-3369. Tickets will cost $25 the day of the event.

This year's festival theme is "Reaching for the Stars," and the night will wrap up with a star-gazing session guided by a local astronomer with a 16-inch reflecting telescope. But before that, there will be wine, food, music, a silent auction and a 100-balloon raffle in which each $10 balloon is guaranteed to contain a prize worth at least $10.

Local artist Martina Hahn also will complete a five-by-five-foot painting in her renowned "speed-painting" style.

All proceeds from the event will benefit Raven Hill Discovery Center, a nonprofit children's indoor and outdoor museum that strives to connect science, art and history for both students and teachers.

Crash on U.S. 31

A damaged passenger car sits on the east side of U.S. 31 near the Charlevoix Golf and Country Club where it came to rest after being struck from behind by a pickup truck at about 4 p.m. Wednesday. The driver of the vehicle was transported to Charlevoix Area Hospital for treatment of what appeared to be non-life-threatening injuries. Further details were not available at press time Thursday.

hour per day. However, Winn noted that there would be times such as the summer months where the fireplace would see very little if any use and other times where it would see more use — particularly during shoulder-season events such as Apple Festival, and Christmas events.

He said that the benefactor for the project is elderly and would like to see the project come to fruition soon — perhaps in time for this year's Apple Festival. He said that one contractor has estimated the project will take about six weeks to complete.

The council, by consensus, gave its tentative blessing for Winn to continue with his efforts to kindle the project.

This preliminary drawing shows details on what a proposed gas-fired fireplace for East Park would look like.

Next up at the meeting was the man who oversees putting fires out in the city — fire chief Paul Ivan, with a request for funds to breathe new life in to a fire truck that has as much sentimental value to some as it has firefighting capacity.

The truck, known now as 5302 was originally dubbed Engine 85 when it was purchased through a community-wide fundraising campaign in 1985. Until recently it had served as the department's second-out pumper. However, the department recently purchased a 1996 aerial truck intended to replace both the department's aging 1982 ladder truck and the 5302 pumper. Ivan had said both trucks were becoming difficult and costly to maintain. He told the council that although the newer aerial truck pumps 1,500 gallons per minute versus the 2,000 gallons per minute that 5302 will pump, he said the lower pump capacity would not have an effect on the department's Insurance Services Office rating — a rating of a department's potential firefighting capacity that many insurance companies use to determine homeowners insurance rates. Ivan also noted that there are few, if any, hydrants in the city's system that could supply enough water to use the full capacity of 5302's pump.

However, Ivan told the council Monday a former firefighter who was among those who led the effort to purchase 5302 in 1983-84 recently came forward offering to pay for a portion of the repairs, including a transmission conversion from manual to automatic that should make the truck more user-friendly and reduce maintenance. The repair and conversion will cost $26,630. The anonymous donor has offered to pick up about $8,900 of that cost. Ivan noted that in working condition, 5302 would probably only fetch about $10,000, and it would have cost about $7,000 to repair it to working condition without the manual to automatic conversion.

Ivan said the truck's biggest issue is its manual transmission, which makes it difficult to drive for crews who do not operate it regularly. In fact, it was that unfamiliarity that caused a firefighter to damage the truck's differential when taking it out for this year's Memorial Day parade.

Ivan said the truck still has firefighting value for the city. He said the high-capacity pump is especially useful for drawing water from water bodies and pumping it long distances to supply other trucks. He noted that some areas of the city, such as the Belvedere Club are still don't have adequate water main capacity to fight a major structure fire. The truck is also four-wheel-drive, which could be useful during difficult Northern Michigan winters.

The council unanimously approved paying for the repairs.

The council also approved a measure that makes the city one of the first in Northern Michigan to join a state-wide emergency mutual aid group. The Mutual Aid Box Alarm System is similar to mutual aid agreements most Northern Michigan fire departments have with each other, but on a broader scale.

Mutual aid is when a fire department asks for assistance from a neighboring fire department to supply equipment and personnel when there is a major incident. By joining the group the city would be eligible to call for assistance to a major incident from a far wider area, but could also be called upon to help respond to far-away incidents. With the city council unanimous approval, Charlevoix now joins Alpena, Grand Traverse Metro, Grand Traverse Rural, Traverse City and Otsego County fire departments.

"With a region as large as ours, the goal is to establish (a mutual aid district), then have other departments join as they see the merits of the program," Ivan wrote in his memo to the council. "Realistically, we are not going to provide mutual aid to most of these agencies unless something catastrophic happens."

In other business the council:

— Granted free parking at the Ferry Beach boat launch for the Charlevoix Yacht Club's Nucore Triangle Race on Aug. 31 and the Red Fox Regatta on Sept. 1-2.

— Approved a contract with the Charlevoix Area Community Pool for a city of Charlevoix "Hospitality Package" to be auctioned off during the pool's upcoming annual fundraising auction. The package includes many city recreation services, such as skiing, boat dockage and golf. In exchange for the package, the pool will provide swimming for Camp McSauba campers, a $800 value. Any amount raised in the auction above the $800 will be returned to the city's Camp McSauba scholarship fund.

— Gave its blessing to a community survey city staff plans to send out to property owners and registered voters in the city to help staff gauge the community's desires as budgetary and other priorities are set. The surveys will be mailed to randomly selected city property owners or registered voters. The surveys will also be available for pick up at city hall and online for those who wish to weigh in but aren't randomly selected to receive it.

those with previous experience and first-timers.

"We have plenty of need for volunteers of all ages," Barron said. "We need volunteers for everything from kids and teen events to the music and adult activities."

One of the new offerings this year will be helicopter excursions, offered by Lakeshore Helicopters. The excursions will take off from, and return to the football field (Kipke Field) at the middle school. Of course, most of the traditional favorites will return such as the street parade and the boat parade, which both have entertained spectators for decades.

Two of the most popular events are the festival's two nights of world-class fireworks displays.

"We really try to maintain the standards at the highest caliber for the event, which is what our crowd has come to expect and enjoy over the years," Barron said.

This year also marks Barron's 14th year with the festival.

Fireworks are scheduled for Friday, July 27, on Lake Charlevoix which will be the "Night Sky Over Charlevoix" fireworks shot from a barge offshore from Depot Beach. On Saturday, July 28, the barge moves into Round Lake, dubbed "The Pyrotechnic Amphitheater of the North." Saturday's while Friday's fireworks are the more traditional high-altitude type, Saturday's will be a low-altitutde, high intensity variety and will take place immediately following the lighted boat parade in Round Lake. Both night's fireworks shows are produced and choreographed by Colonial Fireworks Company with renowned master pyrotechnician, Frank Loffredo Jr.

According to the festival organizers the only thing missing this year is admission prices. All of the big events and entertainment offered at the Venetian Festival are absolutely free to the public. For more information and a detailed schedule of events, visit the festival website at www.venetianfestival.com.

This Very Important Race Is About Criminal Trial Experience And Who Has The Experience To Do The Job From Day 1 There Is No Time For "On The Job Training"

JAREMA
For Prosecutor August 7

"The importance of this Office demands experience."

PROTECTING VICTIMS SEEKING JUSTICE

- I have successfully prosecuted a first degree murder case.
- I have successfully prosecuted a second degree murder case without a weapon, body or witness. This was the first case of its type in Michigan.
- I have recently successfully prosecuted a Criminal Sexual Conduct case and sent the defendant to prison for 25 to 50 years.
- I asked to be appointed a special prosecutor in St. Ignace to prosecute the contractor of the City of Charlevoix Marina - After this appointment, the defendant paid the City back $232,000.00.

Embezzlements:

- I have successfully prosecuted an embezzlement case, the defendant went to prison and the Judge ordered them to pay over $850,000.00 to the victims.
- I have successfully prosecuted the St. Mary's School embezzlement case and the Judge ordered them to pay $75,000.00 to the victims.
- I have successfully prosecuted an embezzlement case, the defendant went to prison and the Judge ordered them to pay $188,000.00 to the victims.
- I have successfully prosecuted an embezzlement case, the defendant went to prison and the Judge ordered them to pay $517,000.00 to the victims.
- I have successfully prosecuted a Delivery of Drugs causing Death case. The defendant went to prison. It was the first conviction in Northern Michigan for this new law.
- I have successfully prosecuted pedophiles, drug dealers and arsonists, making our communities safer for everyone.

EXPERIENCE MATTERS

My opponent claims "criminal experience" from being a court appointed defense attorney in two counties- Antrim and Genesee.

- According to Antrim County, he was last appointed a criminal case in 2002
- According to Genesee County, he was last appointed a criminal case in 1994.
- According to Emmet and Otsego Counties he has not tried a criminal case since at least 2005
- According to Cheboygan County, he has not tried a criminal case since at least 2008.
- According to Manistee County, he has not had a criminal case since at least 1998.
- Mr. Telgenhof has never assisted in a criminal investigation, has no experience writing criminal search warrants and NEVER prosecuted a criminal case.

WHERE IS THE CRIMINAL TRIAL EXPERIENCE?

Bill Ivan named Big Ten Distinguished Scholar

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. — The Big Ten Conference recently named Charlevoix High School graduate and Indiana University football player Bill Ivan among 587 student-athletes who have been selected as recipients of the Big Ten Distinguished Scholar Award.

The list includes student-athletes from every institution and 36 different sports who have earned a minimum grade-point average of 3.7 or higher for the previous academic year. Indiana had 48 student-athletes earn the award for 2011-12.

Ivan

In 2010 Ivan, a 6-4, 292-pound offensive tackle, was red-shirted and in 2011 was named scout team player of the week.

Ivan played offensive tackle and was a defensive lineman for head coach Don Jess at Charlevoix High School and was the first Division I player from Charlevoix in 21 years. He is the son of are Paul and Judith Ivan of Charlevoix and is a political science major.

In February of 2008, Big Ten Faculty representatives established a conference academic recognition to supplement the Academic All-Big Ten program. Similar to the Academic All-Big Ten honor, Distinguished Scholar Award recipients must be letterwinners in at least their second academic year at their institution. However, the Distinguished Scholar Award encompasses only student-athletes with a minimum GPA of 3.7 or higher for the previous academic year, excluding summer school. The Academic All-Big Ten threshold is a cumulative GPA of 3.0 or higher for a student-athlete's academic career.

The 2011-12 class of Distinguished Scholar Award recipients includes 85 student-athletes who maintained a perfect 4.0 GPA during the previous academic term, including seven from Indiana.

Let the Venetian games begin!

Editor's note: The following column was written by Dean Davenport, who serves as commissioner for the Venetian Games, which kick off Saturday.

The successful growth of the Venetian Games becomes more evident each year of the festival. There are now 16 sporting events that take place during the week. President of the festival, Dan Barron, estimates that close to 10,000 participants take an active part during the week.

The Drenth Memorial Foot Race and the sailing regatta attract the largest number of participants, with the basketball three on three and soccer tournaments drawing a close second.

The development and growth of the games to what they are today can be traced back to when the festival management shifted from the chamber to the board. It became evident that a couple of sporting events, the foot race and three on three basketball and softball tournaments already were taking place during the festival. We added the tennis, swimming, golf, soccer, croquet, and volleyball by recruiting individuals to serve as game managers for

9-10 All-Stars team wins, plays for title Saturday

STEVE ZUCKER
Courier Editor

The Charlevoix Little League 9-10 year old girls softball All-Stars team is moving on.

After notching a 2-1 record to place second in the round-robin District 13 tournament in Charlevoix last week, the team, made up of top players from the Charlevoix league, traveled to Hillman Monday where it notched a thrilling 12-11 district semifinal win over Alpena Huron Shores in the bottom of the seventh inning.

Charlevoix jumped out to a big early lead, scoring 10 runs in the first inning.

Behind the pitching of Baby Hang, who threw two no-hitters last week, Charlevoix held Alpena scoreless through two innings.

But Alpena was not ready to go quietly into the night.

Alpena's pitcher and defense settled down, hold Charlevoix to just one more run through six innings and battled back at the plate scoring a few runs each inning before tying it up in the top of the sixth.

Charlevoix was able to hold Alpena scoreless in the top of the seventh.

Globetrotters offer free clinics

As part of the Harlem Globetrotters' upcoming summer festival in Northern Michigan, the team has cooperated with the YMCA of Northern Michigan to host complimentary summer skills clinics to the youth of the Harbor Springs, Petoskey, and Charlevoix School Districts.

Designed to take fans ages 6-12 behind the curtain to see the magic behind the Globetrotters' electrifying basketball skills and tricks, participants will also learn about the importance of staying active and eating healthy.

Organizers said: "These clinics are great for kids of any skill level, whether they play competitively, or have never played basketball before."

Each clinic will be conducted by current Globetrotter players, and following are the scheduled dates, times, and locations of the clinics:

- — 9-10 a.m. Wednesday, Aug. 1; Harbor Springs High School
- — 9-10 a.m. Thursday, Aug. 2; Petoskey High School
- — 10-11 a.m. Friday, Aug. 3; Charlevoix High School
- — 9-10 a.m. Saturday, Aug. 4; Petoskey High School

As a "thank you" to the Harbor Springs, Petoskey, and Charlevoix School Districts, these fun-filled clinics are offered free of charge, but each participant must be a student in one of those three school districts. Space is strictly limited to the first 65 kids that register for each clinic. Registration must be completed through the YMCA of Northern Michigan, at 434 East Lake St. in Petoskey, (231) 348-8393.

Sponsored by Howard Johnson Hotels, Greyhound Lines, Spalding, and Russell Athletic, the Original Harlem Globetrotters are celebrating their 86th consecutive year, continuing a world famous tradition of ball handling wizardry, basketball artistry and one-of-a-kind family entertainment that continues to thrill fans of all ages. Throughout their history, the Globetrotters have showcased their iconic talents in 120 countries and territories on six continents, often breaking down cultural and societal barriers while providing fans with their first-ever basketball experience. Proud inductees of the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame, the Globetrotters have entertained hundreds of millions of fans—among them popes, kings, queens, and presidents—over more than eight thrilling decades.

For more information on all of the festivities taking place during the Harlem Globetrotters' summer festival in Northern Michigan, visit the team's official website: www.harlemglobetrotters.com.

Men's Class C tournament set for this weekend

[illegible] year Class C Men's [illegible] Softball State [illegible] tournament begins Friday.

[illegible] games are scheduled [illegible] the Carpenter Avenue [illegible] here in Charlevoix.

The tourney field includes [illegible] from East Jordan, which [illegible] in the Petoskey Men's League.

Also in the field are Wright Way Tree from Eaton Rapids, Crouch Electric from [illegible], Big Apple Bagels from Midland, Stallard Asphalt from Grand Rapids, Superior Vault 46ers from Hemlock, Brekenpas Builders from Grand Rapids, Mayan Agency from Midland, Wilson Law from Midland, and ACES from Homer.

The tournament gets underway 7 p.m. Friday with two games: Wright Way vs. Crouch Electric, and Big Apple Bagels vs. Stallard Asphalt.

At 9 p.m. on Friday, Wilson Law will take on ACES, and Superior Vault will play Berkenpas Builders.

Play is scheduled to resume at 9 a.m. Saturday, July 21, with the Wright Way-Crouch winner taking on Mayan Agency, and EJ playing the Big Apple Bagels-Stallard Asphalt winner.

Games are scheduled all day on Saturday with the final game of the day set for 7 p.m.

Play resumes at 9 a.m. Sunday, July 22. The championship game is set for 12:30 p.m. A second if-necessary game will follow.

That brought up Baby Hang to the plate who hit a single to drive in Hannah from third to score the winning run.

The Charlevoix 9-10 All-Stars team will now advance to a district final game against West Branch in West Branch at 3 p.m. on Saturday, July 21.

East Jordan, which won last week's District 13 tournament posting a 3-0 record, fell to West Branch Monday 7-1.

each activity. Suddenly the "Venetian Games" were born. Most recently new activities have successfully attracted large participation — disc golf, horseshoes, a junior sailing regatta, and the Bike, Blades and Boards event.

The Ryan Shay Mile, another recent addition, brings world-ranked-distance runners to Charlevoix, often bringing an international flavor to the event. The games serve several purposes. First, obviously, the participants enjoy the competition. Also several events recognize "stars" of the past. The junior golf tournament, the Carey Cup recognizes the memory of the long-time manager of the municipal golf course, Keith Carey, who early-on recognized the value of allowing youngsters to use the course. Bob Klooster, a local softball hall-of-famer, is recognized by having the tournament named for him — the Bob Klooster Invitational. The Jeff Drenth Memorial Race recognizes a great Charlevoix runner whose career was cut short by his untimely death. The Ryan Shay Mile is to recognize a great champion runner from Northern Michigan.

Another value is that of raising funds for local sporting programs. The soccer tournament provides funds for the high school program, the footrace funds to the Charlevoix Rayder track and cross country program. Revenue from the basketball 3-on-3 event aids the local youth basketball program. While the community pool benefits from the Venetian Swim Championship.

The success of our games traces back to each game manager. They are terrific and have been with us for years. This year, however, we are losing four: Al Gooch, swimming, Ike Boss, softball, Dave Fowler, croquet and Carol Maddison, soccer. However, their torch has been passed on to new managers and the games will not miss a beat.

The spectators viewing the events adds to the huge crowds at the fireworks, Venetian musical concert events, Street Parade, Ferry Beach Aquapalooza, the carnival, and more.

The Venetian Festival really has something for everyone.

Tripp to defend seat from Lasater

Charlevoix County's District 1 primary race features familiar faces

SHERI MCWHIRTER
Northern Michigan Review

Tripp

Lasater

Incumbent Charlevoix County commissioner Shirlene Tripp will next month defend her District 1 seat on the board from a well known challenger, George T. Lasater, longtime and now retired sheriff.

The two are matched up in the Aug. 7 Republican primary election seeking the GOP nomination for the general election in November. Both Tripp, of Hayes Township, and Lasater, of Bay Township, have more than three decades apiece in public service to township or county government.

Tripp, 75, is at the end of her third term as county commissioner. She said she is pursuing a fourth because she is not yet finished with several projects.

"I'm running for re-election so we can finish some of our projects, like the non-motorized trail and continuing work on recycling," Tripp said.

Lasater, also 75, said he decided to re-enter local politics to offer his abilities and experience to voters.

"I felt I had a unique perspective to be a county commissioner and that was I've been an employee of the county, a probation officer for several years and elected sheriff for 32 years. Now I've been a private citizen and a retiree of the county for three years, seven months and 23 days," he said.

Tripp has 30 years of experience in township government, first as a trustee and then as treasurer before her move to county government. She said she is proud of recent work done to improve recycling centers in Charlevoix County and is glad a new sheriff's substation is under construction in Boyne Falls, even though the bidding process could have been handled better.

Ali Schwein: A 'Champion in Life'

Charlevoix swimmer's essay earns her a trip to watch Olympic trials

ANNE KELLY
Courier STaff Writer

At 4-foot-11, Ali Schwein might not look like many of the swimmers who will be competing for Olympic gold in London starting this weekend, but she shares the same love of the sport, and now, a little bit more, thanks to a recent essay contest.

Although Ali, the 15-year-old daughter of Charlevoix residents Sharron and Chip Schwein, is built more like a gymnast instead of a swimmer, through encouragement and sheer personal determination, she has achieved success and satisfaction in her sport at an early age.

Entering an essay cnntest sponsored by the USA Swimming Foundation, Ali was chosen in the 10-18 age group as a winner of a trip to this summer's Team USA Olympic Trials which took place in Omaha, Neb., June 25-July 2. Her essay, titled "Champion in Life," was focused on her determination to improve her skills as a competitive swimmer and to inspire other young athletes to persevere when things are not going well.

"I learned to always persevere," Ali wrote in her essay. "Now I try to spread the message to youth in my community .. sharing my lesson of perseverance is why I am a champion in life."

The experience of attending the Olympic Trials was one that Ali said she will not soon forget. As a winner, she was able to create a booth displaying her swim gear, medals and T shirt and to set up right next to one of the seasoned Olympic hopefuls. Ali and her mom, Sharron, were awarded tickets in the balcony for a week where they were able to watch the preliminaries. The last two days, they upgraded to front row seats where they were able to see the winners and seek autographs of the participants.

Ali said a highlight of the experience was a picture with Michael Phelps, who is well-known for winning eight gold medals in the 2008 Olympics. But Ali had other favorites as well including Dana Volmer

The art of cooperation: Charlevoix parks get sculptural lift

Charlevoix has long been known to many as a haven for the arts, but a recent cooperative effort between the City of Charlevoix and several private and non-profit groups as gone another step to foster that image.

With a goal of "Building Communities through Public Art", the City of Charlevoix recently partnered with the Sauvé Art Foundation, Charlevoix Circle of Arts and the Charlevoix Public Art Institute to install eight sculptures on public property throughout the City of Charlevoix.

During the past several months, Kristyn Balog, director of the Charlevoix Public Art Institute raised over $15,000 in donations for the installation of the sculptures. All funding for this exhibit was raised through the private sector and with financial support from the Charlevoix Rotary Club, Leo S. Guthman Fund, and the Sauvé Art Foundation.

The sculpture exhibit is represented by Artists: Emmanuel Rodriguez, Sophie Marie, Kansas Williams, Steve Cannaert, John Sauvé, and two local artists John T. Unger, and Walter Barkley.

The eight sculptures are located throughout the downtown area, on the Pine River Channel and at Michigan Beach.

The locations of the sculptures were specifically chosen to allow for walking tours to view the unique art pieces, Balog said.

"Public Art has a direct economic impact on the community, Balog said. "We think the project is a good investment and yet another attraction to bring visitors to Charlevoix."

Under the agreement, the sculptures, which are for sale, will remain in place for two years even if they are sold during that time. The Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority and City of Charlevoix officials are encouraging donations to the program, as the plan is to also bring more public art to town as fundraising progresses in the future.

The Charlevoix City Council gave its blessing to the project last September.

When speaking about the project to the council, John Sauve, a Brighton resident,

Castle Farms history books available

A new history book about Castle Farms is now available for early orders.

"For the Love of a Castle" chronicles the history of Charlevoix County's French Renaissance-style castle that is listed both on state and national historic registries. It is available for special pre-sale orders at $22 starting Monday, July 23.

The 96-page soft cover book contains both color photographs and rare black and white archival images. It will be available through the Castle Farms gift shop.

Castle Farms was constructed in 1918 by Albert Loeb, an executive with Sears Roebuck Company, as a working model dairy farm to showcase farm equipment available in the Sears catalog.

Today the historic facility serves as one of Michigan's premiere wedding venues and also is open to the public for historic tours.

The facility is along M-66, just south of Charlevoix.

Call (231) 237-0884, ext. 224, for more information, or visit www.castlefarms.com and choose the gift shop link.

BEAVER ISLAND

16-year-old killed in crash

HEATHER LOCKWOOD
Northern Michigan Review

A 16-year-old Pittsburgh, Penn., girl died and another girl was injured in a rollover crash on Beaver Island on Sunday, July 22.

Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office officials identified the deceased as the passenger in the car, Thandiwe Elizabeth Baton-Stawson. The driver, Anna Rieker, also 16, of Pittsburgh, was airlifted to Harbor Springs Airport by helicopter from United States Coast Guard Air Station Traverse City and was further transported to McLaren Northern Michigan where she was treated for her injuries and released.

Sheriff's office officials said emergency crews were called to a report of a crash on Gull Harbor Drive in St. James Township at about 10:50 p.m.

Authorities said, Thandiwe was originally reported to be unconscious, But upon arrival, emergency responders determined she had died as a result of the crash.

Both girls were visitors to the island.

"Initial reports indicated that Rieker may have swerved to avoid hitting a deer," the release states. "At this time, the accident remains under investigation by the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office accident re-constructionist."

Charlevoix County Sheriff Don Schneider told the News-Review on Monday that he can't remember the last time there was a fatal automobile crash on the island.

Yvonne Crandall, Beaver Island resident and vice president of the fire department auxiliary, said the auxiliary has donated $1,250 to Thandiwe's family to help with funeral costs. Mary Scholl, owner of the Beaver Island Toy Museum, has also made a donation, Crandall said.

Crandall asked anyone who would like to donate to call the Smith Funeral Home & Crematory, at (412) 828-5700.

Jarema to defend seat from Telgenhof

Incumbent Charlevoix County prosecutor challenged in primary

BRANDON HUBBARD
SHERI MCWHIRTER
Northern Michigan Review

Incumbent Charlevoix County prosecutor John Jarema will, on Aug. 7, defend his seat in the Republican primary election from challenger Allen Telgenhof, a Charlevoix attorney who, at least for a while, was his former boss.

The two are squared-off in a battle for the Republican nomination for the four-year elected prosecutor job after months of turmoil surrounding Jarema's internal office politics, resignation as county civil counsel and a Michigan Freedom of Information Act lawsuit with the Petoskey News-Review. The countywide race is expected to heat up in coming weeks, as voters barrel toward their collective decision at the polls.

Incumbent and a challenger

Both Jarema, 43, and Telgenhof, 48, each from Charlevoix, are well-known in local circles and even attend the same church. Telgenhof served two terms as a Charlevoix Public School Board member from 1999 to 2003, while Jarema is the current two-term incumbent prosecutor.

Jarema won the seat by less than 200 votes in 2004, defeating his former boss, Mary Beth Kur. Incidentally, Telgenhof hired Jarema prior to that narrow victory to work as a trial lawyer after Kur fired him for disloyalty.

Jarema

Telgenhof

"He had just been fired at the prosecutor's office, needed a job and was a friend, so we hired him," Telgenhof said. "What was important to us when we hired him as an attorney was we thought he was good in the courtroom."

That's a point Jarema drives home. He argues that his criminal trial experience sets him apart from Telgenhof.

"When you receive your law degree, it doesn't mean you are qualified to be a prosecutor, just like when you receive a degree to become a doctor you can't go into brain surgery or into plastic surgery," he said. "Criminal law is a specialized area of law that you need experience."

Jarema said on his first day as prosecutor in 2005 he came in ready to write warrants and conduct a criminal investigation because he already had seven years as an assistant prosecutor behind him. He pointed to his two-year case work for a second-degree murder conviction against Charles Merriman Jr., of East Jordan, for killing his brother William in 2006.

"It was the longest murder case in the history of Charlevoix County," Jarema said. "It was a murder without a body. I conducted that investigation in a case without a witness or a weapon. So, I think for someone to think they have the necessary means to be a prosecutor just because they are an attorney, I think they are fooling themselves."

But Telgenhof said his job as a lawyer is to get the best possible outcome for his clients and going to trial doesn't always achieve that, an answer to Jarema's questioning Telgenhof's trial experience. He said, "I'm confident in my trial skills. I was trying cases when John was still in college."

Telgenhof argued not only is he well-qualified for the job, he could bring an even keel to an important public office.

"I think it's important to be accountable to people and with having been on the school board, I think I'm in tune with that. You have to remember you are elected by the people and it's not a position of power, it's a position of service," Telgenhof said. "I want to bring stability to the prosecutor's office. I was concerned about what was going on in that office, like many attorneys in the area, so I decided to make a go of it."

HISTORY AND ACCUSATIONS

Recent discontent in the prosecutor's office became public knowledge in April, when chief assistant prosecutor Shaynee Fanara told county commissioners during an open meeting that Jarema lied both to them and to a judge. She also accused Jarema of bullying her and spreading false rumors about her, specifically that she gave juicier plea bargains to a defense attorney because they had a sexual affair. Fanara alleged that falsehood came as retaliation for filing a grievance against Jarema.

Later in April, Jarema resigned as the county's civil counsel after a string of county issues that surround him. He refused to reveal emails requested by the News-Review under the state FOIA law, re-

Four vie for new 6th District county board seat

STEVE ZUCKER
Courier Editor

Four candidates will vie for election to the sixth district seat on the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners in the upcoming Aug. 7 Republican Primary election. No one has filed to run for the seat as a Democrat.

That sixth district is made up of the city of Charlevoix and Charlevoix Township and currently has no incumbent representative. Last year's redistricting process shifted boundaries and landed current commissioners Bob Drebenstedt and Rich Gillespie in the same district for the 2012 election, leaving a wide-open seat for the Charlevoix area's representative on the county commission. All counties must draw new district lines each decade following the release of the nation's census figures, according to federal law.

Roloff

Shirley Roloff, 76, has been a Charlevoix resident for 39 years. She graduated high school in 1954 and completed two years of business school at Senior Rhyne College in Hickory, N.C. She and her husband, Bill, are semi-retired and have owned Charlevoix Canvas for the past 32 years. She was elected to the Charlevoix City Council in 1976 and served on the council for 12 years — six as mayor pro-tem. She also has served on the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners for 14 years.

Roloff said she has been active in many charitable organizations in the area over the past 38 years including The American Red Cross, American Cancer Society, United Way and many more.

Why are you running?

"I have received a lot of encouragement from the citizens asking me to return. I have been away from that position for the past 15 months, and I realized how much I have missed it. I know I still have much to contribute to the county."

What makes you a good candidate?

"I really care about the county and its citizens. I enjoyed working and representing our community. There are many issues facing the county. I know the issues, I have the knowledge, proven experience and the leadership to serve as your county commissioner."

What are the biggest issues facing the county?

"Budget, taxes and regulations. The citizens of the county have no idea where their money goes. They must be better informed. All of the businesses throughout the county are burdened with extremely high taxes, high rent, and too many regulations. The government has taken over too many of the county's responsibilities. I am for less government, and the only way we can clean up this mess is to clear out Washington in November."

Your priorities, if elected?

"Budget, taxes and regulations. I would also continue expanding the recycling program."

Roloff noted that one of the proudest accomplishments of her past service on the board was her leadership role in establishing the county's recycling program.

Sullivan

Larry Sullivan, 56, has been a Charlevoix resident for 31 years. This will be his first time seeking elected office. Sullivan, who holds a bachelor's degree in urban planning from Michigan State University has been the county's planning director since 1981. He is a member

Woman reports rape by man she offered ride

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's office is investigating an incident in which a Charlevoix woman reported that she was raped early Wednesday by a man to whom she offered a ride.

In a release issued late Wednesday afternoon, Charlevoix County Sheriff Don Schneider said at 37-year-old woman reported that the assault took place at around 1 a.m. in Eveline Township.

Police said the woman reported that she had picked up the man, whom she did not know, offering him a ride. Police said after the incident, the suspect stole the victim's truck and abandoned it a short distance away, then stole a second vehicle, which was later located in Boyne City.

The victim was treated at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Schneider said evidence collected from the scene led Sheriff's office detectives to a subject of interest. Interviews and evidence collection were still taking place at the time of the release. Schneider said he is confident this was an isolated incident and the public continues to be safe.

However, Schneider caution citizens about offering a ride to a complete stranger because of the risks involved.

"We understand people, with their best intentions, wanting to help others, however, this is a prime example of what can go seriously wrong," Schneider said in the release.

Candidate forum set for July 30

The Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce and the Petoskey News Review will be co-hosting a candidate forum from 5:30-7:30 p.m. on Monday, July 30 at the Charlevoix High School Auditorium.

All registered candidates were invited to attend the forum and were provided with a preliminary questionnaire. The answers to the questionnaire will be given out at the forum and later posted to the Charlevoix Chamber website, www.charlevoix.org.

Topics will cover taxation, county administrator, transparency, government collaboration, technology, cash reserves, and other current county issues.

The forum is free of charge and spectators will be given the chance to ask questions of the candidates as well as participate in an informal meet and great at the end of the forum.

For those who cannot attend the event, the Petoskey News Review will be streaming the event live on its website. To watch live, visit www.petoskeynews.com.

The Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce and Petoskey News Review do not endorse candidates. Organizers said the forum will serve as an atmosphere to educate the citizens of the county to make an informed decision.

Some like it hot:

Fondly recalling summers past

A LOOK AT LIFE

Gayle Gennett

Mosquitos, chiggers, swimmers itch — yep it's a warm summer and one that call for Fels naphtha soap, iced tea, a fan and a front porch. I remember the days when it was so hot my dad would finish off his slice of watermelon and rub the mostly eaten rind on his wrists. The watermelon wasn't a magic tonic but the coolness on his wrist brought his internal temperature down. That was also the summer dad drowned a mosquito that found its way into my ear. Head over the sink, my long, auburn hair held back with a rubber band, tilting my head and watching the water run down my face. "Ewww!" I kept saying as I visualized a bug treading water in my ear.

It was also the summer of cap guns and hanging out in my Davy Crockett tent. This canvas fixture was secured next to the swing set and it was my little piece of paradise. When I wasn't lying on the cool grass watching the clouds float by or collecting insects for my live bug collection, I would hang out in my tent reading the latest Trixie Belden adventure. My sister who was five years older was much more interested in Nancy Drew mysteries, giggling with her girlfriends and sharing stories about movie stars they'd never meet. I favored the outdoors, so you can imagine my excitement when my parents finally agreed I could spend the whole night in the backyard. Festooned with raccoon cap and a 'Hopalong Cassidy' gun by my side I felt safe, sound and secure being watched over by the glimmer of fluorescent blinking coming from the Food Fair sign nearby. My parents didn't have to worry about me leaving the yard because the street lights were already on and because we were still afraid the Boogie Man would get us.

Summer also meant croquet and badminton matches, card games and playing baseball in a nearby park or field. The Detroit Tigers game would be blaring in the background and uncles, dads, neighbors and even people walking by the front porch stoop would argue which player had the best batting average and who should be up next.

When the summer storms blew in, our neighborhood became a veritable playground. Dressed in swim suits we proceeded to jump into puddles and see who we could get soaking wet first. My sister, on the other hand, was busy collecting rain water in a glass jar because her latest teen magazine pictured a beautiful girl with shiny locks claiming the results were from rinsing her hair in rainwater.

Camping this past week brought back memories similar to my youth. Although my family camping experiences were limited to Camp Dearborn; a bit upscale for camping, but we did use a hand pump for getting water and the bathrooms we were an acre away (at least according to my mom). Today, while walking through the campground, I could see parents encouraging games that didn't include electronic devices and I was delighted to see families playing cards, sharing ghost stories and watching children and adults riding their bikes. I even saw a moth the size of a small bat but by the time I finished describing the creature to my husband, it had grown a foot with wings massive enough to carry away a rabbit.

Unfortunately, the week was too hot for the fire flies but we could watch the sun set and in the morning when the haze burned off we could watch the sun rise through the trees. All in all, summer brings back memories I will always cherish whether I'm 6 or 60. On a side note, it's good to be home as I was running out of quarters to take a shower and I no longer have to share a bathroom with flying insects and moths the size of ... well you know.

Jarema 'most qualified' for prosecutor

Editor:

We would like to express a few facts regarding Charlevoix County Prosecutor, John Jarema.

Since John took office in 2005 he has done some amazing things in the prosecutor's office. Most importantly, he has kept the promises that he made to the voters eight years ago. He is an "in court" prosecutor who has tried cases ranging from murder, to embezzlement, to criminal sexual conduct. In conjunction with the sheriff's department, he has implemented programs such as the Joint Operational Law enforcement Team (JOLT) and Sobriety Court. He was awarded the Mother's Against Drunk Oriving (MADD) lifesaver award in 2009.

Unfortunately, these last few months you may have read many things about John in the Petoskey News-Review. It has been a very trying time for John and his family as they have chosen not to respond to many of the allegations. Please know that John is very honest and forthcoming about these things and is more than happy to answer any questions or clear up any misunderstandings that have resulted from their attacks. He has chosen not to dn it through the paper, but is happy to speak with any voter regarding these issues. Many of the questions you may have can be answered by visiting his website, www.votejarema.com.

Please research both candidates and I'm certain you will find that John is the most qualified, honest, hardworking and ethical candidate.

John has done an excellent job for Charlevoix County. I hope that you will join us in voting for him on Tuesday, Aug. 7.

Scott and Lynn Vollmer
Charlevoix

After working with both candidates, writer supports Telgenhof

I am writing because I am in a unique position, having had both Allen Telgenhof and John Jarema represent me over the years. Allen has been my attorney for over 15 years and John represented me when he worked for Allen after he had been fired by Charlevoix County.

There is no question that Allen is the attorney with more experience and maturity, both in the courtroom and in his personal life. Allen is a man of high integrity and professionalism. He is a very knowledgeable and personable attorney who is highly respected by his peers.

Conversely I understand that John has had difficulties with the truth, misleading voters about his trial experience and Allen's trial experience, defending a grievance for lying to county commissioners and a judge and most recently he lied about endorsements he claimed to have.

The choice is clear for Charlevoix County voters. Allen Telgenhof will put an end to the controversies and wasted tax dollars and will make the county proud to have him as its prosecutor.

Matt Allen

Vote for Telgenhof for prosecutor

Editor:

As a Charlevoix County resident and retired attorney, I'm writing in support of Alen Telgenhof's candidacy for county prosecutnr. His 23 years of broad legal experience as well as his integrity and commitment to community are badly needed in a prosecutor's office that has been plagued with personnel turnover, interpersonal conflict and questionable practices for some time.

As an attorney with 38 years of experience including criminal prosecutions and defense on a state and federal level and serving as Lansing's city attorney for many years and advising them on legal matters (including freedom of information questions), I have been appalled by the current prosecutor's performance and conduct. Charlevoix County cannot afford for that to continue.

It's time for a change and Allen Telgenhof is well qualified to provide it. Please give him your vote on Aug. 7.

Stephen Sawyer
Boyne City

Vote for Shirlene Tripp and Ethel Knepp

Editor:

Hayes Township voters will vote in a crucial primary election on Aug. 7, the outcome of which will impact the future of Hayes Township and Charlevoix County. Hayes Township has been well represented by two dedicated officials: County commissioner Shirlene Tripp and township sopervisor Ethel Knepp. Both officials are responsive to constituent concerns, have a vision of how to grow jobs and tourism without oegatively impacting the open spaces and rural character of the township and county, and make decisions based on facts and on what is best for the entire township or county, not for their own personal gain or special interests. Both officials are fiscal conservatives yet they recognize the economic benefits of supporting the Charlevoix Area Community Pool, Charlevoix Public Library, county-wide broadband Internet access, the Little Traverse Wheelway, the oon-motorized trail along the Boyne City-Charlevoix Road and the Camp Sea-Gull purchase. They know the importance of Lake Charlevoix to the local economy and support strong science-based zoning ordinances which protect water quality, control invasive species, regulate development density and maintain public access to Lake Charlevoix. Please vote for both Shirlene Tripp and Ethel Knepp on Aug. 7.

Vote for Larry Sullivan for 6th District county commissioner

Editor:

Larry Sullivan truly deserves your vote as a Charlevoix County Commissioner. I first met him in 1998 while I was chair of the local committee of the Top of Michigan Trails Council. He worked hard and was a key member of the local trail committee to see the construction of the Charlevoix County portion of the Little Traverse Wheelway was completed. He was involved in our work with MDOT to obtain funding, appropriate design and construction of the trail. He also was involved in repairs of the trail with me on his own time (evenings and weekends), especially the boardwalk that carried the trail over a wetland. He has been working on non-motorized trails since he was hired by the county in 1981. He has been working tirelessly since 2003 to establish another non-motorized trail from Boyne City to U.S. 31 near Charlevoix, even while others had given up on that trail. He has my vote for commissioner and hopefully will have yours.

Support senior citizen millage

Editor:

At the Aug. 7 primary election, citizens will have an opportunity to continue their support for the county's seniors.

Jack Webb, who played Sergeant Joe Friday on the TV series Dragnet, was famoos for his line "just the facts, I just want the facts." Well here are some facts: People are retiring at a rate of 10,000/day and seniors now represent one of every four people in Charlevoix County. This past year, Charlevoix County Commission on Aging served more than 750 senior families and caregivers, delivered over 35,000 "meals on wheels," and served more than 31,000 meals at four senior centers. Commission On Aging assistance enabled seniors to remain in their homes instead of assisted living or care facilities.

This past year, based upon focus group input from throughout the county, the Commission On Aging made changes in its operations. Non-essential programs have been eliminated; staffing levels have been reduced in keeping with revenue; and an income-based sliding fee schedule for services has been introduced. Families helow poverty levels will not see an increase in charges. Those above poverty level will pay a small increase.

Your Charlevoix County seniors have not had an increase in millage since its inception in 2001. The millage expires this year. The county is asking for approval of .65 mils this year. A home owner with an taxable value of $50,000 will be asked to pay $32.50 per year — less than $3 per month. The Commission On Aging is dedicated to assisting Charlevoix County seniors in need by promoting independence and health.

In these difficult times, no single group has been challenged more than our seniors on a fixed income. The Commission On Aging thanks you for your support of Charlevoix County seniors, and respectfully asks for your continued support by voting "yes" for the senior millage in the Aug. 7 primary.

Richard Fish Commission On Aging
Advisory Board Chairman

Former superintendent supports Telgenhof

Editor:

I am writing this letter in support of Allen Telgenhof for Prosecuting Attorney of Charlevoix County.

Allen was president of the Charlevoix Public Schools Board of Education when I was hired as their superintendent of schools in 1998. During my tenure at Charlevoix Public Schools, I worked very closely with Allen. Allen led a board that was able to accomplish many goals that benefited not only the students but the community of Charlevoix.

Under his leadership Allen demonstrated many qualities which would serve him well as the county prosecoting attorney. First, Allen is very honest and has demonstrated tremendoos integrity. Allen is a good listener. He always ran an open meeting allowing for input (without cutting them off) from community members and parents attending our meetings. When dealing with difficult issues, Allen always displayed a sense of fairness when making decisions. He always asked probing questions while gathering information from both sides of an issue before making a decision.

Allen communicates clearly and effectively. He is articulate, tactful and is at ease as a public speaker in front of large groups. There are many proficient and dedicated attorneys in our community and then there are those who must be considered outstanding. Allen Telgenhof is outstanding.

If these are the qualities you are looking for in the Prosecuting Attorney of Charlevoix County, then Allen Telgenhof is the right choice!

Dr. John J. Sturock
Former Superintendent of Charlevoix Public Schools
Superintendent of Allen Park Public Schools

Do we really need the recreation millage?

Editor:

The (recreational) millage request on the ballot of 0.15 mills doesn't seem like much, but our property taxes never go down and the millage increases never seem to go away. It costs about $125,000 a year to maintain our parks and the suggested millage would be $302,777 a year for four years.

Some facts to think about before you vote: Charlevoix County has one of the highest median property tax rates in the United State and is ranked 613th of the 3,145 counties in order of average property taxes (with one being the highest). The unemployment rate in the county is 12.7 percent of the labor force. Students eligible for free or reduced lunches are 47.7 percent in Charlevoix County. Fifteen percent of the county's population used food assistance in the third quarter of 2011. Food at home Consumer Price Index increased 4.8 percent in 2011 and with the current drought, I am sure there will be an even bigger jump this year. June 22, the gas price in Charlevoix was $3.79 — national average of $3.465 for a difference of 32.5 cents per gallon. How often do you go to Traverse City and notice that their gas is 20 to 30 cents a gallon cheaper? Our economy is far from healthy. Do we need to spend money people done have on things we could live without for a while? No amount of savings is too small.

BUSINESS

Tranquility Massage and Bodywork opens inside MacDougall House

MARK LINDSAY
COURIER STAFF WRITER

A young entrepreneur has brought a new business to the Charlevoix area in the form of Tranquility Massage and Bodywork.

Alyssa Themm, a lifelong resident of the Charlevoix area, is celebrating the grand opening of her new massage and bodywork business inside the MacDougall House bed and breakfast. Themm had previously worked at the bed and breakfast for three years, and when looking for space to open her business was offered room by the owners.

"I felt it was a good fit, especially for a new business, and I also offer a 20% percent discount to clients staying at the B&B," Themm said.

Themm is the daughter of Tom and Cindy Themm, who operate a family business as well in the Charlevoix area, Themm Brothers Dairy. Alyssa grew up on the dairy farm and graduated from Northwest Academy prior to attending Nnrth Central Michigan College, where she received an associates degree. In 2011, Themm graduated from The Institute of Natural Therapies, where she received her training as a massage therapist.

"I intend to continue to train, and learn new things as I move forward in the business," Themm said. "I want to be able to offer more services that can't be foond in this area, and specialize in massage," she added. Currently the new business offers Swedish massage, deep tissue massage, mud packs and hand and foot massage.

As the business continues to grow and expand its clientele, Themm has plans to possibly relocate into a freestanding office or other space. "Since I've lived in Charlevoix my entire life, I knew I wanted to work here because I love it," she said. Having officially opened July 1, her focus for now is on gaining momentum through word of mouth.

"I really feel that I offer something onique that sets me apart from anything else offered locally," Themm said. "The school I attended encourages each student to develop their own approach to massage, and that creates something special that can be tailored for each client," she added.

Currently Tranqoility Massage and Bodywork is taking appointments and accepting new clients at their office located at 109 Petoskey Ave. in Charlevoix. For more information visit the website at www.tranquilitymassagechx.com or call (231) 675-3660 for an appointment.

Pool auction to offer Challenger voyage again

With less than two week's before its biggest annual fundraising event, officials with the Charlevoix Area Community Pool have just confirmed that a trip aboard the historic vessel, Challenger, will be among the many premium items up for bid at the pool's 23rd annual benefit auction set for Aug. 5. This trip, which has been one of the most popular items at many past auctions a unique Great Lakes experience. Four individuals will be given the opportunity to experience a part of Michigan's past as they travel on the first steam powered vessel in the history of the Great Lakes to remain in active service for over a century.

The Challenger was built in 1906 – before the Titanic – and is a gem of the Great Lakes. Contact auction coordinator, Megan Wuerth, at (231) 547-0982 for more information or to make your reservation to attend this unique event.

Under the French bistro theme of "Tour de Charlevoix," the event kicks off at 5 p.m. with a silent auction and mixer, followed at 7 p.m. with dinner and the live auction at 8 p.m. The cost is $50 per person. (French bistro attire is optional.)

Some of the other premium items that will be up for bids include: A two Night Stay the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island, eight days and seven nights at La Mer Guest Hotel, Key West, Florida; a romantic cruise for two aboard the Keweenaw Star; dinner for six at the Weathervane Restaurant, and an inflatable kayak. In all more than 200 items will be up for bid.

Donations for the Auction are being accepted at the pool.

To learn more about what the pool has to offer, visit www.charlevoixpool.org or call (231) 547-0982.

Char-Em United Way meets membership requirements

Char-Em United Way Executive Director Martha Lancaster, recently announced that the organization has successfully completed all of United Way's national membership requirements. The annual certification process includes completing the Membership Requirements Certification, Membership Investment to support the national office, and a survey of Total Resources Generated (a survey that captures the full extent of a community's resource development efforts during the year). Over and above the annual requirements, Char-Em United Way will later this year complete a mandatory three-year organizational self-assessment.

"The membership requirements must be certified annually in order for us to remain a member of United Way," Lancaster said. "It is important for us to maintain high standards of accountability, and this is part of the process to confirm that our operations are transparent and meet or exceed United Way requirements."

The board of Char-Em United Way approved the Membership Requirements Certification on June 14. The certification mandates completion of 12 requirements for United Way membership, along with verification of the status of 60 indicators that a United Way demonstrates the intent of the membership requirements.

Char-Em United Way is part of a worldwide network of 1,800 local organizations in 45 countries and territories.

"All United Ways must meet the highest standards and verify that they have conformed to the requirements of membership," said Brian Gallagher, president and CEO, United Way Worldwide. "We applaud Char-Em United Way's commitment to accountability and, importantly, their continued efforts to support work in their community which improves lives and advances the common good for all people."

As an integral part of Charlevoix and Emmet Counties for nearly 70 years, Char-Em United Way improves lives by providing financial support for effective health and human service programs that meet identified community needs. In addition, United Way has taken the lead in programs such as Volunteer Connections, 2-1-1, Benefits Access, Friends Enhancing Emmet Transit, and its new Education Initiative.

The annual United Way Campaign which supports all these activities is underway. To donate or for more information call (231) 487-1006, email info@charemunitedway.org or log on to www.charemunitedway.org.

OBITUARIES

Florence S. Uhrick, 97

Florence S. Uhrick, 97, of Charlevoix, died Sunday, July 22, 2012, at Boulder Park Terrace in Charlevoix.

She was born May 1, 1915, in Amsterdam, New York, to Joseph and Anna Kalinowski. She graduated from high school in Detroit, and in 1936, was married to John A. Uhrick. They made their home Detroit, then in Walled Lake before moving to Charlevoix in 1956. John preceded her in death on Dec. 10, 1963.

Florence was committed to her family, friends and community but also loved to play bridge and rummy. Even after moving to Boulder Park Terrace, she played cards almost every day. When she was younger, she assisted her husband as his office manager at their automobile dealership in Charlevoix.

Florence is survived by her children, Sylvia Beckman of Madison, Wis. and Delray Beach, Fla., Karen Foss of Mill Valley, Calif. and Charlevoix, Diane Jerome of Charlevoix and Delray Beach, Fla., and Jack, Jim and Jerry Uhrick all of Charlevoix, a brother and a sister both of Detroit and 11 grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren.

A private service for Florence's family is planned and internment will take place at Brookside Cemetery alongside her husband, John.

In lieu of flowers memorial contributions may be made to Hospice of Northwest Michigan, 220 West Garfield, Charlevoix, MI 49720.

The Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix is handling the arrangements.

Joan L. Gigg, beloved wife, mother, grandmother, great grandmother, sister, and friend passed away peacefully on April 27, 2011 at the age of 84.

She is survived by her loving husband of 64 years, Jock; children Lorelei (Ted) Weidman, Michael (Kathy) Gigg, Sandra (Wayne) Wever, 9 grandchildren, 9 great-grandchildren, other relatives and friends.

Joan will be greatly missed by all who knew and loved her.

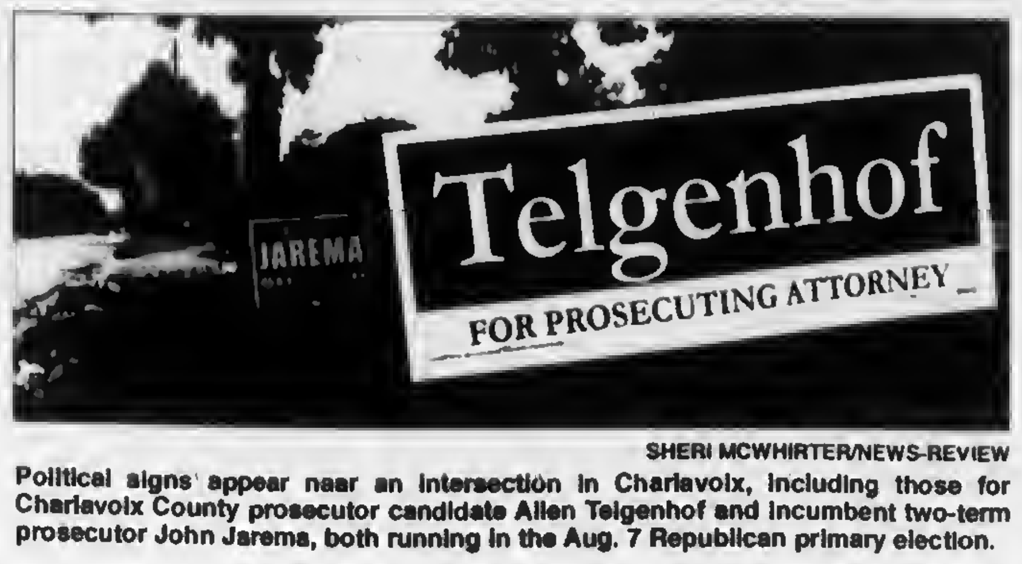
Inconsistencies with election endorsements

Not all Charlevoix County prosecutor race ads withstand scrutiny

SHERI MCWHIRTER
Northern Michigan Review



SHERI MCWHIRTER/NEWS-REVIEW

Political signs appear near an intersection in Charlevoix, including those for Charlevoix County prosecutor candidate Allen Telgenhof and incumbent two-term prosecutor John Jarema, both running in the Aug. 7 Republican primary election.

Charlevoix County voters may not want to believe everything they read in this season's political advertisements.

Endorsement ads published by the Committee to Re-elect John A. Jarema recently raised questions across the county and the News-Review failed to confirm several names on the incumbent prosecutor's various lists of supporters. On the other hand, everyone whose name appeared in an ad published by Friends for Allen Telgenhof confirmed their endorsement.

Jarema is the incumbent two-term Charlevoix County prosecutor and Telgenhof is a Charlevoix attorney challenging him in the Aug. 7 Republican primary election.

The News-Review this week attempted to contact 16 current or former government or law enforcement officials whose names recently appeared in prosecutor race endorsement ads, the top eight for Jarema and the top eight for Telgenhof. All 16 communicated with the newspaper, but not all confirmed endorsement advertising that included their names.

Sheriff Don Schneider said his name accurately appeared in a Jarema endorsement ad.

"He endorsed me and I endorsed him," Schneider said.

Capt. Dan Barboza, of the Grand Traverse Band of Ottawa and Chippewa Indians, confirmed that he, too, endorsed Jarema for re-election, as did former county cummissioner Jim Behling.

"I've known John for a long time and he's a friend. But I've not made up my mind who I'll actually vote for yet," Behling said.

Additionally, former county commissioner Ralph Harmon said he is undecided about the race, though his name appeared as an endorsement on Jarema's website.

Responses from the other four double-checked officials whose names appeared as published endorsements for Jarema remain somewhat unclear, including those from most of the police chiefs whose departments appeared in a Jarema advertisement. The ad featured a list of police chiefs — by department, not individual name — that purportedly fully support Jarema, including the sheriff, Boyne City, East Jordan and tribal police from both the Grand Traverse Band and the Little Traverse Bay Bands of Odawa Indians.

Not all of that could be confirmed, though.

"No comment," said Dale Boehm Jr., East Jordan police chief.

Craig Remsberg, recent Boyne City interim police chief prior to new chief Jeff Gaither's Monday oath of office, said he wants to stay out of it.

"I intended to be neutral in this election and that's where I am," Remsberg said.

Gaither said he did not endorse Jarema, either.

"And we will very quickly have a policy that prevents political endorsements, like Charlevoix has," Gaither said.

Chief law enforcement officer Jeff Cobe, of the Emmet County-based tribe, said there's been some confusion.

"That really wasn't an endorsement, as I understood. I don't think that was the content of the conversation I had with John several weeks ago," Cobe said, adding the tribe maintains a policy that prevents political endorsements.

"We don't support the person, we support the office," Cobe said.

That is strikingly similar to a response given by Chuck Vondra, county undersheriff and former Boyne City mayor.

"I'll endorse the person who is going to be the tough in-court prosecutor and who makes decisions and policies that make Charlevoix County a better place to live and visit. After Aug. 7 we will know who that is and no matter who that is, we will work with that person," Vondra said.

Additionally, there are dozens more names listed on Jarema's website that the News-Review did not attempt to confirm.

Telgenhof, on the other hand, so far only listed eight names as endorsements in ads, including former prosecutor Mary Beth Kur, former prosecutor Kraag Lieberman, former Michigan State Police director Richard (R.T.) Davis, county commissioners Richard Gillespie, Bob Drebenstedt and Shirlene Tripp, as well as former county commissioners Valerie Snyder and Vic Patrick. All confirmed their endorsement for Telgenhof, the prosecutor's challenger.

At least one of those endorsements is rather obvious.

Snyder is Telgenhof's current law partner at their Charlevoix-based legal firm. She said Telgenhof is an excellent and ethical lawyer, traits county residents should look for in a prosecutor.

"I think he's demonstrated honesty, impartiality, fairness and an excellent knowledge of the law. I think he's extremely well-qualified to be Charlevoix County prosecutor," Davis said.

Some of the other advertised Telgenhof endorsers said their hopes for his campaign is to bring change to the current regime.

Lieberman said he wants more fiscal responsibility from a prosecutor, citing recent lawsuits that cost county taxpayers in the end. Others point to Jarema as a reason to endorse Telgenhof.

"I definitely endorsed Allen Telgenhof because of my past experiences with John Jarema. I also feel there's been too much plea-bargaining," Patrick said, adding how he is disappointed in Jarema's handling of events that led up to a recent successful Michigan Freedom of Information Act lawsuit filed by the Petoskey News-Review.

Drebenstedt said he just can't recommend Jarema to voters.

"I've been able to work with John Jarema on some things, but not everything is completed as it should be, like the FOIA suit," he said. "Allen Telgenhof I've known for a while and he is an honorable man. I've enjoyed his support of the community, especially student athletics. I definitely think he's the man for the job."

Gillespie didn't mince words, either.

"I had a discussion with a fellow commissioner — more than one — that I could not support Mr. Jarema given the circumstances we find ourselves in, for example, the FOIA lawsuit and the Merriman case appeal," Gillespie said.

Tripp said she blames Jarema for "deliberately leading the county into" the FOIA suit.

"I feel it's not fair to the taxpayers to have to pay for that," she said.

Endorsements aside, voters will decide next month whether Jarema or Telgenhof will win the Republican nomination. No Democratic candidate filed for the primary election.

Crop Walk set for Sept. 29

Come rain or shine, area residents are gearing up for the 29th annual Charlevoix County CROP Walk. Slated for 9 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 29, the six-mile walk will commence from three Charlevoix County locations. Those from East Jordan will meet at Elm Pointe. Boyne City participants will assemble at Whiting Park and Charlevoix walkers will gather at the Charlevoix Middle School. The walkers will all end at the Congregational Church in Ironton where lunch will be provided to all participants. Organizers are encouraging all area churches and individuals to join in this annual fundraiser. This year an anonymous donor will donate $20 for each new walker participating in the annual walk.

Organized locally, the Charlevoix County CROP Walk has set a goal to recruit 100 walkers to raise $20,000. Twenty-five percent of all funds raised will be returned to Charlevoix County to support the work of The Good Samaritan of Ellsworth, Care and Share in East Jordan, the Charlevoix Food Pantry, as well as the Seventh Day Adventist and Trinity Pentecostal Church of God in Boyne City.

Last year, more than 90 walkers and volunteers raised more than $20,000, of which $5,000 was distributed among local food pantries. The remaining contributions were used to fight hunger and to provide better sanitation for communities in the United States as well as those around the world.

For more information about CROP Walk, contact Marge Teske in East Jordan at (231) 536-3128, John Young in Charlevoix at (231) 547-2042 or Mary Richwine in Boyne City at (231) 582-6035.

For more information or to make a donation visit the website for Charlevoix County CROP Walk at www.cropwalkonline.org/charlevoixmi.

Chicago to Mackinaw race goes off safely this year

MACKINAC ISLAND (AP) — After being plagued by severe thunderstorms that resulted in the deaths of two participants last year, the Chicago Yacht Club's Chicago to Mackinac race wrapped up earlier this week without incident.

The Providence was the top finisher in the Chicago-Mackinac Trophy division with a corrected time of 37 hours, 28 minutes. The Realt Na Mara was the top finisher in the Mackinac Cup division with a corrected time of 38 hours, 28 minutes. Those boats started Saturday.

The Intuition finished atop the cruising division, which started Friday. Its corrected time was 48 hours, 22 minutes.

The racers actually faced the opposite problem this year — little or no wind — for a time.

Much of the fleet was becalmed Sunday, but the breeze picked up and most finished Monday. Winners in various divisions are based on a handicapping system that considers each boat's potential.

About 330 boats set sail in the Lake Michigan tradition that began in 1898. The course is 333 statute-miles.

During last year's race two crew members aboard the 35-foot sailboat WingNuts died when the boat capsized offshore from Charlevoix during a violent thunderstorm. The victims were Mark Morley, 51, and Suzanne Bickel, 40, both of Saginaw, who died in Lake Michigan.

Roof contract awarded for substation

Charlevoix County construction project continues in Boyne Falls

SHERI MCWHIRTER
Northern Michigan Review

Charlevoix County commissioners agreed to spend more than $16,000 to put a special roof on the sheriff's new substation building in Boyne Falls.

Commissioners unanimously voted Wednesday to spend $16,743.90 on a change order request from Birchwood Construction, of Harbor Springs, the company that in May won the general construction contract at $263,000. Only commissioner Bob Drebenstedt, of Marion Township, did not attend the meeting.

"The original roofing material was the standard pole barn material," said Joel Evans, board chairman.

Instead, a heavier metal material will be used to improve the building's sustainability, officials said. Records show the roof will be installed by subcontractor Jordan Construction, of East Jordan.

"It will last a lot longer — well worth the money," said commissioner Ron Reinhardt, of Wilson Township.

Reinhardt

Christensen

Commissioner Shirlene Tripp, of Hayes Township, said she remains concerned about the total cost of the building, as its initial pitch called for an approximate $200,000 price tag. The project's running tab now nears $280,000 and there are some additional expected expenses — anticipated around $14,700 — including utility hookups, a septic system, landscaping and both grading and driveway work.

Tripp

Evans

Commissioner Chris Christensen, of Boyne City, said officials do not want to "throw up the cheapest structure possible."

"We're building a building that has to have some longevity, folks," he said.

Tripp requested a report back to the commission about the construction project's cost so far, what is left to bid out and total cost projections. Evans said he expects a presentation with that information once the work is completed.

Reinhardt said he believes the county will save money in the end by bidding out the project's jobs individually, rather than one complete construction contract.

Additionally at the meeting, commissioners unanimously agreed to contribute $5,500 to the Emmet-Charlevoix County Fair to be spent on renovations to improve ventilation in a horse barn, an amount to match a contribution from Emmet County coffers. Fair manager Agnes Shaw reported how the fair board already raised $19,000 and the total anticipated cost is $27,000.

"We are going to continue to fundraise for the balance," Shaw said.

Local 4-H'ers are key to the fund drive, she said, some even earning hundreds of dollars through pledges at a recent horse show.

CHARLEVOIX HISTORICAL SOCIETY
Bridging our past with our future

LOOKING BACK…

In 1957, Venetian Queen Deanna Left received her crown from a member of Hollywood royalty, actor and producer Buddy Rogers who was the star of the first Academy Award-winning film, "Wings." He was also the husband of silent screen legend Mary Pickford. Looking on is Merrie Case, 1956 Venetian Queen. Two years later, queen Carol Duerr received her crown from comedian Joe E. Brown, immortalized on screen in the classic comedy "Some Like It Hot" as Jack Lemmon's playboy suitor. In 1964, queen Marci Wallace was crowned by Michigan governor George Romney, father of current Republican presidential hopeful Mitt Romney. Charlevoix was often visited by the Hollywood, TV, and Broadway actors and actresses who performed every summer at the Cherry County Playhouse in Traverse City.

This image is one of 850 in the Charlevoix Historical Society's most recent DVD titled "Charlevoix, Michigan — A Pictorial Journey through 16 Decades." The disc is available at the Society's Harsha House Museum, 103 State St. next to the Congregational Church, from 1-4 p.m. Monday-Saturday. It is also available at the Central Drug Store, Round Lake Books, Castle Farms, and Ell-Air Gallery. Docents are needed for the society's Harsha House for July and August. Call (231) 547-0373 for mailing and society membership information or to volunteer as a docent. Readers who would like to see a specific Charlevoix historic topic, or wish to have a historic question answered, call or email to chxhistory@sbcglobal.net.

COURTESY PHOTO

Jackson Hollocker of Harbor Springs (left) is FreeCycling items to Katherina Hawas, Great Start Collaborative and Parent Coalition member, for her 2-year-old son, Finn. Great Start has launched FreeCycle on Facebook for families to post items they need and for other families to help fulfill the need.

The Great Start Collaborative and Parent Coalition have launched a FreeCycle forum on Facebook to give families an opportunity to give and take gently used items for their children.

The Facebook page is for families and caregivers to seek specific items they need for their children such as sporting equipment, strollers, clothing and more. It also gives families the opportunity to share their gently used children's items with other families in their community.

To participate:

— Visit www.facebook.com/GreatStartFreeCycle

— Post on the page

— Make a post about an item you are looking for… "I am looking for size 4 baseball cleats for a boy"

— Make a post about an item to give… "I have baby stroller to give away"

— Respond to a post… "I have cleats I can give you… I need a stroller"

— Great Start FreeCycle will help parents facilitate the exchange if requested

— Shy about posting? Private message Great Start FreeCycle and they will make a post for you, confidentially.

"The FreeCycle page is just one of many ways the Great Start Collaborative and Parent Coalition work to strengthen families in our community," said Maureen Hollocker, director.

"Families in our Northern Michigan region are generous and community minded. Parents find reward in passing along their gently used items knowing it is going to good use for another child in our area and the free part in FreeCycle means that no money ever exchanges hands — helping the bottom line in family budgets that are already strained by the challenging economy we are experiencing."

"The Great Start FreeCycle page already has 53 'likes' and has made around a dozen freecycles," said Mandy Peterson, parent coalition liaison. "We have been getting great feedback on the idea and expect this to be a successful venue for parents to help build strong families through mutual support."

The Great Start Collaborative is currently made up of more than 30 different participants and organizations from around the community. Representatives from business, health, education, human services, legislative, higher education, nonprofit, court systems and parents are committed to creating a movement in our area that seeks to involve the entire community in supporting families as they raise their young children to succeed in school and in life. Leadership program seeks participants for next session

Officials with the Leadership Charlevoix County program are encouraging area business professionals looking to enhance their leadership skills to apply for the program, now entering its second year. Led by community leaders, the nine-month program will introduce participants to the various sectors of the county, the inner workings and needs of the region.

Applications are available online at www.leadershipcharlevoixcounty.com and are due by 5 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 1. Applications can also be picked up at the Boyne City, Charlevoix, East Jordan and Beaver Island chambers of commerce or by calling (231) 547.2101.

"Leadership Charlevoix County is designed to cultivate new, emerging and potential leaders from our area," program coordinator Mishelle Shooks said. "We also hope participants will identify and address pertinent community needs while strengthening their own individual leadership abilities."

Jennifer Kenney, an employee of Harbor Industries in Charlevoix, completed the first year of the program in May and highly recommends it to others.

"I believe my experience in Leadership Charlevoix County has given me a strong foundation for my future leadership plans. It's ignited a spark in me to reflect on who I am and where I want to be."

The nine-month course, will run from September 2012 through May 2013 and will take participants throughout the county and includes sessions in:

— Connecting with government

— Health and human services

— Economic development

— Education today

— Building your tool box skills of communication, creativity, business ethics and media relations

— Arts, culture and philanthropy

— Environmental and natural resources

— Where do we go from here? Putting newly learned skills to use

In addition to the monthly sessions, the course will kick off with an orientation and then an overnight retreat to Beaver Island. Participants will be matched with a mentor who will help open doors to personal and professional growth. The session culminates with a graduation ceremony in May 2013.

Space in the program is limited and interested individuals are encouraged to complete an application soon. Tuition is $750 for the full course and includes materials, meals and other program costs. If the applicant's employer/organization is not a member of the Boyne City, Charlevoix, East Jordan or Beaver Island Chambers of Commerce, the cost is $850.

Leadership Charlevoix County is sponsored by the Boyne City, Charlevoix and East Jordan chambers of commerce with support from the Beaver Island Chamber. The program is made possible by a grant from the Charlevoix County Community Foundation.

Leadership Charlevoix County is coordinated by steering committee members Jim Baumann, Boyne Area Chamber of Commerce; Erin Bemis, Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce; Mary Faculak, East Jordan Area Chamber of Commerce; Matthew Britton, Korthase Flinn Insurance; Susan Conklin, Boyne District Library; Kathy Jacobsen, Charlevoix Area Hospital; Frank Leonard, Save A Lot; Dianne Litzenburger, Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District; Lori Meeder, Northern Initiatives; Val Meyerson, Charlevoix Public Library; and Maureen Radke, Charlevoix County Community Foundation.

For more information contact Shooks at shooks@charlevoix.org or (231) 547.2101. Questions may also be directed to the Boyne City, East Jordan, Charlevoix and Beaver Island chambers of commerce.

of a wide array professional planning organizations, he is a member of and former chairman of the city's zoning board of appeals, a member the city's historical district commission, and coached numerous youth sports teams. He is a member the Charlevoix Knights of Columbus, Top of Michigan Trails Council, St. Mary's Catholic Church and has served as chairman of the St. Mary's School Board.

Why are you running?

"I have lived in Charlevoix for over 31 years as I feel this is a great place to live and raise a family. I want to see it continue to be such a place into the future. I have been actively involved in the community since arrival in 1981 as I believe that to make a great community, each of us must invest time, energy and commitment. I have worked for Charlevoix County since I moved into Charlevoix and I believe that my knowledge and expertise can assist Charlevoix County to grow and thrive in the future."

What makes you a good candidate?

I have worked with the county board of commissioners since 1981 and I believe that I have a good grasp of the issues facing the county ... I have seen what has worked well and what has not. In both my educational background and in my professional working career, I have had to keep an open mind, look at the big picture as well as into the future. These skills give me the ability to help shape decisions that will benefit the county long term. I will not be facing the lengthy learning curve that typically faces a new commissioner. Upon being elected, I will retire (from being the county planning director) which will allow me to devote my full time and energies to serving my constituents and the residents of Charlevoix County."

What are the biggest issues facing the county?

"I believe the major issues facing the county are the economy, county administration, and taxation. We can take steps to improve our economy by further developing our recreational facilities, such as a system of non-motorized trails to assist in expanding our tourism season. Another solution could be a program to actively promote Charlevoix County throughout the state and the Midwest. Administration of the county implies an experienced county administrator. In terms of taxation, Charlevoix County is in good shape financially. If we have a surplus of funds, perhaps we should ease up on the taxpayers in regards to the county levy of property taxes. Other issues I feel strongly about include improving county government, encouraging and promoting economic development."

Your priorities, if elected?

My top priority is the hiring of an experienced county administrator to work side by side with county commissioners to implement an effective county government that is an open, fiscally transparent government. Open government consists of decisions being made in a public meeting, not being decided behind the scenes and then being rubber-stamped at a public meeting.

Haggard

John Haggard, 71, was born and raised in Charlevoix and is a Charlevoix High School and Ferris State College graduate. He served in the U.S. Army from 1965-1967 and he and wife Phyllis had four children (one is deceased) and 14 grandchildren. Haggard has been co-owner of Haggard's Plumbing and Heating since 1971. He is a member of a wide array of local and national organizations including St. Mary's Church, Knights of Columbus, Elks, American Legion, Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club and several hunting organizations. In addition to holding several positions in the Republican Party, he also served on the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners from 1976-1982.

(Editor's note: Instead of responding directly to questions posed by the Courier, Haggard provided a five-point position document.)

"As a former county commissioner and being the only candidate that was born and raised in Charlevoix, I feel that it is my duty to represent the city and township of Charlevoix. I will bring my business background to help improve the county to operate as a business."

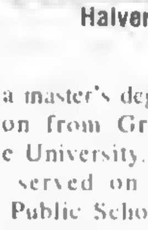
Haggard said he wants to see better communication with all county elected officials and appointed department heads and wishes to continue to balance the budget and reduce the tax burden of the county's taxpayers.

He said he wants to make the best use of taxpayer money by providing needed services ad reduced costs and reviewing services offered to determine which are not needed or a low priority.

Haggard also said he want to hold the state accountable for providing funding for any programs that it mandates. He said if the funds aren't provided the county should "stand up to Lansing and not implement (the programs) without the funds."

He said the board has worked well with the Northern Lakes Economic Alliance, but needs to expand industry in order to create jobs so youth are willing to stay in the area and raise their families.

Regarding taxes, Haggard said he wants to "do whatever is possible to balance the budget and reduce the millage charge to businesses and homeowners.



Halverson

Dennis Halverson, 56, has lived in the city of Charlevoix for 25 years. He has a bachelor's degree in criminal justice and a master's degree in education from Grand Valley State University. He previously served on the Charlevoix Public School's Board of Education and served at its president. Halverson currently holds an administrative position with the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District where he assists area school districts with emergency planning, manages transportation, oversees buildings and grounds, director of the AmeriCorps program.

From 1987 to 2005 he served as the chief of police for the City of Charlevoix Police Department. He left that position to take his current job. Halverson is a member of St. Mary's Catholic Church; Rotary Club; he is a charter members of the Community Thanksgiving Dinner team and a campaign coordinator for the Char-Em United Way. He is married to Joy and they have two grown children.

Why are you running?

"As a county commissioner for Charlevoix County I would be the start of a new direction for Charlevoix County government. I bring to the table new perspectives, new ideas and an unconditional commitment to creating a transparent and responsive governmental process. I will encourage the pursuit of partnerships and collaboration with other governmental units, the business community and our citizens in providing services that are essential."

What makes you a good candidate?

"Being the chief of police in Charlevoix for almost 20 years, I am a known quantity. I tried to be visible, approachable and sensitive to the various issues affecting our citizens, visitors, the schools, and our business community ... I have the training, education and experience to be effective in the specific job responsibilities of the county board, as well as an ability to find the middle ground in crafting policy and reaching consensus inside and outside county government."

What are the biggest issues facing the county?

"In spite of the bumps in the road, the board is currently experiencing, I feel we have an environment and citizen base that is second to none. It is essential that the county board sees its role in providing regional support to the various entities and infrastructure, that will position us for the future. Whether we are talking about our roads, bike paths, tax structure, or supporting local units of government, we can't allow county government to lose its way in taking a leadership role in long term planning for the future of our county.

Your priorities, if elected?

"The county board needs to get out of the business of trying to manage the day to day operations of the county ... A professional administrator needs to be a hired. County government has become isolated from other governmental units, the business community and the citizens. Opportunities for collaborative ventures and partnerships have been ignored. I will work toward building partnerships and relationships. The county commission has suffered a loss of credibility brought about by a series of high profile controversies that have wasted a lot of time and money. Having a commissioner with a new perspective and a fresh look at things is a start. I am the only candidate who has no current or past association with this county's government. I believe this is a positive."

Evans disagrees with Hague's call for change on board

Joel Evans looks to defend his seat as District 4 county commissioner

JONATHAN ALEXANDER
Northern Michigan Review

On Aug. 7, incumbent Charlevoix County Commissioner of District 4, Joel Evans will defend his seat in the Republican primary election against former Boyne Falls police chief and sheriff's deputy David Hague.

If 71-year-old Evans, of South Arm Township were to win this would be his fourth term. He believes that every person has a mission in life and his is to serve Charlevoix County. His main goal is to serve the county with honesty and integrity.

"I really enjoy serving Charlevoix County," Evans said. "My mission isn't complete because I am running (for office) again."

Evans said if there's a way he can cut taxes then it would be one of the first things that he would do.

However, Hague, 60, of East Jordan, says changes need to be made.

Hague's platform is "change and common sense," something that he says the current commissioners lack. He wants to go the chair with fresh ideas and fresh outlook. He says that with taxes getting ready to go down, the current commissioners are spending money in the wrong places.

Evans

Hague

"I don't know what these commissioners are thinking," Hague said.

He said that the sheriff's department has a nice substation in Boyne Falls that is currently being paid for by the village, but the current commission now have convinced the county that they need a new one. The new facility would cost at least $260,000, according to Hague. He questions why the county would make these purchases in a tough economy.

"Those sorts of things worry me, and I just think it could be done better and an entirely new council would make a big change," Hague said. "We need people who understand the needs of the county."

Evans, says otherwise. He said the commission is spending where the taxpayers want their money spent.

"Everybody knows that the sheriff's department is out of room," Evans said.

He says the county currently stores some of the equipment used by the sheriff department in Evan's own lumber yard and free of charge. He emphasizes that this equipment is necessary for the winter.

"I think if Mr. Hague would do some research, he would find that all the money that we have spent, like the roads, like the building — I don't think there is any place he could point to in Charlevoix County and say 'they spent that money on this project and they didn't need to,'" Evans said. "If he thinks there is something that we shouldn't have done he should have contacted the county a long time ago."

Evans said any citizen can voice their opinion and get their questions answers on why they make their decisions.

In his sixth year as commissioner of District 4, Evans said he has made some improvements but admits he is not perfect.

"I think one of the things that could be improved is a little more transparency from the county to the public," Evans said. "Often times people are very upset about an issue, whatever it might be, but they don't have all the information that they should. It's a lack of communication probably on our part."

Evans says that it's important the commission compliment their county employees because they do a good job.

Hague boasts 26 years of working for the county. He says that working in the sheriff's department and as police chief of Boyne Falls has helped prepare him because he was able to see a lot of what was going on in the county.

Hague's top priorities are to listen to those who are working within the county government and getting the right idea of what's needed instead of "making changes just for the sake of it," he said.

This Very Important Race Is About Criminal Trial Experience And Who Has The Experience To Do The Job From Day 1. There Is No Time For "On The Job Training."

JAREMA
For Prosecutor August 7

"The importance of this Office demands experience."

PROTECTING VICTIMS SEEKING JUSTICE

- I have successfully prosecuted a first degree murder case.
- I have successfully prosecuted a second degree murder case without a weapon, body or witness.This was the first case of its type in Michigan.
- I have recently successfully prosecuted a Criminal Sexual Conduct case and sent the defendant to prison for 25 to 50 years.
- I asked to be appointed a special prosecutor in St. Ignace to prosecute the contractor of the City of Charlevoix Marina - After this appointment, the defendant paid the City back $232,000.00.

Embezzlements:

- I have successfully prosecuted an embezzlement case, the defendant went to prison and the Judge ordered them to pay over $850,000.00 to the victims.
- I have successfully prosecuted the St. Mary's School embezzlement case and the Judge ordered them to pay $75,000.00 to the victims.
- I have successfully prosecuted an embezzlement case, the defendant went to prison and the Judge ordered them to pay $188,000.00 to the victims.
- I have successfully prosecuted an embezzlement case, the defendant went to prison and the Judge ordered them to pay $517,000.00 to the victims.
- I have successfully prosecuted a Delivery of Drugs causing Death case. The defendant went to prison. It was the first conviction in Northern Michigan for this new law.
- I have successfully prosecuted pedophiles, drug dealers and arsonists, making our communities safer for everyone.

EXPERIENCE MATTERS

My opponent claims "criminal experience" from being a court appointed defense attorney in two counties- Antrim and Genesee.

- According to Antrim County, he was last appointed a criminal case in 2002
- According to Genesee County, he was last appointed a criminal case in 1994.
- According to Emmet and Otsego Counties he has not tried a criminal case since at least 2005
- According to Cheboygan County, he has not tried a criminal case since at least 2008.
- According to Manistee County, he has not had a criminal case since at least 1998.
- Mr. Telgenhof has never assisted in a criminal investigation, has no experience writing criminal search warrants and NEVER prosecuted a criminal case.

WHERE IS THE CRIMINAL TRIAL EXPERIENCE?

Tripp said her disappointments include how the officials handled recent lawsuits against the county, she said, including a Michigan Freedom of Information Act lawsuit won by the Petoskey News-Review. Her hopes for the future, should she be elected, is "better communication with the public and amongst the board members," Tripp said.

Lasater said that he wants to bring approachability and a non-adversarial attitude to county government.

"I would like to bring common sense to the board. I do not rush to judgment and listen to all sides. It's teamwork," he said. "As sheriff, I was very approachable and I want to maintain that."

Both Tripp and Lasater said it may be time to well-consider hiring an administrator for Charlevoix County government.

"I think it's very important to consider an administrator or at least a CPA, an accountant who could better communicate with the board," Tripp said.

Lasater agreed it should be thought over.

"I think it may be time for the county to look at a county manager. It's time to consider that very seriously," Lasater said.

Republican voters will on Aug. 7 choose between Tripp and Lasater, but no Democratic candidates filed to run for District 1 commissioner.

DEFENSE

sulting in a lawsuit and public scolding by an Emmet County judge for violating state law and behaving in an "arbitrary and capricious" manner.

Officials also raised concerns that Jarema intentionally botched a state appeal on a public defense financing aspect of the Merriman case, a flub that allowed a fellow lawyer friend to receive a share of a $67,000 payment from county coffers. Jarema blamed the mistake on the Michigan Attorney General's Office, but documents released to the News-Review under the state FOIA law showed the attorney general never intended to handle the financial aspect of the appeal and repeatedly told Jarema that. However, state lawyers did pick up the case after the appellate decision overturned the trial court ruling on public defense funding, eventually filing an appeal to the Michigan Supreme Court.

Jarema said that despite these recent — and highly publicized — controversies, voters should re-elect him for his whole worth over time.

"I think you have to look at my overall performance in this office for seven and a half years," he said. "When has that been, since April? How many articles have been written about my trial performance and that I am unprepared for trial or that I did not make the proper decision to bring a case? There has not been one article challenging my ability to be prosecutor and to try cases and to hold people accountable and protect victims. So, to me, it looks like a pretty orchestrated move by the News-Review to supplant me as prosecutor," Jarema said.

The incumbent questioned whether the News-Review would write something bad about one of its former employees. Telgenhof previously worked as a freelance sports writer in Charlevoix.

"Telgenhof worked and wrote for the paper for nine years," he said. "I think it is pretty apparent that the News-Review will do anything. They have shown their bias."

News-Review executive editor Jeremy McBain said that no, Telgenhof never worked for the News-Review, though he did write sports stories as a freelance journalist for the weekly newspaper the Charlevoix Courier over two years ago. Telgenhof confirmed that information.

Jarema also said his integrity is greater than Telgenhof's.

"Making the right choices. To have integrity is you make the right choices in your professional life and you make the right choices in your personal life," he said.

Jarema confirmed he referenced a recent article in the Boyne City Gazette about police reports that involve Telgenhof and his wife. The News-Review editorially elected not to publish the reports because authorities never filed criminal charges.

> "I think you have to look at my overall performance in this office for seven and a half years."
> — John Jarema, Charlevoix County incumbent prosecutor

> "You have to remember you are elected by the people and it's not a position of power, it's a position of service."
> — Allen Telgenhof, Charlevoix County prosecutor candidate

But, Jarema said "those and other issues" lead him to question his opponent's integrity.

"How can the someone who has made those poor choices in their own life sit across the table from someone who is accused of doing the same thing? I have taken a strong stance on domestic violence. I've taken a strong stance ... as the chief law enforcement (officer) who has the veto power on any case, and I don't know how he could sit across the table from someone who has alleged to have done the same things. I think it is a slippery slope."

On the flip side, Telgenhof isn't slinging mud, he said.

"The prosecutor's job is a lot more than doing a good job in the courtroom. It's about management skills, treating people with respect and remembering the voters elected you for service," Telgenhof said. "I think that's what people are looking for and I think the kind of campaign you run says a lot about what you'll do when in office."

THE ISSUES

Jarema and Telgenhof said that if elected they would take strong positions to enforce drug laws in Charlevoix County, something they both agreed about.

"I think we took a major step in making our own drug team. The amount of money we expended going with the Straits Area Narcotics Enforcement Team was substantial in relation to the return we got on the investment. They are a great organization, but we thought we could do more and get a little more bang for our buck. So, I think in the next term or two terms, I think the joint law enforcement team will become an even bigger part of the process in trying to eradicate drugs," Jarema said.

Telgenhof agreed drugs are a primary concern.

"I think that the increase in drugs in this county probably is the top priority, as is combating it," he said.

One of the improvements Jarema said he wants to see for the county is a sobriety court for minors, a program already implemented in district court.

"I think more emphasis needs to shift to the kids and helping them make better choices," Jarema said. The "biggest problem" he deals with as prosecutor is among 16 to 25-year-olds, which he said may be economically driven by high school dropouts and high school graduates who can't find employment or lack parental supervision.

On the government management side, Telgenhof said he doesn't intend to fire everyone in the prosecutor's office, as he has heard widely rumored.

"I think the first thing I'd do, if elected in August, is meet with everyone in that office and find out if they want to stay. I'm not coming in to clean house and get rid of everyone hired by John," he said.

Telgenhof added his assumption is those already on the job have a natural leg-up.

SWIMMER

and University of Michigan swimmers Tyler Clary and Connor Jaeger.

Ali and her family, originally from Grosse Ile, moved to Charlevoix when Ali was in the second grade.

"I really didn't like swimming early on," Ali said. "We had a pool and swim lessons when I was little, but I just didn't like it."

When she arrived in Charlevoix, she took the curriculum swim lessons at the Charlevoix Area Community Pool and subsequently joined the pool's swim team, the Stingrays. She also swam after school every Tuesday. Her love of the sport was finally catching on, and while others enjoyed the experience viewing swimming as a lifetime sport, Ali found that she was excited by competition.

"When I was 13, I wasn't improving and was almost ready to quit. But I loved swimming and I found that I didn't like the feeling of not doing well at an event, so I pushed myself to do better each time. I swam extra mornings at lap swim, went to practice every day after school and did extra workouts every night. I overcame my struggles, cut lots of time and qualified for three state events."

She said she constantly worked to improve her times in the 100 yard free stroke, the 50-yard free stroke and the 100 yard back stroke, her competitive events. When she first joined the Stingrays, she was the youngest of 10 teammates. The program has expanded to almost 60, with perhaps 30 at a practice.

Ali swims competitively for two leagues: the Michigan (local competition) and the USA (broader radius including Grand Rapids, Ann Arbor, Eastern Michigan University and the Battle Creek Area) swim leagues. The USA, Michigan Region, has bigger teams and Olympic sized pools to prepare athletes for serious competition. The meets are often three-day affairs which include overnight lodging and meals for the family.

"It's a family commitment," said Sharron. "In January and February I think we traveled every weekend." Ali's younger brother, Dominic, 8, is also on the swim team, and an older brother, Max, 18, who graduated from Charlevoix High School this year, was very involved in travel hockey.

"Our goal as parents is to help our kids find something that they enjoy, are good at, and can do for the rest of their lives," said Sharron.

"In competitive swimming, height matters," Ali said. "A taller swimmer is already a head beyond me ... look at me, I'm just a little thing!" Ali is realistic and knows, while she may never achieve Olympic success, she may just be able to land a scholarship at a smaller college one day, and continue doing what has made her a "Champion in Life" in her own right — competitive swimming. Ali will be attending a three week swim camp this summer. She will also be watching the Olympic swimming events with a new appreciation for fellow swimmers she met in Omaha at the Olympic Trials.

said he's done similar projects in Brighton, Royal Oak, Port Huron and Birmingham. He said that merchants in communities where he's done similar projects have reported that the sculptures seem to become a big attraction for visitors and they report reaping economic benefits.

"The stunning views of Lake Michigan and Round Lake create the perfect backdrop for highlighting public art," Charlevoix City Manager Rob Straebel said. "This initiative continues our efforts to brand Charlevoix as an art and cultural hotspot and offers a unique experience to enjoy some of Charlevoix's lesser known parks and open spaces. We hope to build on our successes in the coming years."

Maps of the public art locations are at City Hall, Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce and Charlevoix Library. Maps can also be downloaded at the City's website, www.cityofcharlevoix.org or by going to the App Store or Google Play and searching "Downtown Charlevoix".

Michael Fels, Chair of the Art and Art History department at Elon University who grew up in Charlevoix, and now returns for summers with his 7-year-old daughter Priya, said of the project: "This is fantastic! Priya and I both noticed the new works as soon as we came into town. It not only brings visual excitement to the area, but also sends a message that there is a shared commitment for culture and the arts."

Davison man to attempt island to mainland swim

JASON ALEXANDER
Northern Michigan Review

BEAVER ISLAND — Jason Lassen isn't a long-distance swimmer aiming for records or harboring Olympic dreams. Rather, he breaks records for himself.

On Aug. 1, the 39-year-old from Davison will attempt to be the first swimmer to cross from Beaver Island to Good Hart in Lake Michigan.

The grueling 18-mile swim is expected to take 15 hours.

"Just to see what my body will do, what's possible," Lassen said in explaining his attempt. "Can I do it, is the big thing. I try to throw the challenge to myself to see if I can do it."

Lassen said he prides himself on being goal-oriented and says that alone is his motivation. He has been swimming for six years and has been swimming long distance for two years. He said he started participating in triathlons and realized he didn't enjoy the running portion, so some friends talked him into focusing on swimming long distances.

His wife, Megan, was also a swim coach for their local pool.

Lassen will swim only the breast stroke. If he does any other swim stroke, it will be recorded as a freestyle swim, Megan Lassen said.

During the swim, a support team will accompany Lassen in a 35-foot steel hull twin engine boat on one side of him and a kayak on the other, guiding him as he swims. Manning the 35-foot vessel will be Jon Bonadeo of Bonadeo Boat Charters. It will be Bonadeo's first time performing such a task.

"We took snowmobiles from Beaver Island, but never heard of anyone swimming from there to Good Hart," Bonadeo said. "It takes a special person to do that I'm sure."

Bonadeo said he was contacted by Lassen a few months ago and asked if he could guide the historic swim. They have been working on the best routes to take for his swim ever since.

"I'm confident after talking to him and his wife and meeting with them," Bonadeo said. "They take it very seriously."

The rest of Lassen's support team will be comprised of friends and family member who are prepared to jump in the water if needed, Lassen said.

"I've had people that have told me it's crazy, but nobody has said I shouldn't do it," Lassen said. The boats will send him a water bottle, and feed him for a few seconds and he will continue the swim.

As Lassen's coach and a wife, Megan brings two perspectives.

"As a wife I'd have to say it's hard to be on the boat and watch the person you love get into the water in the dark and watch him swim," she said. "As a coach after watching him do the Catalina (California) Channel, you're confident he can make this distance. I've been working with him and I know that he'll be able to take on this swim."

Lassen successfully swam the Catalina Channel to the Southern California mainland which covered 24 miles.

Swimming without a wetsuit, Lassen said, can take a toll on his body.

"Over time it's pretty abrasive so I'll cover myself in lanolin and Vaseline mixed together which keeps you slippery," he said. "It prevents chafing."

Lasson said he is counting on a bit of luck as well, particularly when it comes to the weather.

"If mother nature says no, that's the end of the story," he said. "There's so many unknowns that your luck needs to be even better."

9-10 All Star girls bow in district final

STEVE ZUCKER
Courier Editor

The Charlevoix Little League 9-10 All-Stars softball team came up just a bit short of its bid to win a district title, falling 13-7 to West Branch on their home field on Saturday, July 21.

Charlevoix coach Joe Solomon said "some great hitting and heads-up base running got the Charlevoix All-Stars off to a 6-2 lead after one inning. Charlevoix added one and West Branch added to in the second inning leaving Charlevoix still ahead 7-4 after two.

But West Branch persisted in chipping away at Charlevoix's lead.

Over the next two innings, West Branch rallied any had taken a 9-7 lead by the end of the fourth.

And West Branch never looked back, scoring four moreruns in the next two innings to finish 13-7.

Solomon did not have access to all of the team's stats late Wednesday, but noted that Annie Joy was one of Charlevoix's leaders on offense, going 3 for 4 at the plate.

"Overall this was a great experience for the girls, the families and Charlevoix Little League as a whole," Solomon said. "Rumor has it this is the farthest any Charlevoix Little League team has ever gone into the tournament."

Five years after his death, 'The Work Horse's' legacy lives on

JONATHAN ALEXANDER
Northern Michigan Review

Ryan Shay earned the nickname "The Work Horse," simply because he worked harder than anyone else. He didn't always have the best talent, but he was always going to outwork you, Joe Shay, Ryan's father, said.

A native of Central Lake, and the fifth of eight kids, Shay was a standout athlete in high school and college. He won 11 high school track state championships, and four cross country state championships for Central Lake High. A 10-time All-American and also Academic All-American at Notre Dame, Shay won a NCAA individual title in the 10,000 meter run.

"He won his first three races at Notre Dame, he was just a freshman going in, and they had three All-Americans on their team — they used to tell him 'don't go out so hard, don't try to win, you're just a freshman,' and he wouldn't have any part of that," Joe said. "He wanted to win everything that he did."

After college, 23-year-old Ryan became pro. He immediately entered the U.S. Marathon championships, which Joe says nobody did at the time, and he won the race.

"He changed the way road racing was done because he did that."

In 2007, Ryan, 27, was now one of the favorites to win in the Olympic trials in New York at Central Park for the marathon. Five million people viewed the race on Good Morning America and minutes into the race the United States saw Ryan collapse.

"Everything was going right, and then five and a half miles into the race, he died, his heart just stopped," Joe said.

The Shays were in Michigan because Joe was coaching his own team for the state championships. They hadn't talked to him that day. A few days before, Ryan had told his father to be with his team.

Joe remembers a time when Ryan was 16 and doctors noticed that his heart had enlarged because of his running and intense workouts. He says Ryan would run more than 100 miles a week.

When he collapsed his heart wasn't beating fast enough to keep him alive, said Sue Shay, Ryan's mother.

She says the hardest thing she had to do was identify her son's body.

"Probably for two years after, I don't remember many details about that time," Sue said. "I'd go to work and honestly I'd come home and didn't remember what I did at work. You just do stuff that keeps you going through the motion."

When asked how they got through the situation, Joe and Sue immediately and simultaneously said "God."

SPORTS

EJ falls just short of tournament title

ANDY SNEDDON
Northern Michigan Review

Andy Bouchard's one-out solo home run in the bottom of the seventh inning lifted Big Apple Bagels of Midland to a 10-9 victory over EJ Sunday in the championship game of the Class C Men's Fast Pitch State Tournament at the Carpenter Avenue Fields.

Bouchard's homer capped a wild back-and-forth game during which the lead changed hands several times and EJ — which plays in the Petoskey Men's League — tied it at 9-all with two runs in the top of the seventh.

Big Apple Bagels finished 5-0 in the 10-team tournament, while EJ went 4-2. Superior Vault 46ers of Hemlock finished 2-2 and placed third, while ACES of Homer also finished 2-2 and placed fourth.

Josh Bush and Nick Karaszewski of EJ earned individual awards, as did Sean Hoffman and Dave O'Keefe of Big Apple Bagels.

Bush hit .571 (12-for-21) with four home runs and 10 RBI and was named the tournament's outstanding hitter. Karaszewski was named the outstanding infielder after hitting .455 (10-for-22) with one homer and three RBI. He had a double, a triple and a home run among his 10 hits.

O'Keefe earned the outstanding pitcher award after going 2-0. He struck out 20, allowed 15 runs, 20 hits and walked five over 16 innings. Hoffman was named the tournament's outstanding outfielder. He hit .600 (9-for-15) with two homers and eight RBI.

Karaszewski and Bush opened the championship game with back-to-back homers to give EJ a 2-0 lead. Hoffman responded with a two-run shot in the bottom of the first to tie the game at 2-2.

The teams see-sawed from there and Big Apple went up 8-7 on an O'Keefe two-run homer in the fourth. Big Apple used a walk, two wild pitches and a fielder's choice in pushing across another run in the sixth to extend its lead to 9-7.

EJ scored twice to tie it in the top of the seventh and loaded the bases with none out. But a pop up, a strikeout and a flyout ended the threat.

Bouchard finished the game with two hits including a double and three RBI, while Josh Peterson added two hits including a homer for Big Apple.

Karaszewski, Bush, Tom Scott, Matt Werner and Denzil Wilson had two hits apiece for EJ. One of Scott's hits was a double.

Hoffman earned the win in relief of O'Keefe. Hoffman went 3 2-3 innings, allowing two runs on seven hits, while walking one and striking out one. O'Keefe allowed seven runs on seven hits over 3 1-3 innings. He walked two and struck out three.

Nick McIntosh, the third EJ pitcher, took the loss. He went 2-3 of an inning and allowed just one hit, Bouchard's game-winning homer.

Stu Hancock started for EJ and Corey Essenberg pitched in relief. Hancock allowed three runs on three hits, walked one and struck out one over 2 1-3 innings. Essenberg surrendered six runs on five hits, while walking five and striking out four over 3 1-3 innings.

Big Apple Bagels opened the tournament with a 5-4 win over Stallard Asphalt of Grand Rapids, the topped EJ, 9-1; defeated ACES of Homer, 6-4; and, in the semifinals, topped Superior Vault 46ers, 7-3.

EJ opened the tournament with the 9-1 loss to Big Apple, then came through the elimination bracket to reach the final. EJ topped Wilson Law of Midland, 6-5; topped Crouch Electric of Coldwater, 11-4; downed ACES, 9-4; and beat the Superior Vault 46ers, 15-3, before falling to Big Apple Bagels.

In EJ's 9-1 loss to Big Apple to open the tournament, Hoffman limited EJ to two hits, singles by Scott and Bush. Essenberg took the loss. He allowed nine runs on five hits, while striking out six and walking five over 3 2-3 innings. McIntosh went the final 1-3 of an inning. The game was called after 4 1/2 innings because of the mercy rule.

Karaszewski had three hits including a triple and Bush had two hits including a home run in EJ's 6-5 win over Wilson Law. Scott added two hits. Hancock started and earned the victory. He allowed five runs on 10 hits, while walking one and striking out two over four innings. Essenberg held Wilson Law scoreless and hitless in three innings of relief. He struck out six and walked one.

McIntosh had four hits including two doubles and a home run in leading EJ past Crouch Electric. He finished with five RBI. John Bush added three hits including a homer and three RBI, while Kevin LaVanway singled and homered, and Karaszewski and Josh Bush added two hits apiece.

Essenberg went 5 1-3 innings in relief of Hancock for the victory. Essenberg struck out three and allowed just one hit. Hanock surrendered four runs on five hits over 1 2-3 innings. He struck out one and walked one.

John Bush had two hits including a home run to lead a 14-hit attack in EJ's victory over ACES. Josh Bush, Denzil Wilson and Werner each singled and doubled, Al Stallard added two hits, and McIntosh doubled.

Hancock was the winner while Essenberg pitched in relief. Hancock allowed three runs on five hits, while walking three over 4 2-3 innings. Essenberg went the final 2 1-3 innings, allowing one run on three hits, while striking out four and walking one.

LaVanway had three hits and John Bush singled and homered in leading EJ past the Superior Vault 46ers. Karaszewski singled and doubled, McIntosh homered, and Chris Loper and Stallard added two hits apiece.

Essenberg and Hancock shared the pitching duties. They cobined to allow four hits, strike out one and walk four. The game was called after four innings because of the mercy rule.

Annual Shay Mile will again showcase elite athletes

Venetian's dash for cash honors 'workhorse' Ryan Shay

JONATHAN ALEXANDER
Northern Michigan Review

Thousands of people flock the streets of downtown Charlevoix to watch the Venetian Festival's street parade, and for the past four years, those spectators have had the added treat of seeing the parade preceded by a race among top athletes as they compete in the 1600 meter race to commemorate Ryan Shay.

On Saturday, July 28, some of the the best middle and long distance runners from around the country will run in the fifth annual Ryan Shay Mile, in Charlevoix to commemorate him. There will be two races one for the men and one for the women with a $4,000 pot.

"We'd thought it'd be great to have an event in honor of one of Northern Michigan's best runners," race organizer Matt Peterson said.

This year the race fields will be made up of 13 men and nine women ranging from professional, Olympic and college All-American athletes.

The race was created by Peterson, Doug Bergmenn, and Doug Drenth. Joe Shay, Ryan's father, said the originators of the race came to him and asked him could they name the race after Ryan and the Shay family obliged.

"When we were younger we used to watch a similar event in Traverse City," Peterson said. "It used to be a great event to watch and it used to inspire us as runners and we wanted to create it in Charlevoix, and when better than during Venetian."

Participants in the event, men and women say Ryan was a role model for runners, which is what his parents say he wanted to be.

"It's a great event and I went to Notre Dame and I knew him and it's a great way to honor him," former Notre Dame runner Daniel Clark said. "He passed away my sophomore year. He was a role model because he would come back."

A standout athlete in high school and college, Shay was known for his hard work and determination. His nickname was "The Work Horse" because he worked harder than everyone else on the track.

Shay passed away in 2007 because of heart failure in the middle of a marathon for the Olympic trials.

"I think people respected Ryan's work ethic, his accomplishments and his character and people will come from around the country to keep his spirit alive," Peterson said. He says the fields have improved every year and more and more of the country's elite come to race in Ryan's memory and thousands of people come to watch the best of the best run.

"With Ryan it was never about winning or losing, it was the passion of the sport," Sue Shay, Ryan's mother said. "You do your best and whatever happens. You have a passion at what you're doing."

Among some of the notable names on the men's start list are Peter van der Westhuizen and Liam Boylan-Pett. With a personal best of 3:35 for the 1600 meters, va der Westhuizen has represented his native South Afterica in two world championship meets. Boylan-Pett recently rant the 2012 USA Olympic Track and Field Trials in the 800 meters and 1600 meters and has run time so 1:46 and 3:37 respectively. They will be pushed by an additional group of sub-four-minute milers, including Daniel Clark, Matthew Elliott, De'Sean Turner and Daniel Stockberger. The men's course record is 3:55 set by Jeff See in 2010.

"The women's field will feature Heather Kampf and Ashely Higginson. Both competed in the 2012 USA Olympic Track and Field Trials and have personal bests of 4:12 in the 1600 meters. Kampf finished 7th in the 800 while Higginson was fourth in the steeplechase. Chasing them will be Ashley Miller, Shannon Osika and Dot McMahan. Miller just finished up her collegiate career at the University of Nebraska where she won Big 12 and Big 10 championships and earned All-American honors. Osika, completing her first year at the University of Michigan, earned All-American honors in the mile. McMahan, a marathon specalist withthe Hansons-Brooks Project, has top 10 finishes in the 2008 and 2012 USA Olympic Marathon Trials. She also was the [illegible] of the Ryan Shay Mile in 2008. The women's course record is 4:31 set by Frances Koons in 2009

"You just had to believe that there was something after and there was a purpose," Joe said, voice cracking and tears in his eyes "The thought of not ever seeing my son again, I couldn't deal with it, I couldn't comprehend it."

He said he had a choice and asked 'what would God do,' and was comforted through the people that grieved with him.

Not long after Ryan's death organizers of a new race in Charlevoix featuring elite athletes came to the Shays asking if they could name their race after Ryan in his honor and the Ryan Shay Mile was born. "He was a young man who stood for hard work persistence and pursuit of excellence in everything he did and this race and these athletes — we believe and think along those same lines," said Matt Peterson, one of the founders of the Ryan Shay Mile and race director. "Our hopes are to put on a race to honor his legacy."

Fabulous festival

Despite mid-week rain, officials say Venetian Festival posted record numbers

Crowds of people gather at East Park Saturday afternoon before nightfall and the onset of the 82nd annual Venetian Festival lighted boat parade on Round Lake, as Brandie Spradley & Vinyl Radio Band plays under the Odmark East Park Pavilion in Charlevoix.

Despite mid-week rains that turned most of Wednesday into a near washout and dampened bits of other days, this year's Charlevoix Venetian Festival broke several attendance and revenue records.

The Venetian Festival board chairman Dan Barron said the festival, which wrapped up Saturday after a week full of activities, broke attendance records for the nightly entertainment, carnival ridership, vendor sales and revenue raised.

Barron especially noted the Thursday and Friday night concerts by the Farm and Herman's Hermits, respectively. He said Thursday night's crowd "shattered" attendance records drawing the largest non-fireworks night crowd ever to East Park. He said Friday night's audience to see Herman's Hermits was also the largest to-date for a festival Friday night. And after a day filled with rain showers, many of them heavy, Wednesday, the clouds parted in the evening just in time to allow people to enjoy a concert by the Motown group The Spinners.

And despite the Wednesday washout and some sprinkles Friday, the Arnold

Jarema, Telgenhof debate the issues

Candidates for Charlevoix prosecutor meet in forum

SHERI MCWHIRTER
Northern Michigan Review

The Charlevoix County prosecutor's race continued to heat up this week, with the primary election just a week away.

Barring runs by write-in or independent candidates in November, the Tuesday, Aug. 7, vote will determine who will be Charlevoix County's top law officer for the next four years.

Both incumbent prosecutor John Jarema and challenger Allen Telgenhof, — both Republicans and each of Charlevoix, participated in Monday's candidates forum at Charlevoix High School, an event sponsored by the Petoskey News-Review and the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce. Jarema, 43, touted his criminal prosecution experience, while Telgenhof, 48, talked about the need for a new direction in the prosecutor's office.

The moderated debate touched on qualifications for the job, top criminal priorities, misleading primary election campaign advertising and integrity of the voters' options. Both Jarema and Telgenhof maintained civility with each other as they responded to both prepared questions and those from the audience of about 75 people.

"I am the only candidate who has prosecutorial experience," Jarema said, further explaining his preparedness when first in office thanks to his prior years as an assistant prosecutor.

Jarema said a prosecutor must be fair and be able to take a case to trial, a required ability to seek justice for Charlevoix County's criminal victims.

Telgenhof said his goal in seeking the prosecutor's job is to restore trust

Correction

A story appearing on page 1 of the July 27 edition of Charlevoix Courier about Charlevoix swimmer Ali Schwein's recent trip to watch the U.S. Olympic swimming trials contained an error. Although the story indicated that Ali's trip to the trials was part of her award for winning a recent essay contest, the trip was, in fact, planned by Ali and her family well before the essay contest. Her reward for winning the essay contest was the opportunity to set up a display booth at the event and an autographed photo of U.S. swimmer Ryan Lochte.

Make a bid to support the pool

Annual fundraiser to feature garden tour, U-M football tickets, Great Lakes voyage

Charlevoix Area Community Pool officials are making final preparations for the organization's 23rd annual auction to benefit the pool.

Serving as the biggest annual fundraiser for the pool, this year's event has a French café them under the title "Toure de Charlevoix."

The auction will take place on Sunday, Aug. 5 at Castle Farms on M-66 south of Charlevoix

The event begins with a silent auction and mixer at 5 p.m., dinner at 7 p.m. and the live auction at 8 p.m.

The cost is $50 per person, and French Café is optional.

The in addition to dinner, event also includes music and other entertainment.

Last week organizers confirmed that a cruise aboard the St. Mary's Challenger will again be among the featured auction items. Some last-minute featured items have been added to the list this week as well.

The football fanatic will have the chance to take home tickets to the 2012 Michigan vs. Iowa game set for Nov. 17 at the Big House.

If football isn't your cup of tea, another auction item offers the unique opportunity to tour one of the featured gardens of the recent Charlevoix Area Garden Club followed by dinner for 12. This is not just any garden tour. Budget Rental Car will transport you to the garden gate of the gorgeous Bobb Estate Garden on Maple Grove Road for a guided tour. After viewing the breathtaking landscape of the garden your experience is not over. You and 11 guests will conclude your evening dining at Grey Gables.

Other featured auction items include:

— a two-night stay at the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island

— Eight days and seven nights at La Mer Guest Hotel, Key West, Fla.

— A romantic cruise for two aboard the Keweenaw Star

— Dinner for six at the Weathervane

— An inflatable kayak

In all more than 200 items will be up for bids. Donations for the auction are still being accepted.

Contact auction coordinator, Megan Wuerth at (231) 547-0982 for more information, to make a donation or to make your reservation to attend the event.

The auction serves as the single biggest annual fundraiser for the nonprofit Charlevoix Area Community Pool which provides a wide array of programs for swimmers of all ages. For more information about the pool, visit www.charlevoixpool.org or call (231) 547-0982.

This Very Important Race Is About Criminal Trial Experience And Who Has The Experience To Do The Job From Day 1 - There Is No Time For On The Job Training

JAREMA

For Prosecutor August 7

"The importance of this Office demands experience."

PROTECTING VICTIMS SEEKING JUSTICE

- I have successfully prosecuted a first degree murder case.
- I have successfully prosecuted a second degree murder case without a weapon, body or witness. This was the first case of its type in Michigan.
- I have recently successfully prosecuted a Criminal Sexual Conduct case and sent the defendant to prison for 25 to 50 years.
- I asked to be appointed a special prosecutor in St. Ignace to prosecute the contractor of the City of Charlevoix Marina - After this appointment, the defendant paid the City back $232,000.00.

Embezzlements:

- I have successfully prosecuted an embezzlement case, the defendant went to prison and the Judge ordered them to pay over $850,000.00 to the victims.
- I have successfully prosecuted the St. Mary's School embezzlement case and the Judge ordered them to pay $75,000.00 to the victims.
- I have successfully prosecuted an embezzlement case, the defendant went to prison and the Judge ordered them to pay $188,000.00 to the victims.
- I have successfully prosecuted an embezzlement case, the defendant went to prison and the Judge ordered them to pay $517,000.00 to the victims.
- I have successfully prosecuted a Delivery of Drugs causing Death case. The defendant went to prison. It was the first conviction in Northern Michigan for this new law.
- I have successfully prosecuted pedophiles, drug dealers and arsonists, making our communities safer for everyone.

EXPERIENCE MATTERS

My opponent claims "criminal experience" from being a court appointed defense attorney in two counties- Antrim and Genesee.

- According to Antrim County, he was last appointed a criminal case in 2002
- According to Genesee County, he was last appointed a criminal case in 1994.
- According to Emmet and Otsego Counties he has not tried a criminal case since at least 2005
- According to Cheboygan County, he has not tried a criminal case since at least 2008.
- According to Manistee County, he has not had a criminal case since at least 1998.
- Mr. Teigenhof has never assisted in a criminal investigation, has no experience writing criminal search warrants and NEVER prosecuted a criminal case.

WHERE IS THE CRIMINAL TRIAL EXPERIENCE?

Township voters to decide millage requests August 7

In addition to the many other political office races, and county-wide millage proposals, voters in many Charlevoix County townships will also be asked to decide a number of other millage requests to fund services and infrastructure such as roads, fire and emergency medical services. The following is a list of Charlevoix township ballot questions for the Aug. 7 primary election. For millages, one mill equals $1 in tax for every $1,000 of a property's taxable value.

St. James Township

Voters will be asked to consider a request to restore a 1 mill levy for emergency medical services. That expired after the December 2011 tax levy. The proposal would renew 0.9948 mills that was previously levied and 0.0052 that was rolled back by the Headlee Amendment. The renewal would be for four years and is expected to raise about $48,231 in its first year.

Voters will also be asked to consider a request to renew a 0.25 mill levy to provide funds for the Beaver Island Historical Society. The previous millage expired following the December 2011 levy. The new millage would be for four years and is expected to raise $12,057 in its first year.

Peaine Township

Voters will be asked to renew a 0.75 mill levy to pay for airport operations. The previous millage expired in December. The millage renewal would be for five years. The millage is expected to raise $55,725 in its first year and the money would be distributed to the Peaine Township and Beaver Island Airport Commission as approved by the township.

Voters will also be asked to renew a 1 mill road construction and maintenance millage. The previous millage expired in December of 2011. The millage would be for five years and is expected to raise $71,634 in its first year.

Glass to face Center in Charlevoix Township

Two long-time Charlevoix Township residents will square off in the upcoming Republican primary election for the post of Charlevoix Township Supervisor.

H. Dale Glass, the incumbent, is a 79-year-old retired accountant and business administrator. Glass holds a bachelor's degree in business administration from Central Michigan University.

"I am an experienced administrator in both township government and private industry," Glass said. "Also, I have a very good rapport with township residents and I maintain excellent communication channels with county, city and surrounding township governments."

Glass and his wife have long lived in Charlevoix where they raised their two children and now have three grandchildren.

Having long been involved in the community and schools, Glass is a former soccer coach and referee.

"I was very much involved in the development of the soccer program in this area prior to it being managed by the 4-H Association," he said.

Glass has also been on the Charlevoix Township Board for more then 42 years as trustee and supervisor.

In his 42 years of service, Glass pointed out that he felt he was instrumental in the development of the township water works, fire department, recreational facilities and nature preserve, as well as bringing sewer service to parts of the township where it is possible to do so.

"I'm seeking re-election because I know there is more to be done in and for the township," Glass said. "Also, I want to continue to work on the projects that are presently under way, such as the renovation of the township's recreational facilities and the development of two new water wells now under construction."

Glass added, "Constant attention to the requirements to keep Charlevoix Township an excellent place to live and visit. I feel there is a need to diversify the economic base to attract more light, clean industry as well as maintain our position as a tourist destination."

Center, the challenger, is a 66-year-old retired auto dealer who had a successful career in the business. Having been a successful businessman, he said that some of the primary issues he sees facing Charlevoix are road repairs and the completion of the recreation plan.

The Centers have lived in the Charlevoix community for 37 years where he and his wife, Trudy, raised their family. Married for 29 years, the couple have one daughter named Marci. The pair said they have always been supporters of the community surrounding Charlevoix and the many local events.

The Centers are also active in local community activities and are members at the Belvedere Golf Club. They are long-time regular volunteers for local community events and activities.

"I'm a member of The Walloon Lake Community Church, and The Charlevoix Rotary Club as well," Center said.

Center has been a Charlevoix Township Board member for six years, and also served as president of the township zoning board of appeals and township planning commission.

"I feel that my honesty and transparency make me a good candidate for the position," Center said. "I also feel I would be a good steward of the townships assets."

Center added that if elected, his agenda would include improving public relations and communications with township residents, improving maintenance of township grounds, facilities, and equipment, as well as upgrading fire department facilities.

"I would also like to study the feasibility of a memorial garden as a final resting place for township residents," he said.

Gillespie to defend against Jason in GOP primary

Democrat Ferguson to face winner in November

SHERI MCWHIRTER
Northern Michigan Review

Incumbent Charlevoix County commissioner Richard Gillespie will next week defend against challenger Dennis Jason for the Republican nomination to the board for District 5.

Gillespie

Jason

Democratic candidate Nancy Ferguson is unchallenged on the Democratic ticket and will, in November's general election, face the Republican primary election winner from Tuesday, Aug. 7. Voters from Norwood, Marion and Eveline townships will decide this race, along with those in Peaine and St. James townships on Beaver Island.

Ferguson

Gillespie, 57, a contractor from Beaver Island, is running for a second consecutive two-year term. He currently serves as the board's building and grounds committee chairman. Meanwhile, Eveline Township's Jason, 71, is the county's current planning commission chairman and a former county commissioner.

Both Gillespie and Jason said one issue they would like to see taken up is hiring a county administrator. Both said a professional manager may be in the taxpayers' best interest, a possible way to improve efficiencies and reduce distractions among elected officials.

"I can honestly say that we need a central person to make sure there is harmony on all fronts and efficiency. With a $14 million budget this only makes sense," Gillespie said.

Jason said he thought the county nearly hired an administrator when he previously served as a county commissioner, but it's still not done.

"I appreciate the value of a county administrator," Jason said.

Jason also said prudent spending is needed to protect the county's savings, but he wants to study how much the county banked over the years and decide whether changes should be made to the county's general millage rate. He also believes a collective purchasing agreement with other municipalities in the county could provide taxpayer savings all-

Charlevoix County to see five ballot proposals

BRANDON HUBBARD
Northern Michigan REeview

Charlevoix County voters will have five proposals to consider during the primary election Tuesday, Aug. 7, including an increase to fund senior programs and a new millage asking voters whether they want to fund county parks at 0.15 mills.

One mill equals $1 in tax for every $1,000 of a property's taxable value.

One basic proposal asking voters to renew operational funding might confuse some voters.

A four-year, county-wide jurisdictional, operating millage worded as a "tax limitation" at 5.9 mills has caused some people in the public to contact the Charlevoix County officials questioning whether the proposal would mean a tax increase.

Charlevoix County clerk Cheryl Potter Browe says it's not a new tax increase and the county is only seeking to renew millages that have been kept at the same rate for more than 25 years.

"It's probably not worded real well," Browe said. "The next time it comes around I will make sure that there is a descriptive paragraph proceeding it, so people know what it is."

Essentially, the proposal caps the amount of taxes levied at 5.9 mills through 2016: 4.7 mills for the county, 1 mill for the townships and 0.20 mills for Char-Em Intermediate School District.

"I've gotten a couple calls from people thinking we are trying to push through a new millage, but no that is not the case," Browe said.

Voters will also be asked to renew a 0.25 mill transportation millage, which will fund the county transit system for four years and collect an estimated $504,628 in its first year.

A ballot question about whether to renew the 2008 Charlevoix County recycling millage that expired in 2011 will also be put to voters. The renewal would kept recycling operations in the county going for another four years at 0.15 mills and raise an estimated $302,777 for 2012.

Beyond renewals

Despite a request to increase the senior millage and a new parks millage proposal, the Charlevoix County clerk says Charlevoix County taxpayers would still see a minor tax decrease even if all five proposals pass because the county recently completed its bond payments on the Grandvue Medical Care Facility building.

"We paid (Grandvue) off five years early, so we are no longer paying that," Browe said. "(The tax rate) will be a little lower, but relatively the same."

To help fund senior programs and prevent deficit spending, the county is asking taxpayers to increase the rate of the senior millage from 0.4 mills to 0.65. The new total millage would represent about $65 per year for a taxpayer with a home with a $100,000 taxable value, compared to about $40 previously when it was levied from 2008 to 2011.

Browe said this is the first time voters have been asked to increase the senior millage since it was first approved in 2000.

Taxpayers in Charlevoix County will be asked whether to help fund county parks with a new 0.15 mill operational millage.

The park millage is expected to be used to avoid general fund expenditures for capital projects and also to allow the voters to decide what level they would like to fund parks.

In its first year, the millage would generate an estimated $302,777 and would be extended through 2015.

"It is brand new, but overall it will not cost county taxpayers anymore than what they have been paying," Browe noted, again citing the combined overall county taxes that would be paid for the year.

Commissioner candidates discuss savings at forum

SHERI MCWHIRTER
Northern Michigan Review

Charlevoix County commissioner candidates took the stage Monday at a public forum at Charlevoix High School.

Eleven candidates for commissioner seats from among the 14 on the primary election ticket participated. Additionally, independent candidate Richard Clem participated in the forum, though he won't appear on the ballot until the November general election.

Other participating candidates included: incumbent Republican Shirlene Tripp from District 1 and her challenger, George T. Lasater; unopposed incumbent Republican Chris Christensen from District 2; incumbent Republican commissioner Joel Evans from District 4; incumbent Republican commissioner Richard Gillespie in District 5 and his challenger Dennis Jason, along with Democratic candidate Nancy Ferguson who will face the primary winner in November; and five candidates for the seat for District 6, including Republicans John Haggard, Dennis Halverson, Shirley Roloff and Larry Sullivan, in addition to the independent Clem.

The candidates had brief answer times to allow for more issues to be covered in the time-limited forum.

What to do with the county's reserve funds garnered widely varied responses from the candidates.

Tripp said the money should be saved as a "rainy day fund" for many of the county's pending projects, while Lasater said the county should provide only minimum adequate services and let the voters decide on extras, such as parks and recreation projects. Christensen answered that it's good to keep that money on-hand for potential "catastrophic situations" and Evans said the money should be spent on county needs.

Jason said he's unsure those savings will last long. Sullivan said it's needed to cover delinquent taxes and three others — Gillespie, Haggard and Halverson — said it should be refunded, rather than squirreled away.

Another hot topic to come from an audience-generated question is whether the county should hire an administrator to manage the various departments.

Evans said it's not the time for that now, though it may be necessary later on, while Roloff pointed out an administrator can't give orders to elected county officials who control [illegible]. Those two stood apart from all the others on the issue.

Ferguson said she definitely supports the idea of a county administrator.

Trees leave us with good recycling lessons

EAR TO THE GROUND

Roger Knutson

The leaves of some of our neighborhood trees have begun drying and dropping to the ground. This is not the product of drought, as poblematic as that might be for some short-season crop plants. Nor is it an indication of an early beginning for the fall season.

Deciduous trees commonly begin losing some leaves by the end of July because the leaves have done what they can for the tree and are no longer of much use. All of next year's buds containing next year's leaves have already formed. Trees are good at planning ahead.

It is instructive to think of leaves as temporary factories, which are able to convert light, air and water into the woody components of the tree. Like many of our human-built factories, the leaves tend to accumulate waste products from their work. Like a badly-run factory, they have no way of getting rid of the accumulating waste and are finally clogged up to the point of not working very well at their main job, which is converting water, air and light into tree.

That may seem like a poor way to manage any factory, but the leaves have a significant advantage over our human-built factories. By the end of the growing season, the leaves are completely useless and are discarded. Imagine a large auto manufacturing plant that has been closed and is sitting there as an unsightly part of the city landscape. Rather than unsightly, tree leaves often seem more attractive with autumn colors than they did earlier in the growing season, but the colors are just an accident, as pleasing as they might be to us. The leaves' advantage is that they are reusable.

Unlike our factories, the discarded leaves are made completely of recyclable materials. Imagine again the abandoned auto plant if it could be easily converted into housing facilities without the loss of any material. That is the near miracle that the discarded leaf factories manage. In the course of a few months all the material in the discarded leaves is converted into new building materials, and re-imported into both the tree and its neighbors.

We often look at nature's works as potential models for our human-centered activities, and the discarded leaf-factories provide a useful analogy. If our factories were designed originally with the idea in mind that they are temporary and should be easily convertible into new, useful structures, our older cities might look a lot more attractive.

Periodically discarding and then reusing all the materials works very well for forest trees, which have no brains or nervous systems at all, but often seem smarter than we are. Surely we should be able to accomplish something similar with our big brains and active muscles. It might be possible if we tried a little harder to emulate the forest trees that surround and instruct us.

Needless to say, all of the above does not work well for lawn or street-side trees, where the discarded tiny factories can only be piled up and hauled away.

Charlevoix's city composting operation for our tree leaves is a step in the right direction, returning the material from the leaves back into useful humus. If only the discarded auto plants could be made as useful as the leaves.

Bridging our past with our future

LOOKING BACK…

In 1872, Egbert Carpenter made a daring leap of faith when he announced he would be building both a store and neighboring residence at the southwest corner of Round Lake. There were only thick woods, no buildings, south of Clinton Street at that time. Other residents thought he was daft, but Carpenter sensed Charlevoix was on the brink of immediate expansion. He was right, for later that year the number of buildings in town doubled and he soon had neighbors. As an 1884 book put it, "... (the Carpenter building) was located quite a distance out of town. There was a path leading to the post office, otherwise it would have been altogether in the back woods." It was easier to reach Carpenter's back door via Round Lake than by this path. That "quite a distance out of town ... in the back woods" stretched from today's Murdick's Fudge to the bandshell. The building came down in the early 1920s.

This image is one of 850 in the Charlevoix Historical Society's most recent DVD titled "Charlevoix, Michigan — A Pictorial Journey through 16 Decades." The disc is available at the Society's Harsha House Museum, 103 State St. next to the Congregational Church, from 1-4 p.m. Monday-Saturday. It is also available at the Central Drug Store, Round Lake Books, Castle Farms, and Ell-Air Gallery. Docents are needed for the society's Harsha House for July and August. Vote for Allen Telgenhof

Editor:

I am writing to support Allen Telgenhof for Charlevoix County Prosecutor. My view comes from a different perspective than some that have dealt with Allen on a professional level. I have known Allen for over 10 years. I met him because he coached my son in youth baseball. I saw his love for baseball and children. He has a great rapport with his players.

Later, when he moved up to coaching high school baseball, I had the pleasure to be his assistant coach. At all levels, Allen's approach was to be patient, listen and most of all, care.

As a high school coach, Allen had the added responsibility of discipline. In those difficult times, Allen was fair but firm. He showed respect to all through the process and this gained the respect of players and parents. These attributes are the same attributes you want in a prosecuting attorney. Fair, thoughtful and respectful, not only of his role and position, but more importantly, to those he serves for and with.

Do the same traits that make a good coach a good prosecuting attorney? I think so. You have to gain the respect of your team and those you deal with. Build a team concept. Formulate a game plan and then execute it. Without a good leader, your team fragments, they lose unity, they lack discipline and finally respect. That's what has currently happened in the prosecuting attorney's office. We need a change to get back what's been lost, respect. Vote for a change. Vote for Allen Telgenhof for Charlevoix County Prosecuting Attorney Aug. 7.

Telgenhof for Charlevoix County Prosecuting Attorney

Editor:

I am writing this letter in support of Allen Telgenhof as a candidate for Charlevoix County Prosecuting Attorney.

I began working with Allen as his secretary over four years ago, and I would like to tell you what it is like to have him as a boss. I learned very quickly that Allen is a man of integrity and strong moral values. He is a down-to-earth person who treats others with respect. I have witnessed on a daily basis how well he communicates and interacts with those he works with. Allen is a good listener and is unpretentious, honest, and trustworthy. He exercises good judgment in making decisions and stands by the decisions he makes.

I know Allen to be an outstanding and highly respected attorney, very knowledgeable and experienced in criminal and civil law, both in and out of the courtroom. He is sensitive to each client's needs and takes a practical and common sense approach in handling his cases. Clients feel very comfortable putting their personal and business matters in his capable hands.

It is such a pleasure working with Allen, and I admire him for his professionalism as an attorney. Even more so, I admire him for his qualities as a decent, honorable human being. I am confident that he is the ideal candidate for prosecuting attorney, and I am certain he will bring integrity to that office.

I am proud to cast my vote for Allen Telgenhof on Aug. 7, and I hope you will join me in doing the same.

Vote no on senior millage

Editor,

The "Vote 'Yes' for the Senior Millage Campaign" signs that are being displayed throughout the Charlevoix County should state that voting "Yes" actually means voting for a .25 mill senior millage increase. If the millage increase is defeated the voters could vote for a renewal in November.

Last summer the Commission on Aging approved $3.100 for an independent focus group study comprised of carefully selected seniors and those about to enter the 62 and over age bracket. The results of that study showed that most Charlevoix County seniors are not interested in attending the senior centers on which the commission currently spends a large portion of its budget. Participants also made clear that their priorities were personal care and maintaining independence in their homes. These trends were confirmed in October 2011 press releases which revealed attendance at the senior centers is down while requests for home care are up and expected to continue to rise sharply. They were also confirmed in four community forums held in November and December 2011.

Yet despite the fact that the commission is running an un-sustainable deficit, the Charlevoix County Commissioners have not shown the political courage to discuss phasing out the senior centers. They have overlooked the common sense solution of shifting center activities to locations like churches and libraries that could provide them much more economically.

Instead the commissioners voted 5-1 to ask the struggling taxpayers of Charlevoix County to vote for more millage to fund expensive but sparsely-attended senior centers. Vote "NO" on the senior millage Increase. Let your commissioners know that you want the most commission on aging millage spent on those who need it the most: frail, home-bound seniors who depend on services to maintain their independence.

Vote for Sullivan for county commissioner

Editor:

Larry Sullivan's decision to run for Board of Commissioners is a lucky break for Charlevoix County. For too long our county has been run by people who come into this job with no idea of the workings of county government. This is evident by the fact that our county keeps getting sued and having scandals.

Larry Sullivan has been Charlevoix County Planner for many, many years and has been a dedicated public servant. He has conducted and participated in numerous governmental and planning workshops. He has attended more Board of Commissioners meetings than all of the commissioners put together.

He will come into this job with an intimate knowledge of how county government should work.

I urge you to vote for Larry Sullivan for county commissioner in the Republican primary on Aug.7.

Shirlene Tripp has been a dedicated county commissioner who listens to her constituents. I say this because most of the other members of the board are not so conscientious. A good example of this is the Boyne City to US-31 non-motorized trail. In the several public hearings and in official surveys, a solid majority of the citizens have been in favor of this trail. Shirlene has met with citizen groups to listen to their views. She has expressed the opinion of the majority at commissioners meetings and has had little support from other commissioners. But, when she has had to stand alone, she has been courageous in her perseverance.

Shirlene Tripp deserves another term and I plan to vote for her. I hope you do too.

Former school chief supports Halverson

Editor:

As I reflect on my five years in Charlevoix, I am grateful for the fact that I was able to develop friendships with so many great people on a personal and professional basis. Those memories will last with me for the rest of my life and Charlevoix will always have a special spot in my heart. I continue to read the Charlevoix Courier on a regular basis and I'm excited over the fact that Dennis Halverson is running for the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners as he truly has the professional background, the people skills and most importantly, a deep-rooted passion for Charlevoix that would make him an outstanding commissioner and an asset to the community in that capacity.

Dennis was one of the first people that I met when I was named superintendent in 2007 and since he was the long-time chief of police, a former member of the board of education and employed by the Char-Em Intermediate School District in a leadership capacity. I would contact him on a regular basis to discuss school and community related activities. He was always quick to respond to my questions or concerns and always provided common sense input or advice. These are the exact traits that will make Dennis an excellent commissioner and I urge people to vote for Dennis Halverson in the August Republican primary.

In-laws support Jarema for prosecutor

Editor:

Dear Citizens of Charlevoix County: The Aug. 7 election is a very important election. We must elect the best prosecutor for Charlevoix County.

John Jarema is our son-in-law and we are proud to have him as a family member.

He loves our daughter and treats her with kindness and respect. He adores his four children and is real hands on dad. He is a true and loyal friend who would does not turn his back on them in times of trouble.

John and Krista are financially responsible. They live within their means, pay their bills and don't default on loans.

John Jarema has proven himself the best prosecutor Charlevoix County has had since we can remember. He is honest, smart and totally committed to protecting the victims of sexual crimes, spousal abuse, embezzlement, drug trafficking, and even murder. Crimes we never imagined we would see in our county.

We will vote for John Jarema because we want ourselves, our loved ones and friends to be protected by a prosecutor who know what he is doing when he gets a call, does not crumble under pressure and will never give up and run away when things get tough.

If you vote for John Jarema you won't have to wonder or hope he will make a good prosecutor, you will KNOW that he IS a great prosecutor.

Do what is best for you, vote to re-elect John Jarema for prosecutor on Aug. 7.

Let's keep politics out of the Venetian parade

This Saturday (July 27) families lined the Charlevoix Venetian Parade route to watch world-class runners and view the Venetian Parade. The event was marred by the last group in the parade with a clearly political agenda. No matter how one feels about this agenda, this is a family event; a community event celebrating the best that Charlevoix offers. It is a celebration of our community and our values. Values that promote helping each other and welcoming visitors from not only our country, but international communities. The inappropriate distribution of bumper stickers and fans to promote a political agenda was, how shall I say it, "a real downer" for the end of a wonderful morning. I hope this is the last of this type of event in this parade. I hope it does not open the event to all kinds of hot-button issues. For a parade that now prohibits the throwing of candy or other trinkets, let's not replace that with throw away fans and bumper stickers that have a place in a proper venue, not our parade.

Writer thankful for Jarema as prosecutor

Editor:

I am writing on behalf of prosecutor John Jarema. My 9-year-old daughter was the victim of multiple crimes. Mr. Jarema handled the case at the first court hearing and also conducted the trial. He personally took the time to meet with me and my daughter to explain the court process and reassure her that it will be OK to testify in court. Before the trial, he met with us on a Sunday to again calm our nerves. The defendant was convicted by the jury and received a prison sentence. My daughter testified at the trial and has some closure to this nightmare but it will be a long process.

My daughter and I are thankful for the time and effort put in by prosecutor Jarema in this case. His trial skills were the difference in this case. He knew how to handle this type of case and did a great job. I don't know what we would have done with a prosecutor who did not have any experience dealing with this type of case. Charlevoix County is lucky to have prosecutor Jarema.

Representative apologizes for violating Venetian parade rules

Editor:

I would like to take an opportunity to respond to some recent criticisms I encountered following last Saturday's Charlevoix Venetian Festival Parade. As an employee of the National Rifle Association's Institute for Legislative Action, I was an entry in the Venetian Festival Street Parade. I have been hired as a campaign field representative serving Michigan's 1st Congressional District. Our focus is to organize gun owners and supporters of the Second Amendment to get out and vote this election cycle and one way to inform people that we are doing this work in the area is by entering the parade. As walkers, we handed out fans that featured "Defend Freedom, Defeat Obama" and attached were cards bearing my contact information and a call to action to get involved.

Having participated the parade the year before, I was aware that candidates were not permitted to walk in the parade. However, the Republican Party and the Democratic Party have featured floats representing their organizations. While the NRA has not endorsed any candidates for U.S. President, they have indicated that the President is an "F" rated candidate and we are working to defeat his candidacy. Handing out the fans, in my mind, did not violate the "no candidate rule." However, I was wrong.

The (Venetian Festival) board and several volunteers have received complaints to which I have been made aware and I wanted to clear the air in this situation. At no time were any members of the Venetian Festival board made aware that I had intended on passing out these fans. They only knew that the nonpartisan National Rifle Association would be an entry and walking in the parade.

I have personally called (Venetian Festival board president) Dan Barron and apologized to him for violating their rule in reference to political material as well as the Charlevoix Mayor, Mr. Norm (Boogie) Carlson Jr. We have no intention of being disrespectful to the rules of the Venetian Festival or its volunteers who promote this event through countless hours of hard work. Please be clear to understand that they were not made aware of the material we were to distribute nor did they allow it to happen.

Anyone wishing to contact me to discuss this further may do so via email, tcutlernra@gmail.com or by phone (231) 818-8167.

Murder victim's brother supports Jarema

My name is Richard Merriman, and I, along with my wife Coleen had the great fortune to meet and work with Mr. John Jarema, prosecuting attorney for Charlevoix County.

From a series of confusing events with regard to the whereabouts of my brother Bill, John emerged genuinely caring extraordinarily perceptive, committed to the truth, and committed to justice.

John was presented with the following facts: My brother was missing, there was no body, no weapon, or witnesses and my brother Charles was the suspect. John and Det. Wheat from the sheriff's department could easily have said there isn't enough evidence to go forward with the investigation. Instead, John took charge of the case, which lasted many months. To me, it became very evident that Mr. Jarema's resolve was not to acrue personal gain, but rather to effectuate justice for my brother Bill.

When the investigation was concluded, John brought the appropriate charges. John conducted the jury trial, which lasted three weeks. He went up against two defense attorneys. John had command of the forensic evidence and presented an indisputable case. The jury returned a guilty verdict.

We are grateful for the time and Herculean effort John put into this case and that justice was done.

I felt that John's trial skills and knowledge of how to conduct an investigation were crucial to the outcome of the case. John's 15 years of prosecutorial trial experience became clearly evident and critically important to the proper outcome of this trial. It would be a shame if someone were elected to this prestigious position that does not have criminal trial experience or prosecutorial experience. Too much is at stake for the victims of crimes to not have an experienced trial prosecutor.

Charlevoix County will be best served by re-electing prosecutor John Jarema.

M-66 repaving expected to slow traffic through August

Road construction crews began work this week on a construction project on M-66 south of Charlevoix.

Michigan Department of Transportation officials said the project will include resurfacing 8.4 miles of road from Hugh Street in Ironton to Sequanota Road. The work will also include shoulder repairs and guardrail upgrades.

Traffic will be maintained during the project under flag control. Officials expect the work to be completed by the end of August.

Boy Scouts seek help in locating missing flag

Charlevoix's Boy Scout Troop 11 is seeking the community's help in locating its maroon colored "City of Charlevoix" flag that was misplaced following the troop's participation in the Venetian Festival Street Parade on Saturday, July 28.

Scoutmaster Bryan Lindfors said the flag is mounted on a dark wooden pole with a golden eagle at the top and placed inside a green rubber carrying sleeve. He said the flag was mistakenly set in the bed of a dark-colored Chevrolet pickup truck parked on Carpenter street, just south of the Kipke Field at about noon when the Boy Scouts disassembled their parade float.

"The troop would sincerely appreciate its return," Lindfors said.

Anyone with information, about the flag is asked to contact Lindfors (231) 675-3475.

OBITUARIES

Donald Holcombe Parsons, 82

Donald Holcombe Parsons, 82, banking pioneer, attorney, and real estate developer, died Monday, July 23, in West Palm Beach, Fla. of Alzheimer's disease.

Born on June 17, 1930, in Detroit, he was the son of Katharine Babst and George Holcombe Parsons. A summer resident of the Chicago Club in Charlevoix, from birth, he grew up in Devon, Pa. and attended the Haverford School. He went on to attend Phillips Academy Andover (1948), Yale University (B.A. 1952) and University of Michigan (L.L.B. 1955 and M.B.A. 1956).

"Possessed of an exceedingly sharp mind and an encyclopedic knowledge of finance," according to Fortune Magazine (December 1968), Mr. Parsons was the founder and managing partner of Michigan-based law firm, Parsons, Tennant, Hammond, Hardig and Ziegelman, President of COMAC and managing general partner of a series of partnerships that owned 25 commercial banks throughout the Midwest during the mid-to-late 1960s operating as The Parsons Group. Also active in real estate, he was president of Resources Planning Corporation, which owned and managed real estate developments including Club at Lake Pointe in Northern Michigan.

At age 11, Mr. Parsons contracted polio and was told he would never walk again. With characteristic determination, he overcame this to enjoy many sports, especially tennis. He was a member of the Bath & Tennis and Everglades Clubs in Palm Beach, Fla., The River Club in NYC, The Chicago Club in Charlevoix and the Birmingham Athletic Club in Birmingham, Mich.

Mr. Parsons is survived by his wife of 37 years, Louise Price Parsons of West Palm Beach, Fla., his children James Angell Parsons of New Canaan, Conn., Sarah Babst Parsons of Fairfield, Conn., Donald Holcombe Parsons Jr. of Denver, Colo., Adam Clay Parsons of Greenville, S.C. and eight grandchildren. He was predeceased by his sister Jean Parsons Warner of Charlevoix. He is also survived by his first wife, Sally Angell Parsons.

A memorial service will take place this winter.

Elaine Therease Ranshaw, 62

At age 62 years young, Elaine Therease Ranshaw, another warrior, laid down her arms on June 16, 2012 after a long battle and walked into the Lord's arms as He called her home to be with Him. Born July 15, 1949, the daughter of Leland and RoseMary Warner of Charlevoix.

She was a graduate of Charlevoix High School, dedicated and committed wife, loving and giveing mother/mother-in-law, a grandmother whose life was her two grandsons, and a devoted follower of her Savior and Lord, Jesus Christ. She was preceded in death by her parents, Leland and RoseMary Warner. She loved creating new things, working in children's ministry, and giving of herself to people.

She is survived by her husband, Richard Ranshaw; her two sons, Clinton Ranshaw, Blake (Rebecca) Ranshaw; grandchildren Noah and Jacob, sisters Jacquelyn (Roger) Rozema, Jill Ostrom, and Shelly (Carl) Plumm.

The funeral service took place on Saturday, June 23 at South Church, Lansing with interment at Chapel Hill Memorial Gardens. Visitation took place on Friday, June 22 at Estes-Leadley Greater Lansing Chapel. In lieu of flowers, memorial contributions may be made to South Church, Mother Teresa House or Hospice of Lansing, Inc. For online conolences, visit www.EstesLeadley.com.

Richard A Fochtman Jr., 61

Richard "Rick" A Fochtman Jr., 61, died Friday, June 29, 2012, at his home in Woodridge, Ill.

Born Aug. 2, 1950, in Charlevoix, Mich., to the late Richard and Bonnie (Sutton) Fochtman, Rick graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1969. He attended Michigan Technological University, majoring in computer science.

Rick was employed as a systems programmer by Trailer Train Company in Chicago until 1981 and then joined Clearing Corporation, servicing the Chicago Board of Trade as senior systems programmer specialist until his retirement in 2006.

A lifetime member of the Illinois State Rifle Association, Rick served on its board of directors and various other committees and was a founding member of the ISRA Range near Bonfield, Ill.

Rick was a lifetime member of the National Rifle Association, member of the Winfield Scott Pistol Team and the Tri-County Pistol League. He received numerous recognitions for his skills in both pistol and small-bore rifle shooting.

Rick very much enjoyed working with young people. He assisted local Boy Scouts on their shooting merit badges and helped school youth with their science and electronic projects. He befriended a neighborhood youth, mentored and guided him for many years, remaining close friends to the young man and his mother until his death.

Survivors include three brothers, Gerald "Jerry" W. (Donna) Fochtman of Kingwood, Texas, David L. (Kelly) Fochtman of Arvada, Colo., and Michael A. (Norma) Fochtman of Ooltewah, Tenn.; along with nine nieces and nephews.

A memorial service will take place at 7 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 12, at Naperville Covenant Church, 1150 Hobson Road, Naperville, Ill.

Services in Charlevoix, prior to interment, are pending.

In lieu of flowers, the family suggests memorial donations in Rick's name to the Charlevoix Historical Society or to the charity of choice.

Lake Charlevoix comes in second to Lake Tahoe in USA Today poll

Lake Charlevoix earned high honors in USA Today's recent "Best Lake in America" poll.

The lake was voted No. 2 out of 15 lake finalists. Regional magazine editors nominated the lakes and the poll highlighted smaller, inland lakes rather than the Great Lakes. Editor Kim Cross of the magazine Southern Living offered up Lake Charlevoix as one of her picks.

The article garnered nearly 4,500 comments, with Stephanie Balch of Charlevoix writing, "Lake Charlevoix, without a doubt! Sandy beaches, access to restaurants, great fishing, gorgeous harbors in quaint Northern Michigan towns ... and a short ride through Round Lake and the Pine River Channel puts you on Lake Michigan."

G.T. Long from Horton Bay wrote on his vote, "Lake Charlevoix is where the gods swim ... other lakes may be pretty, but Lake Charlevoix is spiritual in its beauty, clear, clean, deep, and big, situated on hills and a hundred shades of green."

Lake Tahoe, which sits on the border of California and Nevada, took the top spot.

The lakes will be featured in an Aug. 10 USA Today travel story.

In addition to Lake Charlevoix and Lake Tahoe, other nominated lakes include: Blue Mountain, Little Tupper and Lower Saranac lakes, all in New York; Rainy Lake, Minn.; Lake of the Ozarks, Mo.; Lake Lure, N.C.; Lake Rabun, Ga.; Lake Martin, Ala.; Suttle Lake, Ore.; Crescent Lake, Wash.; Moosehead Lake, Maine; Lake Willoughby, Vt.; and Newfound Lake, N.H.

EAST JORDAN

Portside Arts Fair marks 50 years

RACHEL BROUGHAM
Northern Michigan Review

FILE PHOTO

Art lovers will be able to browse the work at about 70 booths during the 50th annual Portside Arts Fair, which runs Saturday-Sunday, Aug. 4-5, at the Elm Pointe Estate in East Jordan.

Artists from Michigan and around the country will have booths open from 10 a.m. - 5 p.m. Saturday and 10 a.m. - 4 p.m. on Sunday.

The art fair features a variety of media, including pottery, paintings, photography, sculpture and jewelry.

The fair will also feature a children's activity center where children can make masks out of wood. Food concessions, including home baked fruit pies are also available for purchase through the Lutheran church.

Live entertainment will also take place throughout the weekend, including local acoustic guitarist, Nelson Olstrom who performs folk, rock and blues, and Bonnie and Francois, which are known for their blend of jazz, Latin, swing and country.

Admission to the art fair is free; however, donations at the gate are appreciated. All proceeds from the donations benefit the East Jordan Portside Art & Historical Museum.

Elm Pointe and the historical museum are located at 01656 M-66 in East Jordan.

For more information, visit www.portsideartsfair.org or call Kim Prehble at (231) 536-3282.

BUSINESS

The Wojan family celebrates 60 years of business

JONATHAN ALEXANDER
Northern Michigan Review

JONATHAN ALEXANDER/NEWS-REVIEW

When the late Walter Wojan started Wojan Window and Door Corporation 60 years ago, it was a small business with five workers.

Today the privately-owned business employs close to 160 in two plants, the primary location in Charlevoix and the other in Coldwater.

Although Walter didn't have a plan in 1952 for his company, he wanted to see growth, said Dennis Wojan, son of Walter, and current president and CEO of the family-owned company.

"It's been good to us," Wojan said. "There have been a lot of lean years and a lot of good years."

Walter introduced a line of aluminum storm windows and doors, but it was their M-35 triple-glazed windows in the 1960s which appealed to companies that longed for greater performance and energy efficiency.

Dennis took over the company in 1972 before his father died and hasn't looked back.

"If he were here today, he'd be surprised with everything that has been done," Wojan said.

The family has been involved with the business from the beginning. Wojan said his brothers and sisters have helped out with the business since its opening.

From 2007-2010, Wojan Window and Door was honored by Inc. Magazine with a spot on the Inc. 5,000 list as one of the fastest growing private companies in America. Today, Wojan Window and Door Corporation primarily sells windows commercially around the country. Wojan said he has sold windows to companies in every state in the U.S. The challenge over the years was finding a the right fit in the marketplace.

"We've found a niche and we kind of rode it as long as we could and in the mean time we're looking for another one," Wojan said.

Their current niche is hospitality — manufacturing for hotels and motels.

He said he prides his business on service, quality, pricing and surrounding themselves with good employees.

"It's very important to have a good staff, and we have a great staff," Wojan said.

Some employees have worked for the company for 20-30 years. Will Conklin has been with the company for 27 years and is now the senior estimator. He says it's run like a major company but it has the hometown feel to it.

"It's like working for a family, which it is," Conklin said. "It makes you want to work at your 100 percent rate and it really makes you want to work hard because you work for someone who is concerned with how you're doing. It makes for a good feeling. I've been working here for 27 years and haven't had a problem."

Production engineer, Tim Hruska says the same. Hruska has been working for Wojan Window and Door Corporation for six months. He admires the fact that they are ready and embrace change.

"It's a great group of people," Hruska said. "They're interested in being progressive and growing the company."

Dennis says he'll never retire from his business. However he wants to continue to keep it in the family.

"I'll always be involved somewhat," Wojan said. "I have no exit plan as of now."

Healthy bonding

Charlevoix Area Hospital, Munson Healthcare deepen relationship

RACHEL BROUGHAM
Northern Michigan Review

A new agreement will give Charlevoix Area Hospital access to more resources.

The hospital and Munson Healthcare signed a regional affiliation agreement, which gives the Charlevoix hospital access to a broad range of services available through Munson Healthcare, based in Traverse City.

"This agreement is a logical extension of the Rural Health Network agreement between Charlevoix Area Hospital and Munson Medical Center which has been in place since 2004," said Ed Ness, president and CEO of Munson Healthcare and Munson Medical Center. "Both agreements are focused on maintaining a range of necessary and 'close to home' health care services in Charlevoix."

Under the Rural Health Network Agreement, Munson Medical Center provided consulting and advice as requested on issues related to emergency medical services, medical staff services, quality improvement and the Charlevoix Area Hospital organization plan for care.

The new regional affiliation agreement will allow the Charlevoix Area Hospital to have access to a broader range of support, such as with information systems and group purchasing, Lyn Jenks, Charlevoix Area Hospital CEO said.

"At this point with the affiliation, it will really help the hospital with business functions," she added.

The agreement does not change ownership or management. Charlevoix Area Hospital remains a not-for-profit, independent hospital.

Jenks, said the hospital's board and leadership are confident in their strategic direction and in forming strategic partnerships to further that plan for a sustainable, successful future.

"Munson Medical Center and the hospitals of Munson Healthcare, have a history of regional collaboration with Charlevoix Area Hospital," Jenks said. "We look forward to developing stronger ties in support of local health care services."

Saginaw Voyageurs to visit Monday

STEVE ZUCKER
Courier Editor

For Charlevoix, playing host to visitors is nothing new.

Having those visitors dress in costumes and camp out in the middle of the downtown under a large canoe doesn't happen every day.

An historical reenactment group known as the Saginaw Voyageurs are planning to pay an overnight visit to Charlevoix on Monday, Aug. 6, as part of their annual paddle to reenact the travels of the area's early French fur traders.

The group is affiliated with the Historical Society of Saginaw's Castle Museum. The members participate in a journey each summer tracing the routes of the original voyageurs and fur traders of the Great Lakes. The purpose of these trips is to promote an understanding and appreciation for the early Great Lakes fur trade, the life of the voyageurs, and the role Saginaw played as the fur trading center.

The Saginaw Voyageurs often camp much as the voyageurs did by over-turning the canoe and attaching a canvas lean-to to shelter them for the night. Tents may be used as well.

The Voyageurs' visit to Charlevoix will come near the middle of their nine-day paddle that will start in Glen Arbor on Friday. They'll travel to Leland on Saturday, Leelanau State Park on Sunday and then they'll paddle across the mouth of Grand Traverse Bay toward Charlevoix on Monday.

The group, which last came to Charlevoix in 1995, plans

Historical society to present Samuel Horton program

The Charlevoix Historical Society will present an illustrated program on the life of Horton Bay founder Samuel Horton and his extensive family at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, Aug. 7, at the society's historic Depot, Depot Beach.

Samuel Horton was born in 1800 at Long Point Bay, Canada, went to Ohio in 1823, and later journeyed north to pass through the tiny settlement of Pine River, later Charlevoix, to set down roots within an extensive cove on the north shore of Pine Lake, later Lake Charlevoix, in 1856. While there he occasionally practiced medicine.

Samuel and his wife Sophia Adams Horton had 13 children, and by 1884 they could boast of 76 descendants. The village that sprang from his settlement became known as Horton's Bay, but lost its "s" many years later.

Ernest Hemingway mentioned the store "with a high false front and maybe a wagon hitched out front" that Samuel built and owned, still in use today, in his classic short story "Up in Michigan."

The program will be presented by W. Richard Smith of Harbor Springs, former prosecuting attorney of Emmet County, and a direct descendant of Samuel and Sophia. Smith will cover the decades from the 1850s to the 1920s.

Light refreshments will be served. There is no admission charge, but supportive donations appreciated. Call (231) 547-0373 for more information.

Hayes candidates split on Camp Sea-Gull issue

JEREMY SMITH
Northern Michigan Review

As the primary election nears, the heated debate over the proposed acquisition of Camp Sea-Gull continues to engulf discussions concerning Hayes Township.

With considerable help from the Michigan Natural Resources Trust Fund, township officials hope to turn the 20-acre former summer camp parcel, with its 1,400 feet of frontage on the north end of Lake Charlevoix, into a lakefront park.

But when voters in Hayes Township go to the polls on Tuesday, Aug. 7, their choices for supervisor and trustees could determine whether the hope for the township to purchase the $4.5 million property ever becomes a reality.

Incumbent Republican Supervisor Ethel Knepp, 66, has been working with the township since the late 1970s in a variety of positions and has held her current position for six years.

Knepp

Challenging Knepp is Republican William Eaton, 65, a political newcomer who has been a resident of Hayes Township for 35 years.

Knepp said she decided to pursue re-election because she sincerely enjoys the opportunity to represent the township's best interest, whether it is policy decisions, zoning, road projects, fiscal and financial responsibility, recreational opportunities, or assessing.

She cited that finally finding a lakefront property and completing the acquisition grant application with the Michigan Natural Resources Trust Fund is a project that she is happy the board of trustees got accomplished.

"I would like to see the purchase of the park project completed," Knepp said. "Three-quarters of the respondents to a township survey has indicated their support for our township to obtain land adjacent to Lake Charlevoix."

However, according to The Committee to Protect Hayes Township website, www.protecthayes.org, the township's survey lacked statistical integrity and conducted their own survey that found different results.

Eaton, too, disagrees with Knepp and insists the purchase of Camp Sea-Gull is certainly not in the best interest of the entire township.

Eaton

He noted that if the whole township was in agreement with the attainment of the property, tempers would not have flared at the public meetings on the township's bid to purchase it.

"I am not against purchasing a park property for the township, but I am against the township spending a surplus of money on a multi-million dollar camp," Eaton said.

Eaton said he thinks with the current fluctuation of the economy that this is not the appropriate time to be spending an exorbitant amount of the township's money. He suggested that the funds that would be used to make up the difference in the grant be used to benefit every resident in Hayes Township, not just a portion.

But Knepp said she believes her experience in township government has proven she has always acted with the best interest of all the residents in Hayes.

"The main thing that separates me from my challenger is the fact that I don't believe he has ever shown an interest in township government prior to his attendance of the board meetings over the past several months," Knepp said. "My personal viewpoint is that if someone wants to become an officer on the board of trustees they should at least work in other areas of government and learn what each office

'Safe Routes to School' under way in Charlevoix

Walking and biking to school will be safer for area students because of a grant from the Charlevoix County Community Foundation. The grant will enable the Health Department of Northwest Michigan to facilitate a Safe Routes to School program in the city of Charlevoix.

"We are grateful to the Charlevoix County Community Foundation for funding the assessment and planning phases of Safe Routes to School in Charlevoix," said Jim Harrington, building healthy communities consultant at the Health Department of Northwest Michigan. "With this funding, we are able to build on work the Charlevoix Public Schools had started, to make walking or biking to school more safe. Once we finalize our action plan, we are eligible to apply for major grants to make improvements."

Safe Routes to School is an environmental change strategy recommended by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention to accomplish the following:

— encourage and enable school children, including children with disabilities, to walk and bicycle to and from school;

— make walking and bicycling a more appealing transportation alternative;

— develop lifelong habits of physical activity;

— facilitate the planning, development and implementation of projects and activities that will improve safety and reduce traffic, fuel consumption and air pollution.

The Charlevoix Safe Routes to School team, led by Charlevoix Middle School principal Travis Garrett, began conducting required assessments last fall. Student and parent surveys about walking and biking to school, and classroom tallies of walking/biking students, have been completed. The team also conducted a biking audit to see what students experience while riding to and from school, noting safety concerns. The overall goal is to increase the number of students walking and biking to school, according to Harrington.

"The city of Charlevoix and the Charlevoix Middle School Safe Routes to School Team have been very supportive of the changes required to make the routes safer and increase student participation," Harrington said.

Now that data collection is complete, the team is preparing an action plan with recommendations to make the environment safer for students walking and biking to school. The plan will also propose policies to encourage walking and biking, as well as educational initiatives for students, families, staff, and the community. Next, they will hold a Safe Routes to School community forum to share assessment results and the proposed action plan, and to gather feedback from the community.

Harrington said the action plan will enable the Charlevoix Safe Routes to School Team to request a Michigan Department of Transportation infrastructure grant. Requests up to $200,000 can fund improvements such as sidewalks, paths, plan design, bike lanes and educational programs.

to paddle down the Pine River Channel and into Round Lake sometime in the late afternoon and will set up their camp in Bridge Park.

Although the Voyageurs often cook their own meals (voyageur stew), Voyageur member Bob Thaler said for the group's Charlevoix visit, they'll likely "hunt and gather" their meals from a nearby establishments.

As they do at all their camps, the group will host an educational presentation around 7 p.m. and Thaler said visitors are always welcome at their camps.

The Voyagers will pack up their camp and head out for their next destination around 8:30 a.m. Tuesday. After they leave Charlevoix, the group will paddle across Little Traverse Bay and make their Tuesday night camp at Petoskey State Park. From there they will "portage" their canoe to Crooked Lake where they will follow the Inland Waterway to Burt Lake State Park on Wednesday, then to the north end of Mullett Lake on Thursday. On Friday and Saturday, Aug. 10 and 11, the group will round out their trip at Fort Michilimackinac in Mackinaw City.

According to the historical society's website, the original voyaguers' canoes were made from cedar with a birch bark skin attached with the white bark on the inside and the "olive" colored part showing on the outside. These craft were sturdy but light and could be carried or portaged around obstacles, such as river rapids or waterfalls.

The Saginaw Voyageurs canoe is a fiberglass replica of the birch bark Montreal canoe. The canoe weighs more than 600 pounds, which is about the same as its birch bark counterpart. The canoe is 34 feet long, 5 feet wide, and is paddled by 11-16 men. The group's website notes that the voyageurs' period costumes are often compare to those of pirates.

Which means they should feel right at home in a community that has a Rayder for its school mascot and a castle of its own.

entails before they run for the head office."

Eaton counters that government is a business and he knows business very well.

"I owned my own business for over 20 years, I'm up for this challenge," Eaton said.

Douglass Kuebler, 63, is also pursuing re-election as a trustee. He has been involved in Hayes Township government for about 20 years.

Kuebler

"I believe I represent the blue-collar workers and I think I've been successful at it," Kuebler said.

He voted against the township proceeding with the applicatioo for the state grant that would help them purchase Camp Sea-Gull.

Kuebler said that he is not in opposition to a park, but the size of Camp Sea-Gull will be difficult to manage and will be a burden for residents to pay for in the end.

"I have asked constantly asked how much will it cost for us to maintain the property and the amount we would have to come up with to make up the difference from the grant" Kuebler said. "I have still not received answers to my questions."

Knepp said that the board of trustees is diligently working to get a projected cost for the project.

The Camp Sea-Gull debate also sparked others residents to toss their hats in the ring to "make a change."

William Henne, 69, decided this was the perfect time to run for trustee.

Henne

"I think that Douglass Kuebler only represents about 15 percent of our residents, and that is a problem," Henne said. "Vast majority wants Camp Sea-Gull and I fully agree."

Burnett

The current planning commission chair, Rich Burnett, 46, did not base his decision to pursue trustee on his personal views of the situation.

"I really just wanted to get involved in the township board and I wish more people got more involved in our community," Burnett said. "I am undecided on the Camp Sea-Gull acquisition because honestly I don't think enough information on the financial obligations that the township will accrue on the property has been released."

The two who receive the most votes in the GOP primary will face Democrat Jim Rudolph in the November election. Two candidates are running unopposed for separate positions in the township. Marlene Golovich is running for clerk and W. Robbin Kraft for treasurer, both as Republicans.

This activity field at the former Camp Sea Gull property would be incorporated into a Hayes Township park design if a propsal by township officials to buy the property goes forward. Debate over the park proposal is a polarizing issue in the upcoming primary election.

around, Jason said.

Gillespie said he, too, supports fiscal responsibility, but there are some important projects the county could benefit to spend on. For example, he pointed to county money that helped float a loan this year to the Charlevoix County Road Commission to complete Boyne City-Charlevoix Road's reconstruction, now under way. But if no good use can be found, the county's surplus stash of money could be refunded to taxpayers, Gillespie said early this week.

Gillespie also said the county should strive to promote tourism, farming and mining as a means to create sustainable economic growth into the future.

Gillespie said he sought re-election because he is not done contributing yet.

"I have many things going and many things I want to complete. One of the large items is the re-powering of the Ironton Ferry and haul out. We are working on a plan that would operate the ship hydraulically with much less machinery," Gillespie said.

Jason said that in the end, he decided to re-enter the political arena because he didn't like what he watched happen in recent months. Perhaps he could help bring change, he said.

"I guess one of the primary reasons (I decided to run) is I've recently attended a number of meetings and didn't like the way the commission meetings are being conducted — the disrespect shown by commissioners for their fellow commissioners," Jason said. "I like good discussions, but not hostility."

Governor OKs Natural Resources Trust Fund grant for bike path

Gov. Rick Snyder Wednesday signed legislation authorizing nearly $38 million in Michigan Natural Resources Trust Fund grants, which includes $300,000 for Charlevoix County.

The grant goes a 10-foot-wide non-motorized recreation trail from the Boyne City limits to Evangeline/Bay Township line. Eventually the path will extend all the way to U.S. 31 outside Charlevoix.

"These projects allow us to preserve the places that make Michigan such a special place to live, work and play," Snyder said in a press release. "They provide diverse, high-quality recreational opportunities for residents and tourists alike. I appreciate the trust fund board's work in identifying and evaluating these projects so that the economies and quality of life in communities across our state are enhanced."

VENETIAN

Amusements carnival rides posted record numbers as well, Barron said.

All these broken records also mean an upswing in revenue for the festival board. Since most festival activities are free to the public, the festival relies on donations, fundraising and revenue from its take of vendor and carnival receipts to foot the festival's more than $250,000 price tag.

Baron noted that a new addition this year — Sunday's "Worship on the Water" praise music event was well attended and the first Saturday Aquapalooza event at Ferry Beach, now in its third year, continues to grow in popularity.

And of course there are the fireworks.

Barron said every year Colonial Fireworks strives to bring something special to the two nights' shows. This year was no different. Barron explained that the pyrotechnicians created a special shell for Venetian Festival called "Candles on the Water." The shell, which was fired just before the grand finale Saturday, was shot into the water, where its contents then floated to the surface and burned there for about 30 seconds just like the shell's name suggest.

Despite the reported increases in attendance to festival events, City of Charlevoix Police Chief Gerard Doan said from a public safety standpoint, this year's festival was one of the smoothest in recent memory. He said both complaint and arrest numbers were down and no out-of-the-ordinary traffic problems were reported.

While many of the organizers and volunteers who make the festival a success from year to year will now enjoy a few days of much needed rest, Barron said work is already taking place to plan next year's festival.

"We don't take a breath," Barron said. "We already have about 50 percent of festival organized in our mind. It best to do it now, when its fresh in everyone's mind to see what worked well what needs to be tweaked."

DISCUSSION

"I don't know of any multi-million-dollar business run by six part-time people," she said.

Jason said he sees the value of what could become an effective county position, along with Tripp, who underscored how very few counties do without such an employee. Lasater warned the decision shouldn't be rushed and Sullivan suggested the first county administrator "will have a difficult job." Haggard said he wants to call the position "controller," and both Gillespie and Halverson pointed to a more focused government with an administrator at the helm.

"I do think we would have avoided a lot of controversy if we had an administrator," Gillespie said.

Other ideas came out of the public forum, as well.

Halverson floated the idea of holding a "county summit," where county, township, city, village and school officials gather with other community "stakeholders" to discuss the region's priorities. Lasater suggested that commissioners move their twice-per-month meetings around the county, rather than always meeting in the county building in downtown Charlevoix. Also, Jason said local governments should work collectively to make bulk purchase orders, a possible way to save all municipalities money.

Voters will, on Tuesday, Aug. 7, choose from the Republican candidates. The winners will advance to face Democratic Ferguson (District 5 and independent Clem (District 6) in the November general election.

Parade predicament

Although this year's Venetian Festival weathered some the mid-week rains well, there was one black cloud that lingered over the end of Saturday's street parade.

Festival board president Dan Barron said board members had "great concern" over one of the parade entrants who, about half way through the parade route started handing bumper stickers and other anti-President Barack Obama literature to parade spectators.

Barron explained that the festival has long had a policy prohibiting political candidates and messages from the parade. He said the group that was handing out the materials — a late entry that said it was affiliated with the National Rifle Association, did not indicate its intent to hand out the material prior to the parade.

"They pulled a fast one on us," Barron said. "We were very unhappy with them."

Barron said when festival officials saw what the group was doing as they approached the grandstand area, they were told to stop. He added that the group will not be allowed to participate in the parade in the future.

Barron noted that a number of community members contacted him and other festival board members upset about the material that was handed out.

"We want to make it clear to the community that this sort of thing is in no way condoned by the festival board," Barron added.

The man who was in charge of the parade entry, Tony Cutler, has since called both Barron and Charlevoix Mayor Norman "Boogie" Carlson Jr. who was in charge of the parade, and apologized for violating the parade rules. Cutler also submitted a letter to the editor to the Charlevoix Courier further apologizing and reinforcing the fact that the festival board did not know of his intention to hand out the anti-Obama material during the parade. The letter appears on page 5 of this week's edition.

and confidence to the citizens, something "that has been lost over the last eight years," he said.

"There needs to be recognition that it's public service, not public power," Telgenhof said.

Jarema

Telgenhof

The men also discussed accusations about misleading advertising during this primary election season. Jarema said that is a "loaded question" and said that's never been his intention.

"I know I have not intentionally misled anyone," Jarema said.

A recent News-Review investigation showed not all advertised Jarema endorsers said that they had, in fact, endorsed him. However, Jarema pointed to what he called a lack of fairness in news reporting.

"The press has to do what they have to do," Jarema said.

Telgenhof replied that it is absurd for Jarema to blame his myriad problems on the media.

One area both Jarema and Telgenhof agreed on is how drug use is a top criminal priority for Charlevoix County, particularly among young people. Jarema said bolstering the local law enforcement drug team and working to improve activities for idle youth is a way to battle the "drug epidemic," while Telgenhof pointed to families and support groups as the best way to take on the problem. Jarema also said he hopes to institute a sobriety court program at the circuit level, similar to the district court's program.

The two well-known local attorneys are squared-off in a battle for the GOP nomination for the four-year elected prosecutor job after months of turmoil surrounding Jarema's internal office politics, resignation as county civil counsel and a lengthy Michigan Freedom of Information Act lawsuit fight with the Petoskey News-Review. Voters will decide at the polls on Tuesday, Aug. 7, which candidate— Jarema or Telgenhof — will advance to the November general election, where there are no candidates filed as Democrats.

Government relations expert Doug DeYoung, of the Northern Michigan Regional Chamber Alliance, moderated the event. Charlevoix chamber president Erin Bemis said at the forum's end that they did not read all questions from the audience, some because of time constraints and others because they weren't issues-driven inquiries, instead more like accusations.

Additionally, dozens of online viewers watched the forum's live stream at www.petoskeynews.com.

A fitting finish

Record set in women's Ryan Shay Mile, Notre Dame alum wins men's race

STEVE FOLEY
Northern Michigan Review

It was only fitting a Notre Dame alum along with a course record were set Saturday in the fifth annual Ryan Shay Mile during Charlevoix's Venetian Festival.

It was almost two perfect finishes.

Heather Kampf of Inver Grove Heights, Minnesota set a new course record in the women's race down U.S. 31 into Charlevoix's downtown which featured a tricky downhill descent near Clinton Street as she finished in 4 minutes, 31.83 seconds.

On the men's side, Daniel Clark of Jackson and a former standout at Notre Dame — the same school where Ryan Shay ran in college following his standout career in Central Lake — finished first in an impressive 3:58.67 as he edged Liam Boylan-Pett at the finish line.

"Winning the race and to honor Ryan Shay, this is something that's been on my bucket list for a while now. I'm just ecstatic," Clark said.

"I didn't know him (Shay) that well, but I'd see him when he'd come back to visit at Notre Dame."

Clark, who in the past two Shay Mile's has finished seventh, said he just wanted to up with the leaders near the halfway mark of the race before attempting to reel them.

"I just wanted to get out since there was a bounty for the first half mile mark," said Clark, who ran at Jackson Lumen Christi. "Everybody gets out really hard. I may have taken the lead at about the 1,200 mark and with a quarter to go I was battling with Liam Boylan-Pett, a Northern Michigan guy, and we battled back-and-forth and I was just fortunate to Kathryn Fluehr,19 of Naples, Fla, was the female overall winner in the Jeff Drenth Memorial 5K Foot Race Saturday. Fluehr finished in 17 minutes, 25 seconds.

Ryan Chute of Big Rapids and Kathryn Fluehr of Naples, Fla. were the male and female winners, respectively, of the Jeff Drenth Memorial 5K Foot Race Saturday during the Charlevoix Venetian Festival.

Steve Matuszak of Caro and Samantha Westveer of Grand Rapids were winners in the 10K. Matuszak, 44, finished in 36 minutes, 31 seconds, while Westveer, 22, finished in 38:25. Chute, 41, won the men's overall 5K in 15:13, whiel Fluehr, 19, finished in 17:25.

A record number of entries totalling 772 —up nearly 150 from last year — took part in both races under near perfect conditions.

SHAY MILE

get a win today."

Clark, who at Notre Dame led the Fighting Irish to a NCAA Championship and earned All-Big East honors in indoor and outdoor tack and was the 1,500 meter Big East champion, recently competed at the 2012 U.S. Olympic Trials in Eugene, Oregon at Oregon University's Hayward Field and missed out on a final qualifying berth in the 1,500 meter run by just a tenth of a second, finishing in 3:42.85.

"I was working 55-60 hours a week doing accounting last year, but I quit that job to focus on the Olympic trials," Clark said. "I just missed going to the finals, but it was great to run in Eugene with thousands of crazy track fans."

Clark said he was concerned about Boylan-Pett — a standout runner at Bath High School where he was a seven-time state champion before running at Columbia and Georgetown — during the final 800 meters after the twosome and Peter Van Der Westheizen led the pack into downtown Charlevoix.

"That hill is tough," Clark said. "It's hard on your quads and your hamstrings, especially where you're used to running on a flat surface. You have to be careful for that and take advantage."

Clark said he has been training hard the past two weeks for the race, a race he also said anyone couldn't won.

"The competition was great and it was just whoever had the best day was going to win, anybody could've taken it," Clark said. "It was pretty fast. It was around two minutes flat for the half and I was in about fifth place then. I know Liam's 800 PR is about five seconds faster than mine so I was just glad to be able to finish."

Boylan-Pett finished second in 3:59.53, while Van Der Westheizen, a South African runner who ran at the University of Nebraska, was third in 4:00.39.

In the women's race, Kampf led a pack along with Ashley Miller and Ashley Higginson near the half mile mark before the 800 specialist Kampf asserted herself and never relinquished the lead to finish with a new course record.

Like Clark, Kampf — a former University of Minnesota runner who was the 800 indoor champion in 2006, was coming off competing in the Olympic trials.

"I haven't raced since the Olympic trials so getting back into race mode was key for me today," Kampf said. "It was an adjustment at first a little bit and I had to remind myself I was racing again."

Kampf said she had been training with Gabriele Anderson, who told her of the Shay Mile.

"She said I should try to get in it and I was a late entry, but Matt Peterson (race director) was very accommodating and they got me in."

Kampf, who runs professionally for Asics and Team USA Minnesota, said she used the momentum she gained from the hill near Clinton Street to propel her to the finish.

"I've always heard it's (hill) something you have to be careful for because it's something that can really take out your legs," Kampf said. "I caught so much momentum going down I figured I may as well let it carry me on through.

"I'm just happy I could finish this way."

Miller, an All-American runner at the University of Nebraska, was runner-up in – 33.53; while Higginson, who ran at Princeton and now for New Jersey/New York Track Club, was third at 1:33.92.

"My hope is to go back to Europe after the Olympics and do some more mile races," Kampf said. "This race was a great event and it's in honor of a great person in Ryan Shay."

Fall sports practices begin next week

Rule changes coming for football season

The 2012-13 Fall sports season officially begins next week, when approximately 110,000 student-athletes across the state begin practice in eight sports in which Michigan High School Athletic Association sponsors post-season tournaments.

Practice sessions begins on Monday, Aug. 6 in football, followed by all other sports on Wednesday Aug. 8. Practice in football must begin on August 6 for all schools wishing to begin regular season games the weekend of Aug. 23-26. Schools must have 12 days of preseason practice at all levels before their first game, which may not occur before 16 calendar days. All football schools must also conduct at least three days of practice before beginning contact, and those sessions may not include any pads.

In golf and tennis, competition may commence no earlier than after three separate days of team practice, and not before seven calendar days. The first day competition may take place in golf and tennis is Aug. 15. In all other fall sports, contests can take place after seven days of practice for the team and not before nine calendar days. The first day competition may take place in cross country, soccer, swimming and diving, and volleyball in the fall is Aug. 17.

This year, two football dates precede Labor Day, and Thursday varsity games will take place both weeks. Subvarsity competition may begin on Wednesday, Aug. 22. In Week 1, 81 games will be played on Thursday, 222 contests will be played on Friday, and 23 games will be played on Saturday. The following weekend, 239 games will be played on Thursday, 67 games will be played on Friday, and 5 games will be played on Saturday.

The Charlevoix Rayder varsity opens its season on Aug. 24 at home against St. Ignace LaSalle and then the Rayders travel to Maple City Glen Lake on Aug. 30.

Rule changes

Michigan High School Athletic Association officials noted that there are several significant rules changes on football for 2012:

— On passing plays, a receiver must first contact and establish control of the ball while inbounds – regardless of the opponent's action. In other words, a catch cannot be ruled on plays where the receiver may have come down in bounds if not for the action of the defender.

— If a player's helmet comes off during a play, and did not occur as a result of a foul by the opponent, that player must leave the game for one play, unless it happens on the final play of a half or an overtime.

— Hand contact by a blocker below the waist of a defender is now considered blocking below the waist.

— The kicking team may not contact a member of receiving team on a kickoff until the ball has traveled 10 yards, or unless a member of the receiving team initiates the contact.

— Jerseys of the visiting team must be white in color, and home jerseys are restricted in the use of white for varsity competition. This was a rule change made in 2007 for implementation this season.

— In soccer, Michigan will not participate in a National Federation rules change this year involving the disqualification from a game when a player receives a second yellow card and the subsequent red card. In Michigan, the player will still be ejected from the contest, but that team will not continue the game a player down. The penalty for a hand ball by a player other than the goalkeeper to prevent a score has been changed. If the goal is prevented, the penalty remains a disqualification of the player; however, if the goal is scored, the penalty will now be a caution to the player who deliberately handled the ball.

There are no substantial rules change in other fall sports.

VOLLEYBALL

Volleyball tryouts set for Aug. 8-10, Aug. 13

METRO

The Charlevoix High School volleyball program will have trouts for all levels, freshmen, junior varsity and varsity from 7-9 a.m. on Aug. 8-10 and Aug. 13 at the Charlevoix High School gym. Girls must have a current physical to tryout.

Anyone with questions about try-outs should call coach Andra Randall at (231) 459-5416.

Circle to host Pulitzer Prize winner Rick Loomis

Loomis

Rick Loomis, Pulitzer Prize winning and journalist and photographer from the Los Angeles Times will be at the Charlevoix Circle of Arts on Aug. 10 to present a lecture and visual presentation of his work.

The event will include a reception from 5-6 p.m., lecture from 7-8:30 p.m. and question and answer session from 8:30-10 p.m. at the Charlevoix Circle of Arts building at 109 Clinton St.

Loomis has traveled throughout the world, photographing prominent topics and events through still and video imagery. His work has captured the lives of people affected by catastrophe, heartache, and loss of loved ones.

Loomis told the LA Times, "Photojournalism is the jack-of-all-trades in photography, demanding some level of expertise in every facet of the craft. You must know how to handle anything that is thrown at you, from lighting a movie star to covering a war and everything in between. It makes you very versatile and comfortable in any situation."

(RICK LOOMIS / LOS ANGELES TIMES)

CAIRO, EGYPT – FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 11, 2011 -- Members of the Egyptian army pray with protesters in Cairo's Tahrir Square on Feb. 11, 2011, the day that President Hosni Mubarak bowed to popular pressure and agreed to step down. The protests were driven by numerous factors that include high unemployment, increasing poverty levels and a large population of dissatisfied youth.

While heartbreaking, his imagery depicts a raw emotional attachment to human lives and issues, thus making his photography that much more intense and powerful, a significant attribute to renowned photography, event organizers said.

Loomis is vivid and authentic in his work, and finds it essential to place people first when telling stories through his photography. In addition to his portrayal of lives being directly affected, his work also includes how life is affected by disasters in nature. His five-part series "Altered Oceans," which portrays the global marine ecosystem crisis, ultimately assisted in his obtaining the Pulitzer for explanatory journalism.

The event is open to the public and admission is free.

Charlevoix man wounded in Afghanistan explosion

Army Staff Sgt. Troy Drebenstedt recovering in Texas hospital

SHERI MCWHIRTER
Northern Michigan Review

Bob and Marlys Drebenstedt spent recent days waiting by the phone.

They received a terrifying phone call around 8 p.m. on Wednesday, Aug. 1, hours after their eldest son, Michigan Army National Guard Staff Sgt. Robert Troy Drebenstedt received severe wounds in a bomb explosion in Afghanistan. Information remained limited and panic quickly set in, but a few hours later the phone rang again.

Marlys Drebenstedt said the voice on the other end of the line came from a doctor at the Kandahar Airfield in Afghanistan.

"He said 'Somebody here wants to talk to you.' Then I heard Troy's voice — I heard his voice. He was groggy, but he was cognizant. I knew then it would be OK. Whatever else comes, we'll take day by day," she said Friday, Aug. 3, from the family's home near Charlevoix. "He's out of Afghanistan. He's out of Afghanistan and that's what matters."

Military officials sent Troy Drebenstedt, 29, to a hospital in Germany on Friday and on Monday arrived at Brooke Army Medical Center in San Antonio, Texas, where Reagan, Troy's younger brother, lives. Bob and Marlys Drebenstedt left Monday afternoon to be by their son's side. Military officials talked the Dre-

EPA taking samples around town to check on decades-old contamination

STEVE ZUCKER
Courier Editor

People living, working or driving in the city of Charlevoix this week may have been left scratching their heads if they've seen a crew drilling holes in the ground in various locations on the southwest side of the city.

What people are seeing is not the most recent prospecting efforts of oil companies looking for hidden deposits of black gold, rather it is a crew from the Environmental Protection Agency taking soil and groundwater samples to check on the status of chemical ground contamination discovered in the city 30 years ago.

According to EPA reports, in mid-1981 the de-greasing chemical trichloroethelyne (TCE) was discovered in the Charlevoix munici-

Telgenhof defeats Jarema in county prosecutor race

Challenger gets twice as many votes as incumbent in primary

Telgenhof

Jarema

Charlevoix County voters ousted incumbent county prosecutor John Jarema in Tuesday's Republican primary election and chose challenger Allen Telgenhof.

Telgenhof, a Charlevoix-based attorney, received more than twice the votes Jarema did — 3,280 to 1,538. Telgenhof declared victory around 10:30 p.m. in an email to supporters.

"This is overwhelming," he said later. "It's been a tough campaign. Thanks to the voters."

Telgenhof is the presumed next prosecutor beginning in January, barring any write-in or independent candidates in the November general election. That leaves Jarema the lame duck prosecutor until Jan. 1.

In the primary, Telgenhof took the lead when early vote tallies began to post, a position he never surrendered. In fact, Jarema received fewer votes than his challenger in every precinct,

Correction

Because of an editing error, the caption that appeared with the 2012 Venetian Queen court photo on page A1 of the Aug. 3 edition of the Charlevoix Courier mistakenly identified Kelly Greyerhiehl as having been named Miss Congeniality for the 2012 court. Cassidy Stebe was, in fact, the court member who was named Miss Congeniality. The photo with the corrected caption appears below.

Knepp, Kuebler, Burnett win nominations in Hayes Township

STEVE ZUCKER
Courier Editor

In Hayes Township, incumbent Ether Knepp defeated William Eaton III for the Republican nomination for the township supervisor's post 353-161 or 68-32 percent. With no candidate filed on the Democratic ticket, Knepp will run unopposed in November unless an independent or write-in candidate runs.

Also in Hayes Township, incumbent Douglas Kuehler and newcomer Rich Burnett earned the Republican nomination for two township trustees position. Kuebler had 296 votes, Burnett, 237 and William Henne had 222. Henne aod Kuehler will now move on to face unopposed Democratic trustee incumbent Jim Rudolph, who had 26 votes. Kuebler, Burnette and Rudolph will now square off in a three-way race for two trustee seats in November.

Voters approve millage proposals in primary

STEVE ZUCKER
Courier Editor

Voters in several Charlevoix Townships were asked to decide several ballot proposals in Tuesday's primary election. One mill equals $1 in tax for every $1,000 of a property's taxable value.

In Peaine Township on Beaver Island, voters approved a request to renew the township's 0.75 mill airport millage by a vote of 104-88. The millage, which will be for airport operations and maintenance, is expected to generate about $44,725 in its first year.

Peaine Township voters also approved a request to renew the township's 1 mill road millage for five years. The millage, which will be used to pay for road maintenance and construction, is expected to raise about $71,634 in its first year.

In St. James Township, voters approved a request to renew the township's 1-mill ambulance services 1 millage for four years by a margin of 120-37. The millage is expected to raise about $48,231 in its first year.

Also in St. James Township, voters also approved a request to renew the township's 0.25 mill historical society millage for four years by a margin of 102-55. The millage, which will be used to provide funds for the Beaver Island Historical Society, is expected to raise $12,057 in its first year.

In Evangeline Township, voters approved a request to renew and slightly increase the township's fire protection millage from 0.7 mills to 0.8 mills for three years by a margin of 99-40. The millage is expected to raise $58,173 in its first year.

Evangeline Township voters also approved a 2 mill road millage for four years by a margin of 78-59. The millage, which will be used to pay for road construction and maintenance, is expected to raise $145,434 in its first year.

In Chandler Township, voters approved a request to renew the townships 1 mill fire department millage for four years by a margin of 40-9. The millage, which will be used to pay for fire department operations and equipment, is expected to raise about $20,537 in its first year.

In Melrose Township, voters approved a request to renew the township's 0.3 mill library millage for four years by a margin of 152-40. The millage, which will be used to help pay for the operation of the Crooked Tree District Library, is expected to raise about $35,910 in its first year.

Melrose Township voters also approved a request to renew the township's 1-mill road millage for a period of four years by a margin of 146-44. The millage which will pay for road maintenance and construction, is expected to raise, $119,698 in its first year.

In Boyne Valley Township, voters approved a proposal to reduce the township's previously-approved ambulance services millage from 1 mill to 0.5 mills for four years by a margin of 167-51. The millage, which will be used to pay for ambulance services in the township, is expected to raise about $64,798 in its first year.

Also in Boyne Valley Township, voters also voted to approve a request to renew the township's 0.3 mills library millages for four years by a margin of 148-73. The millage, which will be used to help pay for operational costs of the Crooked Tree District Library, is expected to raise $38,879 in its first year.

In Hudson Township, voters approved a request to renew the township's 1 mill fire department millage for two years by a margin of 57-13. The millage which will be used to pay for purchasing fire department equipment and vehicles, is expected to raise about $38,331 in its first year.

New faces expected on Charlevoix County board

Lasater defeats Tripp, Sullivan takes open District 6

SHERI MCWHIRTER
Northern Michigan Review

At least two new faces are expected to be seen on the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners in January following Tuesday's Republican primary election.

Lasater

Retired Charlevoix County sheriff George T. Lasater defeated incumbent District 1 commissioner Shirlene Tripp, of Hayes Township, in a relatively close race. The final vote tally came to 521 for Lasater and 463 for Tripp, a 58-vote difference.

That breaks down to show Lasater received nearly 53 percent of votes, while Tripp received a bit more than 47 percent.

Lasater, of Bay Township, is the presumed next District 1 commissioner, unless a write-in or independent candidate beats him in the November general election.

But Lasater won't be the only new face on the board. Though, like Lasater, it's not an unfamiliar face.

Sullivan

Charlevoix County planner Larry Sullivan received the most votes in the Republican primary race for the District 6 seat, the only race without an incumbent. Sullivan received 359 votes, the most among the four names on the ballot.

Shirley Roloff received the next most with 265 votes in the District 6 race, while candidates Dennis Halverson received 261 and John Earl Haggard received 229 votes.

Sullivan previously announced he intends to retire from his longtime county job before taking office, but that's only if he beats declared independent candidate Richard Clem, who will appear on the November ballot.

Otherwise, voters chose incumbents over challengers in all other board races.

Incumbent Ron Reinhardt beat challenger Rick Matelski in the District 3 GOP primary by a 269-193 tally, while incumbent Joel Evans beat challenger David Hague 250-160 in the District 4 primary race.

The last commissioner primary race happened in District 5, where incumbent Richard Gillespie successfully defended his Republican nomination from county planning commission chairman Dennis Jason. The final vote count came in at 627 votes for Gillespie and 362 for Jason.

Finally, incumbent and unopposed commissioner Chris Christensen also will advance to the general election, though it remains unknown whether an independent or write-in candidate will emerge. Christensen became the only incumbent county commissioner not to be challenged in this week's Republican primary election.

County voters say 'no' to parks millage, approve others

JONATHAN ALEXANDER
Northern Michigan Review

Tuesday, Charlevoix County voters voted "no" to the newly proposed parks millage.

The proposal, if approved was intended to fund county parks at 0.15 mills for a four year period from 2012-2015. The estimated 0.15 mill would have raised an estimated $302,777 for the county if levied in 2012. It was expected to be used to avoid general fund expenditures for capital projects and also to allow the voters to decide what level they would like to fund parks.

However, the other four proposals were put into effect. The recycling millage was renewed at 0.15 mills, the transit millage was restored at 0.25 mills, and the rate for the senior millage increased from 0.4 mills to 0.65 mills. The increase in millage will help fund senior programs and prevent deficit spending and is will raise an estimated $1,312,034 for the county when first levied in 2012. It will represent about $65 per year for a taxpayer with a home with a $100,000 taxable value, compared to about $40 previously when it was levied from 2008 to 2011.

"I appreciate the confidence that the people of Charlevoix County have placed in us," said Jack Messer, executive director of Charlevoix County Commission on Aging. "The whole mission of the commission is to help people maintain their independence in their own homes helping them the to be healthy and safe in their own homes. I'm very grateful to the people of Charlevoix and we will continue to work hard to provide those services."

Transit director, Jill Drury was as equally grateful. "I'm happy that the voters were thoughtful and provided the support to us," she said. "It means a lot to our organization that we have the support as we move forward to provide the best transportation for the county."

Previous confusion over the renewal of operational funding was not the case Tuesday.

Voters also voted "Yes" for the four-year, county-wide jurisdictional, operating millage. The wording as a "tax limitation" at 5.9 mills initially caused some people in the public to contact the Charlevoix County officials questioning whether the proposal would mean a tax increase. Charlevoix County clerk Cheryl Potter Browe assured that it was not a new tax increase and said the county is seeking only to renew the millage that has been kept at the same rate for more than 25 years.

The proposal caps the amount of taxes levied at 5.9 mills through 2016: 4.7 mills for the county, 1 mill for the townships and 0.20 mills for Char-Em Intermediate School District.

Center unseats Glass in primary

In the Charlevoix Township Republican primary Tuesday, challenger and current township trustee Charles Center unseated incumbent H. Dale Glass by a 22-vote margin, 241-219 or 52-48 percent.

No one filed to run for the seat on the Democratic ticket, so Center will run unopposed in the November general election unless someone runs as an independent or write-in candidate.

Aging can be tough, but has its silver linings

A LOOK AT LIFE

Gayle Gennett

Getting older has some advantages and disadvantages. OK, if you are 60 or older you already know what the disadvantages are but let me share the advantages.

We visited a national park recently and I was introduced to the "Golden Pass." The pass is a lifetime admission to the National Park Service, Bureau of Land Management and the Fish and Wildlife Service to name a few. This pass gives its owner and anyone who accompanies him or her the ability to enter parks for free whenever there is a fee. My husband, who doesn't sit still and loves to roam, will need to actually stay in close proximity of my profile as he is younger than I and he needs this pass when he enters the beaches and hikes the trails. It will be easier for me to locate him without using my cell phone (my mode of finding him while shopping) and it will be affordable to visit sites in the Tennessee area and campgrounds designed by the Corps of Engineers — areas we have not yet fully explored on our travels.

Sometimes I forget that I am aging and I guess that's a good thing to not remember. This usually happens when I look in the mirror and don't have spectacles on. Recently I was reminded of my age while trying to cross a busy street. Traffic was heavy and coming in all directions as the Venetian fireworks display had just ended. A young man waltzed up to my side with his two little ones and said, "Ma'am, you look like you are having difficulty crossing the street let me help you." And so he did. I was taken back a bit, realizing that I felt like the little old lady being helped by a Boy Scout, but that was awfully considerate of him [illegible]

Getting older also gives me the perk of usually getting a seat on public transportation. When I hop (OK hop is too active of a verb) onto a bus, train or trolley, someone usually gives me his or her seat. Often I politely refuse as I see others who are in need more than I, but it's nice someone offers.

Getting older does bring on confusion at times. I get confused when the print is small and the choices are many. For example, I went into the post office today to purchase stamps. The stamps were well displayed underneath the glass case but there were so many varieties to choose from. It's already difficult for me to remember they are called "forever" stamps and now I have choices, too. So, there I was with a $20 dollar bill looking at the pretty colors, shapes, cartoons, bikers, and patriotic ones ,and then I spotted the dancers and said, "I'll take Innovative choreographers for $20 please." Then I quipped with, "Gene Kelly, Fred Astaire, and Ginger Rogers," trying in earnest to remember all the dancers I loved to watch on our old Zenith growing up. Then I stopped myself. Yes, I turned buying stamps into a familiar game show. At least it brought a smile to the postmaster.

One of the advantages of aging is worrying less, because we realize most of what we worry about doesn't actually happen. We are also more forgiving of others, especially the activities of grandchildren. It becomes easier to say no to obligations and realize you are not obligated to make everyone life's better. Aging also brings a willingness to be wrong and easily admit it. Also, as we age, we have a greater appreciation of what we have and begin to get rid of all things we don't need.

Some mornings I have aches in places that don't seem fair and I wonder, "If I was a horse, would they shoot me?" But by mid-day the aches are gone and my body says, "move it or lose it," and so we keep moving. Getting older is survivable, especially if your attitude is positive and, what the heck, most store clerks let you fumble as you slide your debit card through in the wrong direction or even forget your debit number. Fortunately, just like the young man who helped me cross the busy street, someone usually comes to my aide or gives up their seat. So, I am playing this card out, because it's nice to be cared for and I promise not to poke or trip anyone with my cane.

Elections remind reader of circus

Editor:

The circus is in town and we are besieged with candidates for the upcoming elections rushing around uttering ridiculous promises, and hurling insults at their opponents via the media.

All this silliness is occasionally amusing, but for the most part, tiresome and incredibly boring, reminding us of the lyrics of a popular song —"Send in the Clowns."

"There ought to be clowns. Where are the clowns? Send in the clowns.

Don't bother ... they're here."

Speaker warned of fracking dangers

What would it take for you to leave your home? How much benzene is it safe for your family to breathe?

These are questions that Calvin Tillman, the former Mayor of Dish, Texas asked the audience. On a tour of Northern Michigan sponsored by Don't Frack Michigan and local conservation groups, Mr. Tillman told his story of how he fought to save his family and community from the devastating damage to property, health and the environment brought by the heavy industrialization process of Slickwater Deep Shale Fracking.

We know that war and famine drive people from their homes, but Mayor Tillman told a personal story of how the largely unregulated activities of the natural gas companies and the accompanying compression stations, venting gasses, piping, trucking and drilling, made his children sick, and drove him from the "only home my kids had ever known. The home where we went to church, where our children went to school, the home we planned to raise our family in."

According to Tillman, the root of the problem is that the oil and gas companies largely have written their own rules, and the regulatory agencies protect the industry rather than the public. He said fracking has exemptions to seven major health and safety laws (including the hazardous waste disposal rules, the Safe Drinking Water, Clean-up, Community Right to Know and the Clean Air Acts). And while the industry would like to focus attention deep below the ground, unconventional dense shale fracking uses hundreds of times the amounts of chemicals and water and land area. The devastating impacts of heavy industrialization occur in the communities, forests and rural areas above the shale plays.

Mr. Tillman suggested we watch The Sky is Pink, a new film by Josh Fox at http://player.vimeo.com/video/44367635. Also see www.dontfrackmichigan.org .

Correct Miss Congeniality deserves the honor

Last week the Charlevoix Courier ran a picture of the Miss Charlevoix Venetian Court and identified me as Miss Congeniality. Although flattered, the fact is that Cassiday Stebe was chosen to receive that honor. I got to know Cassidy during the weeks we spent together preparing for the pageant. She is a very kind and friendly young lady and she deserves to be recognized for her great achievement.

Democrats: Parade activities insulting

Editor,

As the chairperson of the Charlevoix County Democratic Party representing our membership, we were insulted by Tony Cutler's premeditated scheme to distribute his political fliers at this wonderful family event. In my opinion, Culter was well aware of the Venetian Festival board policy that any parade entrant that violated the parade regulations would be diverted out of the parade at the next intersection by a police officer. He waited until he was coming down the hill by the 7-11 store before he and his volunteers started distributing his "fans" and immediately started receiving jeers and boos plus the indignation from the Venetian Festival MC.

Before the parade, I was disappointed that our members couldn't wear Obama T-shirts or carry issue placards, but after Culter's shenanigans, I totally support their policies.

ROTH Ira: For Your Retirement...and Beyond

If you're somewhat familiar with investing, you may know that the Roth IRA is a great retirement-savings vehicle. But are you aware that some of its benefits can also pay off for the next generation of your family?

To understand why this is so, it's necessary to be familiar with a Roth IRA's features. For starters, when you contribute to a Roth IRA, your earnings have the potential to grow tax free, provided you don't start taking withdrawals until you're 59½ and you've had your account at least five years. The amounts you contributed aren't taxed when withdrawn because you've already paid taxes on the money you put in. And the potential for tax-free earnings can continue even when your beneficiaries inherit your Roth IRA, though you'll need to consult with your tax advisor on this issue.

A Roth IRA also offers other features that can help you build resources for retirement while possibly helping your surviving family members. For one thing, you can contribute to your Roth IRA for as long as you have some earned income, up to the contribution limits, and as long as you meet certain income limitations. Even if you've officially "retired," you might do some consulting or part-time work. So you could put some of your earnings into your Roth IRA. This ability to keep funding your Roth IRA virtually indefinitely can give you more flexibility in managing your retirement income — and, depending on how you do manage that income and what your other objectives may be, you may also end up with more money that could be left to your beneficiaries.

Also, unlike a traditional IRA or a 401(k), a Roth IRA does not require you to start taking minimum distributions at age 70½. In fact, you are never required to withdraw money from your Roth IRA. And by leaving your account intact for as long as possible, you'll potentially have more money available for a variety of options — one of which may involve leaving sums to your beneficiaries. Your non-spouse beneficiaries must take annual required minimum distributions, but they have the option to take the distributions over their lifetime.

Keep in mind, though, that your Roth IRA is part of your estate for purposes of federal estate taxes. In 2012, your estate would be subject to these taxes if it were worth more than $5.12 million (or less, if you made certain gifts). In 2013, however, this amount is scheduled to drop to $1 million unless Congress acts on this issue. (Some states also have estate taxes that apply at amounts less than the federal amount.) In any case, if you have a sizable estate, you should consult with your tax and legal advisors.

When you invest in a Roth IRA, your goal, first and foremost, is to help fund your retirement. In fact, basically all your decisions regarding your Roth IRA — how much to contribute, where to invest the money and when to begin taking withdrawals — should be based on your own retirement goals. However, as a side benefit to investing in a Roth IRA, you may find that you could help out the next generation, or two, of your family.

Kate Pew Wolters to speak at Charlevoix library August 16

COURTESY PHOTO

Lynn and Mason Rosenthal will be honored as the 2012 Margaret Duerr Award on Thursday Aug. 16 at the Charlevoix Public Library.

Kate Pew Wolters of Grand Rapids will be the featured speaker at 6:30 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 16, at the Charlevoix Public Library, where Lynn and Mason Rosenthal will be honored as the 10th recipients of the Margaret Duerr Award.

Wolters was born on June 1, 1975, with a form of dwarfism called diastrophic dysplasia. She will be talking about her philanthropic life and the difficulties she encountered with her disability.

Being a person with disabilities, Wolters became interested in sociology at Aquinas College then went on to Michigan State University for her graduate work. She joined Steelcase as a social worker, and also joined the Board for Independent Living (now Disability Advocates of Kent County). She taught herself to write grants, to fundraise and to deal with the federal government. After several years she became head of Steelcase Foundation, where she stayed for 10 years.

Appointed by President Clinton in 1996 to the National Council on Disabilities, Wolters was confirmed by the Senate and served until 2003. She was appointed by Gov. Jennifer Granholm to an eight-year term on the board of Grand Valley State University. Today, Wolters serves on the boards of Steelcase, the Steelcase Foundation and the Grand Rapids Symphony.

After Wolters' presentation, Lynn and Mason Rosenthal will be honored as the 2012 Margaret Duerr Award recipients. Each year an individual who has demonstrated an interest in the preservation of the history, arts, education and environment of Northern Michigan is selected for the Margaret Duerr Award. Lynne and Mason Rosenthal, long-time summer residents of Charlevoix, have a passion supporting the ideals of Charlevoix — the arts, culture, beauty and outdoors. Lynne and Mason not only are library supporters, but they also support the Charlevoix Area Hospital, the Charlevoix County Community Foundation, Crooked Tree Arts Center, the Circle of Arts and the Charlevoix Historical Society. A reception will follow.

Anyone interested, or who knows someone who would benefit from learning more about our county, networking or working on leadership skills, should visit www.leadershipcharlevoixcounty.com or contact program coordinator Mishelle Shooks at shooks@charlevoix.org. Applications can be turned into the Beaver Island, Boyne Area, Charlevoix Area or East Jordan Area Chamber of Commerce.

Charlevoix Schools Foundation close to goal

MORGAN SHERBURNE
Northern Michigan Review

A fundraising-endeavor that began just one year ago is already closing in on its goal.

The Charlevoix Schools Foundation aimed to raise $120,000 over a three-year period, which will be matched by anonymous donors for a total of $240,000.

Halfway through the fundraising, the foundation is more than on track to achieve its $120,000 mark, said Bob Klein, a summer resident instrumental in getting the program's initial grant commitments.

"We are now in the red zone and approaching the goal," he said.

But "approaching the goal" does not mean the foundation has reached its goal — not just yet.

"We're still canvassing the prospectives that we still want to reach out to," said Klein.

Once the program reaches the $240,000 total goal, the fundraising will stop; the program is not meant to be sustained in perpetuity, Klein said.

"The purpose of the program was basically enable the school board and the administration to stabilize," said Klein. "When this was undertaken, there was a real budget freefall."

Klein said he and other organizers wanted to protect programs that would have otherwise be cut, and to provide assistance for equipment purchases such as computer software, the purchase of which would otherwise be deferred.

The program has already awarded more than $40,000 in grants to school programs.

"One year into this and we have been very successful," said Klein. "The community has responded overwhelmingly."

Gifts or deferred pledges over three years are accepted, and credit card and on-line giving options are also available. Contributions should be made out to Charlevoix County Community Foundation and contain the words "Charlevoix Schools Foundation Fund" in the memo line. For more information, call (231) 536-2440 or visit www.c3f.org.

Castle Farms offers final Twilight Tour of the season

Castle Farms of Charlevoix will host its final Twilight Tour of 2012 on Thursday, Aug. 23.

This opportunity offers the general public a chance to privately experience views of the castle.

The Twilight Tour begins promptly at 8:15 p.m.. Guests will be able to stroll the grounds and through the buildings with a fully trained tour guide on a 90-minute tour. Guides will offer stories of The Castle and its four owners.

For photographers, The Twilight Tour offers many photo opportunities and by the end of the evening, the moon will have made its appearance (weather permitting).

Tour space is limited. Reservations are recommended. Admission is $10 per person. For reservations and/or questions about our Twilight Tour, call (231) 237-0884, ext. 224.

Youth craft show coming to library

The Charlevoix Public Library will host its youth craft show 5:30-7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 14.

"It's a wonderful way for our kids to learn some valuable business lessons and earn a little extra money," said Audrey Shapiro, children's services coordinator.

The kids have to make their own wares, plan and set up their own booth, and then sell their gifts during the show.

Stop by the youth department at the library for more information or a registration form. Call (231) 237-7350 for further information.

Consumers Energy Foundation awards grant

The Consumers Energy Foundation has awarded a $225 grant to an organization in Charlevoix County to recognize outstanding volunteerism by an employee.

The Volunteer Investment Program grant recognizes Timothy Petrosky, area manager in Bay Harbor, who performed 70 hours of volunteer service over the past 12 months with the Rotary Club of Charlevoix. The $225 grant will be applied to general funds to be distributed to the community.

The Consumers Energy Foundation is the philanthropic arm of Consumers Energy. It provides funding for a variety of areas including education, community and civic development, culture and the arts, social services, the environment, and emerging issues. For more information about the Consumers Energy Foundation and its support of America's Promise, visit our website at www.consumersenergy.com/foundation.

Consumers Energy, the principal subsidiary of CMS Energy, provides natural gas and electricity to 6.8 million of Michigan's 10 million residents in all 68 Lower Peninsula counties.

OBITUARIES

Constance Phillips, 65

Constance Phillips, 65, of Phoenix passed away Wednesday, Aug. 1, 2012 in her home in Los Angeles with her family. Connie was born Dec. 7, 1946 in Detroit to Irven and Eula (nee MacDonald) Watkins. She was educated at Western Michigan University, and received two master's degrees from Madonna University and Michigan State University. She met her ex husband Peter Allen Phillips (who preceded her in death in May) at WMU and they moved to Charlevoix to raise their family in 1978.

Connie spent several years educating and advocating for the rights of prisoners especially in the area of G.E.D. equivalency. She was later a special education and deaf teacher in Muskegon, Charleston, S.C., the Navajo Nation (Kayenta, Ariz.), and Phoenix. In 2011, Connie received the award for Outstanding Teacher of the Year by the Foundation for the Deaf and the Blind in recognition of her work as a teacher in the Applied Academies Program at Phoenix Day School for the Deaf.

She was a beloved mother to Owen Phillips (Laura Willis), Amber Phillips (Tom Slovick), and Ethan Phillips (Timothy Johnston) and great friend to many. Always open, available, and engaging, her spirit for life will be sorely missed by those who knew her best. In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to the Wellness Community in Phoenix, Ariz., the Cancer Support Community Center in Pasadena, Calif., or the Applied Academies Program at the Phoenix Day School for the Deaf in Phoenix, Ariz.

David Brandon Cadwell, 75

David Brandon Cadwell of Black Mountain, N.C. passed from this life to his heavenly home with the Lord Jesus Christ Aug. 4, 2012, in Asheville, N.C. at Mission Hospital.

Dave was born to Lillian and Fred Cadwell on Feb. 11, 1937 in Ferndale Michigan. He is survived by his wife of almost 52 years, Dana; children, Jeanne Way (Dennis) of Charlevoix and Susan of Asheville, and grandsons Brandon (Stephanie), Andrew and Cameron, and great-grandchildren Brandon and Emma. He is also survived by sister, Aileen Haines of Bradenton, Fla. and brother, Robert (Karen) of Black Mountain. He is also survived by young men he mentored in Bolivia – Teo, Ronald, Ruben, Adrian, Miguel, Raul, Jorge, Roger, David and Freddy.

Dave earned his bachelor of arts degree from Alma College in 1959. He also attended Detroit College of Law for one year. His career was in the insurance industry as an adjuster, risk manager and independent agent. He retired from The America Insurance Agency in Fort Mill, S.C. in 1999.

Dave was a servant. He was on the Bellaire Board of Education and Bellaire Lions Club for many years. He also served in many church capacities all of his life. In retirement, he worked with Habitat for Humanity and Hope Ministry Center in Florida. Dave and his wife were also called to short term mission work in 2004 and served in Bolivia in many projects for eight years. He was also known for his great wit, sense of humor and strong singing voice.

A memorial service celebrating the life of David Cadwell took place on Tuesday, Aug. 7 at Montreat Presbyterian Church EPC in Gaither Chapel. In lieu of flowers, contributions can be made to Montreat Presbyterian Church EPC, Bolivia Fund, P.O. Box 279, Montreat, NC 28757; or, First Baptist Church, Hope Center, 125 W. Anderson Ave, Bushnell, FL 33513. The family also extends appreciation to the wonderful staff at the Mission Heart Center (5North and CICU) for their special care.

A 'beret' good time

Bicyclist injured in collision with vehicle

A Petoskey bicyclist was injured in a collission with an automobile on U.S. 31 near Charlevoix on Saturday, Aug. 4.

Charlevoix County Sheriff's office officials identified the injured bicyclist as Joseph Rosenberg, 65, of Petoskey. Rosenberg was evaluated at the scene by Charlevoix Ambulance crews and transported to McLaren Northern Michigan where he was treated for his injuries.

According to a sheriff's office news release, the crash happened at about 11:50 a.m. near U.S. 31 and Waller Road.

Deputies said Rosenberg was traveling north on U.S. 31 when he attempted to make a left turn onto Waller Road but didn't see a motor vehicle, driven by Charles Bergman, 69, of Charlevoix, immediately behind him. As Rosenberg turned, he rode into the path of the motor vehicle and was struck, authorities said.

Deputies said Rosenberg, who was wearing a helmet, was knocked off of his bicycle and sustained some injuries as a result of the crash.

Man injured, dog extricated from vehicle following crash

Firefighters had to use extrication tools to free a dog from the wreckage of a vehicle that crashed in Eveline Township on Saturday, Aug. 4.

According to a Charlevoix County Sheriff's office press release, at about 11 p.m. Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office deputies, along with East Jordan Ambulance crews and firefighters responded to the area of Behling Road and Cosier Road in Eveline Township to a report of a one-vehicle crash.

Deputies said Harry Bruce Behling, 44, of East Jordan, was traveling west on Behling Road near Cosier Road when his vehicle left the road and struck several trees. Behling was able to get out of the vehicle on his own, but his 13-year-old golden retriever had to be extricated from the vehicle, authorities said.

Behling was transported to Charlevoix Area Hospital, where he treated for minor injuries and released. Deputies said the golden retriever "is doing well and recovering at the Behling residence."

An investigation is ongoing. Road conditions may have been a factor in the crash, authorities said.

Charlevoix County election results held up

Beaver Island glitch delays certification

SHERI MCWHIRTER
Northern Michigan Review

Charlevoix County election officials delayed the expected certification of Tuesday's primary results because three votes turned up missing.

Canvas board members failed to certify the entire county's primary election results Wednesday afternoon when they discovered paperwork from Beaver Island's St. James Township didn't match up with figures phoned in late the previous night. Township election officials flew to the mainland Thursday, Aug. 9, to sort out where the problem happened.

"I'm coming to Charlevoix today with two of my election inspectors to see if we can figure out where the discrepancy is. You know every number has to be perfect," said Jean Wierenga, St. James Township clerk and top township election official.

Results from Tuesday's election weren't finalized until nearly midnight because the island township's numbers didn't automatically transfer to the county clerk, as usual. The modem apparently failed on the township's tabulation equipment.

"The numbers were late coming in because they had machine issues," Charlevoix County Clerk Cheryl Potter Browe said. "They called the totals in to us and we had to hand enter them into our computer system."

The hiccup came when the election paperwork arrived Wednesday from Beaver Island, flown to the mainland among the first available morning flights just a matter of hours after polls closed the prior night. Now township election officials were expected to catch among the first available morning flights to Charlevoix Thursday.

"They are going to be sorting it out until they figure out the discrepancy and why it happened," Browe said. "Legally we have five days to finish the canvas, so we are not in violation. You have to start the canvas by 1 p.m. the day after the election, but have five days to finish. We just don't normally take more than one day."

Both Browe and Wierenga said they expect the solution to be easy enough to discern.

"It could be a simple answer," Browe said.

"I'm sure we'll put our heads together and quickly resolve it," Wierenga said.

The county's canvas board is expected to meet again Friday morning in a second attempt to certify county-wide election results.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY
Bridging our past with our future

LOOKING BACK…

In the spring of 1878, members of the Baptist Church in Kalamazoo purchased 25 acres of terraced land located at the southeast corner of Round Lake and Lake Charlevoix from pioneer Morris J. Stockman for $625. They called themselves the Charlevoix Summer Resort (later the Belvedere Club). On July 2 that year, three members arrived in town to begin building. By the end of the year, six cottages had been completed plus a 16-room boarding house. The little building shown here was the first structure on the resort before anything else went up, a tool shed and bunk house in which cottage owners might sleep while supervising the construction of their cottages. At first it was called The Midget, then The Morgue, Beever's Bower, and The Kicker. Later it became a playhouse for the resort children, and a social gathering place for the slightly older set.

This image is one of 850 in the Charlevoix Historical Society's most recent DVD titled "Charlevoix, Michigan — A Pictorial Journey through 16 Decades." The disc is available at the Society's Hersha House Museum, 103 State St. next to the Congregational Church, from 1-4 p.m. Monday-Saturday. It is also available at the Central Drug Store, Round Lake Books, Castle Farms, and Ell-Air Gallery. Docents are needed for the society's Hersha House for July and August. East Park puzzle: Shade vs. views

STEVE ZUCKER
Courier Editor

It's generally accepted by people who both live in and visit Charlevoix that East Park has become one of the community's crown jewels.

But even the finest of jewels can use a little polishing now and then.

Two items involving tweaks to the park, were among the many things the Charlevoix City Council considered at its regular semi-monthly meeting Monday.

Recently city officials have been approached by people suggesting that the park would be more usable in the daytime during hot weather if more shade trees were planted. In fact, a donor has come forward offering to pay for planting a few trees.

However others have raised concerns that the trees might eventually block out much of the view of Round Lake that is also cherished by many.

To help the council with its consideration of the proposal, city street superintendent Pat Elliott worked on a project using photo editing software that would give council and community a sense of the impact three red oak trees planted near the eastern edge of the park (near sidewalk along the marina) would have on the view of Round Lake over time.

"I think there is some value in getting some shade in East Park," Elliott said. It would be a bit before any new plantings would have an effect on the view, but are we willing to block the views that these trees would crowd out?"

Elliott said that city crews could do some selective pruning of the trees as they grow to help minimize the impact on the view.

Birdie Whitley said she's concerned about losing views of the lake and suggested that the city buy more tables with umbrellas to provide more shade in the park.

However John Winn, who spends a great deal of time in the park with his son, said he regularly sees people dragging picnic tables up near Bridge Street so they can eat their lunch in the shade.

"We have benches that people donated sitting empty because it's too hot," Winn said. He added that the original park design included more trees. "We just ran out of time and money."

Most of the council appeared agreeable to considering planting a few additional trees in the park, saying the placement of the trees will be the key issue.

"It's a park and most parks have trees. So, I think we aught to put some trees in it," council member Lyle Gennett said.

At first the council planned to meet in the park prior to its next regular meeting to look at some placement options for the trees, but a more time-sensitive park-related matter prompted them to push

Council seeks community input on zoning overhaul

STEVE ZUCKER
Courier Editor

After more than two years of work, Charlevoix city officials are ready to unveil a first draft of a dramatically overhauled city zoning ordinance.

It's the first major re-work of the ordinance since 1978 and they want input from the community on it.

City planning director Mike Spencer said city staff has been working closely with the planning commission and LSL Planning Inc. to create the draft ordinance, which will completely replace the current ordinance.

City officials expect the draft ordinance to be available to download from the city's website on about Monday, Aug. 13, when it is slated to be officially introduced at the planning commission meeting on that day.

Spencer said the draft ordinance is intended to carry out the goals and objectives of the 2010 Land Use Master Plan.

"The zoning ordinance is intended to guide responsible future growth and development, protect public health and safety, provide for efficient transportation, preserve and protect neighborhood character, to prevent over-congestion of structures, protect water quality, and encourage redevelopment of existing outdated structures," Spencer wrote in his introduction of the ordinance.

He said the new ordinance is better organized and has much clearer language complemented by graphics to better define specific requirements; complies with all Michigan laws pertaining to planning and zoning, specifically the Zoning Enabling Act; and addresses unclear or missing language that has been discovered in administering specific requirements in the past.

The draft ordinance also includes numerous proposed rezonings at various locations throughout the city.

"These are proposed to accommodate changes in land use that have occurred since 1978, address economic changes, guide future development toward appropriate locations, encourage mixed-use developments, and promote higher density in appropriate locations," Spencer wrote.

He said any owners of property proposed to be rezoned will be notified by the city by mail.

"There is logic and specific rationale behind all proposed zone changes. City staff and officials want to fully involve property owners in this process," he added.

Other highlights of the new zoning ordinance include:

— A reduction in the number of zoning districts.

— Less restrictive setback requirements in residential zoning districts.

— Regulations to address solar panels and wind energy systems.

— New regulations on swimming pools and athletic courts in residential areas.

— Clear regulations on boathouses.

— New regulations for mineral extraction.

— New regulations for cell towers.

— Clear language on temporary buildings, uses, and special events.

— Changes to landscaping requirements for commercial and industrial zoned properties.

— Changes to parking requirements. Less restrictive parking requirements and the ability to do shared parking lots.

— Minor changes to sign regulations.

— Streamlined development plan review procedures.

— Changes to special land use review procedures.

— New planned unit development (PUD) review procedures and standards allowing for flexibility in zoning if specific community benefits can be achieved.

— New language on nonconforming lots, uses and structures.

— New regulations on sexually oriented businesses.

— Changes to Zoning Board of Appeals review procedures and standards.

Spencer noted one item that won't be changing from the current ordinance are the regulations regarding medical marijuana that the city enacted after an extensive process earlier this year.

A tentative timeline for the review, discussion, modification and adoption of the new zoning ordinance has also been laid out (all times are 7 p.m.):

— Aug. 13, planning commission: Introduction of draft, staff presentation.

— Sept. 10, planning commission: Public Hearing. (commission may decide to have a second hearing)

— Oct. 8, planning commission: Public meeting/hearing, recommendation to city council.

— Oct. 15, city council: Introduction of draft, staff presentation.

— Nov. 5, city council: Public hearing.

— Nov. 19, city council: Possible adoption of ordinance.

— Dec. 19, new ordinance would take effect.

Spencer noted that the timeline is subject to change.

Updates on the draft zoning ordinance will be posted on the city's website at www.cityofcharlevoix.org/master-plan-updates.html.

Beacon Dental to offer free dental services Aug. 24

Beacon Dental Center, owned by Dr. Michael Sullivan will host the second Dentistry from the Heart event on Friday, Aug. 24, during which the staff expects to provide 50 or more patients with free dental care.

The team of dental professionals at Beacon Dental Center will provide adult patients with free dental care including extractions, fillings and cleaning. There will be several dental professionals and members of the community donating their time and resources, in order to provide free dental care to as many residents in need as possible. The event will donate thousands of dollars in free dental care and provide much needed relief to people in need in the community.

Organizers expect the line will begin early the night before, with hundreds prepared to camp out in order to receive free services. Patients are seen on a first come, first served basis. Event registration will begin at 7 a.m. and patients will be seen through 5 p.m.

Event officials encourage patients to dress appropriate for the weather as the waiting area is outside.

The first Dentistry from the Heart event took place in December 2011, where more than $28,000 of free dental care was donated with treatment performed on more than 50 patients. This is the second event for Beacon Dental Center and like hundreds of other Dentistry from the Heart members, organizers do not expect it to be the last. A third Dentistry from the Heart event is scheduled for Friday, Dec. 21, at Beacon Dental Center.

"It all comes down to wanting to provide something greater to my community," said Dr. Sullivan. "The services provided by Dentistry from the Heart helps more than just a patient's teeth, it gives them a renewed reason to smile."

Beacon Dental Center is located at 06483 M-66 North in Charlevoix. For more information visit www.BeaconDentalCenter.com or call (231) 547-9141.

Lions 'White Cane Days' Aug. 10-11

The Charlevoix Lions Club annual White Cane Days will be from 9 a.m.-5 pm on Friday and Saturday, Aug. 10-11, to raise money to support projects that help blind and other visually impaired people.

Lions Club members will be at Glen's Market, Oleson's, Ace Hardware, K-mart and at various locations downtown seeking contributions.

"We hope people in our community give generously, [illegible] and we thank our neighbors and visitors for the support," said Bob Grupp, who organizes the annual fundraiser for the Charlevoix Lions.

More than 80 years ago, Lions Clubs began using white canes with a red hand to assist the blind in achieving independent mobility. Today, a white cane universally acknowledges that the bearer is blind. White Cane Laws are enacted in every state and in [illegible] many other countries, providing blind persons a legal right-of-way when traffic is present.

All monies raised are used exclusively to support Lions projects to assist blind and other visually impaired people in Charlevoix and statewide. Some projects receiving funds are: Leader Dog puppy search and training, Michigan Leader Dog Training Facility, Michigan Lions Youth Marching Band, Welcome Home [illegible] For The Blind, Michigan Eye Bank and Transplant Center, as well as eye care for local residents in need.

"Community support for this project helps Lions fight blindness and assist those struggling with vision loss and vision impairment," Grupp said. "We hope to surpass the $3,800 that was raised last year, which our club contributed to programs that support people with vision loss."

Sidewalk sales set for Aug. 16-18

Charlevoix area merchants will once again offer hot summer deals at their annual end of summer sidewalk sales taking place Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Aug. 16-18.

Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce officials said many merchants will offer substantial reductions on a variety of seasonal inventory that must go.

"Merchants will be out in force with great sales to reduce inventories before the fall season. Shoppers will find great discounts on gift items, home décor, clothing, books, jewelry, accessories and more," chamber officials said in a release.

Merchant hours may vary, but most merchants will be on the sidewalk from 9 a.m.-5 p.m. and inside after 5 p.m.

For more information, contact the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce at (231) 547-2101, or visit www.charlevoix.org.

EAST PARK

the discussion up to a special meeting on Thursday, Aug. 9.

At the council's July 20 meeting, Winn brought a proposal from a anonymous donor who would like to see a decorative fireplace constructed on the western edge of East Park.

Winn's proposal calls for the fireplace to be placed in East Park's "Plaza B" — the more northern (closer to Clinton Street) of two half-circle areas located at the top of steps leading into the park from Bridge Street. The proposed fireplace would stand about seven feet tall with a roughly 13-foot spiral chimney created with the same stone, used in the same way as other portions of the park.

Winn said he has secured donations of either money, labor or materials to cover the cost of construction. The city's cost would only be to pay for the installation of a natural gas line and the cost of the gas used.

In July the council gave its tentative blessing for Winn to move forward with plans for the project while he and city staff collected more information. At that time Winn said time was an important factor because the main donor is 85 and would like to see the fireplace installed in time for this year's Apple Festival.

The estimated cost for the gas line installation is $1,873 and anticipated annual gas usage costs (based on a seasonally-adjusted timer operation is estimated at $6,766.

Council members seemed generally supportive of the idea at previous meetings and could give their approval to the project Thursday.

In another matter related to the East Park area, the council decided to hold off on deciding if it should pursue adding additional large boat dock slips to the marina until fall when the year's marina revenues are in and a better estimate of downtown property values is available.

The council also decided not to make changes to the city's yard waste pickup program requested by city resident Julee Roth. Roth had asked city officials to consider limiting curbside deposits of yard waste to certain days of the month to reduce the appearance of curbside piles around the city.

Roth also brought a proposal to the council asking them to consider repainting the south pier lighthouse back to white. The lighthouse was red from 1914 to 1968 when it was painted white. It was painted red again in 2007 when the city took over ownership of the landmark light. Roth said her request is based on better visibility of the white paint for mariners. However, she asked to postpone making her presentation to the council while she gathers more information.

The council also trumped a proposal by city police chief Gerard Doan to prohibit parking in the alleys behind the buildings on the west side of Bridge Street from Park to Mason Streets. Doan said he has concerns about emergency vehicles and delivery activities being blocked by parked cars. He had proposed to make parking in the alley only allowed for loading and unloading.

However some downtown business owners objected to prohibiting parking in the alley and the council agreed.

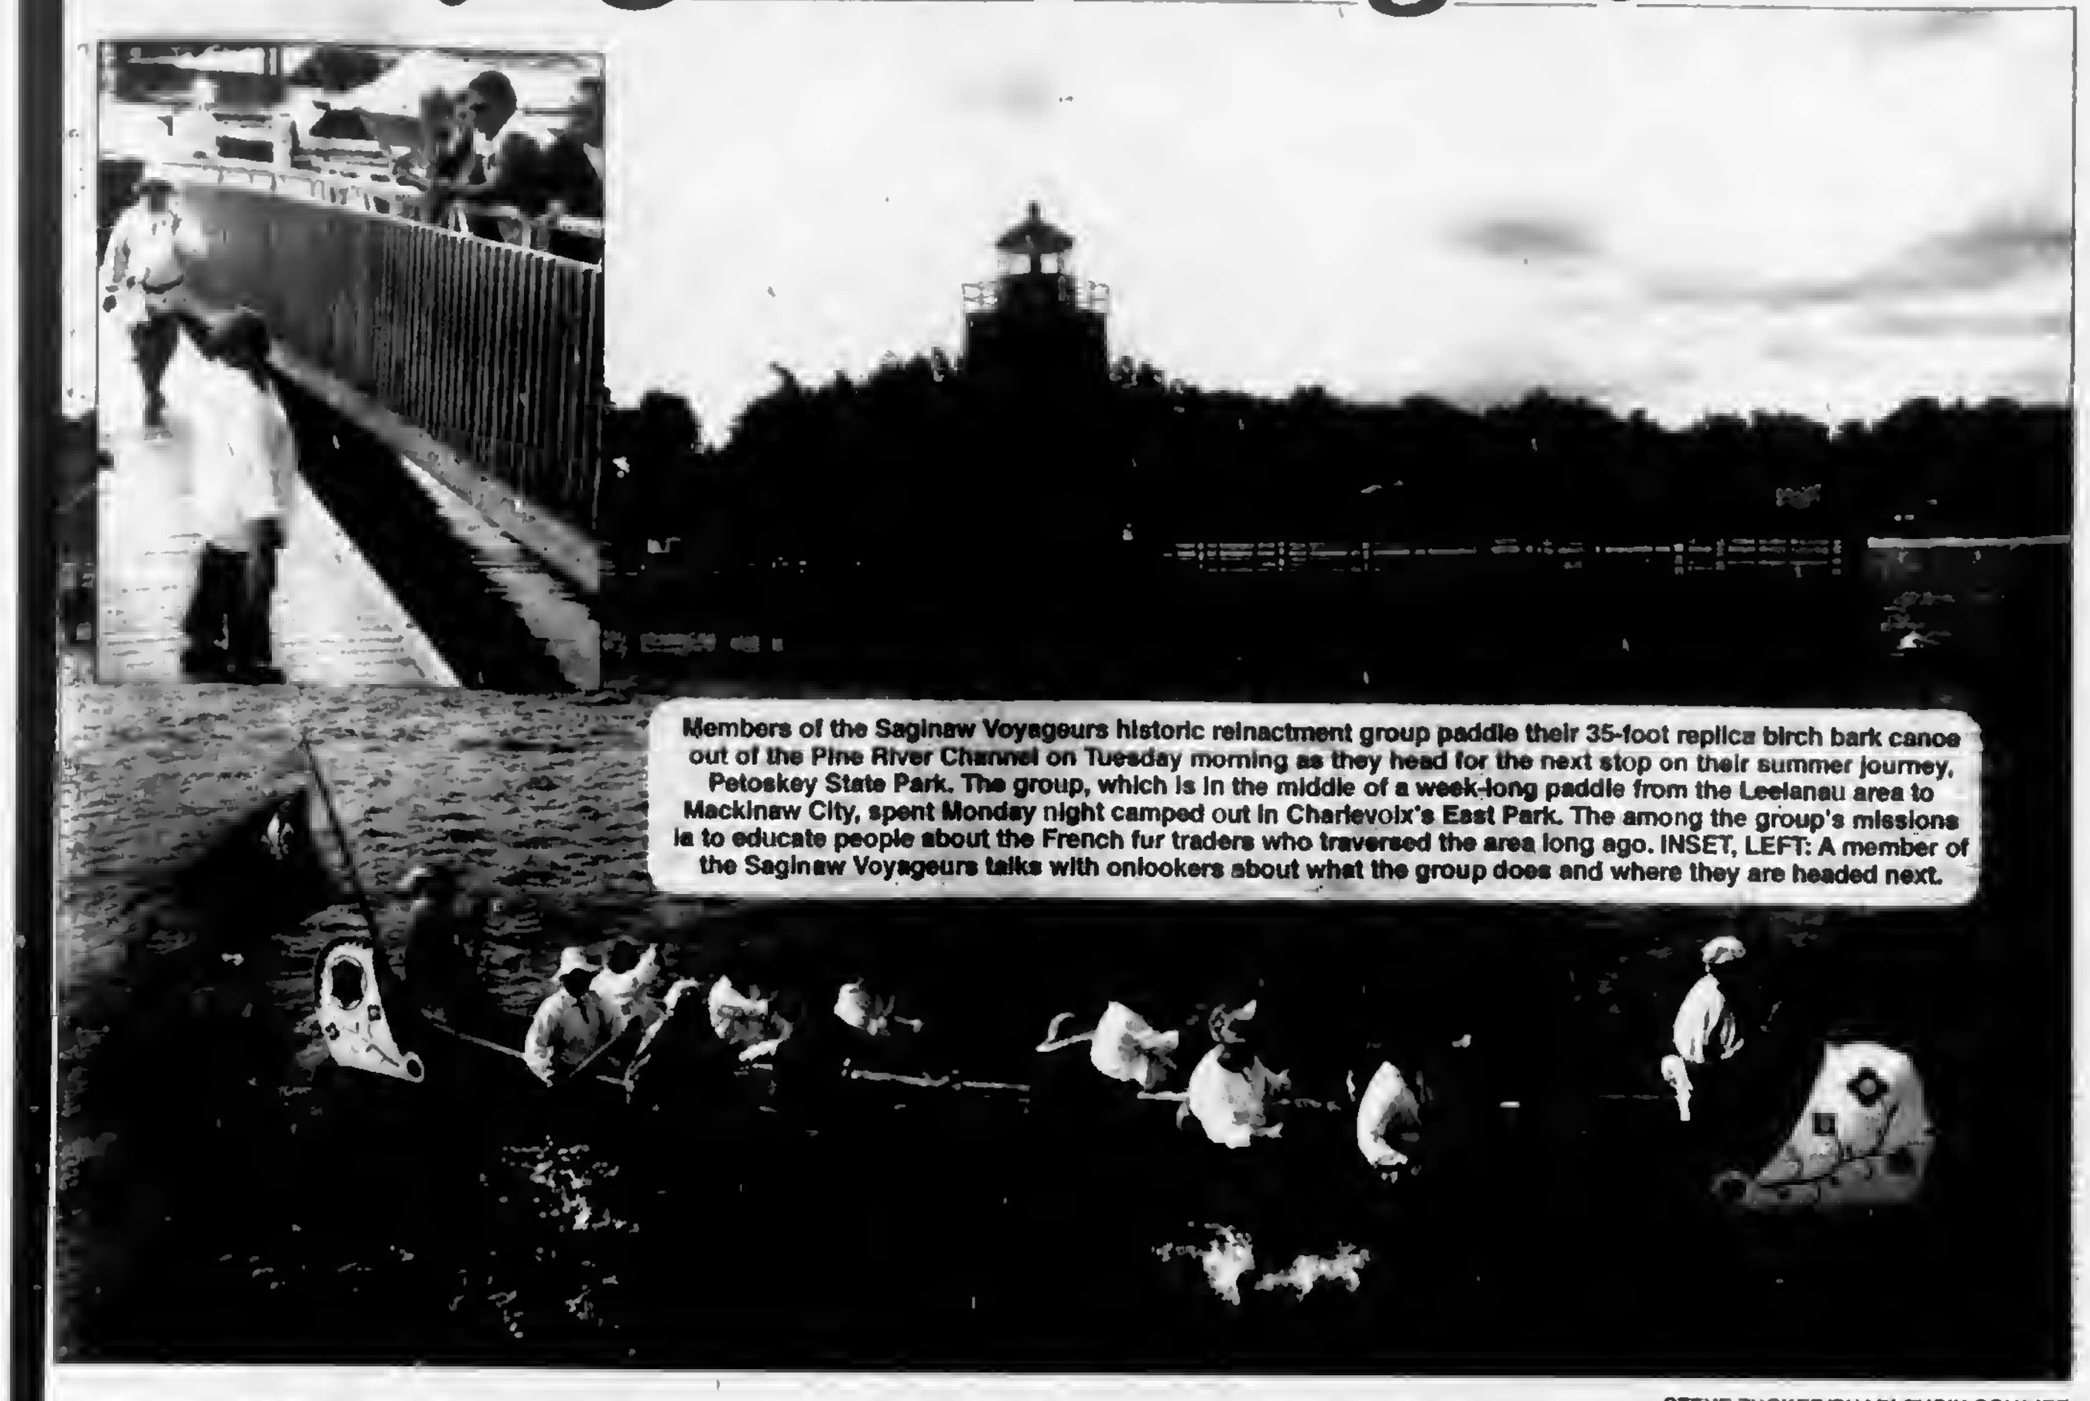
Voyageurs through time



Members of the Saginaw Voyageurs historic reinactment group paddle their 35-foot replica birch bark canoe out of the Pine River Channel on Tuesday morning as they head for the next stop on their summer journey, Petoskey State Park. The group, which is in the middle of a week-long paddle from the Leelanau area to Mackinaw City, spent Monday night camped out in Charlevoix's East Park. The among the group's missions is to educate people about the French fur traders who traversed the area long ago. INSET, LEFT: A member of the Saginaw Voyageurs talks with onlookers about what the group does and where they are headed next.

pal well water drawn from under Michigan Beach and later, upon further investigation the dry cleaning chemical percholoethelyne (PCE) was also discovered in the nearby groundwater. The investigation and cleanup became EPA and State of Michigan Superfund sites.

After extensive testing, federal authorities could not find a source of the TCE and reasoned it must have been from either a one-time spill or from a source that had since been removed. The federal investigation didn't delve as deeply into the source of the PCE, but a subsequent state investigation determined that the main sources of the contamination came from several dry-cleaning, laundry and tooling businesses mainly in the 200 block of Garfield and Lincoln avenues, but also the 100 block of Hurlbut and the 200 block of Newman. The state eventually set up filtering systems at three of the source sites in an effort to clean up some of the source contaminents.

Because of the contamination, the city ultimately abandoned the municipal water supply well, switching over to an intake from Lake Michigan in March of 1987. By removing possible exposure through drinking water, authorities decided that the greatest threat to humans was eliminated and that the chemicals would simply be allowed to dissipate and be flushed out of the ground and groundwater by natural processes over time. When the "Record of Decision" on the site was recorded in 1985, officials expected monitoring to continue for as long as 50 years, but expected the chemicals to eventually wane to a point that the affected locations could be released for unrestricted use.

A 2001 five-year review of the site found that contaminant levels were dropping quickly enough that future five-year reviews were not necessary. However, when officials did additional testing in 2006 to see if the area was "clean" enough to release for unrestricted use, levels of PCE contaminants were discovered to be too high to "release" the site.

The most recent five-year review, which was released last November, found that while levels of one contaminant (TCE) have been about as expected, levels of the PCE remain higher than expected at this point in the natural flushing process. The authors of the report believe this is related to the fact that the sources of the PCE, were not initially identified and therefore cleanup efforts for those locations were delayed. The report also recommends that more data be collected to get a better picture of the contamination levels.

This is what brings the EPA drilling crews to town this week.

In a nutshell, explained EPA Remedial Project Manager Matt Ohl, the levels of PCE are not going down as quickly as had previously been expected, therefore authorities want to collect more current data to not only get a better picture of the current situation, but also to see if there might be some further cleanup actions needed.

Ohl said the renewed testing is not something about which residents should be alarmed.

He said with the possibility of the contaminants reaching the water system removed, the risk of human exposure to any remaining underground chemicals is very slight.

He said one of the main reason for taking another look at the status of the contamination, aside from making sure the groundwater resource is restored as soon as possible, is to rule out any concerns of a phenomenon known as "vapor intrusion" into buildings in the affected parts of the city. "Vapor intrusion is when vapors from contaminated soil or groundwater seep into buildings, exposing its occupants to breathing the vapors.

The drilling for soil and water samples started this week on Monday and Ohl expects the work to take about 12 days. All of the work will take place in city rights-of-way.

In about six months EPA officials plan to set up an information session with the community where they will be available to discuss the findings of this most recent round of testing.

The most recent EPA report on the Charlevoix Municipal Well Superfund will be posted at www.charlevoixcourier.com. It is also available at the Charlevoix Public Library.

benstedts out of driving to Texas.

Instead, the Wounded Warrior Project will pay for the Drebenstedts to fly from Traverse City to San Antonio. They don't know how long they will stay in Texas, so Bob Drebenstedt asked area residents not to send cards to their Marion Township home, as they won't be there to receive them.

However, he said when he knows it, he will pass along an address for cards to be sent to Troy Drebenstedt in Texas.

"We are so thankful for the outpouring of support from the community. The cards, the phone calls — the phone calls have been non-stop from all over the country," Bob Drebenstedt said.

The bomb explosion that wounded Troy's head and left shrapnel in all four of his limbs also wounded three other Michigan National Guard soldiers and killed a fourth, Spc. Kyle B. McClain, 25, of Rochester Hills. The other wounded soldiers include Spc. William Barnett, 24, of Ypsilanti, Spc. Steven Nelson, 26, of Dollar Bay, and Pvt. Joshua Colon, 20, of Grand Rapids.

The explosion happened while the members of the Augusta-based 1433rd Engineer Company went on a foot patrol, Bob Drebenstedt said.

"The terrorists ignited the bomb the minute the dog alerted them to the presence of gun powder. They had a split-second warning," he said.

This is Troy Drebenstedt's second tour of duty in Afghanistan, though he also served a tour in Iraq. He also sustained wounds on a prior tour, his family said.

Ninety members of the Michigan Army National Guard's 1433rd Engineer Company deployed to Afghanistan in May 2012 for a one-year tour of duty.

the closest a six-vote difference in Chandler Township where just 54 citizens cast ballots.

The often heated race for the county's top law enforcement post is suspected to be the impetus behind the large numbers of voters who went to the polls for Tuesday's primary election. Nearly 27 percent of registered voters 5,823 out of 21,675 — went to the polls.

And the race got ugly, too.

The former work colleagues — Telgenhof, a law firm partner, hired Jarema as a trial lawyer after former prosecutor Mary Beth Kur fired him for disloyalty more than eight years ago — squared off in a battle for the GOP nomination to the four-year elected prosecutor job after months of turmoil surrounding Jarema's internal office politics, resignation as county civil counsel and a lengthy Michigan Freedom of Information Act lawsuit fight with the Petoskey News-Review.

But now Telgenhof said he looks to the future and that starts today, Wednesday, Aug. 8.

"I've got to go pick up about 500 campaign signs across the county," he said.

"After that, I'm going to get in touch with law enforcement folks," Telgenhof said, adding he's eager to learn about the various police forces' anticipations for his expected tenure as prosecutor.

Telgenhof said he also wants to talk to employees within the prosecutor's office to learn their thoughts and expectations, but that will come after his planned law enforcement rounds.

Responding to an emailed request for comment from the Courier on Wednesday, Jarema replied offered the following statement.

"While I am certainly disappointed in the outcome of the election, I will be able to look back at my eight years as the elected prosecutor with pride. During my tenure, I have worked with incredible people and had the opportunity to make new law and try landmark cases. I knew it was an uphill battle but I have never backed down from a challenge and the voters have spoken. I can leave in December knowing I never compromised my values, morals and integrity in prosecuting the cases that came across my desk. Krista and I have learned so much throughout this primary election, most importantly who are our true friends and where we can turn for support when the going gets tough. While this door has closed, God has opened up another and I look forward to walking through this new door and finding a new challenge. Unlike eight years ago when I took office, I plan to make this a seamless transition for Allen and Charlevoix County. Allen and the county deserve that."

Houtteman wins senior PGA title

Grand Traverse Resort pro wins Michigan Senior tournament at Charlevoix Country Club

STEVE FOLEY
Northern Michigan Review

Lee Houtteman wasn't about to let history repeat itself.

Houtteman, a teaching professional at the Grand Traverse Resort, finished tied for second in last year's Michigan Senior PGA Championship.

He wasn't happy with how he finished either.

This time around, Houtteman started fast and held on down the stretch to close with a 3-under 69 on Tuesday to win the 2012 Senior PGA at Charlevoix Country Club.

Houtteman, 51, finished at 6-under 138 for a three-shot win over defending champion Randy Erskine of Great Oaks Country Club in Rochester and Bob Makoski of Fox Hills Learning Center in Plymouth.

Houtteman earned a $2,000 check for his win, and he qualifies for the National Senior PGA Professional Championship, which is scheduled for Oct. 11-14 in Virginia.

Erskine and Makoski both closed with even par 72s.

"I hit it pretty good today," Houtteman said. "It was almost reverse from last year. Last year I was leading this tournament with a (first-round) 68, but played real careful (in the second round) and didn't make enough swings. Then I went to the Tournament of Champions and was aggressive, I made some good swings and ended up winning it."

After finishing tied for second behind Erskine in last year's Senior PGA, Houttemen went to Boyne Mountain a week later and claimed his first Tournament of Champions title. This year, the Tournament of Champions was staged one week before the Senior PGA, and Houtteman faded down the stretch and finished tied for 16th, 10 shots behind winner JR Roth.

"I got to 3-under in the last round at the Tournament of Champions last week and was two shots off the lead," Houtteman said. "I was going good and then it got crazy with how I starting playing too aggressive. I was going at pins and made a double (bogey) and three-putted four times coming in. I just said to myself here to hang in there and you never know what'll happen in the end. I just didn't want to throw it away."

Starting on the 10th hole on Tuesday, Houtteman got it going early with four birdies in his first six holes to get to 6-under.

"I had an eagle putt on No. 12 from about 6 feet out and I could've been at 7-under," said Houtteman, who settled for a birdie on the par 5 12th. "It was easy going at first, but then I bogeyed No. 18 and that's a tough hole just trying to hit it away from the water, but I still felt under control."

He turned at 5-under, and got back to 6-under with a birdie on No. 1.

Then, he hit a speed bump when he double-bogeyed the third to fall back to 4-under. A bogey on the par 3 sixth pushed him back to 3-under.

"Every round has to have some kind of stress in it and that was it," Houtteman said. "I realized I was still in it though and told myself to hit a good iron on the next hole."

He did, and it resulted in a bounce-back birdie on No. 7. Both Erskine and Makoski bogeyed No. 8, a 405-yard par 4, and that two-hole turn of events helped give Houtteman some breathing room. He finished with a birdie on No. 9 to clinch it.

"That birdie on No. 7 and having those guys bogeying and me parring No. 8 left me feeling pretty healthy," Houtteman said. "I was pretty proud that I regrouped and I hit a good tee shot on No. 9."

Playing in the same group with the veteran Erskine was a benefit, Houtteman said. Erskine is one of the biggest names in Michigan golf, and he has four Michigan Open and two Michigan PGA titles on his vast resumé.

"It was great playing with Randy," Houtteman said. "This was our fifth or sixth round we've played together this year including the Michigan Senior Open, State Pro-Pro, and two days here. He's a great guy and he can't be more supportive.

"He's the consummate pro. He's really appreciative of good shots and he even told me to keep it going."

Erskine and Makoski both turned in up-and-down final-round performances. Erskine made five birdies against five bogeys, while Makoski's carded included four birdies and four bogeys.

Houtteman, Erskine and Makoski were tied at 3-under entering the final round.

"You don't expect guys here to make mistakes," Houtteman said. "There's seniors here, guys are 60 and over and you just don't know. I'm 51, I'm one of the younger guys, but after that birdie on No. 7 I felt pretty confident."

Bob Ackerman of Bob Ackerman Golf in Commerce Township finished fourth at 1-under 143 after closing with a 1-under 71. David Nolan of Van Dyke Sports Center in Warren was fifth at even-par 144. He shot a 1-over 73 on Tuesday.

Nick Berklich of Grand Blanc edged Larry Mancour of Oden for first place in the Over-70 Division. Berklich shot even par 72 on Tuesday and finished at 8-over 152. Mancour closed with a 5-over 77 and finished at 9-over 153.

Joining Houtteman in representing the Michigan PGA Section at the Senior PGA Professional National Championship in Virgina are Erskine, Makoski, Ackerman, Nolan, Dave Kendall of Kendall Academy of Golf in Ypsilanti, Bill Mory of Meridian Sun Golf Club in Lansing, Tom Fortuna of Knollwood Country Club in West Bloomfield, and Kevin Muir of The Wyndgate in Rochester.

Barry Redmond of the Boyne Golf Academy shot a final-round 4-over 76 to finish at 5-over 149 and tied for 15th. Dave Mocini of the Charlevoix Country Club was 36th at 19-over 163.

Shaw taking year off as Rayder volleyball coach

Audra Randall to take over reins of top-performing program

STEVE FOLEY
Northern Michigan Review

Charlevoix High School volleyball coach Liz Shaw's family is about to become larger.

This time of year, coincidentally, is when Shaw would normally be busy in the gym, on the road, or preparing for the volleyball season.

That won't be the case this fall.

Shaw recently announced she is taking a year off from her head coaching position to focus on her family. Shaw, who has coached the Rayders for the past 11 years, and her husband, Matt, are expecting their second child in September.

"Take the year off and I'll come back the following year," Shaw said. "That's my plan right now."

Audra Randall — who has worked under Shaw for the past eight seasons as an assistant and junior varsity coach — will head up the varsity this season.

Volleyball practice begins statewide on Wednesday, Aug. 8, and Randall inherits a team that last season reached the Class C state semifinals for the first time in school history.

"One thing we've talked about is having the girls thinking of her as the coach and not me," Shaw said. "I want the girls to look at it as it's Audra's team. It's going to be hard for me to stay away, but we're hoping it'll be a smooth transition for the girls and for (Randall)."

Shaw has compiled a 380-138-68 record during her tenure. The Rayders head into the 2012 season seeking to win their fourth consecutive Lake Michigan Conference and district championships.

Shaw guided the Rayders to their first-ever regional crown last season, and the Rayders fell to eventual state champion Morley-Stanwood in a state semifinal.

A former standout athlete at Charlevoix, Shaw (né Grunch) said she didn't feel she could give 100 percent to both volleyball and her family this fall.

"It was a hard decision, but an easy one at the same time," she said. "Family comes first and you only get one chance to be a mom to your child at such a young age. They grow up so fast."

Shaw, who's daughter Bree is 21 months old, said Charlevoix athletic director Brian Certa was very supportive in her decision.

"I talked to him way back when I found out I was pregnant," she said. "He was very accepting and he's a family man too. He understood that coaching is a passion, but family is my life and he was very friendly and generous to give me a year off."

Shaw, who has also coached basketball and softball at Charlevoix, said she feels comfortable with Randall taking over for the season.

"She's going to do a great job with the girls and she is very supportive about handing it back over to me after the year," Shaw said. "Volleyball has been my life for the past 11 years. It's been good and I think it's growth for the both of us. I think it will help the program in the long run."

Swimmer fails in bid to cross from island to mainland

Jason Lassen of Davison came up short last week in his bid to become the first person to swim from Beaver Island to Good Hart.

Lassen, 39, aborted his quest about 10 miles in to the 18-mile swim due to illness. He had spent six hours, 20 minutes in the water.

Lassen's plan was to begin his marathon swim, exclusively using the breaststroke, at 9 p.m. Wednesday and finish in 12-15 hours. Instead, he began his swim 11 hours earlier to take advantage of a break in the weather.

Water conditions were rough with waves up to 3 feet. A westerly wins pushed him to the mainland.

Had Lassen completed the swim, he would have earned a spot the International Marathon Swimming Hall of Fame.

Lassen had swum the Catalina Channel off the California coast in the Pacific Ocean in 2010, setting a breaststroke record of 15 hours, 59 minutes.

Heading into his Beaver Island-to-Good Hart attempt, Lassen said the biggest challenge would be the unknown.

"The biggest difference between the two races though is almost 200 people had swum Catalina before me and with Beaver Island and being the first, there is a lot of unknowns," he said. "There is always a monster in the bottom of the lake and that freaks you out every once in a while."

pal well water drawn from under Michigan Beach and later, upon further investigation the dry cleaning chemical percholoethelyne (PCE) was also discovered in the nearby groundwater. The investigation and cleanup became EPA and State of Michigan Superfund sites.

After extensive testing, federal authorities could not find a source of the TCE and reasoned it must have been from either a one-time spill or from a source that had since been removed. The federal investigation didn't delve as deeply into the source of the PCE, but a subsequent state investigation determined that the main sources of the contamination came from several dry-cleaning, laundry and tooling businesses mainly in the 200 block of Garfield and Lincoln avenues, but also the 100 block of Hurlbut and the 200 block of Newman. The state eventually set up filtering systems at three of the source sites in an effort to clean up some of the source contaminents.

Because of the contamination, the city ultimately abandoned the municipal water supply well, switching over to an intake from Lake Michigan in March of 1987. By removing possible exposure through drinking water, authorities decided that the greatest threat to humans was eliminated and that the chemicals would simply be allowed to dissipate and be flushed out of the ground and groundwater by natural processes over time. When the "Record of Decision" on the site was recorded in 1985, officials expected monitoring to continue for as long as 50 years, but expected the chemicals to eventually wane to a point that the affected locations could be released for unrestricted use.

A 2001 five-year review of the site found that contaminant levels were dropping quickly enough that future five-year reviews were not necessary. However, when officials did additional testing in 2006 to see if the area was "clean" enough to release for unrestricted use, levels of PCE contaminants were discovered to be too high to "release" the site.

The most recent five-year review, which was released last November, found that while levels of one contaminant (TCE) have been about as expected, levels of the PCE remain higher than expected at this point in the natural flushing process. The authors of the report believe this is related to the fact that the sources of the PCE were not initially identified and therefore cleanup efforts for those locations were delayed. The report also recommends that more data be collected to get a better picture of the contamination levels.

This is what brings the EPA drilling crews to town this week.

In a nutshell, explained EPA Remedial Project Manager Matt Ohl, the levels of PCE are not going down as quickly as had previously been expected, therefore authorities want to collect more current data to not only get a better picture of the current situation, but also to see if there might be some further cleanup actions needed.

Ohl said the renewed testing is not something about which residents should be alarmed.

He said with the possibility of the contaminants reaching the water system removed, the risk of human exposure to any remaining underground chemicals is very slight.

He said one of the main reason for taking another look at the status of the contamination, aside from making sure the groundwater resource is restored as soon as possible, is to rule out any concerns of a phenomenon known as "vapor intrusion" into buildings in the affected parts of the city. "Vapor intrusion is when vapors from contaminated soil or groundwater seep into buildings, exposing its occupants to breathing the vapors.

The drilling for soil and water samples started this week on Monday and Ohl expects the work to take about 12 days. All of the work will take place in city rights-of-way.

In about six months EPA officials plan to set up an information session with the community where they will be available to discuss the findings of this most recent round of testing.

The most recent EPA report on the Charlevoix Municipal Well Superfund will be posted at www.charlevoixcourier.com. It is also available at the Charlevoix Public Library.

The Blitz
Friday, August 10
8:30pm-12:30am

Local rock legend, The Blitz are returning for the 4th year by popular demand. They will keep you on your feet with Classic and Modern Rock with a touch of Motown and Funk. Originally formed in 1987, and reassembled in 2003, they have been entertaining audiences with their multi-genre dance favorites ever since.

The Petoskey Steel Drum Band
Sunday, August 12
12:00pm-1:00pm

The Petoskey Steel Drum Band brings great excitement in a FREE OUTDOOR CONCERT at the end of River Street near the Swing Bridge. Perhaps the most well known performing group in the region, they have been drawing crowds since their formation in 1997. They have performed throughout the state and country including The Epcot Center, Walt Disney World, Mardi Gras in New Orleans (three times), the Caribbean Islands and Hawaii. Members of the band include 30 Petoskey High School students who also perform in the concert bands, marching band and jazz bands. The group performs 30-40 concerts a year and around 20 during the summer. In addition to their active performing schedule the group has produced four CD'S. "Jamaican Me Crazy" recorded in 1998 has been very popular for those looking for fun summer music. It is very upbeat and includes "Jamaica Farewell" and "Jump in the Line". Their second CD was recorded in 2000 and is titled "The Petoskey Steel Band: Steel in Paradise" has a little more of the traditional steel drum flavor but also includes some American favorites such as Van Morrison's Brown Eyed Girl and Buffett's Margaritaville. The 4th CD is titled "Lord of the Pan" and has become a fan favorite. This recording includes a variety of tunes but the most popular is the Celtic music of "Lord of the Pans".

The Craig Cottrill Band
Saturday, August 11
1:00pm-4:30pm

The Craig Cottrill Band has been a popular band in Northern Michigan for over 20 years. They are well known for their original compositions based on blues, reggae and rock. They also love to perform their own interpretations of many popular artists. Mixing blues, rock, country and reggae makes this band a favorite for all ages and musical tastes.

Harbor Hoe Down
Saturday, August 11
2:00pm-4:00pm

Harbor Hoe Down is a FREE OUTDOOR CONCERT offered in the Village Park. This group consists of John Richey playing fiddle and guitar, Jan Fowler on piano and Ron Fowler on the 5 string banjo, ukulele and various rhythm instruments. Originally formed to play old-time music for contra, square and round dances. The band favors a solid traditional southern style of fiddle and banjo with the piano providing the rhythm. This style was played in West Virginia during the first half of the twentieth century. All three band members are long time dancers as well as musicians and Jan is a first rate dance caller herself. Ron Plays a style of banjo known as "clawhammer" or "knock-down" and John is proficient in several fiddle styles. Harbor Hoe Down has played at dances, festivals and weddings in Northern Michigan for the past three years. With nearly 90 years of experience among them, they are just as likely to break into a favorite song from folk, hillbilly or popular origins in a non-dance venue.

The Country Classics
Sunday, August 12
1:00pm-5:00pm

The Country Classics are an Alanson favorite returning for their 4th year. What do you like? From Rock a Billy ballads and sweet waltzes, old and new favorites, they play for everyone. Mellow voice Norm Honeywell and sweet singing wife Nancy harmonize and anki on ballads. They reside in Hulbert, MI and are originally from Alanson. On key board is Bruce Taylor from Hawks, MI. Bruce is also sings bass and rumbles the stage with his great "Umm Pah Pah" on the classic Elvira. On bass and vocals, Brenda Shoebottom contributes great harmony and vocal renditions of "Country Classics". Visit www.thecountryclassicsdanceband.com

The Fun Guys
Saturday, August 11
5:00pm-8:30pm

The Fun Guys This band lives up to their name when it comes to having fun and making people feel good through the power of music. Last year was their first appearance at Riverfest and this year they are back by popular demand, playing a wide variety of classic rock spanning the 50's thru the 80's. With great versatility and professionalism they offer a range of "Covers" including Elvis, The Beatles, Steve Miller, Stevie Ray Vaughn and Prince. Fiery guitarist Keith Johnston's bluesy vocal style compliments Tom Birchler's energetic rock and country-influenced vocals and deep base groove. Jimmy K contributes soulful singing and funky rhythm guitar while the crisp and powerful drumming of Mick Birchler energizes the show. His tight harmonies also add depth to the vocal sound. Great songs, inspired musicians and a willing audience can only mean one thing, the fun starts here. www.tombirchler.com

Grand Traverse Resort pro wins Michigan Senior tournament at Charlevoix Country Club

STEVE FOLEY
Northern Michigan Review

Lee Houtteman wasn't about to let history repeat itself.

Houtteman, a teaching professional at the Grand Traverse Resort, finished tied for second in last year's Michigan Senior PGA Championship.

He wasn't happy with how he finished either.

This time around, Houtteman started fast and held on down the stretch to close with a 3-under 69 on Tuesday to win the 2012 Senior PGA at Charlevoix Country Club.

Houtteman, 51, finished at 6-under 138 for a three-shot win over defending champion Randy Erskine of Great Oaks Country Club in Rochester and Bob Makoski of Fox Hills Learning Center in Plymouth.

Houtteman earned a $2,000 check for his win, and he qualifies for the National Senior PGA Professional Championship, which is scheduled for Oct. 11-14 in Virginia.

Erskine and Makoski both closed with even par 72s.

"I hit it pretty good today," Houtteman said. "It was almost reverse from last year. Last year I was leading this tournament with a (first-round) 68, but played real careful (in the second round) and didn't make enough swings. Then I went to the Tournament of Champions and was aggressive. I made some good swings and ended up winning it."

After finishing tied for second behind Erskine in last year's Senior PGA, Houttemen went to Boyne Mountain a week later and claimed his first Tournament of Champions title. This year, the Tournament of Champions was staged one week before the Senior PGA, and Houtteman faded down the stretch and finished tied for 16th, 10 shots behind winner JR Roth.

"I got to 3-under in the last round at the Tournament of Champions last week and was two shots off the lead," Houtteman said. "I was going good and then it got crazy with how I starting playing too aggressive. I was going at pins and made a double (bogey) and three-putted four times coming in. I just said to myself here to hang in there and you never know what'll happen in the end. I just didn't want to throw it away."

Starting on the 10th hole on Tuesday, Houtteman got it going early with four birdies in his first six holes to get to 6-under.

"I had an eagle putt on No. 12 from about 6 feet out and I could've been at 7-under," said Houtteman, who settled for a birdie on the par 5 12th. "It was easy going at first, but then I bogeyed No. 18 and that's a tough hole just trying to hit it away from the water, but I still felt under control."

He turned at 5-under, and got back to 6-under with a birdie on No. 1.

Then, he hit a speed bump when he double-bogeyed the third to fall back to 4-under. A bogey on the par 3 sixth pushed him back to 3-under.

"Every round has to have some kind of stress in it and that was it," Houtteman said. "I realized I was still in it though and told myself to hit a good iron on the next hole."

He did, and it resulted in a bounce-back birdie on No. 7. Both Erskine and Makoski bogeyed No. 8, a 405-yard par 4, and that two-hole turn of events helped give Houtteman some breathing room. He finished with a birdie on No. 9 to clinch it.

"That birdie on No. 7 and having those guys bogeying and me parring No. 8 left me feeling pretty healthy," Houtteman said. "I was pretty proud that I regrouped and I hit a good tee shot on No. 9."

Playing in the same group with the veteran Erskine was a benefit, Houtteman said. Erskine is one of the biggest names in Michigan golf, and he has four Michigan Open and two Michigan PGA titles on his vast resumé.

"It was great playing with Randy," Houtteman said. "This was our fifth or sixth round we've played together this year including the Michigan Senior Open, State Pro-Pro, and two days here. He's a great guy and he can't be more supportive.

"He's the consummate pro. He's really appreciative of good shots and he even told me to keep it going."

Erskine and Makoski both turned in up-and-down final-round performances. Erskine made five birdies against five bogeys, while Makoski's carded included four birdies and four bogeys.

Houtteman, Erskine and Makoski were tied at 3-under entering the final round.

"You don't expect guys here to make mistakes," Houtteman said. "There's seniors here, guys are 60 and over and you just don't know. I'm 51, I'm one of the younger guys, but after that birdie on No. 7 I felt pretty confident."

Bob Ackerman of Bob Ackerman Golf in Commerce Township finished fourth at 1-under 143 after closing with a 1-under 71. David Nolan of Van Dyke Sports Center in Warren was fifth at even-par 144. He shot a 1-over 73 on Tuesday.

Nick Berklich of Grand Blanc edged Larry Mancour of Oden for first place in the Over-70 Division. Berklich shot even par 72 on Tuesday and finished at 8-over 152. Mancour closed with a 5-over 77 and finished at 9-over 153.

Joining Houtteman in representing the Michigan PGA Section at the Senior PGA Professional National Championship in Virgina are Erskine, Makoski, Ackerman, Nolan, Dave Kendall of Kendall Academy of Golf in Ypsilanti, Bill Mory of Meridian Sun Golf Club in Lansing, Tom Fortuna of Knollwood Country Club in West Bloomfield, and Kevin Muir of The Wyndgate in Rochester.

Barry Redmond of the Boyne Golf Academy shot a final-round 4-over 76 to finish at 5-over 149 and tied for 15th. Dave Mocini of the Charlevoix Country Club was 36th at 19-over 163.

Shaw taking year off as Rayder volleyball coach

Audra Randall to take over reins of top-performing program

STEVE FOLEY
Northern Michigan Review

Charlevoix High School volleyball coach Liz Shaw's family is about to become larger.

This time of year, coincidentally, is when Shaw would normally be busy in the gym, on the road, or preparing for the volleyball season.

That won't be the case this fall.

Shaw recently announced she is taking a year off from her head coaching position to focus on her family. Shaw, who has coached the Rayders for the past 11 years, and her husband, Matt, are expecting their second child in September.

"Take the year off and I'll come back the following year," Shaw said. "That's my plan right now."

Audra Randall — who has worked under Shaw for the past eight seasons as an assistant and junior varsity coach — will head up the varsity this season.

Volleyball practice begins statewide on Wednesday, Aug. 8, and Randall inherits a team that last season reached the Class C state semifinals for the first time in school history.

"One thing we've talked about is having the girls thinking of her as the coach and not me," Shaw said. "I want the girls to look at it as it's Audra's team. It's going to be hard for me to stay away, but we're hoping it'll be a smooth transition for the girls and for (Randall)."

Shaw has compiled a 380-138-68 record during her tenure. The Rayders head into the 2012 season seeking to win their fourth consecutive Lake Michigan Conference and district championships.

Shaw guided the Rayders to their first-ever regional crown last season, and the Rayders fell to eventual state champion Morley-Stanwood in a state semifinal.

A former standout athlete at Charlevoix, Shaw (né Grunch) said she didn't feel she could give 100 percent to both volleyball and her family this fall.

"It was a hard decision, but an easy one at the same time," she said. "Family comes first and you only get one chance to be a mom to your child at such a young age. They grow up so fast."

Shaw, who's daughter Bree is 21 months old, said Charlevoix athletic director Brian Certa was very supportive in her decision.

"I talked to him way back when I found out I was pregnant," she said. "He was very accepting and he's a family man too. He understood that coaching is a passion, but family is my life and he was very friendly and generous to give me a year off."

Shaw, who has also coached basketball and softball at Charlevoix, said she feels comfortable with Randall taking over for the season.

"She's going to do a great job with the girls and she is very supportive about handing it back over to me after the year," Shaw said. "Volleyball has been my life for the past 11 years. It's been good and I think it's growth for the both of us. I think it will help the program in the long run."

Swimmer fails in bid to cross from island to mainland

Jason Lassen of Davison came up short last week in his bid to become the first person to swim from Beaver Island to Good Hart.

Lassen, 39, aborted his quest about 10 miles in to the 18-mile swim due to illness. He had spent six hours, 20 minutes in the water.

Lassen's plan was to begin his marathon swim, exclusively using the breaststroke, at 9 p.m. Wednesday and finish in 12-15 hours. Instead, he began his swim 11 hours earlier to take advantage of a break in the weather.

Water conditions were rough with waves up to 3 feet. A westerly wins pushed him to the mainland.

Had Lassen completed the swim, he would have earned a spot the International Marathon Swimming Hall of Fame.

Lassen had swum the Catalina Channel off the California coast in the Pacific Ocean in 2010, setting a breaststroke record of 15 hours, 59 minutes.

Heading into his Beaver Island-to-Good Hart attempt, Lassen said the biggest challenge would be the unknown.

"The biggest difference between the two races though is almost 200 people had swum Catalina before me and with Beaver Island and being the first, there is a lot of unknowns," he said. "There is always a monster in the bottom of the lake and that freaks you out every once in a while."

Carey Cup Scramble set for August 22

The City of Charlevoix's municipal golf course, The Charlevoix Golf Club, will host the Carey Cup Scramble starting at 4 p.m. on Wednesday, Aug. 22.

Proceeds from the two-person scramble event will benefit the Charlevoix County Junior Golf Program.

Applications are available at the course's pro shop. The cost to participate is $15 for club members and $25 for non members $25. Registration forms should be turned in by Aug. 19.

Organizers will award first, second and third place awards and many other prizes. For more information call (231) 547-3268.

Explaining the history behind the event, longtime Junior Golf program director and former city recreation director Dean Davenport said in the late 1950s his youth golf program was restricted to playing at the high school's football practice fields. Keith Carey who was then serving as course manager at the municipal golf course, offered the opportunity for the junior golfers to use the course on certain days and times.

Davenport recalled the interest and cooperation Carey displayed.

"The feeling that prevailed at that time was kids weren't welcomed on golf courses. It was felt that they slowed play, didn't follow course rules and were a bother. Keith was the first area golf course manager to realize that youth golfers could be educated to play on courses and it became a breakthrough early on for the Charlevoix Junior Golf Program.

Several years ago Davenport proposed to course officials that the annual city tournament as well as the Venetian Festival youth tournament he managed as director of the Charlevoix County Junior Golf program, recognize Keith Carey's impact on golf in Charlevoix. As a result the Keith Carey Cup became a reality. A permanent plaque recognizing the Keith Carey Cup winners resides in the clubhouse.

"Keith's wonderful managerial style set a high standard and is remembered by longtime players that recall Keith's impact on the Charlevoix golfing community," Davenport added.

Carey Cup Scramble set for August 22

The City of Charlevoix's municipal golf course, The Charlevoix Golf Club, will host the Carey Cup Scramble starting at 4 p.m. on Wednesday, Aug. 22.

Proceeds from the two-person scramble event will benefit the Charlevoix County Junior Golf Program.

Applications are available at the course's pro shop. The cost to participate is $15 for club members and $25 for non-members $25. Registration forms should be turned in by Aug. 19.

Organizers will award first, second and third place awards and many other prizes. For more information call (231) 547-3268.

Explaining the history behind the event, longtime Junior Golf program director and former city recreation director Dean Davenport said in the late 1950s his youth golf program was restricted to playing at the high school's football practice fields. Keith Carey, who was then serving as course manager of the municipal golf course offered the opportunity for the junior golfers to use the course on certain days and times.

Davenport recalled the interest and cooperation Carey displayed.

"The feeling that prevailed at that time was kids weren't welcomed on golf courses. It was felt that they slowed play, didn't follow course rules and were a bother. Keith was the first area golf course manager to realize that youth golfers could be educated to play on courses and it became a breakthrough early on for the Charlevoix Junior Golf Program.

Several years ago Davenport proposed to course officials that the annual city tournament as well as the Venetian Festival youth tournament he managed as director of the Charlevoix County Junior Golf program, recognize Keith Carey's impact on golf in Charlevoix. As a result the Keith Carey Cup became a reality. A permanent plaque recognizing the Keith Carey Cup winners resides in the clubhouse.

"Keith's wonderful managerial style set a high standard and is remembered by longtime players that recall Keith's impact on the Charlevoix golfing community," Davenport added.

A benefit spaghetti dinner for a local man wounded in Afghanistan will be next week in Charlevoix.

Michigan Army National Guard Staff Sgt. Robert Troy Drebenstedt, 29, of Charlevoix, received severe wounds Aug. 1 in a bomb explosion in Afghanistan that also wounded three others and killed a fourth soldier. His parents, Bob and Marlys Drebenstedt, of Charlevoix, currently are in Texas visiting him at Brooke Army Medical Center.

The event will be sponsored by the local American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

All proceeds from next week's fund-raising spaghetti dinner will go to an account at Charlevoix State Bank to help the Drebenstedt family cover expenses.

The dinner will be 4-8 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 21, at the Veterans of Foreign Wars hall, 12735 U.S. 31 in Charlevoix. Cost is a donation to the cause.

Meanwhile, get well cards can be sent to Troy Drebenstedt in Texas at: Staff

East Park fireplace approved

Shadetree plan nixed

MORGAN SHERBURNE
Courier

It was one project on, one project off at a special Aug. 9 meeting of the Charlevoix City Council at East Park in Charlevoix.

At an earlier meeting, council and the Downtown Development Authority considered two projects in the park: the first, suggested by Charlevoix residents, was that the city plant shade trees so that the park was more usable during daytime in the summer. A donor had come forward to sponsor a few of the trees.

Second, another donor offered to pay for the construction of a community fire place, a proposal brought forth by John Winn, a Charlevoix resident instrumental in the construction of the interactive water fountain, said city manager Rob Straebel.

While the city council approved the fireplace idea, it shot down the possibility of shade trees in the park.

"The city council and the Downtown Development Authority did not think that the planting of trees was in the best interest of the park, and that it would compromise some of the view sheds that we would enjoy from Bridge Street," said Straebel. "I don't think we'll be pursuing additional trees in East Park."

Plans for the fireplace fared better. City council approved the suggestion, and the anonymous donor will foot the cost of the 8-foot wide, 18 foot tall fireplace in East Park. The 18 foot figure includes about a 13-foot chimney.

"Winn was the impetus for the whole project and in working with this benefactor," said Straebel. "We're very grateful for his involvement and his effort to create another great amenity for the city of Charlevoix."

The same stone that constructs the harbor master building, the walls throughout the park and the amphitheater will construct the fireplace. To center the fireplace just north of the park's clock tower and flag poles, the city will have to remove one of the locust trees in East Park.

While the benefactor will pay for the construction of the fireplace, the city will take care of the $1,873 gas line installation and expected $6,766 annual gas usage, as well as any maintenance along the way.

According to an earlier Charlevoix Courier article, Winn said the benefactor hoped the fireplace would be installed in time for this year's Charlevoix's Apple Festival.

Investigation moves forward on rape claim, no arrest made

HEATHER LOCKWOOD
Northern Michigan Review

While no arrests have been made in connection to a sexual assault reported in Charlevoix County last month, Charlevoix County Sheriff Don Schneider said the investigation is moving forward.

"I've been talking with the undersheriff and my detectives as late as yesterday about it ... we're still moving forward with the complaint and we did more follow up this week," Schneider told the Petoskey News-Review Friday, Aug. 10

Schneider said waiting for DNA evidence can slow the process.

"On CSI they get DNA in 30 minutes, and it takes weeks and weeks (in reality)," he noted.

The sheriff's office received the report of a sexual assault in Eveline Township late last month.

The victim, a 37-year-old Charlevoix woman, told police she was raped by an unknown person to whom she had given a ride in her vehicle, according to a news release issued at the time.

The attacker subsequently stole her truck and abandoned it a short distance away.

The attacker then stole a second vehicle that was later located in Boyne City, according to the release.

The victim was treated at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

The sheriff's office did not release the victim's name and the News-Review does not identify victims or alleged victims of sexual assault.

Schneider said he hopes to submit a report to the prosecutor's office this week, and the prosecutor would then decide whether to move forward with charges.

Charlevoix motorcyclist crashes on U.S. 31

About 5:03 p.m. on Thursday, Aug. 9 officials with the Emmet County Sheriff's Office, Allied EMS and Charlevoix Township Fire Department responded to a motorcycle crash on U.S. 31 near Nine Mile Point, according to a sheriff's office news release.

Ken Stolpmann, 49, of Charlevoix, lost control of his motorcycle and collided with pavement, causing injury to himself, according to the release. Stolpmann, who was wearing a helmet at the time of the crash, was transported to McLaren Northern Michigan for treatment.

The cause of the crash remains under investigation.

107th Emmet-Charlevoix County Fair

EMILY WHITE
Courier

Monster trucks, animals, horse races and carnival rides can be found at the 107th annual Emmet-Charlevoix County Fair, Friday through Sunday, Aug. 17-26.

Daily admission is $5 for adults ages 13 and older; however, $50 Fair Fun Passes are available. These passes include admission to all grandstand and other fair events for the entire week. Children 12 and under and parking passes are free. Tuesday, Aug. 21, is "Senior/Handi-Capable Day." Admission for these spectators is free on this day only from 10 a.m.-6 p.m., and seniors must be 60 or older.

The fair features a variety of horse shows. The open horse show is scheduled to begin at 8:30 a.m. on Saturday, Aug. 18. The speed show is set to begin at 1 p.m. on Sunday, Aug. 19. There will be an open pony pull at noon, a mule pull at 2:30 p.m. and an open draft horse pull at 6 p.m. on Tuesday, Aug. 21, in the grandstands. Admission to these events is $5 for adults ages 13 and older; children 12 and younger are free.

There will be a six-day carnival at the fairgrounds. The carnival will open at 2 p.m. on Tuesday, Aug. 21. It will open daily at noon from Aug. 22-26. Mega Bands are available for $50 each if purchased by Aug. 20, and ensure unlimited rides for the entirety of the carnival. Mega Bands can be purchased online at www.emmetcounty.org or by calling the fair office at (231) 347-1010. The carnival also offers $20 wristbands on Wednesday and Thursday in coordination with kids day. Wristbands are good all day for unlimited rides. Friday is dollar day; each ride is $1. On the final day of the carnival, armbands can be purchased at a discounted price of $15.

Contestants will take the mic and perform at 7 p.m. on Wednesday, Aug. 22, in the grandstands at the Hometown Idol Contest. Admission to the event is $5 for anyone ages 13 and older, and children 12 and younger are free. Juniors, teens and adults are welcome to participate; prizes will be awarded for first, second and third in each division.

"It was a big hit last year, enjoyed by thousands of people. The thing that makes this event so special is the fact that it gives local people an opportunity to showcase their talents and move on with them," said Agnes Shaw, fair manager.

To participate in the event, contestants can register for $25 at www.yourhometownidol.com or by calling (248) 217-3004.

New in 2012, all-terrain vehicles, side-by-sides and tough trucks will all compete at 7 p.m. on Thursday, Aug. 23, at the Tuff Truck Challenge. Tickets to the event are $10 for adults ages 13 and older, $5 for children ages 5-12 and children under 5 are free.

Engines will rev at the autocross rally at 7 p.m. on Friday Aug. 24, in the grandstands. Tickets to the event are $10 for adults ages 13 and older, $5 for children ages 5-12 and children under 5 are free. Autocross is a timed competition where drivers head out through the course, competing for both the fastest speed and best driving skills.

The Monster Truck Shoot Out is scheduled to begin at 7 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 25. Tickets can be purchased at $15 each (or 2/$25 in advance) for adults ages 13 and older, $5 for children ages 2-12; children under 2 are free. To secure a seat in the grandstands, call the fair office at (231) 347-1010. Adult tickets are $15 at the door.

A local truck competition will be held on Saturday, Aug. 25, with no cost for entrants to participate. Registration is on the day of the show. Call (517) 548-5507 for more details.

"The favorites of the fair seem to be the animal shows in the barns. We would love people to stop by and check out our newly renovated horse barns," Shaw said. "In the grandstands, the monster truck rally is definitely the favorite. The seats always fill very quickly."

The fair is at the Emmet County Fairgrounds in Petoskey.

For more information, call the fair office at (231) 347-1010 or visit www.emmetcounty.org.

Bumper crop it's not

Local apple growers say they're OK, but crops down statewide

RACHEL BROUGHAM

While much of the state's apple crop was wiped out because of spring weather damage, the bright spot may be the growers of Northern Michigan.

Some area apple farmers say they fared better than their downstate counterparts.

"I think you'll find it to be true (about the devastation) downstate and probably some other orchards around here, but

Vast difference between Hoekstra, Stabenow

Tim Skubick

If Pete Hoekstra played for the Tigers, he'd be a star with his .500 batting average. But alas, he doesn't and in the political arena where he does play, he is one for two having lost his bid for governor but nailed his bid for the GOP U.S. Senate nomination.

Now the question is can he go two for three by beating the Democratic incumbent in November?

Actually the contest between Sen. Debbie Stabenow and the former West Michigan Congressman could be unique. Since they both have vast experience in Washington, neither can run ads professing to be the "outsider" nor another ad bashing the other for being part of the Washington problem.

Both have a long track record of working with the other side, they do not believe the word compromise is a four-letter word and they have friends on both sides of the aisle! In fact if you administered some truth serum they might admit that they kinda like each other.

In other words, we might actually have a contest based on the issues but first Mr. Hoekstra will raise the issue of debates. The betting money is he will want three or four and betting money is she'll be content to do the Detroit Econ Club, which is hardly a debate, and maybe one or two more in a forum that barely meets the definition of a debate.

Just as Mr. H. held all the debate cards in the GOP primary, she holds all of them in the general and there's no reason for her to give him anything but the bare minimum.

Which is exactly what the strategists inside the Hoekstra camp lectured him concerning the only televised debate with Randall "God-Told-Me-To-Run Hekman and Clark, "I'm-A-Rebel-Without-A-Harley" Durant.

Although no one is talking for the record, you can surmised that Hoekstra was the only guy in the room suggesting it was OK to debate even though there was nothing to gain and everything to lose. If the following theory is correct, there was something to gain.

Recall he was sitting on a huge lead, there were only a few days left in the race, and sans debate, he could have coasted to the finish line untouched, the advisors likely told him. And they were right, of course, but as the theory continues, what if Mr. Hoekstra convinced them that he could not possibly call on Ms. Stabenow to debate on TV if he refused to do it himself?

Hmm. Good point and according to the theory, that's exactly what she would have volleyed back to him as he began his drum beat for televised debates.

No insiders will confirm any of this, but if there was a farm to bet, it would be a good bet this is exactly what was going on.

As it turned out, Mr. Hoekstra gave a stand-up performance, he took some punches from his main challenger Clark Durant, but when the final bell sounded, they were both standing. In fact, after taking one post debate question, Mr. Hoekstra stood up and walked out. There was no sense risking a mistake. Now he will get a dose of his own medicine as his debate challenge is aimed at his opponent who must know in her heart that the voters deserve a real side by side comparison, but if it could cost her the election, she will forget about her heart and use her head.

Tim Skubick reports on the Michigan political scene and hosts "Off the Record" on public television station WCML. He can be contacted at skubickt@aol.com.

CHARLEVOIX HISTORICAL SOCIETY
Bridging our past with our future

LOOKING BACK…

Last week, "Looking Back" featured the first building erected on the Belvedere Club. Two years after it went up, in 1880 members of the First Congregational Church of Chicago, who had gotten wind of what the Baptists from Kalamazoo had done, came north looking for their own land on which to establish a resort association. They visited various locations in the region, and ironically ended up in Charlevoix, which was "far superior to any of them in the number and variety of its attractions," across the upper channel from their Belvedere colleagues. In 1881, the new Chicago Club erected the first structure on their grounds situated on land purchased from pioneer settler John Dixon. This clubhouse boasted 27 sleeping rooms that catered mainly to resort members and their guests. The building, a classic example of "resort stick architecture" made of sturdy cork pine, is still in use today as the club's social and meeting center.

This image is one of 850 in the Charlevoix Historical Society's most recent DVD titled "Charlevoix, Michigan — A Pictorial Journey through 16 Decades."The disc is available at the Society's Harshe Housa Museum, 103 Stata St. next to the Congregational Church, from 1-4 p.m. Monday-Saturday. It is also available at the Central Drug Store, Round Lake Books, Castle Farms, and Ell-Air Gallery. Docents ara needed for tha society's Harshe Housa for July and August. Women's center opens new satellite office

The Women's Resource Center of Northern Michigan recently celebrated the opening of its new satellite office in East Jordan with a ribbon cutting. The office is located at 100 Main St., Suite F, on the second floor of the renovated Main Street Center building.

Jen Rashleigh-Houser, a counselor-advocate with the agency, will provide individual support services for survivors of domestic abuse and sexual assault from the East Jordan office on Wednesdays. Services are free and confidential for survivors, regardless of age or when the assault occurred. Services are also available to those who are experiencing or have experienced sexual harassment.

Rashleigh-Houser will also see clients on Thursdays and Fridays from the agency's other new satellite office in Boyne City, located inside the Boyne Area Senior Citizens' building at 411 E. Division Street.

In addition to the East Jordan and Boyne City offices, the women's center also operates three other satellite offices in Cheboygan, Gaylord and Mancelona. For more information on Women's Resource Center of Northern Michigan counseling services or to schedule an appointment, call (231) 347-0082 or (800)-275-1995.

WRC promotes two new staffers

Walsh-Hoobler

Wallesverd

The Petoskey-based Women's Resource Center of Northern Michigan recently promoted two staff members, Stacey Walsh-Hoobler and Nicole Wallesverd, to leadership positions.

Walsh-Hoobler, who began work with the agency as a therapist in 2001, has been named clinical supervisor. She will be responsible for supporting the center's team of therapists, as well as overseeing clinical services at agency satellite offices in Cheboygan, Gaylord and Mancelona. As clinical supervisor, she will also serve on the center's leadership team, assisting with the coordination of programs and decision-making related to agency program policies, service delivery, budgets and personnel. She will continue in her capacity as a therapist working with WRC-NM clients at the administrative/counseling office in Petoskey.

Walsh-Hoobler received a bachelor of science majoring in human services from Lake Superior State University, where she graduated cum laude and was awarded Outstanding Human Service Graduate. She earned a master's in Social Work from the University of Michigan with concentrations in interpersonal practice and mental health.

Walsh-Hoobler has continued her education by attending workshops and training on topics crucial to her work.

Wallesverd received a promotion to children's program director. In this position, she will oversee both Project FREE Preschool, a state-funded readiness program for 4-year-olds, and the Children's Learning Center, a child-care option for area working families that offers an educational environment. Wallesverd will also serve on the agency's leadership team.

Wallesverd attended North Central Michigan College and graduated from Alma College with a bachelor of arts in elementary education with an early childhood endorsement. Prior to being hired by the Women's Resource Center as lead teacher for the Children's Learning Center in 2010, she had taught kindergarten in Raleigh, N.C., and had been the director of a children's program at the Bay Harbor Yacht Club for three summers.

St. Mary School open house

St. Mary School in Charlevoix will be having an open house 6:30-7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Aug. 22.

St. Mary School has had a long standing presence in the community and has built a foundation based on strong values, morals and academics. St. Mary School offers a pre-kindergarten program for 3- and 4-year-olds, multi-age classes of kindergarten/first grade, second/third grade, fourth/fifth grade and sixth/seventh grade. It has added seventh grade this year along with the use of iPads for all sixth and seventh graders.

Also new this year, all of the children from pre-kindergarten through seventh grade will have a full immersion foreign language program with a native Spanish speaker. In addition to these, the school will continue to offer the enrichment programs provided in the past. Tuition rates are the same for all families.

For more information call (231) 547-9441.

The Graphic finds new editor in-house

JONATHAN ALEXANDER
Northern Michigan Review

McWhirter

The Graphic found its successor for the editor's position and she happens to already work for the Petoskey News-Review.

Sheri McWhirter, staff writer since 2011, has been named the new special publications editor. Her duties will include being editor of The Graphic and the News-Review's Saturday edition, along with magazines Home Life, Good Life, Winter and Summer Guide and Up North Bride.

When the position opened she immediately applied.

"This is a very exciting opportunity to grow my skill set, especially when it comes to management abilities," McWhirter said. "Taking on more responsibility will be a change of pace and one I'll welcome."

McWhirter, 33, a graduate from Southern Illinois University Edwardsville, brings with her 11 years of journalism experience to The Graphic after holding numerous positions. Her goals will be to continue the success of her predecessor Maggie Peterson and "strive to entertain and delight our loyal readers."

"I think my love of up north living will help me when it comes to organizing those various publications," McWhirter said. "I love living here and I hope that's reflected in the magazines and other publications that I will be responsible for."

McWhirter won multiple awards in her 11 years in journalism, including first place in 2011 from the Michigan Press Association for best investigative reporting and also first place in 2010 in the special sections category for a project about U.S. Coast Guard Air Station Traverse City.

Out of the 150 applications submitted to executive editor Jeremy McBain, McWhirter was chosen for the job.

"Once I conducted an interview with Sheri for the position it was not difficult at all," McBain said. "However, we received many excellent resumes from across the country and I wish we had positions for all of them."

Publisher Doug Caldwell said her personality and the fact that she's a very genuine person is what makes her right for the job. He also said they recognized she had the organizational skills to balance feature writing requirements for her different publications.

"I think the selection of Sheri was a wonderful move by Jeremy McBain," Caldwell said. "I think the aspect she'll add is a different perspective than we've had in the past and I think she'll bring a lot of experience to the table."

McBain said McWhirter knows the News-Review's products, policies and proved herself to be a creative and hard worker. He also expects fantastic products, from her "filled with useful information and wonderful writing," he said.

McWhirter will start her position immediately as niche products editor.

"I'm very grateful for this opportunity to learn more, do more and become more," McWhirter said. "I'm eager to get going."

'The Historic Shores of Charlevoix, a Mariner's Guide'

ANNE KELLY
Charlevoix Courier

Imagine for a moment taking a cruise around Lake Charlevoix.

This cruise will begin and end at the mouth of the Lake Michigan channel You will come in from Lake Michigan through the channel, scan the shoreline of both the West and the South end of Round Lake, then pass through the upper channel and out to explore the shores of Lake Charlevoix.

This is not just any cruise; it is a glimpse of what is and what was along the shorelines of Charlevoix, all 11 of them: Round Lake's west side, south side and north side, the north and south sides of the upper and lower channels and, the north and south shores on Lake Charlevoix and Lake Michigan from the mouths of the upper and lower channels.

It is an historical tour, a boater's eye view of the history of Charlevoix.

"Where was The Inn, once one of the finest hotel resorts in Northern Michigan, located? What do we find at the site of the former Belinger Marine Service building in Round Lake? When did the railroad bridge near the former Belvedere Station come down? What happened to the Pine Lake Iron Company in Ironton?"

These are just a few questions that will be answered during your cruise.

Just off the press, "The Historic Shores of Charlevoix, a Mariner's Guide," is a guided cruising tour.

"Although written for the mariner's point of view," said David Miles, co-director of Charlevoix's Harsha House Museum, "the publication is also of value to those interested in Charlevoix's history and can be utilized in many places on a shoreline walking tour."

The project was a joint effort of Miles, Steve Goslee, Betsy Reynolds and Karen Lewis.

"The booklet idea was conceived by Steve," said Miles. "Then we all dug in."

This latest Charlevoix Historical Society project was started in January and completed in April of this year. Miles assembled the pictures that were candidates for inclusion from the Historical Society's archives of more than 20,000 images, and then by consensus they were whittled down to a workable number. Miles did all the writing. Reynolds and Gosling spearheaded the historical research on the sites to be included and Lewis handled the photo editing and layout.

"The hardest part was keeping within the booklet's 44 page limitation," said Reynolds. "We were also able to update some of our historical information along the way with discoveries we made during our research."

"Every mariner comes into Round Lake through the channel from Lake Michigan, before heading out into Lake Charlevoix," Gosling said. "We wanted to have the reader experience the tour as if he was cruising."

The layout of the booklet begins and ends at the mouth of the Lake Michigan channel. It covers important sites as far south as Holy Island beyond Ironton, east to Oyster Bay, north to Big Rock Point, and west to the cement plant on South Point. But the primary focus is on historical shoreline sites in the immediate Charlevoix area, dating back to a time before Charlevoix was settled to the present time. Included are 111 photographs and drawings with accompanying text. A map is included with numbers cross-referenced to 59 locations.

"The Historic Shores of Charlevoix, a Mariner's Guide," is available at Harsha House Museum on State Street as are these other historic topical booklets published by the Charlevoix Historical Society Press: "Charlevoix's Piers and Lighthouses," "The Railroad in Charlevoix," "Charlevoix's Hotels," and "Charlevoix's Channel Bridges." All are $10. Call (231) 547-0373 for mailing information.

Circle of Arts photography exhibit to feature Michigan seasons

RACHEL BROUGHAM
Northern Michigan Review

An upcoming photography show will celebrate the richness of Michigan seasons.

Photographers can submit their entries along with completed entry forms from 5-7 p.m. Monday and Tuesday, Aug. 20-21, to the Charlevoix Circle of Arts. The fourth annual Photography Show at the art center will open on Thursday, Aug. 30.

"Last year we had more than 100 very high quality images submitted and we anticipate even greater participation this year from the many very talented photographic artists in our area," said Kris Balasz, co-chairman of the exhibit.

The theme for this year's photography exhibit is "Michigan Seasons." All images submitted must have been captured in Michigan through a photographic process.

The entries will be in four categories: realistic photography, photographic art, canvas wraps and youth. Except for the canvas wraps, all entries must be in white mats and black frames.

"We want to make sure that photographers understand the Michigan Seasons theme does not limit their art to landscapes," said Bill Dietrich, co-chairman of the exhibit. "We want the show to celebrate the richness of our area and the people who live and work in it. The only limitation is that the picture was taken in Michigan."

Jurors for the exhibit will be Todd and Brad Reed, a well-known father-son photography team based in Ludington. Todd has been recording Michigan scenes for more than 35 years and has won many awards for his work.

After college, Brad joined his father to become a photographer full time.

The Reeds have a gallery in Ludington and an active online business marketing their works. They have also been featured in many magazines and have published books of their photographs.

"We are truly fortunate to have the Reeds as jurors for our show," Dietrich said. "Not only are they accomplished photographers, they are inspiring teachers and dedicated to advancing photography as art. Many of us in the Charlevoix Photography Club have benefitted greatly from attending their seminars and having them joins us for photography shoots."

The jurors will select first and second place winners and honorable mentions for each of the categories and then a best of show from among the four winners.

Cash prizes will be available and the winners will be announced at the reception for the opening of the exhibit on Thursday, Aug. 30.

People who visit the exhibit or view it online will also have the opportunity to cast their votes for the People's Choice Award. The People's Choice Award will be awarded at the closing reception from 5-7 p.m. on Friday, Oct. 5.

Cases of whooping cough up

RACHEL BROUGHAM
Northern Michigan Review

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention reports cases of pertussis, commonly known as whooping cough, have increased during the first half of 2012.

The agency reports nearly 18,000 cases have been reported nationwide so far this year — more than twice the number reported in 2011. In April, the state of Washington even declared a pertussis epidemic.

Joshua Meyerson, medical director for the Health Department of Northwest Michigan, said despite the proven effectiveness and availability of the pertussis vaccine, many people remain unvaccinated, which places them at extreme risk of contracting and spreading the highly contagious bacterial disease.

"The most important thing parents can do to protect their children from illnesses like pertussis is to get their infants vaccinated, and follow the schedule for booster doses as their babies grow," Meyerson said.

Meyerson added that, although vaccination has substantially reduced the number of pertussis cases, the disease remains a threat.

"It can be a very serious illness," he said. "It's also important for family members of young babies to get a pertussis booster shot, so they're protected from the illness and don't pass it on to infants."

The CDC reports that more than half of the infants who contract pertussis at less than one year of age require hospital care.

Meyerson said infants should receive four doses of pertussis vaccine by the time they reach 18 months of age, and recommended a routine booster dose before they begin kindergarten. He also warned that the protection offered by diphtheria, tetanus, and pertussis (DTaP) boosters can fade over time, meaning preteens (starting routinely at age 11) should get a DTaP dose. Adults who did not receive a DTaP dose in their earlier years — particularly health care workers, or those who are around infants, including relatives and day care providers — should also obtain a booster dose as soon as possible.

For more information or to schedule an appointment for vaccinations, contact the Health Department of Northwest Michigan at (800) 432-4121.

Shooks joins Charlevoix County Community Foundation

The Charlevoix County Community Foundation recently announced that Mishelle Shooks has been selected as the organization's new scholarship and Youth Advisory Committee program associate.

Shooks previously has served as director of communications and leadership with the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce and Leadership Charlevoix County. She will continue to direct Leadership Charlevoix County while working for the community foundation.

Shooks

Shooks will work on a part-time basis at the foundation, coordinating its scholarship program and also providing leadership to the Youth Advisory Committee. This committee is made up of 16 local high-school students who oversee the foundation's million-dollar Youth Fund, which annually supports many programs and projects geared toward youth around Charlevoix County.

"Mishelle is a great addition to our team," said foundation president Chip Hansen, adding, "her skills and personality are perfect for the position, and her experience developing a network of contacts in Charlevoix County through her work at the Charlevoix Chamber, and with Leadership Charlevoix County, will be major assets moving forward."

Shooks is a 2007 graduate of Hope College, with a bachelor's degree in business management and a minor in studio arts.

Affordable Care Act provides access to prevention health care

"Starting Aug. 1, 47 million women were eligible to access eight new prevention-related health care services without paying more out of their own pocket, according to Department of Health and Human Services last week.

The Affordable Care Act, the health insurance reform legislation passed by Congress and signed into law by President Obama on March 23, 2010, helps make prevention affordable and accessible for all Americans by requiring health plans to cover recommended preventive services without cost sharing.

The new rules in the health care law require coverage of these services take effect at the next renewal date, on or after Aug. 1, 2012 for most health insurance plans.

The new prevention-related services are: well woman visits, gestational diabetes screening, domestic and interpersonal violence screening and counseling, FDA-approved contraceptive methods, and contraceptive education and counseling, breastfeeding support, supplies, and counseling; HPV DNA testing, for women 30 or older, sexually transmitted infections counseling for sexually-active women and HIV screening and counseling for sexually-active women.

Charlevoix Area Hospital offers prevention related screenings done locally. Schedule a yearly physical with your physician to discuss age-appropriate screenings. If you do not have a regular physician, call (231) 547-8685 for the names of physicians taking new patients.

we did well," said Heidi Drost of Friske Farm and Orchards near Ellsworth.

According to the Michigan Apple Committee, the state's apple crop will be about 90 percent smaller than usual this year because of an early spring warm up, followed by nights of freezing temperatures.

It's estimated that 3 million bushels of apples will be harvested in the state this year, compared to a typical year of 20 to 23 million bushels. The committee said it's the biggest apple crop loss since the 1940s.

"We didn't do well with some other crops, but did do better on apples than we expected," Drost said. "We didn't have that very cold weather at the end of the (spring) season like they got downstate — they had a couple 20 degree nights when the apples were already in bloom."

"With ours being just enough behind theirs, our location may have helped," she added.

Drost estimates Friske Orchards will have about 90 percent of its crop for the season.

Down the road at Royal Farms, also in Ellsworth, owner Sara McGuire agreed that apple growers in the northern part of the state fared much better.

"It is pretty gloomy, like the cherry industry this year, but I think that the growers in the Grand Rapids area, which is a huge apple region for Michigan, were hit harder than us," McGuire said.

McGuire said her farm did lose some of their apples, but the Honeycrisps will be a good crop.

"We feel pretty lucky. We have orchards that are wiped out, but some spots that are doing really well."

Apples are Michigan's largest and most valuable fruit crop, with an estimated economic impact of $700 million annually.

Gov. Rick Snyder has requested federal disaster assistance for Michigan's fruit growers. The Legislature also passed a bill offering low-interest loans for farmers with ruined crops.

BENEFIT

So far, so good

New coach put through the paces

A week under his belt, and so far so good.

Joe Pruchnicki is some 10 days into it as Charlevoix High School's football coach, and so far, the veteran of four decades of prep football coaching likes what he sees.

"It was a good first week," Pruchnicki, 65, said. "There's a transition of installing a new system, new language and the expectations are different, but the kids are all working hard at it. I've been pleased with the progress."

Pruchnicki inherits the program from Don Jess, who led Charlevoix to a 4-5 finish last year.

The team and new coach were still getting to know each other through the first week of practice.

"It's doing things the Charlevoix way," Pruchnicki said. "It may take them a little while to get adjusted, but I thought these guys came together really well in the first week. On Thursday, we scrimmaged against each other."

The Rayders will travel to Mancelona on Friday for a scrimmage. They open the season on Friday, Aug. 24, at home against St. Ignace.

"There's a lot to do and it's a great big climb, but our boys have been doing a nice job," Pruchnicki said. "I think our No. 1 attribute is our intelligence. Our school was ranked No. 24 in the state (of 826 schools) academically by the U.S. News and World report. Our kids really excel in the classroom."

New coach, same expectations for volleyball team

STEVE FOLEY
Petoskey News-Review

A season ago, the Charlevoix High School volleyball team put together a season to remember.

The Rayders won the first regional volleyball title in school history and advanced all the way to the Class C state semifinals and finished with an impressive 49-5-6 record.

Gone from that team are seven players to graduation as well as coach Liz Shaw, who stepped aside for the 2012 season as she is expecting her second child. Shaw said she plans to return for the 2013 season.

Enter longtime assistant Audra Randall, who worked under Shaw for the past eight seasons as an assistant and junior varsity coach.

"I still consult with Liz on a lot of things," Randall said. "I communicate with her quite often. I'm the varsity coach and I want to maintain the integrity of the program. Our

Joy to play 100 holes for Charlevoix's junior golfers

ANDY SNEDDON
Northern Michigan Review

Marty Joy will swing and swing and swing some more in support of junior golf.

Joy, the head professional at Belvedere Golf Club in Charlevoix, will play his annual 100 Holes of Golf on Monday, Aug. 20, to raise money for the Charlevoix Junior Golf program.

Joy is scheduled to tee off at 6:30 a.m. and is expected to finish at approximately 4 p.m.

Joy, a member of the Society of Hickory golfers, will dust off his niblick, his mashie and his blade putter — hickory clubs from the 1930s — for the fundraiser.

"I will be wearing 1920s-era garb and I only hope it isn't too hot," Joy said. "If it is, that might be the biggest challenge. I will be motivated by the thought that the game I love will continue to be made available to young people in the Charlevoix area."

Joy plays regularly in Hickory events across the country, and hosts the Hickory Open at Belvedere every year in June. Playing 100 holes in a single day presents myriad challenges in and of itself, playing while wearing period garb using vintage equipment only adds to the challenge.

Still, Joy said, "I'm hoping to shoot somewhere in the 70s for each 18 holes."

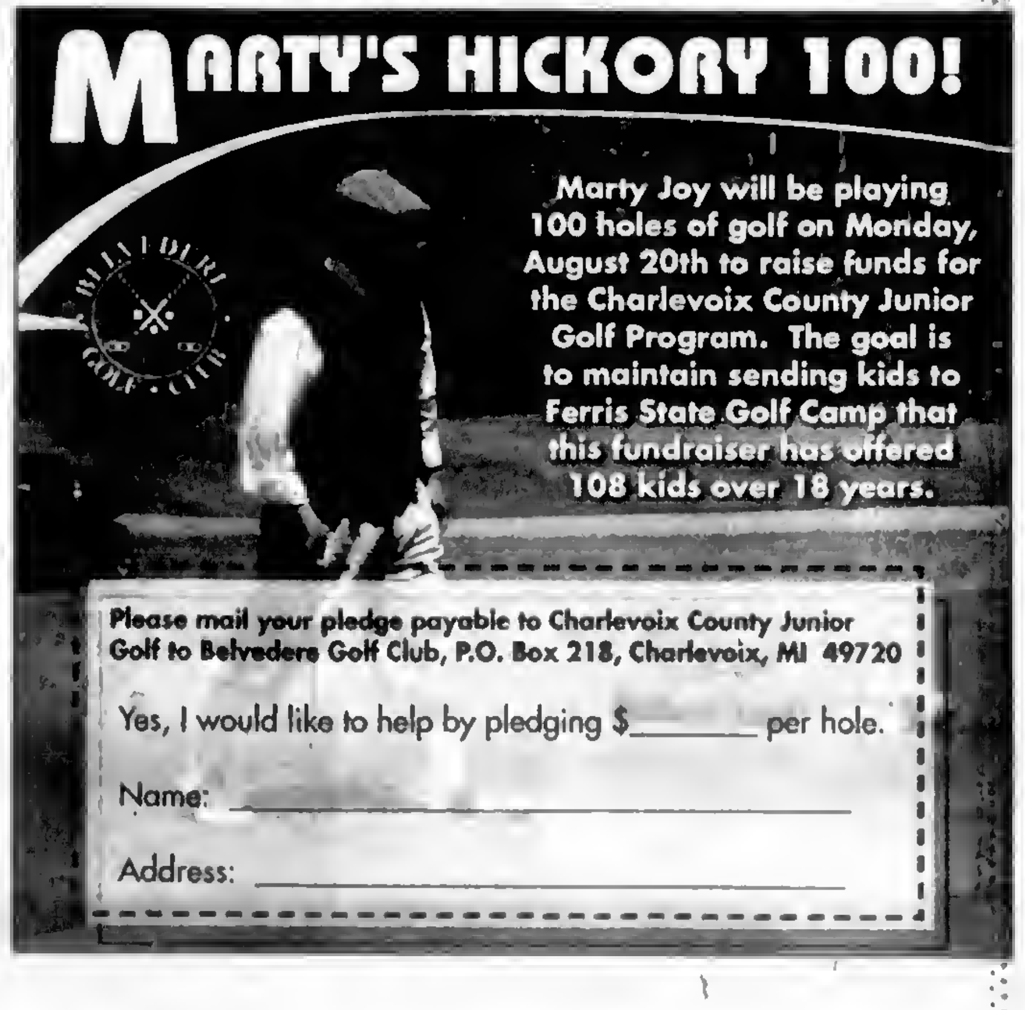
Money raised from the event goes to the nationally recognized Charlevoix Junior Golf Program.

Those fund are crucial to the program's operating budget, and enables it to send selected youngster to the week-long golf camp at Ferris State University. To date, more than 100 Charlevoix junior golfers have received these scholarships.

In addition, the program awards academic scholarships to program participants who are heading off to college in the fall. Selections are based on a criteria of being a good role model for young people in the community. Funds also help to purchase season passes to Charlevoix Golf Club for selected program participants.

Supporters pledge funds for each hole that Joy completes.

Spectators are welcome. Those wishing to make a tax-deductable pledge may call Joy, (231) 547-2611, or Charlevoix Junior Golf Program director Dean Davenport, (231) 547-6433.



MARTY'S HICKORY 100!
Marty Joy will be playing 100 holes of golf on Monday, August 20th to raise funds for the Charlevoix County Junior Golf Program. The goal is to maintain sending kids to Ferris State Golf Camp that this fundraiser has offered 108 kids over 18 years.

working relationship has been strong and I've been buying into the program goals. It would be silly for me to try to reinvent the wheel."

Much of the cast and the leadership may have changed, but the goal remains the same: Championships. The Rayders have won four consecutive Lake Michigan Conference and district titles.

"We're excited and the girls are excited coming off last year," Randall said. "It's an awesome group of girls, but they're not trying to compare themselves to last year's group."

A trio of key front-row players return in middle hitters Karley Pearsall and Anna Way, both seniors, and sophomore Madeline Boss.

Randall expects Pearsall and Way to be anchors in the middle, while Boss — who saw significant playing time as a freshman — has redefined herself and has blossomed into a complete player, Randall said.

Also back is junior Jennaca Holecheck, who was brought up to varsity last season just before the long tournament run.

"She's done an exceptional job at the varsity level," Randall said. "She'll be key and she can really play in the front row and block despite her height. She has a lot of natural athleticism."

"She's been putting the ball down to the floor with some power and intensity," she said. "Strong right-side hitting is often a dynamic that missing on some teams."

A pair of sophomores, Gloria Greene and Jessica Paramo, will run the setter position that was anchored for the past four seasons by Jenna Way, a standout athlete who is now playing at Ferris State University.

"We're running a 6-2 offense this year and both setters have been doing a good job in camps and in scrimmages," Randall said. "They're comfortable with where they're at and they're keeping the right attitude."

Randall said so far she's been impressed with her overall team's intensity.

"That's (intensity) one thing that will carry them," Randall said. "They're so intense and they push forward and they are setting goals for the season and trying to obtain a level of play for the year. There's a lot of self-motivation done by their own."

The Rayders open the season on Saturday, Aug. 18, at the Pellston Invitational.

Soccer

New year, new outlook and a new sense of optimism for the Rayders and third-year coach Jon Boss.

After struggling to simply field a full team last season and worrying if the team would play a full varsity schedule, Charlevoix has a 13-member roster this fall.

"It's a better turnout and it's just a much better atmosphere," Boss said. "We'll be more experienced than what we had last year and we can build off that. We also have a lot of returning guys that played in the offseason and in travel soccer for the entire year."

The Rayders, who finished 2-16 last season, return nine letter winners, led by junior center-mid Nick Snabes, senior sweeper Eric Tripplehorn, and junior defender-mid Justin Pearl. Freshman Walker Drost, a solid striker, has the potential to provide some scoring punch, Boss said.

"I'm confident we'll have a much better season than a year ago," Boss said. "We just have to continue to get in shape, work hard in practice and work on ball control and controlling game speed."

The Rayders open the season on Saturday, Aug. 18, at the Leland Invitational.

Tennis

Charlevoix coach Erik Lundteigen has plenty of optimism heading into this season.

"We have some key returners and we have five new freshmen, which is good because they should be around for awhile and keep improving," Lundteigen said.

The Rayders, who currently have 11 players but could expand once school starts, return four letter winners in Brandon Arp, who played at No. 2 singles last year, along with sophomore doubles players Noah Certa, J.J. Waehler and Brody Robarge.

The Rayders open the season on Monday, Aug. 20, with a non-league match at Traverse City Central.

Mortgage Foreclosure Sale

THIS FIRM IS A DEBT COLLECTOR ATTEMPTING TO COLLECT A DEBT. ANY INFORMATION WE OBTAIN WILL BE USED FOR THAT PURPOSE. PLEASE CONTACT OUR OFFICE AT THE NUMBER BELOW IF YOU ARE IN ACTIVE MILITARY DUTY.

ATTN PURCHASERS: This sale may be rescinded by the foreclosing mortgagee. In that event, your damages, if any, shall be limited solely to the return of the bid amount tendered at sale, plus interest.

MORTGAGE SALE

Default has been made in the conditions of a mortgage made by Dwight D. McCormack and Lisa McCormack, Husband and Wife, original mortgagor(s), to Wells Fargo Bank, N.A., Mortgagee, dated October 8, 2009, and recorded on October 19, 2009 in Liber 903 on Page 77, in Charlevoix county records, Michigan, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date hereof the sum of One Hundred Twenty-Three Thousand Four Hundred Thirty-Two and 39/100 Dollars ($123,432.39).

Under the power of sale contained in said mortgage and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the mortgaged premises, or some part of them, at public vendue, at the place of holding the circuit court within Charlevoix County, at 11:00 AM, on August 24, 2012.

Said premises are situated in Township of Evangeline, Charlevoix County, Michigan, and are described as: The Southwest Quarter of the Southeast Quarter of section 18, Town 33 North, Range 7 West.

The redemption period shall be 6 months from the date of such sale, unless determined abandoned in accordance with MCLA 600.3241a, in which case the redemption period shall be 30 days from the date of such sale.

If the property is sold at foreclosure sale under Chapter 32 of the Revised Judicature Act of 1961, pursuant to MCL 600.3278 the borrower will be held responsible to the person who buys the property at the mortgage foreclosure sale or to the mortgage holder for damaging the property during the redemption period.

Red or white?

City council asked to consider lighthouse color change

STEVE ZUCKER
Courier Editor

When people think of Charlevoix, likely one of the first images that come to mind is the landmark lighthouse on the south pier of the Pine River Channel.

The big question, it seems for some, is: What color is the lighthouse in that mental image?

That question appears poised to come before the Charlevoix City Council for its consideration as one city resident, backed by others, is asking the council to change the lighthouse's color back to white.

At its Aug. 6 regular semi-monthly meeting, resident Julee Roth had been on the agenda to make her case to the council, but asked to have consideration of the matter postponed until the next regular meeting so she could do further research. At this week's meeting, Roth was again on the agenda to present her request and again asked to have the matter put on hold, this time for at least a month because she will be unable to attend the first September meeting.

When she spoke briefly on the subject at the Aug. 6 meeting Roth told the council her request mainly has to do with the visibility of the lighthouse for boaters as they approach the Pine River Channel from Lake Michigan. She believes the white paint was more visible at a greater distance than the red paint. She said she'd be happy if just the side facing Lake Michigan were painted white.

In a memo to the council Charlevoix city manager Rob Straebel cites Charlevoix Historical Society research that shows the south pier light was red from the time it was constructed in 1914 to 1968 when officials in Washington, D.C., directed that all lighthouses be painted white. The lighthouse remained white until 2009. The city took ownership of the structure from the U.S. Coast Guard in 2007 and entered into an agreement with the Charlevoix Historical Society that the society would be responsible for restoring and maintaining the lighthouse. Part of the restoration included returning to the red paint.

Community rallies behind wounded warrior

Hundreds turn out as Troy Drebenstedt fundraiser nets nearly $11,000

STEVE ZUCKER
Courier Editor
and
SHERI MCWHIRTER
Northern Michigan Review

A community came together Tuesday to help one of their own in his time of need.

Hundreds of people from the Charlevoix area and beyond brought their appetites and pocketbooks to a spaghetti dinner fundraiser for Charlevoix native Michigan Army National Guard Staff Sgt. Robert Troy Drebenstedt, 29, who was seriously wounded by an improvised explosive device while serving with the U.S. Army in Afghanistan on Aug. 1. Three other soldiers were wounded and another was killed in the blast.

On Wednesday Joan Coyne, one of the lead event organizers estimated — based on the amount of food consumed — that 400-500 people came to the event and that a preliminary count from the bank put the total amount raised at more than $10,959 as of 11 a.m. Wednesday.

Yellow caution tape still aurrounds The Garage Sale Wednesday on Petoskey Avenue Wednesday after a fire caused damage at the business on Aug. 13.

Fire damages long-time local antiques business

Future of Garage Sale Antiques uncertain after stock ruined

STEVE ZUCKER
Courier Editor

The owner of a long-time seasonal antiques business on the city's north side is unsure of the business's future after an early morning fire damaged the nearly century-old building and ruined his stock.

City of Charlevoix Fire Chief Paul Ivan said firefighters were called to The Garage Sale Antiques and Collectables at 755 Petoskey Ave. at about 1:20 a.m. Monday, Aug. 13.

When firefighters arrived, they found heavy smoke coming from inside the building.

Fire crews were able to force entry into the building and put the fire out quickly, however, Ivan said because of the age of the building crews spent extra time checking for "extension" of the fire.

Authorities contacted the owner of the business, Jim Haggard, who responded to the scene.

Ivan did not list a cause for the fire but said it was believed to be accidental in nature. Haggard said he's been told it was likely an electrical problem.

No one was injured in the fire and fire crews were on the scene for about 90 minutes. The city's police, electric and water departments also assisted with the fire response.

Haggard told the Charlevoix Courier Wednesday that the fire caused extensive damage to the building, leaving a hole in a section of roof and wall. He said while the jury is still out on whether the building can be saved, the fire left little of value among his stock. What wasn't damaged by the fire, was damaged by water and/or smoke, Haggard noted.

"If you take an antique cabinet that's been damaged and you try to refinish it, you've lost all the value," Haggard said.

Haggard, who lives most of the year in Hawaii, has operated the business for about 20 years — typically during the busiest tourist season, June through mid-September.

He said he's been working with his insurance company, but he remains uncertain if he will try to reopen his business next year.

One factor that will play a into that equation is the future of the building. He said the building's owner Scott Supernaw is expected in town this weekend to survey the damage.

Haggard said a key component in his business was the 95-year-old building, which once served as a small gas station and grocery store. Haggard used the dozen or so rooms to create themes for his stock. One room was set aside as an homage to Marilyn Monroe, complete with a daily movie to keep husbands occupied while their wives shopped among the antiques.

He said he'll probably take the winter to decide if he will reopen the business.

"It's been a fun business," Haggard said. That's the heartbreak. It's been fun seeing the families come back year after year."

Airport manager fired

MORGAN SHERBURNE
Northern Michigan Review

The city of Charlevoix will soon be looking for a new airport manager.

The former airport manager, Matt Bailey, was fired from his position effective Wednesday, Aug. 15.

"Out of respect for Mr. Bailey, the city will not comment on the details of his termination," said city manager Rob Straebel. "We certainly wish Mr. Bailey the best in his future endeavors."

In the meantime, assistant airport manager Dana Dvoracek will act as airport manager. The city plans to look at trade publications and newspapers for a replacement, and will begin a recruitment process soon.

Two injured in Beaver Island rollover crash

Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office deputies on Beaver Island were dispatched about 6 p.m. on Friday, Aug. 17, to the area of Paid Een Ogs Road near Kings Highway for a one-vehicle rollover crash, according to a sheriff's office news release.

The driver of the vehicle, Daniel LaFreniere, 19, of Beaver Island, and passenger, Zackary Bousquet, 14, of Beaver Island, were traveling west on Paid Een Ogs Road in a 1990 Pontiac Bonneville Sedan when LaFreniere lost control, started to go off the road and rolled the vehicle, sheriff's office officials said. The vehicle landed upright off the road with both the driver and passenger inside.

LaFreniere, who had not been wearing a seat belt, was transported to the Beaver Island Rural Health Center with a leg laceration and stomach and chest pain. He was then transported off Beaver Island by Life Flight with non-life threatening injuries.

Bousquet, who had been wearing a seat belt, sustained a laceration on his leg and was treated at the health center.

An investigation is ongoing.

Motorcyclist injured in crash

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office responded to a personal injury accident about 8:38 a.m. on Sunday, Aug. 19, on U.S. 31 north of Waller Road, according to a news release.

Richard Lee Clem, 65, of Charlevoix, was injured when his motorcycle sideswiped a Dodge Caravan driven by Chad Edward Tousley, 27, of Elmira, sheriff's office officials said.

BOYNE CITY

Trail right-of-way release drafted

Boyne City-Charlevoix Recreational Trail waiver document reviewed

SHERI MCWHIRTER
Northern Michigan Review

Charlevoix County road commissioners reviewed a legal document for property owners who live along the planned Boyne City-Charlevoix Recreational Trail.

The draft document created by attorney Joel Wurster is designed to show property owner approval for contractors to build the trail within the highway's 66-foot public right-of-way, as well as the temporary use of adjacent land during construction. Any disturbed ground could be restored at the project's end, the right-of-way release document shows.

The trail's full planned length stretches from Boyne City to U.S. 31, near Charlevoix. It's planned as a paved trail alongside Boyne City-Charlevoix Road, but detached from the highway's shoulder.

Trail designers will not plan the pathway to venture outside the 66-foot right-of-way without an OK from the affected landowners along the route, road commissioners said.

"We will not issue a permit to allow the trail to go beyond the 66-foot right-of-way without a signature on this document," said Keith Ogden, road commissioner.

This new and legally binding document will replace a previously available advisory document circulated without approval by road commissioners or Charlevoix County commissioners. The parks committee made the previous document available as a way to track support among trail-side landowners, but it faced challenges as an improper form not suitable for official county business.

This new right-of-way release form will usurp the unofficial document available in the past, said Pat Hannon, road commission manager.

Information needed for each impacted parcel includes the names and marital status for all current property owners, a legal description for each portion of the right-of-way, and finally, recording information available through a title search. A local title company or qualified researcher should be able to obtain all needed information for each parcel, Wurster said in a memorandum to the road commission members.

Road commissioners had Wurster create the document at the request of the county's parks committee, the public group working on trail planning and grant-funding.

Minor violations reported at Cedar Ridge landfill

MORGAN SHERBURNE
Northern Michigan Review

When senior environmental engineer John Ozoga visited an Eveline Township landfill recently, he didn't exactly like what he saw.

"The violations were relatively minor, but I like to see a neat facility," said Ozoga, who works in the Resource Management Division of the Department of Environmental Quality.

The violations included a ruptured rubber cap on a leachate collection system, which was leaking methane gas, and shrubbery and trees were growing where they shouldn't be, on the cap of the landfill and near some of the landfill's pipes and control panels.

The landfill, the Cedar Ridge Recycling and Disposal Facility owned by Waste Management, Inc., is now closed, which means garbage is no longer taken to it and it is capped with a roof. But closed landfills still need maintenance, said Ozoga.

A control panel monitors conditions within the landfill. The landfill requires monitoring because the garbage in them decomposes, releasing gas. Water from years of rain and snow trickles down through the garbage, picking up sediment and forming leachate. The control panels monitor not only how much methane the garbage's decomposition is releasing, but how much water sits at the bottom of the landfill as well.

In an active landfill, as much as 30,000 gallons of water is siphoned off every day, said Ozoga.

"It costs $300,000-400,000 just to manage water at a landfill every year," said Ozoga. "A whole tanker truck holds 10,000 gallons of water, and three of those leave a landfill every day."

Depending on where the water came from within the dump, and where the landfill is located, the water is either evaporated, cycled through a wastewater treatment plant or pumped into injection wells.

The gas, too, can be used, though much of it is just burned off at site. A landfill in Harrison uses the methane gas to generate electricity in a power cell. The cell generates as much electricity as the two windmills near Mackinaw City, said Ozoga, and is sent to the grid.

"Landfills are not boring," said Ozoga. "People have no idea — they're not just a dump. They're high tech."

The landfill in Eveline Township, which is inspected annually, has until Sept. 3 to right the violations, and will be required to provide the last three months of leachate collection system records.

Annual Brown Bag Campaign highlights need for home for children in crisis

ANNE KELLY
Courier Staff WRiter

Child and Family Services is celebrating its 37th year in Northwestern Michigan and its 23rd annual Brown Bag Campaign, spotlighting the need for Foster Care in our community. Concurrently it is also celebrating the selfless people who open their hearts and their homes to children in need of a loving, stable home environment. Organization officials said the program allows children faced with abuse, neglect or delinquency, to find respite from their situation and regain a sense of security and dignity. Officials said the need continues to be great for individuals who care to help in this endeavor. Not everyone is cut out for the job, however. It is as demanding as it is rewarding.

ANNE KELLY/CHARLEVOIX COURIER

Foster parents Sheri and Ed Bradley and their nephew Matt have shared their home with foster children for many years.

Sheri and Ed Bradley

One couple that has dedicated themselves to the cause is the Bradley's of Horton Bay. Sheri and her husband Ed had already raised three biological children: Chad, now 29, and twins Keith and Kelly 27. In addition to the nuclear family, the Bradleys also raised two nephews, Steven, 21, and Matt, 16, who is still residing at the family home on Horton Bay Road. Ed, an employee of St. Mary Cement in Charlevoix, and Sheri, a former nurse, who also worked with Hospice of Little Traverse Bay and served as children's director of Walloon Lake Community Church said they had reached a point in their lives where they were satisfied with where they were and thankful for all their blessings.

"We thought we were done...we had raised five children and were blessed with five grandchildren. Foster care wasn't even on our radar screen," Sheri said. "Then we heard a sermon delivered as part of orphan awareness at our church, about the plight of children in dire situations needing homes and love."

The couple was moved by the sermon.

"Then we looked around our house at the empty bedrooms and the empty spots around the table. Our life has always been about kids and we realized that we still had some parenting energy left in us," the couple explained.

The Bradleys began the process of applying for foster care placement in November of 2009. They attended 6 months of required classes, filled out applications, got fingerprinted and went through a home inspection for safety. Over a period of two years, they have as-

Work with blind horse riders rewarding as ever

A LOOK AT LIFE

Gayle Gennett

I was able to take part again in a summer clinic involving energetic teens who truly enjoy a trail ride. Fifteen volunteers were involved in the experience of helping 20 students at various times in the day get fitted into their safety belts and helmets, hop astride their trusty steed and then clip clop through the beautiful trails of Camp Daggett. There couldn't be a better opportunity to appreciate nature and take in the outdoors for all your senses to enjoy. The air feels cleaner, the sky brighter, the leaves crisper and the ground beneath your feet softer when you 'see' things through the eyes of a child who is blind.

Someone once mentioned how difficult it must be work with students who are legally blind and my reply is quick: "What a joy the children are as they appreciate all you do with them and because they can't see what's about them they really don't get into too much trouble." The only difficulty I experienced on this trip was the student who really wanted to go fast with his horse and proceeded to swing his legs wildly. Fortunately, the horse listened to my commands and not his. With the help of the volunteers walking alongside him, we convinced this young man he was moving like the wind when we walked at a quicker pace down a steep hill. His "Heehaw" told me we met with success.
